Quail Hill Mess As Water Main Splits

Heavy, wind-driven sheets of rain pounded Marin and Southern Sonoma during the night, causing widespread flooding and damage.

The weatherman predicted a 40 per cent chance of rain tonight and cloudiness tomorrow.

One of the most critical problems came at the entrance of the new Quail Hill development, across from Terra Linda High School, when a new water main blew about 5 a.m. today.

The flooding caused a new street to give way and a series of small mudslides at the foot of Quail Hill. The high school and a half dozen homes were without water for an hour.

The 12-inch main has not been accepted by Marin Municipal Water District and the street has not been accepted by the City of San Rafael.

In other areas, rainfall combined with high tides flooded streets, snarling traffic for hours.

During the rush hour this morning on Highway 101, traffic was backed up from the Golden Gate Bridge past the Francisco Boulevard exits in San Rafael. One motorist said it took an hour to get from the Corte Madera Creek Bridge to the Golden Gate Bridge, a distance of 8.5 miles.

The rain and tides blocked the intersection of Camino Alto and Miller Avenue for more than an hour this morning and other Southern Marin streets were reported under four inches of water in spots.

In San Rafael, flooding was heaviest at Lovell and Woodland avenues, while several other streets had smaller amounts.

The Marin County Department of Public Works reported serious flooding on Adrian Way and other streets in Santa Venetia and also in Kent Woodlands, Greenbrae and Strawberry.

Strong winds, gusting up to 105 miles an hour atop Mount Tamalpais, accompanied the storm and knocked power out across the county.

No serious outages were reported but about 200 customers in Stinson Beach and Bolinas were without electricity from 9 to 9:50 a.m. and about 75 lost power from 9:15 to 10:20 a.m. in Inverness Park, a Pacific Gas and Electric Co. spokesman said.

Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. reported normal operations but several individual customers reported problems with phone service.

Rainfall totals around Marin to 8 a.m. today included Ross, 1.98 inches; Woodacre, 1.97; Civic Center, 1.29; the Chevy Chase section of Larkspur, 1.05; Novato, .90 of an inch; Mill Valley, .88; Tamalpais Valley, .72; Sausalito, .50, and Tiburon, .31. Petaluma had .77 of an inch at 8 a.m.

San Rafael's total at noon today was 2.68 inches.

Five Navy Craft In Trouble Off Bodega Coast

VALLEJO (AP) — The Navy said today that five patrol boats on a training exercise off Bodega Bay had run into trouble in stormy Pacific waters during the night, but all boats were "accounted for" and that there were no fatalities.

A spokesman said a more detailed statement would be issued later.

There was no immediate confirmation reports that at least one boat sank and one was wrecked on shore.

Some 20 to 25 men were reported involved in the exercise.

The Navy's Mare Island Naval Inshore Training Center for the past several years has been using San Francisco Bay Area waters and the San Joaquin-Sacramento Delta sloughs for training small boat crews for Vietnam patrol work.

Tentative Nod On Tax Reform Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate-House tax reform conferees have reached tentative agreement on a relief package that includes a boost in the personal income tax exemption from $600 to $750.

The conferees worked 16 and one-half hours until 3 o'clock this morning but still didn't quite finish their work on the entire tax reform bill, but conference chairman Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., said there was no doubt action would be completed today.

It was understood the relief package decided on as the last major compromise between the widely differing House and Senate versions provided:

An increase in the exemption to $650 starting next July. This would be coupled with a $1,100 low income allowance to help poor families and an increase in the standard deduction from the present 10 per cent with a $1,000 ceiling to 13 per cent with a $1,400 ceiling.

A $650 personal exemption for all of 1971, with a $1,050 low-income allowance, and a standard deduction of 14 per cent and a $1,700 ceiling.

For 1972 and thereafter, a $750 personal exemption, with a $1,000 low income allowance and a standard deduction of 15 per cent with a $2,000 ceiling.

The increase in the exemption to $650 effective July 1 next year would mean that cuts in withholding rates on pay checks to reflect this change would be in effect for the last half of the calendar year.

When the taxpayer files his 1970 return, in the early part of 1971, however, he will list $625 for each personal exemption. This would be the average of the $600 exemption in effect for the first half of the year and $650 for the last half.

The conferees also were reported to have agreed to accept the across-the-board 15 per cent increase in Social Security benefits of the Senate bill.

But they did not go along with the $100 minimum monthly payment for an individual which that measure also included.

President Richard M. Nixon has objected to the 15 per cent boost. But the House voted for

$80,000 Home Fire; Wife Safe

Fire swept through a seven-room Mill Valley hillside home last night as a woman occupant fled to safety.

The house at 69 Marlin Avenue, owned by John M. Dennis, was gutted by the fire reported at 9:23 p.m. Damage was to the structure and contents was estimated by firemen at $80,000.

Firemen said Mrs. Dennis, alone in the house, first noticed the fire when she went to a room at one end of the horseshoe-shaped home and saw it in flames. She escaped only minutes before flames engulfed the house. The family cat, however, was killed in the blaze.

Mrs. Dennis said she smelled smoke earlier in the evening but assumed it was from a fire she had built in the living room fireplace.

Firemen said flames were breaking through the roof when they arrived and adjacent trees were ablaze. The fire was brought under control in 45 minutes.

Cause of the fire is under investigation.

MEETING HASTILY CALLED

Fair-Marin Balks At County's Stand

By WAT TAKESHITA

Fair-Marin directors, headed on a collision course with Marin County supervisors, met on quick notice last night and decided to stick by their guns when they face a showdown with supervisors next Tuesday.

The directors took their stand at an emergency meeting at the Civic Center, a meeting called less than five hours in advance, leaving no time for notification of the public and raising questions of violation of the Ralph M. Brown Act.

The Fair-Marin directors reaffirmed their belief that a fund-raising campaign to develop the fairground site should set its sights on a $9 million cultural and educational complex, with the first $500,000 raised to be used for completion of the Veterans Memorial Auditorium.

On Tuesday, county supervisors told Fair-Marin to forget the $9 million concept for a while and start immediately on a campaign to raise $500,000 to complete the auditorium's second phase. Without the second phase, which includes acoustics and seating, the building would be useless even after the first phase is completed next year, said supervisors.

Leon G. Kalimos, executive director of Fair-Marin, said the directors are still convinced the campaign should be tied to the larger goal, and cannot be started before September of 1970.

On Tuesday Fair-Marin directors and the board of supervisors also clashed on readiness of Fair-Marin to put on the 1971 fair at the Civic Center, and $500,000 for completion of the auditorium. That issue, too, will be discussed again next Tuesday.

Kalimos said the directors last night instructed him to present an outline of the 1971 fair.

Kalimos said the Art and Garden Fair in Ross cannot be duplicated at the Civic Center. The fair will be a combination indoor-outdoor show, with emphasis on the technological science exhibit type rather than the 4-H type. "We'll have performing arts, youth programs including 4-H, but we've got to consider the technological," said Kalimos.

"We will include 4-H, of course, but how about all the kids going into industrial arts, chemicals and computer science? We are no longer a rural community. We've got to include them." Kalimos explained that state prize money is available for technological exhibits as well as for the 4-H type exhibit.

Federal Probe Called Into Panther Slayings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell ordered a special investigation today in the Dec. 4 slaying of two Black Panther leaders by Chicago police.

Mitchell said the probe will be conducted by a seven-man team of government attorneys and a special federal grand jury in Chicago.

Noting that he ordered a preliminary investigation of the incident a week ago, Mitchell said that investigation failed to produce meaningful results because several unidentified witnesses refused to cooperate voluntarily with federal authorities.

The grand jury approach was adopted, he said, because of its power to subpoena reluctant witnesses.

The investigation will focus on the slayings of Fred Hampton, chairman of the Illinois Black Panthers, and Mark Clark, a party member.

They were shot to death when police assigned to the state attorney's office attempted to serve a search warrant in an apartment alleged to contain illegal firearms.

Six other persons were wounded.

Mitchell said the special team of lawyers will be headed by Asst. Atty Gen. Jerris Leonard, chief of the Justice Department's civil rights division.

Other members include James P. Turner, 39, Leonard's deputy assistant; K. William

Living Costs Up One-Half 1 Per Cent

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The cost of living jumped one half of 1 per cent in November, led by such basic items as food, clothing and home ownership, the Labor Department reported today.

The consumer price index advanced to 130.5 of the 1957-59 base period, an increase of 5.8 per cent over November, 1968.

The index means it cost $13.05 to purchase goods worth $10 about 10 years ago. The November-to-November increase between 1967 and 1968 was 4.8 per cent.

The 5.8 per cent rise between November, 1968, and last month was the sharpest for such a period since 1951.

The cost of living usually drops slightly in November so the month's increase, computed on an annual basis and including a seasonal adjustment was 7.2 per cent, the biggest rise since June.

Monagan Calls For Patterning Of Legislature After U.S. Congress

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Assembly Speaker Robert T. Monagan outlined today his proposed "new look" California Legislature for the 1970s that would meet in continuous two-year-long sessions like the U.S. Congress.

All meetings of the Assembly and Senate and their committees—with certain exceptions—would be open to the public under the constitutional changes outlined by Monagan, a Republican from Tracy.

He said the proposal has the support of Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan and of Senate leaders, although they have not studied the plan thoroughly.

Monagan said he hoped the proposal could be approved by voters at the June 1970 primary and go into effect by the end of the year.

At present, the legislature has to go through a complete new organization each year. Under Monagan's plan, developed by a special subcommittee, bills which aren't passed one year would carry over to the second year of the session. They die now.

"I actually think you would have shorter legislative sessions because you'd be able to do a better job," Monagan told a news conference.

This is because certain periods could be devoted exclusively to committee work and others to full floor discussions and voting on bills, Monagan said.

As for the open meeting provisions, Monagan told newsmen, "This is the public business we are conducting and it ought to be open to inspections."

The only exceptions would be those normally allowed to other public agencies—for discussion

U.S. Eases China Trade Ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department today formally announced an easing on nonstrategic trade restrictions with Communist China.

The move, recommended by Secretary of State William P. Rogers and approved by President Richard M. Nixon, represented only a limited lifting of restrictions.

Press officer Robert J. McCloskey, saying the new regulations will go into effect on Monday, said "it has been decided to remove most of the Foreign Assets Control restrictions (FAC) on U.S. foreign commercial) subsidiaries and on U.S. business particularly in third country trade in presumptive Chinese goods."

"It also has been decided to modify further the noncommercial imports from Communist China."

The State Department announcement said that the $100 ceiling on noncommercial purchases of Chinese Communist goods including food and rough- and so is a requirement that noncommercial imports from mainland China must enter the U.S. as accompanied baggage.

U.S. Treasury officials estimated that mainland China imports about $1 billion worth of goods including food and roughtly sells about the same amount to the world.

Easing of U.S. restrictions will help foreign subsidiaries of U.S. firms to engage in trade with Communist China under regulations which apply to their competitors in countries in which they operate.

CASERTA, Italy (AP) —A local court today sentenced 69 persons for their part in the two-day riot last September over the demotion of a soccer team.

Antonio Esposito, 22, got the stiffest sentence, three years and four months. The other sentences varied from four months to two years.

The riot in this southern Italian city near Naples caused damage totaling over $1.6 million. The rampage was touched off when the National Soccer Federation canceled the advancement of the local team to a higher league after an investigation into a bribery charge.

One defendant, Mayor Enzo Avella of nearby Presenzano, was acquitted for lack of evidence.

MONROVIA, Liberia (AP) — The United States signed an agreement today to lend $4 million to help improve Monrovia's international airport.

The loan is to be repaid in 40 years with the first payment not due for 10 years.

The five-year improvement program includes enlargement of the landing area, new landing and navigational aids, operational and support facilities, technical services, staff training, housing and security measures.

Teacher Supply

WASHINGTON (AP) — So many young women are entering the teaching field these days an oversupply of 75 per cent at the elementary and secondary levels is expected by 1980, a congressional subcommittee has been told.

Job openings will number about 2.4 million in those areas by 1980 while the output for trained teachers will be close to 4.2 million, thus requiring the opening of new training and employment opportunities to women, the government study said.

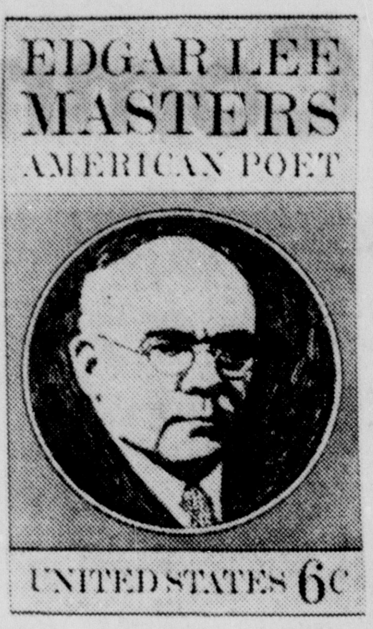
The study, prepared by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, was presented yesterday to the House education subcommittee.

Postal Reforms

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration has drafted a new postal reform plan that would establish a federal authority to operate the postal service which would have many of the powers of a corporation although still subject to government control.

Unveiled yesterday in the House Post Office Committee, the plan also calls for leaving employees under civil service but giving the Post Office authority to issue bonds and to fix postal rates. Congress would have power over rate hikes, under the plan.

The administration is proposing a pay-raise package as part of its plan, but no details have been released.



POET HONORED — This is the design of a new six-cent stamp, honoring poet Edgar Lee Masters. The Post Office Department said today date and place of issuance of the stamp, first in a series that will pay tribute to American poets, will be announced later. (AP Wirephoto)

Chicago Gang Bullet Fray Wounds Six

CHICAGO (AP) — Two street gangs staged a gun battle on Chicago's North Side last night and six persons were wounded, police said.

The fight, which police said involved more than 50 youths, was in the same general neighborhood where a 16-year-old boy was killed and four other young persons were wounded Wednesday night.

Nine youths were arrested in the latest outbreak. Five were charged with mob action and disorderly conduct. Four were juveniles and were released to custody of their parents.

Two of the wounded were in serious condition, both hit by a single shotgun blast, according to police. The others were treated and released.

Officers said more than 30 policemen converged on the scene. Shots were fired at police, officers said, but none was wounded in the brief but intense battle. Police said they did not have to return fire.

Detectives said the fight involved members of the Cobra Stones, primarily a South Side gang, and The Blacks, who dominate the North Side area where the battle occurred.

Rick Neely, 16, was shot to death in the Wednesday night incident.

Most Seriously hurt last night were Jerome Moore, 14, who suffered severe wounds to his right arm, and Willie Hill, 13, under treatment for head wounds.

Injuries Minor

Carolyn Leydecker, 17, of 170 Avenida Miraflores, Tiburon, received minor head injuries in an automobile accident at 2:54 p.m. yesterday in Tiburon. Miss Leydecker was treated by her own doctor. Further details of the accident were not available today from Tiburon sheriff's deputies.

Anniversary Brings Alert In Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. and South Vietnamese forces were alerted today for increased enemy attacks in observance of two major Vietnamese Communist anniversaries.

Captured enemy documents called for a stepup to mark the 23rd anniversary today of the start of the war that drove the French from Indochina and the ninth anniversary tomorrow of the founding of the National Liberation Front, the Viet Cong's political arm.

Saigon's sprawling Tan Son Nhut Air Base came under enemy rocket attack today for the first time in five and one-half months as Viet Cong gunners slammed four 100-pound rockets into the base before dawn.

CIVILIANS HIT

Two of the missiles landed in a housing complex where families of South Vietnamese paratroopers and airmen live, killing one Vietnamese woman and wounding 17 persons, five of them children. Seven houses were destroyed.

The other two rockets hit U.S. military positions on the base, wounding several Americans and causing light damage, spokesmen said.

As dawn broke, South Vietnamese troops began sweeping through the region immediately northwest of Saigon, searching for rocket launching sites.

The sounds of air attack could also be heard from the city as bombers cleared a path for American troops maneuvering south of the capital.

TANK ACCIDENT

In a freakish accident a shell went off in the gun of a tank being unloaded from a ship in Saigon, hit the home of a Vietnamese army colonel two miles away, and wounded two women and a child.

The M41 tank had been used by South Vietnamese forces, and an American ship had brought it to Saigon for repairs. A spokesman said tanks usually are disarmed before they are shipped.

Elsewhere:

Enemy troops opened fire with machine guns and rocket grenades on a column of armored personnel carriers from the U.S. 25th Division 36 miles northwest of Saigon. Two Americans and 14 of the enemy were reported killed in the three-hour fight, and six Americans were wounded.

Louisiana Asks School Desegregation Delays

WASHINGTON (AP) — Louisiana school officials have asked the Supreme Court to recall, as a "Christmas present" for whites and blacks, recent desegregation orders.

Instead, they said in a plea filed late yesterday, the court should hold an emergency hearing on the school desegregation situation throughout the entire region—Louisiana, Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi, Florida and Texas.

Should the court agree, school districts could be free of any requirement to desegregate student bodies by Feb. 1. But all schools in the six states could find themselves compelled to desegregate in September.

The Louisiana officials said an order Saturday requiring immediate preparations for desegregation has created "a state of absolute emergency" in West Feliciana, East Feliciana and Concordia parishes.

Similar orders were issued by the court and by Justice Hugo L. Black Saturday and Monday for 11 other school districts in Alabama, Mississippi, Florida and Georgia. The court is to decide whether the U.S. Court of Appeals in New Orleans was wrong in giving 16 districts, including one in Texas, until September to speed student integration.

With Christmas approaching, the school officials said, "it will be virtually impossible for the superintendents to take any steps whatsoever toward implementation" before next month.

A Feb. 1 deadline, which is being pushed by civil rights lawyers and several black families, would "totally disrupt the educational process," the officials said.

Criticizing the high court for acting without a hearing first, they added: "It is grossly unfair to these thousands of American citizens, black and white alike, to treat them, their rights and wishes and welfare, in such a summary manner."

The officials said recall of the orders would be "a wonderful Christmas present for these school systems and the many black and white children and teachers affected thereby."

Urgent consideration of a timetable for the entire region, instead of a few districts, would be "one small step" for the high court but "a giant stride for mankind," they said.

Pentagon Alters Notification Rule

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army said today it is taking steps to assure that all parents of servicemen killed in Vietnam are personally notified.

Until now, it was explained, some parents received notification by telegram if the serviceman were married and his wife was listed as the primary next of kin.

The Army said the Secretary Stanley R. Resor "recently directed that Army policy be reevaluated with a view towards doing more for the parents of deceased married personnel."

It said that it had been providing personal notification to parents who were secondary next of kin when the parents lived close to a wife of the man involved.

Now, apparently, this will be extended to all parents.

Rioters Sentenced

CASERTA, Italy (AP) —A local court today sentenced 69 persons for their part in the two-day riot last September over the demotion of a soccer team.

Antonio Esposito, 22, got the stiffest sentence, three years and four months. The other sentences varied from four months to two years.

The riot in this southern Italian city near Naples caused damage totaling over $1.6 million. The rampage was touched off when the National Soccer Federation canceled the advancement of the local team to a higher league after an investigation into a bribery charge.

One defendant, Mayor Enzo Avella of nearby Presenzano, was acquitted for lack of evidence.

'State Of Warning'

GUATEMALA (AP) — A two-week "state of warning" is in effect in Guatemala, meaning arrests can be made without a judge's order, police can use force to break up meetings of armed persons and movement of vehicles can be restricted.

President Julio Mendez Montenegro decreed the temporary abridgment of the constitution yesterday in an effort to combat rising terrorism in the Central American country. An anti-Communist congressman, David Guerra Guzman, was assassinated Wednesday.

Organized extremists of both the right and the left have been warring for several years. The latest wave of violence has resulted in the deaths of two guerrillas, six police agents and a youth as well as Guerra Guzman.

Runaway cars without drivers injured 4,000 Americans in 1968.

Base Progress

ROME (AP) — U.S. and Libyan representatives met for five hours in Tripoli last night, and Tripoli Radio said "substantial progress was made" on Libya's demand for an early liquidation of the Wheelus Air Force base near the capital.

The broadcast said the two sides scheduled a third meeting for Wednesday.

After the first meeting Monday between U.S. Ambassador Joseph Palmer and representatives of the new military government, the State Department announced that some equipment and material were being removed from the base.

A WOMAN'S MUSICAL

Katharine Hepburn Returns In 'Coco'

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP) — "Coco" is a show to separate the men from the girls. The most highly touted musical of the Broadway season opened last night at the Hellinger theater.

There are all sorts of goodies for the ladies — a fantabulous, nonstop fashion show, a bit of moist-eyed feminine mystique and Katharine Hepburn for an indomitable heroine.

For the men? They can meditate on their own gallantry and self-sacrifice. Producer Frederick Brisson has been dreaming for years of creating a stage salute to Gabrielle Coco Chanel, the stylist from Paris who invented the little basic black gal slacks and costume chains.

What Alan Jay Lerner, on book and lyrics, and Andre Previn, for music, have provided in fulfillment of Brisson's hope are a nothing plot, little fun-bits and melodies to forget.

Miss Hepburn, juggling tirades with breathless ferocity, is hardly the embodiment of gallic clan, but her performance sustains a fantastic individuality. With regal disdain she takes part in nine musical interludes without ever trying to sing a note of negligible tunes.

The entertainment concerns the period in 1953 when Chanel was trying to make a comeback after 15 years away from the coturier world. The scenes are padded out with recollections about daddy and past lovers, done with live Miss Hepburn conversing with movie screen projections, one of many elaborate visual devices.

Since it's patently clear from the start that fame and fortune will be rescued in the nick of time, not by Marines but by buyers from big American department stores, Lerner-Previn invent a sub-romance between a wide-eyed model and a reporter.

The dialogue is filled with such lines as: "The only time you can believe a man is when he says he doesn't want to marry you." And there are lyrics at the level of "a dream unpossessable but so undressable."

Miss Hepburn's chief companions are George Rose, lawyer extraordinary who gets to sing an amusing ditty, "When Your Lover Says Goodbye;" Gale Dixon and David Holliday, the ever-loving youngsters, and Rene Auberjonois, as the resident butterfly who dresses mannequins.

These chorines show off Cecil Beaton's storeful of Chanelish costumes with salon chic in numbers choreographed simply by Michael Bennett.

Over-all direction is by Michael Benthal, who sagely saves Miss Hepburn's liveliest action and most touching emotion effort for the concluding half hour.

Go, girls, go. And you chaps, blessings.

What other press critics said:

Clive Barnes, New York Times: "The show has two great things going for it. One is the well-scrubbed and gallant radiance of Katharine Hepburn. I adored her through everything. The other is the occasionally acerbic wit and even occasional wisdom of Alan Jay Lerner's book. Yet . . . nothing really helps . . . The story is simple to the point of disappearance."

John Chapman, Daily News: "Katharine Hepburn . . . has brought some glamor to Broadway . . ."

One Cigarette Can Deaden Bronchial Tube Functions

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Tiny hairlike organs of the bronchial tubes that stop foreign matter from reaching the lungs can be paralyzed by the smoke of just one cigarette, a University of Southern California scientist said yesterday.

Dr. Wilbur Hallett, associate professor of medicine, said that whenever a foreign particle comes into contact with the organs, called cilia, they move en masse to carry it upward toward the mouth and nose away from the lungs.

"A single cigarette paralyzes the cilia temporarily. In habitual smokers the cilia have disappeared entirely," he said.

Hallett, president of the Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association of Los Angeles, said smoking also causes the walls of the bronchial tubes to thicken and become leathery.

The thickening, according to Hallett, is precancerous in many smokers and can result in death.

Hallett also said moderate smokers do not escape free.

"If he doesn't get cancer, he gets emphysema or chronic bronchitis," Hallett said. "As for light smokers, things get into their lungs that shouldn't because of the loss of function of the cilia."

But when a person quits smoking, Hallett said, "the normal lining of the airways begins to regenerate."

Many of the animals that we call rabbits, such as the snowshoe, are really hares.

of personnel matters and the like, Monagan said.

The Legislature, with an annual budget of nearly $24 million, is considered to be the most modern in the nation. A special committee said the streamlining would better enable the 120 lawmakers to meet critical social, economic and environmental problems of the new decade.

The State Constitution would be changed to specify that both the Assembly and Senate, and all their committees, would meet in public.

The present wording allows lawmakers to meet behind closed doors "on occasions that in the opinion of the house require secrecy."

There has been increasing criticism in recent years of committees taking action in private sessions.

In a report to Monagan, the three-member committee said "We must adopt a modern management approach to our organization and shed the constitutional constraints which now impede the Legislature's ability to fulfill its role."

The proposal of the Select Committee on Assembly Reorganization, endorsed fully by Monagan, would have each session of the legislature begin in December of even-numbered years and continue through Nov. 30 two years later.

Instead of adjourning for the year after its main business is done, the legislature merely would recess — reconvening when any important business arose.

This would do away with special sessions limited to matters put before the legislature by the governor.

It also would eliminate the annual logjam of bills that builds up toward the end of each session now.

In a major reorganization approved by voters in 1966, the Legislature went on annual general sessions of unlimited length. But as a practical matter, the legislature has adjourned each year in August.

There were special sessions in 1967 and 1968 called by Reagan to handle urgent matters that arose.

New laws ordinarily would take effect on Jan. 1. Now, laws go into operation 60 days after final adjournment of the legislature. That means laws usually become effective in November now.

The December opening of the Legislature would permit the lawmakers to handle housekeeping matters such as election of officers before the lawmakers got down to major business in January.

Phones Must Wait

BHOPAL, India (AP) — Seven thousand persons in this south Indian town who have been waiting three years for phone connections were informed that although the system is finished, they will have to wait until Prime Minister Indira Gandhi or a member of her cabinet comes to town to dedicate the system, before it is put into use.

Monkey Runs Wild

DURGAPUR, India (AP) — A monkey from a local Hindu temple ran wild in the streets of this steel town and injured at least 30 persons with bites and scratches. People in the town were afraid to challenge the animal for fear of insulting those who regard monkeys as sacred. Police finally took the animal into custody.

O'Connor, 38, a special assistant to Leonard; Jesse H. Queen, 46, a senior trial attorney in the division; Milton C. Branch, 49, an assistant U. S. attorney for Colorado; Robert J. Breakstone, 30, an assistant U.S. attorney in Chicago; and Maceo Hubbard, a supervisory trial attorney.

Mitchell said the lawyers and the special grand jury "will seek to establish the true facts" about the Chicago slayings "and hopefully will put an end to the rumor and speculation that have surrounded this incident."

"There have been serious allegations raised criticizing police tactics," he said. "A number of responsible citizens have questioned whether this incident may have involved a denial of federally protected rights."

Mitchell said he feels, along with U.S. Atty. Thomas Foran of Chicago and Leonard, "that the only way to answer these questions and these fears honestly and fairly is to conduct this special federal inquiry."

Mitchell did not disclose which witnesses refused to cooperate in the preliminary investigation. But a spokesman said both Black Panthers and police had declined to talk about the case.

There was no indication also why the FBI was not assigned a prominent role in the investigation.

Black Panthers had charged that Hampton and Clark were slain as they slept. An Illinois state senator, Charles Chew Jr., a Negro Democrat, protested to the department and said an independent autopsy backed up the Panther charges.

Subsequently, Negro leaders Roy Wilkins and Whitney Young Jr., urged Mitchell to have federal investigators look into the case.

Lions Go Hungry With Tons Of Food

PORT ELIZABETH, South Africa (AP) — A thick-skinned hippo was too tough for a pride of lions in the Kruger National Park, South Africa's largest game reserve. A National Parks Board newsletter related how the lions pulled down a hippopotamus which had been injured in a fight.

The sharp fangs of the big cats couldn't penetrate the hide of the ponderous carcass. After trying for three days to tear some meat from the hippo, they gave up in disgust.

Youngster Brings Humor To Nativity

LEBANON, Ky. (AP) — In viewing the Nativity scene at his church, 4-year-old Sammy Osbourne told his grandmother, Mrs. Henry Smith, the following:

"That's Mary, that's Joseph and that's the Baby Jesus." Then pointing to the Magi trio, the child added, "And those are the three Wise Guys."

Deer Vs. Tigers

BHOPAL, India (AP) — A barbed wire fence has been constructed inside the Kanha national park near here to protect the dwindling population of swamp deer. At last count the swamp deer population had fallen from 98 to 70 in one year. Park custodians believe the deer are being eaten by the tigers that roam the park.

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Insurance To Cover Riots

These days property owners are aware of "riot insurance." Recently the loss from civil disorders was set at $50 million a year or more.

Your standard fire policy does not cover losses from "insurrection, invasion, bombardment, rebellion, revolution, military or usurped power; or by order of civil authority."

Some policies also exclude loss for "explosion or riot unless there is a fire and then only for fire loss."

Most policies cover fire losses during a riot but not an "insurrection." Although insurance people did pay for the recent losses from riots, some of them had first regarded them as insurrections. As a rule, by paying a premium you can extend your coverage to losses from theft and looting.

In some cities owners, even at high rates, have had a hard time getting fire insurance since the companies have little experience in civic disorders upon which to base their rates.

Most states allow an owner to collect for his loss in civil strife if he can prove that the local or state governments acted negligently.

Insurance is now also available through pool arrangements to qualified property owners who could not normally get it. Companies doing business in California must take part in such pools.

In 1968 Congress passed an act to reinsure some of the risks of property in cities. This reinsurance plan has spread some of the cost and risks throughout the country. (Note: California lawyers offer this column so you may know about our laws.)

TAX

it unanimously Monday in a separate bill.

The low income allowance, which may be deducted from income in figuring taxes, will remove about 5 million poor families from the tax rolls entirely.

The conferees rejected entirely the cuts in all tax bracket rates voted by the House in favor of giving general relief through an increase in the personal exemption, the form favored by the Senate.

However, the Senate had voted for an $800 exemption by 1971, a figure which along with the Social Security benefit boost, had brought on threats of a veto by Nixon.

Thus the conferees moved to meet his objections in part by holding the exemption to $750 and delaying the final effective date to 1972.

The revenue loss in 1970 and 1971 resulting from the compromise will not be nearly so great concerned about his budgets in those years.

However, it was reported that Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., author of the tax relief package in the Senate bill, was highly pleased with the agreement.

He was understood to feel that a $750 exemption, combined with the new low-income allowance and increased standard deduction, would give relief equivalent to an $800 exemption.

In spite of his prediction that the conference work would end today, Mills said it was almost certain the compromise version of the bill could not be acted on in both branches until Monday.

It was also understood the conferees finished work on virtually all of the dozens of reform provisions in the bill aimed at tax loopholes.

The conferees did not even quit for dinner Thursday night. Sandwiches and coffee were brought to their meeting room off the House chamber at the Capitol.

They started meeting at 9:00 a.m. yesterday, quit an hour for lunch at 12:30 p.m., and reconvened at 1:30 in the afternoon for the session which ran to 3 a.m. this morning.

Official Deadbeats

PANAJI, India (AP) — The government telephone office turned off 80 telephones allotted to the Goa government for nonpayment of some $26,000 in back bills. Badly hit were the secretariat, the police department, and two hospitals as well as two state cabinet ministers and the deputy finance secretary.

FAIR

firm on their belief they should tie their fund-raising campaign to the $9 million goal, with the first $500,000 to go for auditorium completion, maintained the large program is needed to get large contributions.

Said Kalimos, "If we tell people we're going for $1, and then later go back and say we want $5 more, they won't go for it. It would be better to go for $5, and then collect in increments if necessary."

Kalimos repeated that the fund-raising campaign cannot be launched much earlier than September of 1970. County supervisors contend this would be too late because the auditorium's first phase would be completed, and the new building would be standing there unusable.

Fair-Marin president Harold Stockstad, who called last night's special meeting, notified the Independent-Journal at 3:15 p.m. yesterday, too late for a public announcement.

"We have always announced meetings well in advance but this was a case where we had to meet right away, and the only suitable time for the directors was tonight (Thursday)," said Stockstad.

When informed that 24 hours advance notice is required to give the public a chance to attend, Stockstad said Fair-Marin is a private corporation and not legally bound by the Brown Act, "although we have always conscientiously followed it." He said the corporation bylaws require open meetings and minutes, but prior announcements are not required.

How about notification to the 70 or 80 member organizations who belong to Fair-Marin? "It would have been better if we could have notified them," Stockstad agreed. "But because of pressure of time, we just couldn't in this case."

"He may be right technically," said County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney. "But they are a quasi-public body. Although I'm not their counsel, I would say it would be better for them to be on the safe side in observing the Brown Act."

O'Connor, 38, a special assistant to Leonard; Jesse H. Queen, 46, a senior trial attorney in the division; Milton C. Branch, 49, an assistant U. S. attorney for Colorado; Robert J. Breakstone, 30, an assistant U.S. attorney in Chicago; and Maceo Hubbard, a supervisory trial attorney.

Mitchell said the lawyers and the special grand jury "will seek to establish the true facts" about the Chicago slayings "and hopefully will put an end to the rumor and speculation that have surrounded this incident."

"There have been serious allegations raised criticizing police tactics," he said. "A number of responsible citizens have questioned whether this incident may have involved a denial of federally protected rights."

Mitchell said he feels, along with U.S. Atty. Thomas Foran of Chicago and Leonard, "that the only way to answer these questions and these fears honestly and fairly is to conduct this special federal inquiry."

Mitchell did not disclose which witnesses refused to cooperate in the preliminary investigation. But a spokesman said both Black Panthers and police had declined to talk about the case.

There was no indication also why the FBI was not assigned a prominent role in the investigation.

Black Panthers had charged that Hampton and Clark were slain as they slept. An Illinois state senator, Charles Chew Jr., a Negro Democrat, protested to the department and said an independent autopsy backed up the Panther charges.

Subsequently, Negro leaders Roy Wilkins and Whitney Young Jr., urged Mitchell to have federal investigators look into the case.

Lions Go Hungry With Tons Of Food

PORT ELIZABETH, South Africa (AP) — A thick-skinned hippo was too tough for a pride of lions in the Kruger National Park, South Africa's largest game reserve. A National Parks Board newsletter related how the lions pulled down a hippopotamus which had been injured in a fight.

The sharp fangs of the big cats couldn't penetrate the hide of the ponderous carcass. After trying for three days to tear some meat from the hippo, they gave up in disgust.

Youngster Brings Humor To Nativity

LEBANON, Ky. (AP) — In viewing the Nativity scene at his church, 4-year-old Sammy Osbourne told his grandmother, Mrs. Henry Smith, the following:

"That's Mary, that's Joseph and that's the Baby Jesus." Then pointing to the Magi trio, the child added, "And those are the three Wise Guys."

Deer Vs. Tigers

BHOPAL, India (AP) — A barbed wire fence has been constructed inside the Kanha national park near here to protect the dwindling population of swamp deer. At last count the swamp deer population had fallen from 98 to 70 in one year. Park custodians believe the deer are being eaten by the tigers that roam the park.

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Insurance To Cover Riots

These days property owners are aware of "riot insurance." Recently the loss from civil disorders was set at $50 million a year or more.

Your standard fire policy does not cover losses from "insurrection, invasion, bombardment, rebellion, revolution, military or usurped power; or by order of civil authority."

Some policies also exclude loss for "explosion or riot unless there is a fire and then only for fire loss."

Most policies cover fire losses during a riot but not an "insurrection." Although insurance people did pay for the recent losses from riots, some of them had first regarded them as insurrections. As a rule, by paying a premium you can extend your coverage to losses from theft and looting.

In some cities owners, even at high rates, have had a hard time getting fire insurance since the companies have little experience in civic disorders upon which to base their rates.

Most states allow an owner to collect for his loss in civil strife if he can prove that the local or state governments acted negligently.

Insurance is now also available through pool arrangements to qualified property owners who could not normally get it. Companies doing business in California must take part in such pools.

In 1968 Congress passed an act to reinsure some of the risks of property in cities. This reinsurance plan has spread some of the cost and risks throughout the country. (Note: California lawyers offer this column so you may know about our laws.)

TAX

it unanimously Monday in a separate bill.

The low income allowance, which may be deducted from income in figuring taxes, will remove about 5 million poor families from the tax rolls entirely.

The conferees rejected entirely the cuts in all tax bracket rates voted by the House in favor of giving general relief through an increase in the personal exemption, the form favored by the Senate.

However, the Senate had voted for an $800 exemption by 1971, a figure which along with the Social Security benefit boost, had brought on threats of a veto by Nixon.

Thus the conferees moved to meet his objections in part by holding the exemption to $750 and delaying the final effective date to 1972.

The revenue loss in 1970 and 1971 resulting from the compromise will not be nearly so great concerned about his budgets in those years.

However, it was reported that Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., author of the tax relief package in the Senate bill, was highly pleased with the agreement.

He was understood to feel that a $750 exemption, combined with the new low-income allowance and increased standard deduction, would give relief equivalent to an $800 exemption.

In spite of his prediction that the conference work would end today, Mills said it was almost certain the compromise version of the bill could not be acted on in both branches until Monday.

It was also understood the conferees finished work on virtually all of the dozens of reform provisions in the bill aimed at tax loopholes.

The conferees did not even quit for dinner Thursday night. Sandwiches and coffee were brought to their meeting room off the House chamber at the Capitol.

They started meeting at 9:00 a.m. yesterday, quit an hour for lunch at 12:30 p.m., and reconvened at 1:30 in the afternoon for the session which ran to 3 a.m. this morning.

Official Deadbeats

PANAJI, India (AP) — The government telephone office turned off 80 telephones allotted to the Goa government for nonpayment of some $26,000 in back bills. Badly hit were the secretariat, the police department, and two hospitals as well as two state cabinet ministers and the deputy finance secretary.

FAIR

firm on their belief they should tie their fund-raising campaign to the $9 million goal, with the first $500,000 to go for auditorium completion, maintained the large program is needed to get large contributions.

Said Kalimos, "If we tell people we're going for $1, and then later go back and say we want $5 more, they won't go for it. It would be better to go for $5, and then collect in increments if necessary."

Kalimos repeated that the fund-raising campaign cannot be launched much earlier than September of 1970. County supervisors contend this would be too late because the auditorium's first phase would be completed, and the new building would be standing there unusable.

Fair-Marin president Harold Stockstad, who called last night's special meeting, notified the Independent-Journal at 3:15 p.m. yesterday, too late for a public announcement.

"We have always announced meetings well in advance but this was a case where we had to meet right away, and the only suitable time for the directors was tonight (Thursday)," said Stockstad.

When informed that 24 hours advance notice is required to give the public a chance to attend, Stockstad said Fair-Marin is a private corporation and not legally bound by the Brown Act, "although we have always conscientiously followed it." He said the corporation bylaws require open meetings and minutes, but prior announcements are not required.

How about notification to the 70 or 80 member organizations who belong to Fair-Marin? "It would have been better if we could have notified them," Stockstad agreed. "But because of pressure of time, we just couldn't in this case."

"He may be right technically," said County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney. "But they are a quasi-public body. Although I'm not their counsel, I would say it would be better for them to be on the safe side in observing the Brown Act."

Sausalito's 'Open Water' Challenged

Sausalito's proposal to establish pierhead and bulkhead lines and create "open water" in the central waterfront was challenged legally last night.

Sausalito City Council held the fourth in a series of sessions reviewing the city's proposed central waterfront plan, and when it was over, scheduled a fifth at 8 p.m. Jan. 8 in City Hall.

City Atty. Leland H. Jordon told the council he felt the city legally could establish the lines to preserve the water areas.

He was challenged by Atty. Leon Schiller, representing major property owners along the waterfront, who said there was court opinion there wasn't any public right of navigation and fishery in the privately-owned tidelands, proposed for open water.

Jordan contended there "may be other grounds" for establishing the open water, noting it could come under "public trust" or the general police power of the city.

Schiller contended that the land couldn't be taken without compensation to the owner. "If you take and create open water, you may be buying back the water by inverse condemnation. You show that as open water and you may have bought it."

Under the proposed plan two areas are designated for open water, one from Pine Street to Locust, and the other, from Litho Street to Mono, in an irregular shape.

During the discussion on the plan, Councilman Wyman Hicks, an advocate of having parking at the north end of Sausalito, suggested study to determine if the city could switch land dedicated for parking.

For example, he asked, if an owner dedicated land for parking in the central area, could the city take that land and give the owner parking spaces at the north end of town?

Councilmen previously agreed that the bulk of traffic should be taken off Alexander Avenue, and a major turnaround loop would be needed for traffic coming into the city from the north along Bridgeway.

Last night, they said, the turnaround loop should be north of Napa Street.

Councilman discussed designating which uses would be permitted inboard and which would be permitted outboard of the bulkhead line . William E. Spangle Jr. planning consultant, of San Mateo said he would review the matter before making a recommendation.

They also discussed the provision for an owner to transfer floor space credit from inboard to outboard and vice versa.

There was a brief discussion of the site for public buildings, city hall and library.

Councilman Alexander Imlay felt it was established that the public buildings would be in the area of Litho Street and Bridgeway.

"I thought it was wide open," said Hicks, who favored having city hall "here."

After a half dozen public hearings, and four study sessions, councilmen agreed they would need yet another special meeting to review the plan.

Planning Director H. Eric Borgwardt pointed out that the council hadn't yet tackled the question of houseboats in the central waterfront area. "This is an important type of use and should be considered," he said.

Other items scheduled for the next session were city hall location, pierhead and bulkhead lines, floor area ratios and the transfer of floor space credit.

Driver Data Sale Hit As Privacy Invasion

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Sale of information on drivers licenses and vehicle registration forms should be banned as a "gross invasion of personal privacy," the Assembly statewide information policy committee has been told.

"The potential for abuse by buyers of this information concerns me greatly," Assemblyman William Campbell, R-Hacienda Heights, told the committee yesterday.

Campbell, whose bill to stop such sales was killed in committee this year, asked: "When the state requires information from those persons who wish a permit to drive, does it not also have the responsibility of guarding the privacy of those persons?"

Campbell said sale of lists of vehicles and drivers' names also could contribute to burglaries and increased unwanted mail.

The policy of selling such information was defended by Keith A. Ball, a spokesman for the Department of Motor Vehicles, as necessary to "promote the normal conduct of human affairs."

He said information has been sold at least since 1938 and "the department considers the vehicle registration and driver license records are public records."

Ball said, however, that the state does not divulge such "confidential information" as mental or physical conditions of drivers.

Gov. Ronald Reagan, after a public controversy over the issue, ordered a halt last October to disclosure of information from the drivers license files. But the executive order did not stop sale of information from vehicular registration files.

Murphy Is Due Race Checkup

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., will run for reelection next year unless doctors recommend against it after a "complete physical examination" set for next month.

The former movie dancer told a news conference Thursday he would enter the Scripps Clinic at La Jolla Jan. 4 for a checkup expected to last several days.

Murphy underwent surgery for throat cancer more than three years ago and his voice is still little more than a hoarse whisper. He used an amplifier at the news conference but insisted that frequent examinations of his throat have shown no recurrence of cancer. But he said he owed it to his constituents to undergo one more complete physical examination.

Sausalito's 'Open Water' Challenged

Sausalito's proposal to establish pierhead and bulkhead lines and create "open water" in the central waterfront was challenged legally last night.

Sausalito City Council held the fourth in a series of sessions reviewing the city's proposed central waterfront plan, and when it was over, scheduled a fifth at 8 p.m. Jan. 8 in City Hall.

City Atty. Leland H. Jordon told the council he felt the city legally could establish the lines to preserve the water areas.

He was challenged by Atty. Leon Schiller, representing major property owners along the waterfront, who said there was court opinion there wasn't any public right of navigation and fishery in the privately-owned tidelands, proposed for open water.

Jordan contended there "may be other grounds" for establishing the open water, noting it could come under "public trust" or the general police power of the city.

Schiller contended that the land couldn't be taken without compensation to the owner. "If you take and create open water, you may be buying back the water by inverse condemnation. You show that as open water and you may have bought it."

Under the proposed plan two areas are designated for open water, one from Pine Street to Locust, and the other, from Litho Street to Mono, in an irregular shape.

During the discussion on the plan, Councilman Wyman Hicks, an advocate of having parking at the north end of Sausalito, suggested study to determine if the city could switch land dedicated for parking.

For example, he asked, if an owner dedicated land for parking in the central area, could the city take that land and give the owner parking spaces at the north end of town?

Councilmen previously agreed that the bulk of traffic should be taken off Alexander Avenue, and a major turnaround loop would be needed for traffic coming into the city from the north along Bridgeway.

Last night, they said, the turnaround loop should be north of Napa Street.

Councilman discussed designating which uses would be permitted inboard and which would be permitted outboard of the bulkhead line . William E. Spangle Jr. planning consultant, of San Mateo said he would review the matter before making a recommendation.

They also discussed the provision for an owner to transfer floor space credit from inboard to outboard and vice versa.

There was a brief discussion of the site for public buildings, city hall and library.

Councilman Alexander Imlay felt it was established that the public buildings would be in the area of Litho Street and Bridgeway.

"I thought it was wide open," said Hicks, who favored having city hall "here."

After a half dozen public hearings, and four study sessions, councilmen agreed they would need yet another special meeting to review the plan.

Planning Director H. Eric Borgwardt pointed out that the council hadn't yet tackled the question of houseboats in the central waterfront area. "This is an important type of use and should be considered," he said.

Other items scheduled for the next session were city hall location, pierhead and bulkhead lines, floor area ratios and the transfer of floor space credit.

Driver Data Sale Hit As Privacy Invasion

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Sale of information on drivers licenses and vehicle registration forms should be banned as a "gross invasion of personal privacy," the Assembly statewide information policy committee has been told.

"The potential for abuse by buyers of this information concerns me greatly," Assemblyman William Campbell, R-Hacienda Heights, told the committee yesterday.

Campbell, whose bill to stop such sales was killed in committee this year, asked: "When the state requires information from those persons who wish a permit to drive, does it not also have the responsibility of guarding the privacy of those persons?"

Campbell said sale of lists of vehicles and drivers' names also could contribute to burglaries and increased unwanted mail.

The policy of selling such information was defended by Keith A. Ball, a spokesman for the Department of Motor Vehicles, as necessary to "promote the normal conduct of human affairs."

He said information has been sold at least since 1938 and "the department considers the vehicle registration and driver license records are public records."

Ball said, however, that the state does not divulge such "confidential information" as mental or physical conditions of drivers.

Gov. Ronald Reagan, after a public controversy over the issue, ordered a halt last October to disclosure of information from the drivers license files. But the executive order did not stop sale of information from vehicular registration files.

Murphy Is Due Race Checkup

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., will run for reelection next year unless doctors recommend against it after a "complete physical examination" set for next month.

The former movie dancer told a news conference Thursday he would enter the Scripps Clinic at La Jolla Jan. 4 for a checkup expected to last several days.

Murphy underwent surgery for throat cancer more than three years ago and his voice is still little more than a hoarse whisper. He used an amplifier at the news conference but insisted that frequent examinations of his throat have shown no recurrence of cancer. But he said he owed it to his constituents to undergo one more complete physical examination.

SKYJUMPERS OVER SOUTH VIETNAM

South Vietnamese paratroopers jump from a C119 flying boxcar after receiving airborne instruction from U.S. military trainers, working to speed "Vietnamization" of the war effort. Diplomatic sources said yesterday the growing South Vietnamese strength was worrying Hanoi with fears that the war would be prolonged and adversely affect the Communists' chances for penetration of the south. New Chemical Boasted As Car Smog Weapon

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Standard Oil of California has announced it had developed a new gasoline component which would cut smog-producing hydrocarbon emissions nearly in half.

Standard said 15 years of research and development went into the new fuel commponent, called "F-310."

The company said tests conducted under typical driving conditions indicated the additive reduces unburned hydrocarbons in exhaust from an average of 550 parts per million to 250 parts per million.

Standard said it would add F-310 to three grades of gasoline now on the market, beginning next month in the Los Angles area.

As the supply becomes available, Standard said, it will make the new ingredient available in virtually all its Chevron gasoline marketing areas.

The new component, said E. D. Kane, president of Chevron Research Co., "can actually take a used car in such bad shape from engine deposits built up from city driving that it is stalling and puffing clouds of black smoke from its tail pipe, and after a few tankfuls, restore it to proper working order."

More than 50,000 U.S. servicemen, mostly Marines and Air Force men, are on the island of Okinawa to man military installations.

Driver Is Fair From Accident

Dan Bell, 25, of 61 California Avenue, Tamalpais Valley, was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital with a concussion and dislocated left hip received in an automobile accident at 2:45 p.m. yesterday in Tiburon.

Also injured in the accident was Ethel Slocum, 41, of 1 Acacia Court, Tiburon, who was treated at the hospital for a cut left knee.

Further details of the accident were not available today from Tiburon sheriff's deputies.

A New York Demo Admits Senate Talk

WASHINGTON (AP) — A democratic congressman says some "prominent New York Republicans" have suggested he switch parties and oppose GOP Sen. Charles E. Goodell in the 1970 primary.

Rep. Sam Stratton regards the suggestion as "half serious, half facetious" and says he doesn't know if it has White House blessings. But Goodell surely is not President Richard M. Nixon's favorite senator.

The New Yorker opposed Nixon on Vietnam, ABM, and the Haynsworth nomination. He was with GOP moderates protesting a lack of communication with the White House. And this week he opposed Nixon's nominee to replace southern New York's U.S. Attorney.

Stratton, a hawk on Vietnam and generally more conservative than Goodell, says he assumes the idea is to give the President more support in the Senate.

He gets a lot of mail on the subject too, he says, but he has yet to consider the idea seriously. Stratton didn't name the Republicans he says approached him.

Stratton, 53, is serving his 6th two year term in the House from an upstate district that includes Rochester and generally regarded as Republican territory.

He is a former mayor of Schenectady, a Navy officer in World War II and Korea, a member of the House Armed Services Committee and a strong supporter of its chairman, L. Mendell Rivers, D- S.C., a leading congressional hawk on Vietnam.

There are precedents for party switches by members of Congress although there has been no instance—in recent years—where a House member of one party has switched to another party to make a Senate race.

Former Sen. Wayne Morse, of Oregon, switched from Republican to Independent to Democrat while a senator. Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, deserted the Democratic Party to become a Republican.

Probe Launched Into Real Estate Rates

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department has launched an investigation to determine if the nation's real estate boards are conspiring to fix commission rates on property sales.

Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell announced the probe yesterday and said Justice Department investigators are checking to determine if recent commission rate increases in various parts of the country violate antitrust laws.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Richard W. McLaren, the government's antitrust chief, said his probers are "particularly interested in this situation because of the inflationary impact of such increases on consumers in the purchase of homes."

The Justice Department yesterday also filed a civil antitrust suit against the Prince George's County (Md.) Board of Realtors Inc., charging the firm with recommending commission rates that are followed by its 1,000 members in their property transactions. Prince George's County is a Washington suburb.

Mitchell indicated similar arrangements are made by other real estate boards elsewhere in the nation.

The Prince George's suit, brought under the restraint of trade provision of the Sherman Act, marked the first antitrust action against a real estate board since 1947.

The alleged scheme is carried out, the government said, through the Prince George's Multiple Listing Service, and all members agree that no listing will be accepted at a commission rate less than the recommendation.

Consequently, the suit claimed commissions were fixed at a noncompetitive level and price competition among salesmen was eliminated.

Deposed Black Capitalism Official Switches Bosses

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thomas F. Roeser, once the frustrated head of the government's clearinghouse for Black Capitalism programs, has esigned entirely from the Commerce Department.

Roeser's resignation, effective Jan. 5 was made public yesterday when the department released a cordial exchange of letters between him and Secretary Maurice H. Stans, who is in Yugoslavia discussing international trade.

Roeser was fired Oct. 28 after seven months as director of the Office of Minority Business Enterprise, the Commerce agency set up by presidential order last March to coordinate the government's programs designed to get members of minority groups into business for themselves.

But he kept his job as assistant to Stans for minority enterprise—which succeeded "black capitalism" as the name of the administration program—and was succeeded as OMBE director by Abraham S. Venable, a black career civil servant who had been deputy director.

Roeser, 41, white and a Republican, was a publicist for the Quaker Oats Co. before joining OMBE. He will become director of public affairs for the Peace Corps.

The most visible sign of his discontent emerged in early October when, addressing a mostly Negro chamber of commerce, he assailed government officials who would promote the minority business program before it showed results. He urged the black businessmen to lobby the government to increase the program's activities.

Its first new program, a system of "minority enterprise small business investment corporations," was announced by Stans.

Torrijos was overthrown Monday by two subordinate officers of the National Guard while he was in Mexico City for a horse race. Torrijos immediately headed back to Panama, consolidated his National Guard support and retook the reins of power.

OH! CHICAGO! INTERLUDE

"Chicago seven" defendants Jerry Rubin (left) and Abbie Hoffman (right) put their arms around Jacques Levy at the defendants' headquarters in Chicago. Levy, director of "Oh! Calcutta!", testified yesterday at the long-drawn trial. In other developments, the court refused a defense plea for a long weekend after Christmas, and the defense in turn planned to summon Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley to the witness stand on Friday. Park-School Cooperation Given Nod

Plans to develop land around the La Tercera School jointly with the City of Petaluma was agreed upon last night by the Old Adobe School District board.

Supt. Dean D. Magowan said that he and the district landscape architect, William L. Kapranos of San Rafael, would work with the city's planning and parks departments in developing the site.

A city council policy to place small neighborhood parks adjacent to school sites will be followed in the development plan.

The Old Adobe School District board also:

BONDS — Heard a report that $22,000 in bonds had been sold to the Atlantic and Pacific Building Corp. at an interest rate of 5 per cent. The funds will be used to finance street improvements in St. Francis Drive at the site of a future school.

TEACHERS — Agreed to the request of the Old Adobe Teachers Association to be placed regularly on the agenda of the first board meeting of the month to report on association activities.

VOTING — Approved the use of La Tercera and Bernard Eldredge schools as polling places in the March 3 special city bond election.

Watches Stolen

Two gold men's wristwatches, with a total value of $310, were stolen Wednesday from Gorb Jewelry Store, 1115 Fourth Street, San Rafael police reported today. A $300 man's gold watch was stolen from the same store Nov. 26, police also reported.

Six Children Are Killed In Auto Crash

DICKSON, Tenn. (AP) — Six children, ranging in age from 18 months to 17 years, were killed early today when the car in which they were riding went out of control on Interstate 40, just east of here.

The dead were children of Mr. and Mrs. John McMahon of Cleveland, Ohio. The parents and three other children were hospitalized.

Officers said the mother, Jean, 34, was driving the station wagon, which was pulling a camper. The parents and nine children were in the automobile.

Police said the camper started swerving causing the vehicles to crash through a bridge guardrail and plunge 35 feet onto a gravel road below.

The wreck occurred about two miles west of Tenn. 96.

The father, John McMahon, 35, was hospitalized in fair condition at Goodlark Hospital here. Two daughters, Barbara, 14, and Jean, 13, were hospitalized at Vanderbilt Hospital in Nashville. The mother and a son, Bryant, 8, were hospitalized at Dickson General Hospital.

The dead were identified as: Geneva, 17; Margaret Mary 11; John Edward 10; James Patrick, 9; Timothy Michael, 6; and Deborah, 18 months.

The family was reportedly en route to Texas.

Black Legislator In Housing Denial Fight

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A Negro assemblywoman says she was refused an apartment in Sacramento because of her race, and the state has gone to court on her behalf.

Yvonne Brathwaite, a Los Angeles Democrat, said she was turned down when she tried to rent a $135-a-month studio apartment for the forthcoming legislative session.

The Fair Employment Practices Commission, acting on her complaint, filed suit against the owner of the apartment, Watrous and McClory Inc., its president, Mrs. Regina Kimberlin and Mrs. Harry A. Jones, manager of the apartment.

Sacramento County Superior Court Judge William Gallagher set Dec. 30 for a hearing. Meanwhile, he issued a temporary restraining order prohibiting the owner from renting the apartment to anyone else but Mrs. Brathwaite.

Charging a violation of the state's open housing act, Mrs. Brathwaite said she had her secretary, Georgette Imura, apply for the apartment Dec. 8. Mrs. Imura was told by Mrs. Jones the apartment would be available around Jan. 15.

"She then asked Mrs. Imura if I were colored," Mrs. Brathwaite said in her complaint. "Mrs. Imura said 'yes.' "

Mrs. Brathwaite said Mrs. Jones told Mrs. Imura "don't misunderstand me, but I probably would lose all my tenants if I rented to her."

Mrs. Brathwaite said she has not had further word about the availability of an apartment. "I believe on the basis of the manager's statement to Mrs. Imura that the reason I have not been contacted is because of racial discrimination on the part of Mrs. Jones, the manager. I am Negro."

Mrs. Kimberlin, president of the realty firm, said she had no comment when contacted by newsmen.

But Dumas M. Robinson, an FEPC consultant, said Mrs. Kimberlin read the complaint Wednesday and "stated she had not discriminated against Mrs. Brathwaite because of her race." Mrs. Kimberlin said that the assemblywoman would have to be on a waiting list if she wanted an apartment.

Robinson said another applicant for an apartment, Geraldine Jekins, was told Saturday that a $135 a month apartment would be available Jan. 5.

Mrs. Brathwaite has served in the legislature since 1966.

A Phi Beta Kappa graduate of the University of California, Los Angeles, she is an attorney who has been active in civil rights and real estate cases.

She has worked as a deputy corporations commissioner for the state and an attorney on the staff of the McCone Commission investigating the 1965 Watts riots.

DEATH SCENE — This was the view through the bullet-blasted window at a store in the Mission district of San Francisco yesterday after an unidentified man whose body lies covered in the foreground killed himself and another man and wounded Jules Jobin, 39, of San Rafael. (AP Wirephoto)

Robber Hits Dress Shop, Takes $500

An armed robber held up La Tee's dress shop at 1518 Grant Avenue, Novato, about 6:20 p.m. yesterday and escaped with $500, police reported.

The robber held an automatic pistol against clerk Celeste M. Bonomolo and demanded the money from the cash register. After getting it, he made her lie down on the floor and walked out of the store. Mrs. Bonomolo waited about five minutes before getting up to call police, she said. She did not see which way the robber went nor if he had a car, police reported.

She described the robber as in his late 20s or early 30s, about six-feet, two-to-four inches tall, of slim build. He had greasy black hair, was fair conplexioned and unshaven. He was wearing a black topcoat, gray pants and brown shoes.

San Rafael Man Survives Deadly San Francisco Street Fusillade

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A San Rafael man lay wounded today and two other men were dead, the victims of an unexplained shooting yesterday on a San Francisco street.

Jules Jobin, 39, of 53 Clayton Street, underwent surgery this morning at San Francisco General Hospital for a gunshot wound in his left thigh. A hospital spokesman said he is in fair condition and improving.

His attacker, who killed Richard Vargas, 21, of San Francisco, and himself, purchased a weapon moments before and announced he was going to "get me three or four dudes before they get me."

The gunman, armed with an 8mm Mauser semi-automatic rifle, apparently fired first at Jobin who was driving along Mission Street. The bullet smashed through the car door, hitting both legs.

Jobin's wife, Justine, a passenger, said she was her husband flinch. He said, 'It's hurt, it's hurt,' she reported, and then he managed to drive across the street and stop the car.

A traffic patrolman met Jobin's car as it came to a stop and reported that the first thing the injured man said was, 'What did he do that to me for'

The gunman apparently next saw Vargas walking across the street and fired at him. Vargas went down, a bullet above his heart. One witness said Vargas raised his hand and the man shot at him again.

Msgr. Clement McKenna, pastor of nearby St. Patrick's Catholic Church, said he looked out, saw Vargas lying on the sidewalk and a man with a gun walking away. He said he called police and went out to give the last rites to Vargas.

Meanwhile, the gunman sprayed four shots through the window of a sporting goods store, but none of the occupants was injured.

He then put the rifle to his head and killed himself.

Donald Zobrak, 35, manager of the Argonaut Pawn Shop where the gunman purchased the rifle for $90, said the man signed the name John Price to the required registration form.

However, authorities were attempting to establish positive identification through fingerprints. There was no identification on the body.

Zobrak said the man, in his late 20s to mid-30s, started loading the rifle before he left the pawn shop. Told he wasn't allowed to do that, Zobrak reported, the man made his promise to "get me three or four dudes." Minutes later the shots began.

Congress For Community Ideas Eyed

A congress for community progress will be held in Novato, probably next May, sponsored by the Novato Chamber of Commerce, according to secretary Billie Garl.

The board last night voted $200 for the congress after it heard a presentation by William Siden, Pacific Gas and Electric community affairs representative, on conducting such a congress.

President George Barnwell will name a committee to work on the congress at the Jan. 15 board meeting, said Mrs. Garl.

The Novato Chamber of Commerce board also:

CHRISTMAS DECORATION — Named Richard Grondberg chairman of the Christmas decoration committee for next year and voted that any money left from the approximately $2,000 collected so far this year, would be placed in a special Christmas decoration fund.

CLEANUP — Named Gordon C. Lee to the cleanup committee and voted $500 additional secretarial help for Mrs. Garl for the semiannual cleanup campaign.

FESTIVAL — Voted to pay the $172 cost of the Christmas festival.

BIRTHDAY — Set 6:30 p.m., Jan. 17 at the Moose Lodge for the city's birthday party. The proceeds of the party will go toward the congress.

Mayor, Reputed Mafia Boss Plead Innocent

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Mayor Hugh J. Addonizio and reputed Mafia boss Anthony (Tony Boy) Boiardo pleaded innocent today to federal charges of extortion and income tax evasion.

U.S. Dist. Court Judge James Coolahan set a period of 45 days for filing defense motions, after which a trial date will be set.

Judge Coolahan set bail for Boiardo at $50,000 and restricted his travel to New Jersey, New York City and Washington, D.C. Federal authorities have been seeking Boiardo for questioning by the federal grand jury which indicted him, the mayor and 13 other persons Wednesday.

Twelve other defendants also pleaded innocent, and the arraignment of the final defendant was set for next week because of his illness.

Boiardo, dressed in a grey suit and blue silk tie, looked tanned and fit at the arrignment.

Addonizio, who is free in $25,000 bail on his own recognizance, was surrounded by political supporters at the court session. When his name was called by the judge, the mayor arose and said in a loud, husky voice, "not guilty."

On Thursday night, the board of the Greater Newark chamber of Commerce voted to ask Addonizio and other city officials indicted on the income tax and extortion charges to step aside until their cases are settled in court. A board spokesman said a formal request to that effect will be issued shortly.

The mayor has said he will not step down and has pledged the city's government will operate "efficiently and effectively" despite the indictment.

Addonizio and 11 others are charged with income tax evasion. All 15 are charged with extortion.

40-Story Market Street Building Is Announced

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —A 40-story office building is planned for a block-square site at First and Market streets, builder Robert V. Tishman said today.

The structure on the south side of Market will be the tallest and biggest yet built on San Francisco's major downtown thoroughfare.

With 1.2 million square feet of space it will be the city's second largest office building, Tishman said. Bank of America's new 52-story headquarters is the largest.

He said work is expected to begin on the site early in 1971 and that it will be a joint venture of the Tishman Realty & Construction Co. and the Cahill Construction Co. of San Francisco.

Completion is expected by mid-1972.

Union Leader Bridges Halts Libel Action

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Longshoremen's Union leader Harry Bridges has abandoned his four and one-half year old libel suit against some of the nation's most prominent liberals and radicals.

In his $250,000 suit, Bridges had charged the men—a committee of influential professors, civil rights leaders, authors and others—with "maliciously" attacking him in literature they circulated nationally.

They did it in 1964, Bridges charged, while soliciting money for court action by 82 longshoremen here.

PANEL ATTACKED

In dropping his suit yesterday, Bridges said he still considered the committee "a real gang of phonies...enemies of labor."

But he said he decided on his course of action because they admitted they never intended to put their name "on a malicious piece of literature" that called Bridges a racist. Besides, he said, recent changes in the libel laws would make it hard to win a suit.

Bridges' opponents asserted that Bridges never had a case. Their attorney, Arthur Brunwasser, said Bridges "didn't really want to go to court."

The attorney said Bridges merely wanted to use the threat of a libel suit to keep others from joining in the fight for the fired longshoremen and also to drain the funds of their supporters.

"DONATES MONEY"

Author Herbert Gold, one of 15 people named in Bridges' libel suit, said he had "donated his lunch money" as a teenager to committees defending Bridges from government attempts to deport him.

"It's sad," declared Gold, "that a man who has been persecuted by the government, and defended by artists and intellectuals, should have spent his union's money and many men's time and money in four and one-half years of legal persecution of writers, artists, ministers and teachers whose offense was that they sought to help a group of longshoremen deprived of their jobs."

Bridges—backed by a convention vote of the International Longshoremen's and Warehouseman's Union — had stated that the longshoremen involved were fired from temporary waterfront jobs "for cause."

The layman's definition of death, probably, is a state in which the heart has ceased to beat.

Casino Stock Deal Sparks Fraud Suit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new owners of the glittering Dunes Hotel and casino in Las Vegas defrauded stockholders in the proxy statement it issued offering to buy the plush gambling spot, the Securities and Exchange Commission has charged.

In a complaint filed yesterday in federal district court in New York, the SEC accused Continental Connector Corp., which bought the hotel last May, and M&R Investment Co., the Dunes' former owner, of employing "devices, schemes and artifices to defraud" and making "materially false and misleading" financial statements to investors and the public.

The American Stock Exchange halted trading in Continental stock hours before the suit was filed. It closed at $27.38 per share, a drop of 13 cents during the day.

The SEC asked the court for an injunction forbidding Continental, a manufacturers of precision electronic connectors based in Woodside, N.Y., to complete its planned purchase of the Golden Nugget, an older downtown Las Vegas casino, until stockholders are sent accurate financial information.

It also asked the court to order Continental and M&R to change the proxy statements used in the Dunes merger to bring them into line with commission rules.

Continental Connector got Nevada state approval last February to buy the Dunes for $59 million, and stockholders of both Continential and the Golden Nuggett have approved its sale for $20 million. Both transactions are in stock.

However, a Golden Nugget stockholder, Frank Simmons, had tried unsuccessfully to have the merger delayed until an SEC investigation was completed. The lawsuit apparently resulted from that probe.

Reagan Puts Reinecke At Helm Of Environment Panel

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — The coordination and development of a long range environmental plan for California has been placed in the hands of a state Environmental Policy Committee by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The governor announced the formation of the committee saying the action was "a part of a commitment I made to the people of California to wage an all-out war on pollution of our environment."

Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke was designated by Reagan as the chairman of the committee. Reinecke has been made responsible for the efforts of a number of state agencies concerned with various aspects of environmental protection.

The lieutenant governor's office presently administers the state Office of Planning, the Environmental Study Council, the Interagency Council on Ocean Resources, the California Advisory Commission on Marine and Coastal Resources, the Model Cities Program, the Solid Waste Management Task Force and the Governor's Flood Task Force.

The new Environmental Policy Committee will be composed of Reinecke and the secretaries of Resources, Business and Transportation, Agriculture and Services, and Human Relations Agencies, plus the state director of finance.

The committee will be charged with four responsibilities, Reagan said.

It will: Review suggestions on environmental improvements made at the recent Governor's Conference on California's Changing Environment and make specific recommendations; review departmental legislation to insure coordinated attack on pollution; initiate suggestions for interim controls; and analyze legislative proposals and their effects on the quality of life in the state.

DEATH SCENE — This was the view through the bullet-blasted window at a store in the Mission district of San Francisco yesterday after an unidentified man whose body lies covered in the foreground killed himself and another man and wounded Jules Jobin, 39, of San Rafael. (AP Wirephoto)

Robber Hits Dress Shop, Takes $500

An armed robber held up La Tee's dress shop at 1518 Grant Avenue, Novato, about 6:20 p.m. yesterday and escaped with $500, police reported.

The robber held an automatic pistol against clerk Celeste M. Bonomolo and demanded the money from the cash register. After getting it, he made her lie down on the floor and walked out of the store. Mrs. Bonomolo waited about five minutes before getting up to call police, she said. She did not see which way the robber went nor if he had a car, police reported.

She described the robber as in his late 20s or early 30s, about six-feet, two-to-four inches tall, of slim build. He had greasy black hair, was fair conplexioned and unshaven. He was wearing a black topcoat, gray pants and brown shoes.

Congress For Community Ideas Eyed

A congress for community progress will be held in Novato, probably next May, sponsored by the Novato Chamber of Commerce, according to secretary Billie Garl.

The board last night voted $200 for the congress after it heard a presentation by William Siden, Pacific Gas and Electric community affairs representative, on conducting such a congress.

President George Barnwell will name a committee to work on the congress at the Jan. 15 board meeting, said Mrs. Garl.

The Novato Chamber of Commerce board also:

CHRISTMAS DECORATION — Named Richard Grondberg chairman of the Christmas decoration committee for next year and voted that any money left from the approximately $2,000 collected so far this year, would be placed in a special Christmas decoration fund.

CLEANUP — Named Gordon C. Lee to the cleanup committee and voted $500 additional secretarial help for Mrs. Garl for the semiannual cleanup campaign.

FESTIVAL — Voted to pay the $172 cost of the Christmas festival.

BIRTHDAY — Set 6:30 p.m., Jan. 17 at the Moose Lodge for the city's birthday party. The proceeds of the party will go toward the congress.

San Rafael Man Survives Deadly San Francisco Street Fusillade

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A San Rafael man lay wounded today and two other men were dead, the victims of an unexplained shooting yesterday on a San Francisco street.

Jules Jobin, 39, of 53 Clayton Street, underwent surgery this morning at San Francisco General Hospital for a gunshot wound in his left thigh. A hospital spokesman said he is in fair condition and improving.

His attacker, who killed Richard Vargas, 21, of San Francisco, and himself, purchased a weapon moments before and announced he was going to "get me three or four dudes before they get me."

The gunman, armed with an 8mm Mauser semi-automatic rifle, apparently fired first at Jobin who was driving along Mission Street. The bullet smashed through the car door, hitting both legs.

Jobin's wife, Justine, a passenger, said she was her husband flinch. He said, 'It's hurt, it's hurt,' she reported, and then he managed to drive across the street and stop the car.

A traffic patrolman met Jobin's car as it came to a stop and reported that the first thing the injured man said was, 'What did he do that to me for'

The gunman apparently next saw Vargas walking across the street and fired at him. Vargas went down, a bullet above his heart. One witness said Vargas raised his hand and the man shot at him again.

Msgr. Clement McKenna, pastor of nearby St. Patrick's Catholic Church, said he looked out, saw Vargas lying on the sidewalk and a man with a gun walking away. He said he called police and went out to give the last rites to Vargas.

Meanwhile, the gunman sprayed four shots through the window of a sporting goods store, but none of the occupants was injured.

He then put the rifle to his head and killed himself.

Donald Zobrak, 35, manager of the Argonaut Pawn Shop where the gunman purchased the rifle for $90, said the man signed the name John Price to the required registration form.

However, authorities were attempting to establish positive identification through fingerprints. There was no identification on the body.

Zobrak said the man, in his late 20s to mid-30s, started loading the rifle before he left the pawn shop. Told he wasn't allowed to do that, Zobrak reported, the man made his promise to "get me three or four dudes." Minutes later the shots began.

Mayor, Reputed Mafia Boss Plead Innocent

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Mayor Hugh J. Addonizio and reputed Mafia boss Anthony (Tony Boy) Boiardo pleaded innocent today to federal charges of extortion and income tax evasion.

U.S. Dist. Court Judge James Coolahan set a period of 45 days for filing defense motions, after which a trial date will be set.

Judge Coolahan set bail for Boiardo at $50,000 and restricted his travel to New Jersey, New York City and Washington, D.C. Federal authorities have been seeking Boiardo for questioning by the federal grand jury which indicted him, the mayor and 13 other persons Wednesday.

Twelve other defendants also pleaded innocent, and the arraignment of the final defendant was set for next week because of his illness.

Boiardo, dressed in a grey suit and blue silk tie, looked tanned and fit at the arrignment.

Addonizio, who is free in $25,000 bail on his own recognizance, was surrounded by political supporters at the court session. When his name was called by the judge, the mayor arose and said in a loud, husky voice, "not guilty."

On Thursday night, the board of the Greater Newark chamber of Commerce voted to ask Addonizio and other city officials indicted on the income tax and extortion charges to step aside until their cases are settled in court. A board spokesman said a formal request to that effect will be issued shortly.

The mayor has said he will not step down and has pledged the city's government will operate "efficiently and effectively" despite the indictment.

Addonizio and 11 others are charged with income tax evasion. All 15 are charged with extortion.

40-Story Market Street Building Is Announced

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —A 40-story office building is planned for a block-square site at First and Market streets, builder Robert V. Tishman said today.

The structure on the south side of Market will be the tallest and biggest yet built on San Francisco's major downtown thoroughfare.

With 1.2 million square feet of space it will be the city's second largest office building, Tishman said. Bank of America's new 52-story headquarters is the largest.

He said work is expected to begin on the site early in 1971 and that it will be a joint venture of the Tishman Realty & Construction Co. and the Cahill Construction Co. of San Francisco.

Completion is expected by mid-1972.

The California Highway Patrol said Deming's auto struck the rear of a car driven by Dianna Bachich, 17, of 124 Mabry Way, San Rafael, after the Deming car had been hit in the rear by one driven by John Wisler, 55, of 12 Dell Street, Mill Valley.

'Extra Hire' Employee Hours Are Questioned

The Marin County personnel commission yesterday questioned the use of "extra hire" county employees and noted that many of them are putting in more hours than full time employees.

The commissioners, headed by chairman Bella Aaron, asked Personnel Director Maren Rinne to find out why so many "extra hire" employees are putting in so much time, particularly in Marin Juvenile Hall.

"It's just incredible," decalred A. Bruce McKenzie, "the number of hours put in under extra hire." He referred to a report submitted by Mrs. Rinne showing the extra hire employees and number of hours worked diing the six months from December 1968 through May of 1969.

The report shows 33 individuals were on "extra hire" at Juvenile Hall during the six months. One of them put in 1,134 hours in that time while a full-time employee, would work 1,040 hours (26 weeks at 40 hours per week). Other "extra hire" employees at the Hall put in 1,128 hours, 1,019 hours, and 1,012 hours.

Commissioners asked Mrs. Rinne to find out why so much "extra hire" is needed, and whether they should not be replaced by permanent employees. They also want the personnel department to complete job descriptions for each county position and rules of operation in various departments.

The Marin County Personnel Commission also:

TERMINATION — Asked for more information on the termination of Frank Schulz, a messenger mail clerk in the central services department, who was hired on May 20 and notified on Nov. 14 that he would be terminated. The county administrator gave him until Nov. 28 to look for anothrer job Schulz now claims he gained permanent status because his six-month probation period ended on Nov. 20.

GRIEVANCE — Ruled against Randall M. Prevo, manager of the Marin County Employees Association, who tried to get standby pay for all MCEA employees. The commissioners backed the county administrator, who contended that standby pay applies only to those eligible for overtime, not to supervisory employees whose jobs are not time-related.

Gun Victim Released By Mental Unit

A San Rafael salesman, who shot himself after a family argument and then drove to Marin General Hospital for aid, was released from the Community Mental Health Center at the hospital yesterday after a period of observation and treatment of wounds.

Police said Roy Bronson, 26, of 35 Fairfax Street, fired three times at himself with a .22-caliber pistol in the bedroom of the home Wednesday night.

The first bullet inflicted a superficial wound on the left side of his chest, officers said. The next, round misfired, police reported, and the third passed through his chest into a wall of the bedroom, missing any vital body organs.

When Broson's wife, Helen, 22, went for help, he got into the family car and drove to the hospital, police said.

The Hermitage, near Nashville, Tenn. was the home of Andrew Jackson, seventh President of the United States.

Deaf Ear Falls On Holding Toll Costs

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

Pleas by Marin County officials to rescind toll increases for commuters and busses were brushed aside today by Golden Gate Bridge District directors.

The only matter that came to a vote, a motion by Marin Supervisor Michael Wornum to reconsider the hike in round trip bus tolls from 26 cents to $2, was swamped in a 3-10 vote.

The three votes were cast by Wornum and Marin's two other representatives on the bridge board, Mill Valley Mayor Dean N. Meyer and Joseph E. Sheeks of Belvedere.

Efforts by the Marin contingent to seek reconsideration of the commuter toll increase could not even muster a motion to reconsider.

The three Marin representatives were unable to make such a motion because they voted last week against the increase.

Last week's vote hiked the price of the 25 round trip commuter books from $6.10 to $10, effective Dec. 25. It also eliminated commuter books after June 1970.

Meyer continued to strike out in a proposal that the bridge district subcontract with the Alameda-Contra Costa Transit District to take over Greyhound's Marin commute service.

His suggestion was sent to the finance committe with a suggestion by Director L. E. Castner of Sonoma County that it be held there for "a long study before we make another hasty mistake."

Only one commuter, Adele Nolan of Sausalito, opposed the toll increase. She demanded to know why the district was "squeezing all this financing out of the commuter."

She also asked how many commuters were on the 18-member board. Three directors raised their hands.

Wornum, noting that Mrs. Nolan supported his election campaign, said "We are doing this for the Marin commuter. The motive was right, but the timing wrong," he said.

Wornum agreed with Mrs. Nolan that the directors should have given public notice before they raised the commute book price.

But Sheeks insisted that most commuters "were informed as to what we were doing, even if they didn't know the exact timing of the increase."

Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring said last week that the $10 commute books will increase annual district revenue by about $900,000. Directors agreed last week that the increased revenue should be earmarked for the proposed bus and ferry service to Marin.

In other business, directors voted unanimously to extend for an additional two weekends the Saturday ferry service between Tiburon and San Francisco. The service was to have ended after tomorrow.

Cotati Looks To Future City Home

The Cotati City Hall is bulging at the seams and it's time to move ahead with a new building, the city council decided last night. The council authorized City Mgr. Gordon H. Howe to have preliminary plans drawn for a new building on city property on Park Avenue adjacent to the Cotati Veterans Memorial building.

The council, which meets at the Cotati fire station, said the new building should include a small council chamber and private offices for police and department heads.

The city hall at 1 East Cotati Avenue is a reconverted house that was renovated 18 months ago for use as the city offices.

The Cotati City Council also:

SERVICE STATIONS — Adopted a service station ordinance despite objections from Virgil McNab of the Western Oil and Gas Association. McNab disagreed with sections limiting two stations per corner and none closer than 500 feet apart. Stations must also be more than 350 feet away from existing schools, parks, playgrounds and public buildings.

REZONING — Introduced an ordinance granting the rezoning request of Mrs. and Mrs. Bernard Santero to change their property at 415 School Street from single family residential to multifamily to permit apartments.

HOSPITAL — Heard a request from Paul Golis of the Rohnert Park Hospital Foundation to support a private hospital in the neighboring city. The council asked Golis to prepare a recommended resolution for consideration.

MEETING — Canceled the Jan. 1 meeting due to the holiday and will meet again Jan. 15 at 7:30 p.m.

Arabs Head For Morocco Parley

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — Arab leaders headed for Morocco today for their first summit meeting in two years. Their goal was a new unified war strategy against Israel.

The meeting, called by President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt, is intended to lead the Arabs out of the present impasse in which they seem neither able to go forward and conquer Israel nor willing to retreat into a peace agreement which they see as a surrender.

The first session will be held tomorrow.

Hashish Raid Charges Denied

Three men arrested in a raid on a Tamalpais Valley motel Tuesday where narcotics agents said they seized a large quantity of hashish as well as over $24,000 pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to drug charges.

A preliminary hearing was set for Jan. 13 for David Stuart King, 25, of Billings, Mont.; Jeffrey David Wyard, 25, of Missoula, Mont., and George S. Garr, 23, who gave the Fountain Motel as his address.

King and Wyard, college students from Montana who had only been in Marin a short time, are charged with possessing marijuana for sale, and Garr is accused of possession of marijuana.

Union Leader Bridges Halts Libel Action

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Longshoremen's Union leader Harry Bridges has abandoned his four and one-half year old libel suit against some of the nation's most prominent liberals and radicals.

In his $250,000 suit, Bridges had charged the men—a committee of influential professors, civil rights leaders, authors and others—with "maliciously" attacking him in literature they circulated nationally.

They did it in 1964, Bridges charged, while soliciting money for court action by 82 longshoremen here.

PANEL ATTACKED

In dropping his suit yesterday, Bridges said he still considered the committee "a real gang of phonies...enemies of labor."

But he said he decided on his course of action because they admitted they never intended to put their name "on a malicious piece of literature" that called Bridges a racist. Besides, he said, recent changes in the libel laws would make it hard to win a suit.

Bridges' opponents asserted that Bridges never had a case. Their attorney, Arthur Brunwasser, said Bridges "didn't really want to go to court."

The attorney said Bridges merely wanted to use the threat of a libel suit to keep others from joining in the fight for the fired longshoremen and also to drain the funds of their supporters.

"DONATES MONEY"

Author Herbert Gold, one of 15 people named in Bridges' libel suit, said he had "donated his lunch money" as a teenager to committees defending Bridges from government attempts to deport him.

"It's sad," declared Gold, "that a man who has been persecuted by the government, and defended by artists and intellectuals, should have spent his union's money and many men's time and money in four and one-half years of legal persecution of writers, artists, ministers and teachers whose offense was that they sought to help a group of longshoremen deprived of their jobs."

Bridges—backed by a convention vote of the International Longshoremen's and Warehouseman's Union — had stated that the longshoremen involved were fired from temporary waterfront jobs "for cause."

The layman's definition of death, probably, is a state in which the heart has ceased to beat.

Casino Stock Deal Sparks Fraud Suit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new owners of the glittering Dunes Hotel and casino in Las Vegas defrauded stockholders in the proxy statement it issued offering to buy the plush gambling spot, the Securities and Exchange Commission has charged.

In a complaint filed yesterday in federal district court in New York, the SEC accused Continental Connector Corp., which bought the hotel last May, and M&R Investment Co., the Dunes' former owner, of employing "devices, schemes and artifices to defraud" and making "materially false and misleading" financial statements to investors and the public.

The American Stock Exchange halted trading in Continental stock hours before the suit was filed. It closed at $27.38 per share, a drop of 13 cents during the day.

The SEC asked the court for an injunction forbidding Continental, a manufacturers of precision electronic connectors based in Woodside, N.Y., to complete its planned purchase of the Golden Nugget, an older downtown Las Vegas casino, until stockholders are sent accurate financial information.

It also asked the court to order Continental and M&R to change the proxy statements used in the Dunes merger to bring them into line with commission rules.

Continental Connector got Nevada state approval last February to buy the Dunes for $59 million, and stockholders of both Continential and the Golden Nuggett have approved its sale for $20 million. Both transactions are in stock.

However, a Golden Nugget stockholder, Frank Simmons, had tried unsuccessfully to have the merger delayed until an SEC investigation was completed. The lawsuit apparently resulted from that probe.

Reagan Puts Reinecke At Helm Of Environment Panel

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — The coordination and development of a long range environmental plan for California has been placed in the hands of a state Environmental Policy Committee by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The governor announced the formation of the committee saying the action was "a part of a commitment I made to the people of California to wage an all-out war on pollution of our environment."

Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke was designated by Reagan as the chairman of the committee. Reinecke has been made responsible for the efforts of a number of state agencies concerned with various aspects of environmental protection.

The lieutenant governor's office presently administers the state Office of Planning, the Environmental Study Council, the Interagency Council on Ocean Resources, the California Advisory Commission on Marine and Coastal Resources, the Model Cities Program, the Solid Waste Management Task Force and the Governor's Flood Task Force.

The new Environmental Policy Committee will be composed of Reinecke and the secretaries of Resources, Business and Transportation, Agriculture and Services, and Human Relations Agencies, plus the state director of finance.

The committee will be charged with four responsibilities, Reagan said.

It will: Review suggestions on environmental improvements made at the recent Governor's Conference on California's Changing Environment and make specific recommendations; review departmental legislation to insure coordinated attack on pollution; initiate suggestions for interim controls; and analyze legislative proposals and their effects on the quality of life in the state.

$110,500 Written Off In Truax Case

I-J Special Report

BERKELEY — The Association of Bay Area Governments executive committee last night wrote off $110,500 in stolen funds in a unanimous vote to accept a final settlement of about 80 per cent of the total stolen by its former assistant executive director.

The former employee, Thomas N. Truax, vanished in February 1968, after his "diversion" of $511,000 in ABAG funds was detected. Truax, who spent most of the money gambling in Las Vegas, was found months later in Florida, and is serving a sentence of two to 20 years in prison.

The final settlement, $255,000, came from "various insurance companies for third parties," according to Alameda County Supervisor Joseph P. Bort, chairman of the special finance subcommittee that negotiated the settlement. The involvement of the companies was not explained, but they reportedly insured the various financial institutions through whose hands Truax diverted the money.

ABAG previously recovered $65,500 from its bonding company, $50,000 from San Francisco Federal Savings and Loan Association, and $30,000 from money the Internal Revenue Service recovered from Truax.

ABAG's special counsel in the 18 months of negotiation, Arthur Harris of Berkeley, estimated the cost of the recovery at about $7,000.

Bort, saying he was "quite pleased" with the settlement terms, said, "It would be disastrous, frankly, if we did not accept it."

Harris told the committee, meeting in the Hotel Claremont, that it was "not in a position to recover from the person who diverted these funds." The alternative was very costly litigation, he said, adding it would drag on at least three to four years, "and even then no one can guarantee the outcome."

Thomas J. Mellon, San Francisco's chief administrative officer, noted that even if ABAG won such litigation, its cost "in all probability" would be more than the missing $110,500.

With last night's additional $255,000, ABAG will be able to pay off its old debts left over after the theft, and still have $17,000 from the total amount recovered, Bort said.

ABAG's Proposed Shopping List Carries Healthy Increase In Dues

I-J Special Report

BERKELEY — County and city dues to the Association of Bay Area Governments next fiscal year, totaling $233,400, were proposed last night to its executive committee.

But the report of the finance subcommittee also offered a shopping list of proposed programs that could add $155,000 in dues.

Before figuring in any of the goodies on the shopping list, however, the dues total was only up slightly from the current year's $232,606. In Marin, the county this year paid $5,082 and Marin's 11 cities paid a total of $4,079. Cotati paid $43; Tohnert Park, $155. No figure was available for Petaluma which joined later in the year.

The proposed programs included $10,000 for lobbying in Sacramento, $10,000 to $15,000 to staff a parks and open space committee, $15,000 for planning in the fields of solid waste disposal and comprehensive health planning, $15,000 for water quality studies, and $50,000 to $100,000 to continue the study of regional airport needs.

Action on the proposals was deferred to the committee's Jan. 15 meeting. The committee's recommendations then will go to the general assembly on Feb. 19.

Alameda County Supervisor Joseph P. Bort, chairman of the finance subcommittee that drew up the proposed budget, said that each $10,000 increase in the budget would add $120 in annual dues for each 10,000 population for each member. For example, a member city with a population of 20,000 would see its dues jump $240 for a $10,000 increase in the budget.

All items on the shopping list, Bort said, "deserve serious consideration."

The Association of Bay Area Governments executive committee also:

SALARY — Raised executive director J. Julien Baget's annual salary from $24,150 to $25,200. Baget former Novato city manager, has been with ABAG since September 1968.

CHARGES — Asked Baget to study the feasibility of charging nonmembers benefitting from ABAG regional studies needed to maintain their eligibilty for federal grants.

ROADS — Recommended federal approval of Marin County's application for $94,000 to improve Novato Boulevard between San Miguel Way and west of Sutro Avenue, and for $158,400 to improve East Sir Francis Drake Boulevard around San Quentin Prison.

Leslie Lee Outley, 27-year-old San Rafael man arrested Dec. 1 by San Rafael police on a burglary warrant issued by Contra Costa County, will request reduction of his $2,875 bail at a hearing Tuesday at 10 a.m. in San Pablo Municipal Court. He is being held in Contra Costa County Jail in Martinez.

Outley was found by police in his car parked halfway in his driveway at 136 Front Street with an open bottle of bourbon on the front seat.

A preliminary hearing has been scheduled for Jan. 2 at 10 a.m. in the same court.

Lovell and Haise started their field study yesterday in the Aloi-Alae crater area, site of the latest eruptions in Kilauea volcano.

The Apollo 13 backup team of John W. Young and Charles M. Duke Jr., along with Jack R. Lousma and Vance D. Brand of the support unit, began geological reviews in another area.

Tiny Tim, Bride Visit Bahamas

FREEPORT, Bahamas (AP) — Along with 20 pieces of luggage and six ukeleles, Tiny Tim and his maxi-dressed bride checked into separate suites here Thursday to start a two-and-one-half-week honeymoon.

In keeping with what the falsetto singer called an Old Testament tradition, he and his 17-year-old wife planned to spend the first three days apart.

Rita Goodman, a hotel spokesman, said Tiny Tim would appear in a night club during the stay.

'Extra Hire' Employee Hours Are Questioned

The Marin County personnel commission yesterday questioned the use of "extra hire" county employees and noted that many of them are putting in more hours than full time employees.

The commissioners, headed by chairman Bella Aaron, asked Personnel Director Maren Rinne to find out why so many "extra hire" employees are putting in so much time, particularly in Marin Juvenile Hall.

"It's just incredible," decalred A. Bruce McKenzie, "the number of hours put in under extra hire." He referred to a report submitted by Mrs. Rinne showing the extra hire employees and number of hours worked diing the six months from December 1968 through May of 1969.

The report shows 33 individuals were on "extra hire" at Juvenile Hall during the six months. One of them put in 1,134 hours in that time while a full-time employee, would work 1,040 hours (26 weeks at 40 hours per week). Other "extra hire" employees at the Hall put in 1,128 hours, 1,019 hours, and 1,012 hours.

Commissioners asked Mrs. Rinne to find out why so much "extra hire" is needed, and whether they should not be replaced by permanent employees. They also want the personnel department to complete job descriptions for each county position and rules of operation in various departments.

The Marin County Personnel Commission also:

TERMINATION — Asked for more information on the termination of Frank Schulz, a messenger mail clerk in the central services department, who was hired on May 20 and notified on Nov. 14 that he would be terminated. The county administrator gave him until Nov. 28 to look for anothrer job Schulz now claims he gained permanent status because his six-month probation period ended on Nov. 20.

GRIEVANCE — Ruled against Randall M. Prevo, manager of the Marin County Employees Association, who tried to get standby pay for all MCEA employees. The commissioners backed the county administrator, who contended that standby pay applies only to those eligible for overtime, not to supervisory employees whose jobs are not time-related.

Gun Victim Released By Mental Unit

A San Rafael salesman, who shot himself after a family argument and then drove to Marin General Hospital for aid, was released from the Community Mental Health Center at the hospital yesterday after a period of observation and treatment of wounds.

Police said Roy Bronson, 26, of 35 Fairfax Street, fired three times at himself with a .22-caliber pistol in the bedroom of the home Wednesday night.

The first bullet inflicted a superficial wound on the left side of his chest, officers said. The next round misfired, police reported, and the third passed through his chest into a wall of the bedroom, missing any vital body organs.

When Broson's wife, Helen, 22, went for help, he got into the family car and drove to the hospital, police said.

The Hermitage, near Nashville, Tenn. was the home of Andrew Jackson, seventh President of the United States.

Deaf Ear Falls On Holding Toll Costs

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

Pleas by Marin County officials to rescind toll increases for commuters and busses were brushed aside today by Golden Gate Bridge District directors.

The only matter that came to a vote, a motion by Marin Supervisor Michael Wornum to reconsider the hike in round trip bus tolls from 26 cents to $2, was swamped in a 3-10 vote.

The three votes were cast by Wornum and Marin's two other representatives on the bridge board, Mill Valley Mayor Dean N. Meyer and Joseph E. Sheeks of Belvedere.

Efforts by the Marin contingent to seek reconsideration of the commuter toll increase could not even muster a motion to reconsider.

The three Marin representatives were unable to make such a motion because they voted last week against the increase.

Last week's vote hiked the price of the 25 round trip commuter books from $6.10 to $10, effective Dec. 25. It also eliminated commuter books after June 1970.

Meyer continued to strike out in a proposal that the bridge district subcontract with the Alameda-Contra Costa Transit District to take over Greyhound's Marin commute service.

His suggestion was sent to the finance committe with a suggestion by Director L. E. Castner of Sonoma County that it be held there for "a long study before we make another hasty mistake."

Only one commuter, Adele Nolan of Sausalito, opposed the toll increase. She demanded to know why the district was "squeezing all this financing out of the commuter."

She also asked how many commuters were on the 18-member board. Three directors raised their hands.

Wornum, noting that Mrs. Nolan supported his election campaign, said "We are doing this for the Marin commuter. The motive was right, but the timing wrong," he said.

Wornum agreed with Mrs. Nolan that the directors should have given public notice before they raised the commute book price.

But Sheeks insisted that most commuters "were informed as to what we were doing, even if they didn't know the exact timing of the increase."

Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring said last week that the $10 commute books will increase annual district revenue by about $900,000. Directors agreed last week that the increased revenue should be earmarked for the proposed bus and ferry service to Marin.

In other business, directors voted unanimously to extend for an additional two weekends the Saturday ferry service between Tiburon and San Francisco. The service was to have ended after tomorrow.

Cotati Looks To Future City Home

The Cotati City Hall is bulging at the seams and it's time to move ahead with a new building, the city council decided last night. The council authorized City Mgr. Gordon H. Howe to have preliminary plans drawn for a new building on city property on Park Avenue adjacent to the Cotati Veterans Memorial building.

The council, which meets at the Cotati fire station, said the new building should include a small council chamber and private offices for police and department heads.

The city hall at 1 East Cotati Avenue is a reconverted house that was renovated 18 months ago for use as the city offices.

The Cotati City Council also:

SERVICE STATIONS — Adopted a service station ordinance despite objections from Virgil McNab of the Western Oil and Gas Association. McNab disagreed with sections limiting two stations per corner and none closer than 500 feet apart. Stations must also be more than 350 feet away from existing schools, parks, playgrounds and public buildings.

REZONING — Introduced an ordinance granting the rezoning request of Mrs. and Mrs. Bernard Santero to change their property at 415 School Street from single family residential to multifamily to permit apartments.

HOSPITAL — Heard a request from Paul Golis of the Rohnert Park Hospital Foundation to support a private hospital in the neighboring city. The council asked Golis to prepare a recommended resolution for consideration.

MEETING — Canceled the Jan. 1 meeting due to the holiday and will meet again Jan. 15 at 7:30 p.m.

Arabs Head For Morocco Parley

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — Arab leaders headed for Morocco today for their first summit meeting in two years. Their goal was a new unified war strategy against Israel.

The meeting, called by President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt, is intended to lead the Arabs out of the present impasse in which they seem neither able to go forward and conquer Israel nor willing to retreat into a peace agreement which they see as a surrender.

The first session will be held tomorrow.

Hashish Raid Charges Denied

Three men arrested in a raid on a Tamalpais Valley motel Tuesday where narcotics agents said they seized a large quantity of hashish as well as over $24,000 pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to drug charges.

A preliminary hearing was set for Jan. 13 for David Stuart King, 25, of Billings, Mont.; Jeffrey David Wyard, 25, of Missoula, Mont., and George S. Garr, 23, who gave the Fountain Motel as his address.

King and Wyard, college students from Montana who had only been in Marin a short time, are charged with possessing marijuana for sale, and Garr is accused of possession of marijuana.

Japan Inaugurates Women In Customs

TOKYO (AP) — Women customs inspectors — the first in Japan — have been introduced at Tokyo's Haneda International Airport.

Officials said the female inspectors would help a labor shortage and "add a welcome touch of glamor for tired tourists."

Mob Attacks Group From U.S. Ship In Turkish Port

IZMIR, Turkey (UPI) — A mob screaming "Yankee go home!" attacked and pummeled a U.S. Navy officer and his enlisted companions today as they attempted to come ashore as the first party from visiting U.S. warships. The sailors fled back to their ship.

Hundreds of leftist students streamed through police cordons at Izmir Harbor as soon as they spotted the first two boats heading in from the guided missile cruiser Columbus, flagship of the five visiting 6th Fleet vessels that arrived today.

Witnesses said they saw one of the attackers strike the unidentified officer on the head with a stick. Others scuffled with the enlisted sailors. The Americans jumped back into their boats and sped back toward the cruiser.

Other protesters battled about 100 riot police in front of local headquarters of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO). Police dispersed them after about 15 minutes of scuffling and reported they had rounded up about 100 demonstrators.

The five U.S. Sixth Fleet ships were paying the first American call to Turkey since a visit that sparked violent demonstrations last February.

Threats by groups of leftist students to keep the U.S. Sixth Fleet sailors physically aboard their ships brought hundreds of police guards to the harbor area and forced the first emissary of the visiting ships to change his protocol plans,

Capt. D. J. J. Downey, commanding officer of the guided missile cruiser Columbus, said he decided to greet Gov. Namik Kemal Senturk and Mayor Osman Kibar at the governor's residence instead of visiting them separately.

Delays On Bill To Foil Nixon Veto

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic leaders indicated today they will delay passage of a $21.4-billion appropriation bill until next month to prevent a pocket veto by President Richard M. Nixon.

The money measure, second only to the defense appropriation bill in size, provides funds to finance the Health, Education and Welfare Department, the Labor Department, and the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Nixon advised Congress late last night that he intends to veto the bill if it is passed in its present form, saying it would add to inflationary pressures.

Democratic senators, after a party caucus, pictured the bill as part of their effort for a reordering of national priorities. They denied any fiscal irresponsibility.

Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said that up to now Congress has cut total appropriations approximately $6 billion below Nixon's budget requests. About $5.5 billion of the reduction is accounted for by the defense bill, he said.

Senate - House conferees were to meet this afternoon to try to compromise the differences between the Senate-House versions of the Labor-HEW appropriation bill.

Mansfield said the most serious consideration is being given to deferring final action on the bill until after Congress returns Jan. 19 from its Christmas recess. In that way, Mansfield said, Congress would be on hand to try to override the President.

Another alternative, Mansfield said, would be for Congress to pass the bill now and then stay in session to await a veto and take a vote on overriding.

Or, he said, Congress could pass the bill and adjourn and let the President, if he wished, pocket veto the bill by not signing it. If this were done, Congress would have to start from scratch on the bill when it returned in January.

Pair Nabbed As Suspects In Burglary Try At Store

Two men were arrested yesterday outside the Disco department store in San Rafael after one of them assaulted the store manager with a 30-30 rifle, police reported today.

Booked into Marin County Jail were Jon Fredric Bangert, 31, 1830 Mar West, Tiburon, on suspicion of burglary, assault with a deadly weapon and an outstanding traffic warrant, and Bernardo Morales Sanchez, 26, of 406 Richardson Street Sausalito on suspicion of possessing marijuana and burglary. Both were held to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

According to police it all started at 8:50 p.m. when Disco manager James E. Mariais, 55, received a telephone call from a Tom Harkelroad, partner of Bangert's in operating a Christmas tree lot. Harkelroad, according to police told the store manager that Bangert was insane and was on his way to the store.

Moments later, police said, Bangert entered the store at 55 Francisco Boulevard, bought a 30-30 rifle and told the manager his partners had cheated him and he was going to shoot them. Bangert according to the report hit Mariais in the chest with the rifle, saying, "I'm going to kill you," and fled in a waiting black limousine.

A patrolman summoned by the store stopped the car and placed Bangert under arrest. Sanchez, a passenger in the car, was found to have two plastic bottles containing marijuana and three bags of hashish in his possession, police said.

Bangert and Sanchez were booked on suspicion of burglary by Sausalito police, according to San Rafael authorities, when a search of the rented limousine disclosed property stolen yesterday between 10 a.m. and 9:30 p.m. from the home of Paul O'Callaghan at 212 Richardon Street.

City Employees Win Big Payoff

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Court of Appeal has ordered the city of Los Angeles to pay $2.7 million in retroactive wages and interest to about 10,000 city employees.

The court ruled yesterday that Mayor Sam Yorty's veto of city council - approved wage increases in 1962 was invalid. The increases were voted under a city charter provision which requires city employees to be paid a wage comparable to that in private industry.

Though the court said litigation in the matter should end with its decision, the city indicated it will appeal to the State Supreme Court.

High School Athlete Convicted Of Murder

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Victor E. Rios, 16-year-old high school football player, has been convicted of the murder of a drive-in restaurant owner.

Rios was found guilty yesterday of murder, robbery and attempted robbery. He was one of five youths accused in the slaying of G. C. Claybrook, 49, owner of a Rio Linda Boulevard drive in.

$5 Billion Plan To Fight Poverty

WASHINGTON (AP) — A two-year, $5 billion extension of the antipoverty program has been agreed to by House and Senate conferees.

The agreement, which now goes to the House and Senate for final approval, eliminates a controversial Senate amendment that gave governors a veto over legal services programs.

The money level approved for the current fiscal year — $2.2 billion — is $150 million over President Richard M. Nixon's budget request.

$110,500 Written Off In Truax Case

I-J Special Report

BERKELEY — The Association of Bay Area Governments executive committee last night wrote off $110,500 in stolen funds in a unanimous vote to accept a final settlement of about 80 per cent of the total stolen by its former assistant executive director.

The former employee, Thomas N. Truax, vanished in February 1968, after his "diversion" of $511,000 in ABAG funds was detected. Truax, who spent most of the money gambling in Las Vegas, was found months later in Florida, and is serving a sentence of two to 20 years in prison.

The final settlement, $255,000, came from "various insurance companies for third parties," according to Alameda County Supervisor Joseph P. Bort, chairman of the special finance subcommittee that negotiated the settlement. The involvement of the companies was not explained, but they reportedly insured the various financial institutions through whose hands Truax diverted the money.

ABAG previously recovered $65,500 from its bonding company, $50,000 from San Francisco Federal Savings and Loan Association, and $30,000 from money the Internal Revenue Service recovered from Truax.

ABAG's special counsel in the 18 months of negotiation, Arthur Harris of Berkeley, estimated the cost of the recovery at about $7,000.

Bort, saying he was "quite pleased" with the settlement terms, said, "It would be disastrous, frankly, if we did not accept it."

Harris told the committee, meeting in the Hotel Claremont, that it was "not in a position to recover from the person who diverted these funds." The alternative was very costly litigation, he said, adding it would drag on at least three to four years, "and even then no one can guarantee the outcome."

Thomas J. Mellon, San Francisco's chief administrative officer, noted that even if ABAG won such litigation, its cost "in all probability" would be more than the missing $110,500.

With last night's additional $255,000, ABAG will be able to pay off its old debts left over after the theft, and still have $17,000 from the total amount recovered, Bort said.

ABAG's Proposed Shopping List Carries Healthy Increase In Dues

I-J Special Report

BERKELEY — County and city dues to the Association of Bay Area Governments next fiscal year, totaling $233,400, were proposed last night to its executive committee.

But the report of the finance subcommittee also offered a shopping list of proposed programs that could add $155,000 in dues.

Before figuring in any of the goodies on the shopping list, however, the dues total was only up slightly from the current year's $232,606. In Marin, the county this year paid $5,082 and Marin's 11 cities paid a total of $4,079. Cotati paid $43; Tohnert Park, $155. No figure was available for Petaluma which joined later in the year.

The proposed programs included $10,000 for lobbying in Sacramento, $10,000 to $15,000 to staff a parks and open space committee, $15,000 for planning in the fields of solid waste disposal and comprehensive health planning, $15,000 for water quality studies, and $50,000 to $100,000 to continue the study of regional airport needs.

Action on the proposals was deferred to the committee's Jan. 15 meeting. The committee's recommendations then will go to the general assembly on Feb. 19.

Alameda County Supervisor Joseph P. Bort, chairman of the finance subcommittee that drew up the proposed budget, said that each $10,000 increase in the budget would add $120 in annual dues for each 10,000 population for each member. For example, a member city with a population of 20,000 would see its dues jump $240 for a $10,000 increase in the budget.

All items on the shopping list, Bort said, "deserve serious consideration."

The Association of Bay Area Governments executive committee also:

SALARY — Raised executive director J. Julien Baget's annual salary from $24,150 to $25,200. Baget former Novato city manager, has been with ABAG since September 1968.

CHARGES — Asked Baget to study the feasibility of charging nonmembers benefitting from ABAG regional studies needed to maintain their eligibilty for federal grants.

ROADS — Recommended federal approval of Marin County's application for $94,000 to improve Novato Boulevard between San Miguel Way and west of Sutro Avenue, and for $158,400 to improve East Sir Francis Drake Boulevard around San Quentin Prison.

Suspect Seeking Bail Reduction

Leslie Lee Outley, 27-year-old San Rafael man arrested Dec. 1 by San Rafael police on a burglary warrant issued by Contra Costa County, will request reduction of his $2,875 bail at a hearing Tuesday at 10 a.m. in San Pablo Municipal Court. He is being held in Contra Costa County Jail in Martinez.

Outley was found by police in his car parked halfway in his driveway at 136 Front Street with an open bottle of bourbon on the front seat.

A preliminary hearing has been scheduled for Jan. 2 at 10 a.m. in the same court.

Lovell and Haise started their field study yesterday in the Aloi-Alae crater area, site of the latest eruptions in Kilauea volcano.

Tiny Tim, Bride Visit Bahamas

FREEPORT, Bahamas (AP) — Along with 20 pieces of luggage and six ukeleles, Tiny Tim and his maxi-dressed bride checked into separate suites here Thursday to start a two-and-one-half-week honeymoon.

In keeping with what the falsetto singer called an Old Testament tradition, he and his 17-year-old wife planned to spend the first three days apart.

Rita Goodman, a hotel spokesman, said Tiny Tim would appear in a night club during the stay.

Wedding Ruse By Star's Sister

WALLINGFORD, Pa. (AP) — Prudence Ann Farrow, 21 year old sister of actress Mia Farrow, used some evasion tactics yesterday to ensure her wedding to Albert M. Bruns, 26, was a quiet one.

When it became known that Miss Farrow was to marry the New York teacher at Pendle Hill, a Quaker study center here, at 4 p.m., the couple quietly rescheduled the ceremony for 3 p.m. They were gone before the press or curiosity seekers arrived.

The minister, the Rev. David R. Kibby, of the Unitarian Church of Delaware County, said the wedding was "quiet and fine." The only guests, he said, were Prudence's mother, actress Maureen O'Sullivan, a younger sister, Stephanie, the bridegroom's mother, and a friend.

Fred Politz Ends A Yule Tradition

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Delicatessen owner Fred Politz of San Rafael, for the 21st and last time, yesterday served free Christmas meals to the downtrodden.

Some 2,000 men and women shuffled into his Mission District liguor and grocery store and were handed a plate of free food, milk and cookies.

Politz, 53, said "Merry Christmas" to each diner, and frequently patted a bent shoulder. A few tried to buy something, but Politz refused their business.

Politz, who moved to Marin in 1962, said this would be his last party for the city people. He has a heart condition, so he and his wife will set up shop in San Rafael at a neighborhood store, the Lincoln Market, which they bought in September.

"They are good people here," Politz said of this San Francisco customers, adding "I've never had any trouble."

One grizzled man commented that "Christmas won't be Christmas without old Fred."

Politz, who has had the Mission District business for 24 years. said he no longer could keep the pace of 20-hour days. In San Rafael, he'll be open only 10 hours a day.

"That's banker's hours," Politz said.

Daughter Of Paper Boss Abducted, Freed

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — Rosalyn Newhouse, 18, daughter of the general manager of the Springfield newspapers, was abducted by two men early today, police said. She was released a short time later in nearby Agawam.

Her sister Jo, 16, said Agawan police told the family the girl was in good condition.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. Newhouse, went to Springfield, Hospital where the girl was taken after she was found.

Newhouse is a cousin of S. I. Newhouse, founder of the newspaper group.

Police said the girl was returning from work at the Springfield Union, one of the three Newhouse newspapers in Springfield, when her car was forced off the road near her home and she was driven away in a blue and white car.

Police said she apparently was thrown from her captors' car in Agawam and walked to a nearby home and called her mother.

Jo said her sister was picked up by her abductors at 12:25 a.m. and released soon afterward.

Rosalyn is one of five Newhouse children. The others are Jo, Melanie, 13, Wendy, 11, and David, 10.

Jo said her elder sister attended Syracuse University last year as a freshman but decided to work this year at the Springfield newspapers in an effort to decide what she wanted to do.

Rosalyn was described at 5 feet 1 and weighing between 90 and 95 pounds.

Her job at the newspaper was in the composing room, where she worked on paste up and automated typesetting, Jo said.

Richmond Fights Segregation Suit

RICHMOND (UPI) — The Board of Education today asked the Contra Costa County counsel's office to provide legal representation to the defendants in a suit to force immediate desegregation of the Richmond Unified School District.

The board action was announced in a public session last night.

The Contra Costa Legal Services Foundation for 12 elementary school children was filed last week in Federal District Court. The defendants named were the school board members and the district superintendent.

Car Hits Trucks

Thomas S. Lindley, 26, of 608 C Street, San Rafael, was treated for a cut scalp at Marin General Hospital yesterday after he lost control of his car at 10:05 p.m. in front of 26 Woodland Avenue, crashing into three parked trucks owned by Golden West Catering of San Jose, San Rafael police reported today.

Rock Ban Sought By Supervisors

SAN LUIS OBISPO (UPI)—A scheduled rock music festival is only eight days away and county supervisors, remembering the massive turnout of 300,000 persons near Tracy earlier this month, are making and all-out effort to stop it.

An ordinance was passed yesterday preventing assemblies of more than 5,000 persons.

Bill Starne of Atlanta, Ga., coordinator of "Midwinter Pop Festival, Inc.", said the ordinance was unconstitutional. He contacted the attorney general's office today to get a court order enjoining the county from enforcing the ordinance.

Court Speedup Idea

Japan Inaugurates Women In Customs

TOKYO (AP) — Women customs inspectors — the first in Japan — have been introduced at Tokyo's Haneda International Airport.

Officials said the female inspectors would help a labor shortage and "add a welcome touch of glamor for tired tourists."

Mob Attacks Group From U.S. Ship In Turkish Port

IZMIR, Turkey (UPI) — A mob screaming "Yankee go home!" attacked and pummeled a U.S. Navy officer and his enlisted companions today as they attempted to come ashore as the first party from visiting U.S. warships. The sailors fled back to their ship.

Hundreds of leftist students streamed through police cordons at Izmir Harbor as soon as they spotted the first two boats heading in from the guided missile cruiser Columbus, flagship of the five visiting 6th Fleet vessels that arrived today.

Witnesses said they saw one of the attackers strike the unidentified officer on the head with a stick. Others scuffled with the enlisted sailors. The Americans jumped back into their boats and sped back toward the cruiser.

Other protesters battled about 100 riot police in front of local headquarters of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO). Police dispersed them after about 15 minutes of scuffling and reported they had rounded up about 100 demonstrators.

The five U.S. Sixth Fleet ships were paying the first American call to Turkey since a visit that sparked violent demonstrations last February.

Threats by groups of leftist students to keep the U.S. Sixth Fleet sailors physically aboard their ships brought hundreds of police guards to the harbor area and forced the first emissary of the visiting ships to change his protocol plans,

Capt. D. J. J. Downey, commanding officer of the guided missile cruiser Columbus, said he decided to greet Gov. Namik Kemal Senturk and Mayor Osman Kibar at the governor's residence instead of visiting them separately.

Delays On Bill To Foil Nixon Veto

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic leaders indicated today they will delay passage of a $21.4-billion appropriation bill until next month to prevent a pocket veto by President Richard M. Nixon.

The money measure, second only to the defense appropriation bill in size, provides funds to finance the Health, Education and Welfare Department, the Labor Department, and the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Nixon advised Congress late last night that he intends to veto the bill if it is passed in its present form, saying it would add to inflationary pressures.

Democratic senators, after a party caucus, pictured the bill as part of their effort for a reordering of national priorities. They denied any fiscal irresponsibility.

Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said that up to now Congress has cut total appropriations approximately $6 billion below Nixon's budget requests. About $5.5 billion of the reduction is accounted for by the defense bill, he said.

Senate - House conferees were to meet this afternoon to try to compromise the differences between the Senate-House versions of the Labor-HEW appropriation bill.

Mansfield said the most serious consideration is being given to deferring final action on the bill until after Congress returns Jan. 19 from its Christmas recess. In that way, Mansfield said, Congress would be on hand to try to override the President.

Another alternative, Mansfield said, would be for Congress to pass the bill now and then stay in session to await a veto and take a vote on overriding.

Or, he said, Congress could pass the bill and adjourn and let the President, if he wished, pocket veto the bill by not signing it. If this were done, Congress would have to start from scratch on the bill when it returned in January.

Pair Nabbed As Suspects In Burglary Try At Store

Two men were arrested yesterday outside the Disco department store in San Rafael after one of them assaulted the store manager with a 30-30 rifle, police reported today.

Booked into Marin County Jail were Jon Fredric Bangert, 31, 1830 Mar West, Tiburon, on suspicion of burglary, assault with a deadly weapon and an outstanding traffic warrant, and Bernardo Morales Sanchez, 26, of 406 Richardson Street Sausalito on suspicion of possessing marijuana and burglary. Both were held to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

According to police it all started at 8:50 p.m. when Disco manager James E. Mariais, 55, received a telephone call from a Tom Harkelroad, partner of Bangert's in operating a Christmas tree lot. Harkelroad, according to police told the store manager that Bangert was insane and was on his way to the store.

Moments later, police said, Bangert entered the store at 55 Francisco Boulevard, bought a 30-30 rifle and told the manager his partners had cheated him and he was going to shoot them. Bangert according to the report hit Mariais in the chest with the rifle, saying, "I'm going to kill you," and fled in a waiting black limousine.

A patrolman summoned by the store stopped the car and placed Bangert under arrest. Sanchez, a passenger in the car, was found to have two plastic bottles containing marijuana and three bags of hashish in his possession, police said.

Bangert and Sanchez were booked on suspicion of burglary by Sausalito police, according to San Rafael authorities, when a search of the rented limousine disclosed property stolen yesterday between 10 a.m. and 9:30 p.m. from the home of Paul O'Callaghan at 212 Richardon Street.

City Employees Win Big Payoff

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Court of Appeal has ordered the city of Los Angeles to pay $2.7 million in retroactive wages and interest to about 10,000 city employees.

The court ruled yesterday that Mayor Sam Yorty's veto of city council - approved wage increases in 1962 was invalid. The increases were voted under a city charter provision which requires city employees to be paid a wage comparable to that in private industry.

Though the court said litigation in the matter should end with its decision, the city indicated it will appeal to the State Supreme Court.

High School Athlete Convicted Of Murder

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Victor E. Rios, 16-year-old high school football player, has been convicted of the murder of a drive-in restaurant owner.

Rios was found guilty yesterday of murder, robbery and attempted robbery. He was one of five youths accused in the slaying of G. C. Claybrook, 49, owner of a Rio Linda Boulevard drive in.

$5 Billion Plan To Fight Poverty

WASHINGTON (AP) — A two-year, $5 billion extension of the antipoverty program has been agreed to by House and Senate conferees.

The agreement, which now goes to the House and Senate for final approval, eliminates a controversial Senate amendment that gave governors a veto over legal services programs.

The money level approved for the current fiscal year — $2.2 billion — is $150 million over President Richard M. Nixon's budget request.

Wedding Ruse By Star's Sister

WALLINGFORD, Pa. (AP) — Prudence Ann Farrow, 21 year old sister of actress Mia Farrow, used some evasion tactics yesterday to ensure her wedding to Albert M. Bruns, 26, was a quiet one.

When it became known that Miss Farrow was to marry the New York teacher at Pendle Hill, a Quaker study center here, at 4 p.m., the couple quietly rescheduled the ceremony for 3 p.m. They were gone before the press or curiosity seekers arrived.

The minister, the Rev. David R. Kibby, of the Unitarian Church of Delaware County, said the wedding was "quiet and fine." The only guests, he said, were Prudence's mother, actress Maureen O'Sullivan, a younger sister, Stephanie, the bridegroom's mother, and a friend.

Fred Politz Ends A Yule Tradition

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Delicatessen owner Fred Politz of San Rafael, for the 21st and last time, yesterday served free Christmas meals to the downtrodden.

Some 2,000 men and women shuffled into his Mission District liguor and grocery store and were handed a plate of free food, milk and cookies.

Politz, 53, said "Merry Christmas" to each diner, and frequently patted a bent shoulder. A few tried to buy something, but Politz refused their business.

Politz, who moved to Marin in 1962, said this would be his last party for the city people. He has a heart condition, so he and his wife will set up shop in San Rafael at a neighborhood store, the Lincoln Market, which they bought in September.

"They are good people here," Politz said of this San Francisco customers, adding "I've never had any trouble."

One grizzled man commented that "Christmas won't be Christmas without old Fred."

Politz, who has had the Mission District business for 24 years. said he no longer could keep the pace of 20-hour days. In San Rafael, he'll be open only 10 hours a day.

"That's banker's hours," Politz said.

The Liberty Bell is said to have cracked when it was rung summoning the public for the first reading of the Declaration of Independence, but records show it cracked in 1752 just after it had arrived from England.

Daughter Of Paper Boss Abducted, Freed

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — Rosalyn Newhouse, 18, daughter of the general manager of the Springfield newspapers, was abducted by two men early today, police said. She was released a short time later in nearby Agawam.

Her sister Jo, 16, said Agawan police told the family the girl was in good condition.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. Newhouse, went to Springfield, Hospital where the girl was taken after she was found.

Newhouse is a cousin of S. I. Newhouse, founder of the newspaper group.

Police said the girl was returning from work at the Springfield Union, one of the three Newhouse newspapers in Springfield, when her car was forced off the road near her home and she was driven away in a blue and white car.

Police said she apparently was thrown from her captors' car in Agawam and walked to a nearby home and called her mother.

Jo said her sister was picked up by her abductors at 12:25 a.m. and released soon afterward.

Rosalyn is one of five Newhouse children. The others are Jo, Melanie, 13, Wendy, 11, and David, 10.

Jo said her elder sister attended Syracuse University last year as a freshman but decided to work this year at the Springfield newspapers in an effort to decide what she wanted to do.

Rosalyn was described at 5 feet 1 and weighing between 90 and 95 pounds.

Her job at the newspaper was in the composing room, where she worked on paste up and automated typesetting, Jo said.

The Contra Costa Legal Services Foundation for 12 elementary school children was filed last week in Federal District Court. The defendants named were the school board members and the district superintendent.

Rock Ban Sought By Supervisors

SAN LUIS OBISPO (UPI)—A scheduled rock music festival is only eight days away and county supervisors, remembering the massive turnout of 300,000 persons near Tracy earlier this month, are making and all-out effort to stop it.

An ordinance was passed yesterday preventing assemblies of more than 5,000 persons.

Bill Starne of Atlanta, Ga., coordinator of "Midwinter Pop Festival, Inc.", said the ordinance was unconstitutional. He contacted the attorney general's office today to get a court order enjoining the county from enforcing the ordinance.

Court Speedup Idea

Being Mrs. Paul Grossinger Has Not Always Been Easy

By NAOMI ROCK

NEW YORK (AP) — The lady is down-to-earth and kind of kooky for someone of the over-30 set.

She digs her long-haired teen-age sons, and they dig her.

She's equally at home in her elegant Hotel Plaza suite — wearing slim Jims, cowboy boots and corduroy hat squashed firmly over her pixyish hairdo; or in her own home, in evening gown and hairpiece fall, entertaining the rich and famous.

WITH AN irreverent sense of humor — easily turned upon herself — she's made her way in this "often wretched world," and has spent her 22 years of married life striving to be herself — someone other than just Mrs. Paul Grossinger, daughter-in-law of the indomitable Jenny.

Being a Grossinger has not been easy.

"One feels a special responsibility as a Grossinger," the former Bunny Persky mused, the deepening worry lines around her mouth showing that she just might be the age she readily admits to — 45.

"You can't be a Grossinger without wanting to get your hands in the hotel pie. Sometimes it's a pain in the neck. But sometimes it's just groovy.

"It's like the business of keeping kosher," she continued, crossing one long, slim leg over the other and pushing her hat down closer to the dark, almost impish eyes.

"I come from a rather well integrated Jewish background. As a fourth generation American, Jewish traditions were alien to me until I married Paul. I thought that Grossingers' should be more in keeping with the times — less Jewish. But over the years I've changed."

THE YOUNG Mrs. Grossinger, whose own home on the 1,000 acre hotel grounds is not a kosher one, says that with age has come an understanding of Jewish traditions.

"It's like years ago, when I first met Danny and Sylvia Kaye at the hotel. They sat around and kibbitzed in Yiddish with my in-laws. There was a certain feeling, which I've seen over and over again. . . a felling that they were refurbishing something in the marrow of their bones."

But even so, Bunny maintained, Grossingers' is not strictly a Jewish hotel.

With an amused glint in her eyes, she recalled the time she was startled by a large black funeral hearse pulling up before the hotel. She rushed to the desk to learn what had happened, only to find that the hotel was hosting a funeral directors' convention, and that the hearse was bearing the luggage.

And, speaking of funny stories — there was the time the ever-hospitable Jenny Grossinger met a Japanese diplomat at the United Nations and invited him to be her guest.

KNOWING NOTHING of Grossingers', the diplomat asked directions in New York City, took a bus and turned up one day at the foot of the hotel grounds. A passing taxi driver picked him up, and thinking he was seeking work, dropped him at the hotel's rear door.

"Unfortunately we were hiring that day," Bunny recalls with a pained smile. "The poor man ended up sitting on a bench and filling out papers. He thought this was the American way of doing things.

"He was assigned a room, and when he asked for one with a private bath, he got a rather nasty answer from an incredulous hotel employee. Every time he asked to see Mrs. Grossinger, he was told curtly to 'wait his turn.' He put up with it for about an hour, and then when he'd had enough, and had complained loudly enough, someone discovered the horrible mistake."

In its 55 years of existence Grossingers' has hosted an endless stream of rich and famous: actors, artists, businessmen, writers, politicians, diplomats and others.

For Bunny Grossinger and for her children, being a Grossinger, living on the hotel grounds, has meant a deep-seated loneliness, and a life of working "just a little bit harder" to be accepted for themselves.

"The hotel has changed my life," she said. "Sometimes I've hated it because I think we were robbed of something. Our family didn't have the security of neighbors and close friends. We lived among constantly changing strangers, something I think of as 'the American dream' was never ours."

BUT LIFE at the hotel was often great fun, she continued, recalling the first time she met her screen idol, Van Johnson, but was horrified because he walked in unexpectedly and found her in curlers.

Other times, life was not easy.

"Being a Grossinger has given us a built-in acceptance," she continued. "You get admitted to and invited to, but that's not the best of all possible ways to live."

Particularly for her sons, (Michael, now a college sophmore and James, a high school senior) who were brought up at the hotel, learning to be something aside from a Grossinger has taken some doing.

"They had a swimming pool and skating rink, so they made friends easily," she recalled. "They had to work at being themselves, at being accepted for themselves. They've turned out just fine," she said, a hint of a proud smile creasing her college-girl complexion.

HER CHILDREN are grown now; they're leaving the nest. As many American women who've devoted 20 or more years to raising and caring for a family, Bunny Grossinger is looking for another way to find fulfillment. She's been lucky.

"I'm a greedy lady," Bunny joked. "I can't settle for fillers. I could take up mah jong now, only I'm a lousy card player.

"You have to have something to love and live for and you're enormously lucky if you find something. Three years ago I went to Israel and fell in love with the country.

"Somehow, I'm not sure exactly how yet, I felt cemented to my people. I'm going to work for Israel from this country. It will become my work, as my mother-in-law's hotel was her work."

Giving Gifts Of Antique Junk Is Catching On

For one of a kind, priceless gifts that will increase in value from Christmas to Christmas, many shoppers are looking for antique junk in Marin's many shops full of such treasures.

As one shop owner said, "They can't go to Macy's and find out how much it cost," and chances of finding something they don't already have are great.

"More people are buying this kind of gift instead of new ones," said one antique shop owner who is experiencing a Christmas rush. Some come looking for specific items to add to a collection.

"A lady came in this morning and bought all the cats I had and a lady came in this afternoon and bought all the mice," she said.

Among this year's hot items are old mugs and cigar tins which are now both used to hold cigars. Also iron stone, china and tin plates and dishes printed with blue patterns.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Weekends Are Drudgery For Her, Playtime With Neighbors For Him

DEAR HELEN:

Our neighbors have a son who plays college football. Every Saturday during the season, my husband went with them to the games. Because their two daughters went along, too, there was no room in the car for me. I'm not fond of football, but I would like the right of refusal. Especially when one daughter is 25, single, pretty, and a flirt.

Now that the football season is over, it's ice hockey, or some other sport — and often the parents don't go — just the girls, with my husband as Mr. Nice-Guy escort. He's 36 and looks younger. I'm 34 and keep myself up, but I'm no match for a 25-year-old. Even if I were invited along, I couldn't spend a whole Saturday away from home and kids, and housework. I have an outside job and must clean on weekends. If I had a man to help, the housework wouldn't spill over into Sunday.

People are beginning to talk, although I know my husband doesn't think of this girl in that way — yet. I am beginning to hate weekends. How can I stop this before it starts something?

—SATURDAY CHILLED

DEAR S.C.:

Why not have a confidential talk with your neighbors — and your husband? But at different times and on different levels. Tell the girl's parents you've heard some talk (though of course you don't believe it . . .), then plan a special weekend trip for two (the housework be hanged).

Once you break the Saturday chain, it may stay broken, especially if you stop looking on weekends as pure drudgery. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

There's a man on our block who is building a boat in which he wants to travel around the world, all by himself. He figures it will take him a year and a half of sailing, and the boat isn't big enough for two, so his wife can't go along. Not that any sane woman would want to.

What gets me is, why did this fellow get married if he's so hell bent on being alone? Why is it the adventurer who gets these wild ideas is almost always the married man? — READER

DEAR READER:

The answer is self-evident, but not the one you want. I'll pass — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Regarding this sex education business. It should be left up to the parents. This is such a difficult and sensitive subject that I'm afraid we don't have teachers with adequate training. It would take a very special person to conduct sex education classes in the right way, and few are qualified. — R.D.

DEAR R:

But all parents automatically are qualified to teach this difficult subject? How I wish that were true. — H.

If The Tree Still Needs Ornaments, Use Tin Cans

AP Newsfeature

Get rid of those empty cans cluttering up your kitchen, and enliven your Christmas tree at the same time. Dyed in all-purpose fabric dye and cut with wire cutters or by punching with a can opener, the cans make marvelous tree ornaments.

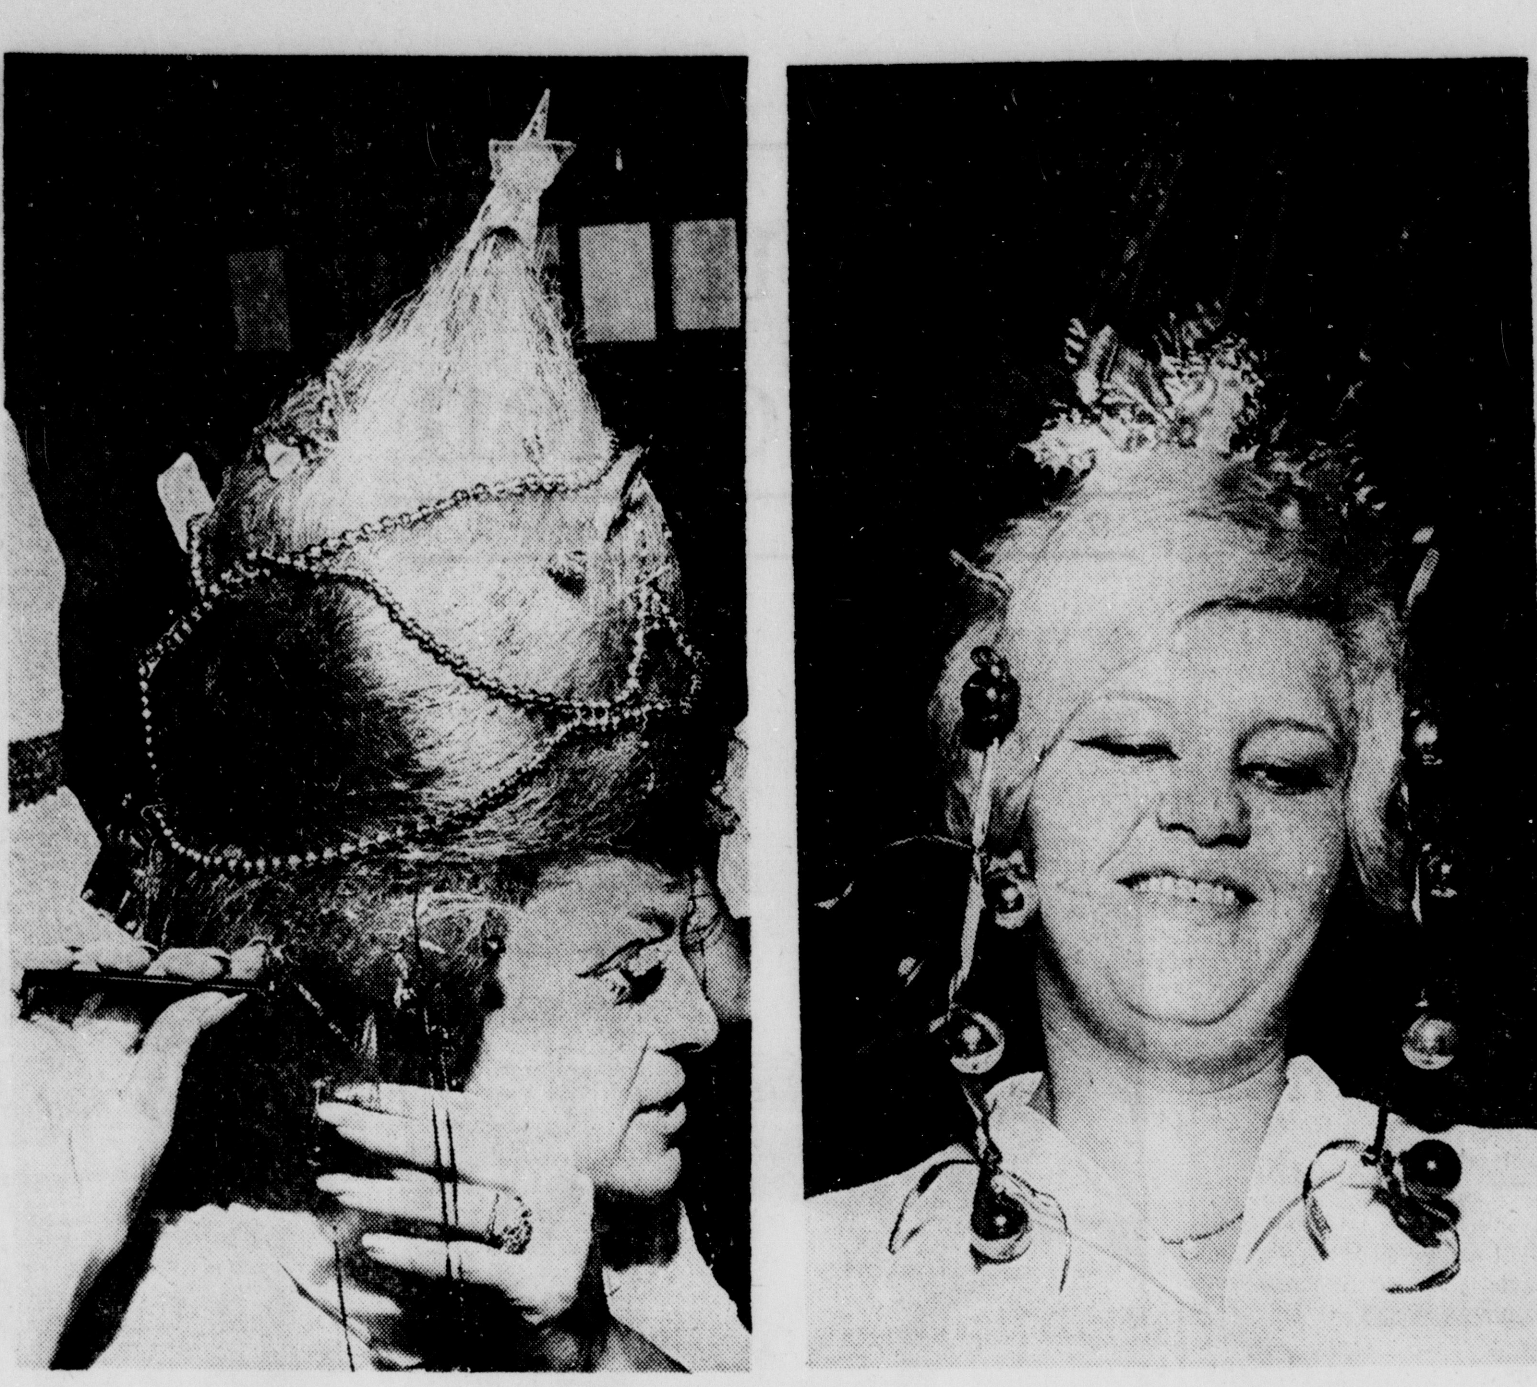
Any rough edges can be covered by spraying with a clear plastic coating. Fasten ornaments to tree with wire or transparent thread.

To dye cans, reports Lady's Circle magazine, pull top tabs and can lids. Prepare a dye solution of liquid or powder dye. (Follow directions for dye selected.)

In an enamel or glass pot, add cans or lids to dye solution and simmer for five to six minutes until desired color is reached. Remove items, rinse and let dry. The dye is absorbed by the lacquer coating on the cans and as this coating varies with each can, many effects will be obtained.

A variety of cans can be used for making ornaments. Lightweight aluminum cans are especially easy to cut or puncture. For larger ornaments, use top and sides of can, cutting evenly-spaced strips in sides and bending strips up.

With glue for metal, attach smaller tabs for center decoration. Use pull-top tabs from beverage cans, dyed and linked together, for chains. Small juice-can lids, when dyed and punctured with a can opener, can be fitted around small tree lights to act as colorful reflectors. A nail or ice pick can be used to form a center hole through which to place the light.



HOLIDAY HAIRDOS?

Mrs. Stryker Warren Will Head Sausalito Episcopal Church Group

Mrs. Stryker Warren, president-elect of St. Brigid's Guild of Sausalito's Christ Episcopal Church, has long been active in Episcopal church work, though she has been a member of the local guild only a little more than two years.

She and her husband, who is an insurance underwriter with the California Western States Life Insurance Company with offices in San Rafael, have lived in Sausalito since 1966. Before that they lived in New York City.

The incoming president, who succeeds Mrs. George R. Chapman, believes the most important purposes of the guild are to help the rector in any program in which women can be of service and to interest women of the church in the diocese and national church.

A graduate of St. Margaret's in Waterbury, Conn., Edith Warren was employed eight years on the secretarial staff of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York City.

The Warrens, who have no children, share interests in music and boating — they have a cruiser, the "Zee."

Mrs. Warren says she likes reading, especially poetry, more than anything else and also enjoys traveling and gardening.

Other officers to be installed in January with Mrs. Warren are Mmes. Willard A. Hall, vice president; John Hinman, secretary, and A. C. Lyon, treasurer.

Vinyl Floor

A good rule of thumb when cleaning vinyl floors: Use the least harsh method necessary to restore an attractive appearance. In other words, don't wash when a damp mopping will do the job. And don't damp mop when dry mopping, vacuuming or sweeping will suffice.

AN OLD doll of unknown age and origin stands behind a German nutmeg jar printed with a blue pattern around 1880. Being Mrs. Paul Grossinger Has Not Always Been Easy

By NAOMI ROCK

NEW YORK (AP) — The lady is down-to-earth and kind of kooky for someone of the over-30 set.

She digs her long-haired teen-age sons, and they dig her.

She's equally at home in her elegant Hotel Plaza suite — wearing slim Jims, cowboy boots and corduroy hat squashed firmly over her pixyish hairdo; or in her own home, in evening gown and hairpiece fall, entertaining the rich and famous.

WITH AN irreverent sense of humor — easily turned upon herself — she's made her way in this "often wretched world," and has spent her 22 years of married life striving to be herself — someone other than just Mrs. Paul Grossinger, daughter-in-law of the indomitable Jenny.

Being a Grossinger has not been easy.

"One feels a special responsibility as a Grossinger," the former Bunny Persky mused, the deepening worry lines around her mouth showing that she just might be the age she readily admits to — 45.

"You can't be a Grossinger without wanting to get your hands in the hotel pie. Sometimes it's a pain in the neck. But sometimes it's just groovy.

"It's like the business of keeping kosher," she continued, crossing one long, slim leg over the other and pushing her hat down closer to the dark, almost impish eyes.

"I come from a rather well integrated Jewish background. As a fourth generation American, Jewish traditions were alien to me until I married Paul. I thought that Grossingers' should be more in keeping with the times — less Jewish. But over the years I've changed."

THE YOUNG Mrs. Grossinger, whose own home on the 1,000 acre hotel grounds is not a kosher one, says that with age has come an understanding of Jewish traditions.

"It's like years ago, when I first met Danny and Sylvia Kaye at the hotel. They sat around and kibbitzed in Yiddish with my in-laws. There was a certain feeling, which I've seen over and over again. . . a felling that they were refurbishing something in the marrow of their bones."

But even so, Bunny maintained, Grossingers' is not strictly a Jewish hotel.

With an amused glint in her eyes, she recalled the time she was startled by a large black funeral hearse pulling up before the hotel. She rushed to the desk to learn what had happened, only to find that the hotel was hosting a funeral directors' convention, and that the hearse was bearing the luggage.

And, speaking of funny stories — there was the time the ever-hospitable Jenny Grossinger met a Japanese diplomat at the United Nations and invited him to be her guest.

KNOWING NOTHING of Grossingers', the diplomat asked directions in New York City, took a bus and turned up one day at the foot of the hotel grounds. A passing taxi driver picked him up, and thinking he was seeking work, dropped him at the hotel's rear door.

"Unfortunately we were hiring that day," Bunny recalls with a pained smile. "The poor man ended up sitting on a bench and filling out papers. He thought this was the American way of doing things.

"He was assigned a room, and when he asked for one with a private bath, he got a rather nasty answer from an incredulous hotel employee. Every time he asked to see Mrs. Grossinger, he was told curtly to 'wait his turn.' He put up with it for about an hour, and then when he'd had enough, and had complained loudly enough, someone discovered the horrible mistake."

In its 55 years of existence Grossingers' has hosted an endless stream of rich and famous: actors, artists, businessmen, writers, politicians, diplomats and others.

For Bunny Grossinger and for her children, being a Grossinger, living on the hotel grounds, has meant a deep-seated loneliness, and a life of working "just a little bit harder" to be accepted for themselves.

"The hotel has changed my life," she said. "Sometimes I've hated it because I think we were robbed of something. Our family didn't have the security of neighbors and close friends. We lived among constantly changing strangers, something I think of as 'the American dream' was never ours."

BUT LIFE at the hotel was often great fun, she continued, recalling the first time she met her screen idol, Van Johnson, but was horrified because he walked in unexpectedly and found her in curlers.

HER CHILDREN are grown now; they're leaving the nest. As many American women who've devoted 20 or more years to raising and caring for a family, Bunny Grossinger is looking for another way to find fulfillment. She's been lucky.

"I'm a greedy lady," Bunny joked. "I can't settle for fillers. I could take up mah jong now, only I'm a lousy card player.

"Somehow, I'm not sure exactly how yet, I felt cemented to my people. I'm going to work for Israel from this country. It will become my work, as my mother-in-law's hotel was her work."

Girls from the troop accompanied their leaders in the presentation of the gifts from the troop to the girls at Sunny Hills.

M. Warren Clark an airline captain, will deliver the remainder of the toys to a representative of the Air Force Air Lift Command Post, so that they can be distributed in time for Christmas to one of the orphanages in Vietnam.

Chairman of the project was Mrs. Frank Hanses.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Weekends Are Drudgery For Her, Playtime With Neighbors For Him

DEAR HELEN:

Our neighbors have a son who plays college football. Every Saturday during the season, my husband went with them to the games. Because their two daughters went along, too, there was no room in the car for me. I'm not fond of football, but I would like the right of refusal. Especially when one daughter is 25, single, pretty, and a flirt.

Now that the football season is over, it's ice hockey, or some other sport — and often the parents don't go — just the girls, with my husband as Mr. Nice-Guy escort. He's 36 and looks younger. I'm 34 and keep myself up, but I'm no match for a 25-year-old. Even if I were invited along, I couldn't spend a whole Saturday away from home and kids, and housework. I have an outside job and must clean on weekends. If I had a man to help, the housework wouldn't spill over into Sunday.

People are beginning to talk, although I know my husband doesn't think of this girl in that way — yet. I am beginning to hate weekends. How can I stop this before it starts something?

—SATURDAY CHILLED

DEAR S.C.:

Why not have a confidential talk with your neighbors — and your husband? But at different times and on different levels. Tell the girl's parents you've heard some talk (though of course you don't believe it . . .), then plan a special weekend trip for two (the housework be hanged).

Once you break the Saturday chain, it may stay broken, especially if you stop looking on weekends as pure drudgery. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

There's a man on our block who is building a boat in which he wants to travel around the world, all by himself. He figures it will take him a year and a half of sailing, and the boat isn't big enough for two, so his wife can't go along. Not that any sane woman would want to.

What gets me is, why did this fellow get married if he's so hell bent on being alone? Why is it the adventurer who gets these wild ideas is almost always the married man? — READER

DEAR READER:

The answer is self-evident, but not the one you want. I'll pass — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Regarding this sex education business. It should be left up to the parents. This is such a difficult and sensitive subject that I'm afraid we don't have teachers with adequate training. It would take a very special person to conduct sex education classes in the right way, and few are qualified. — R.D.

DEAR R:

But all parents automatically are qualified to teach this difficult subject? How I wish that were true. — H.

If The Tree Still Needs Ornaments, Use Tin Cans

AP Newsfeature

Get rid of those empty cans cluttering up your kitchen, and enliven your Christmas tree at the same time. Dyed in all-purpose fabric dye and cut with wire cutters or by punching with a can opener, the cans make marvelous tree ornaments.

Any rough edges can be covered by spraying with a clear plastic coating. Fasten ornaments to tree with wire or transparent thread.

To dye cans, reports Lady's Circle magazine, pull top tabs and can lids. Prepare a dye solution of liquid or powder dye. (Follow directions for dye selected.)

In an enamel or glass pot, add cans or lids to dye solution and simmer for five to six minutes until desired color is reached. Remove items, rinse and let dry. The dye is absorbed by the lacquer coating on the cans and as this coating varies with each can, many effects will be obtained.

A variety of cans can be used for making ornaments. Lightweight aluminum cans are especially easy to cut or puncture. For larger ornaments, use top and sides of can, cutting evenly-spaced strips in sides and bending strips up.

With glue for metal, attach smaller tabs for center decoration. Use pull-top tabs from beverage cans, dyed and linked together, for chains. Small juice-can lids, when dyed and punctured with a can opener, can be fitted around small tree lights to act as colorful reflectors. A nail or ice pick can be used to form a center hole through which to place the light.

Mrs. Stryker Warren Will Head Sausalito Episcopal Church Group

Mrs. Stryker Warren, president-elect of St. Brigid's Guild of Sausalito's Christ Episcopal Church, has long been active in Episcopal church work, though she has been a member of the local guild only a little more than two years.

She and her husband, who is an insurance underwriter with the California Western States Life Insurance Company with offices in San Rafael, have lived in Sausalito since 1966. Before that they lived in New York City.

The incoming president, who succeeds Mrs. George R. Chapman, believes the most important purposes of the guild are to help the rector in any program in which women can be of service and to interest women of the church in the diocese and national church.

A graduate of St. Margaret's in Waterbury, Conn., Edith Warren was employed eight years on the secretarial staff of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York City.

The Warrens, who have no children, share interests in music and boating — they have a cruiser, the "Zee."

Mrs. Warren says she likes reading, especially poetry, more than anything else and also enjoys traveling and gardening.

Other officers to be installed in January with Mrs. Warren are Mmes. Willard A. Hall, vice president; John Hinman, secretary, and A. C. Lyon, treasurer.

Vinyl Floor

A good rule of thumb when cleaning vinyl floors: Use the least harsh method necessary to restore an attractive appearance. In other words, don't wash when a damp mopping will do the job. And don't damp mop when dry mopping, vacuuming or sweeping will suffice.

Two Fairfax Dogs Shot By Neighbor

Two long-haired shepherd dogs have been shot and killed in Fairfax by a resident who said the animals were attacking livestock on his property.

A member of a neighboring family which owned the dogs charged, yesterday, however, that the shepherds were "shot outright."

The Marin County Humane Society is investigating.

Gilbert R. Murphy of Bolinas Road told a Humane Society investigator he shot the dogs Wednesday with a rifle shortly after 10 a.m. when they attacked chickens and a pony on his property. A third dog escaped injury.

Mrs. C. L. Pedroni of 26 Bosque Road, whose son, Mike, owned the dogs, said the three pets unexpectedly fled their property and ran toward the Meadow Club, a short distance away. She and her husband, a fire captain at Fort Cronkhite, gave chase, she said, later hearing shots.

One dog was found lying in Bolinas Road.

"They had never been on his property before . . . they were not vicious, not wild dogs and they would only bark for protection," Mrs. Pedroni said. She believed Murphy mistook her son's animals for other dogs in the neighborhood.

Both of the dead animals were about 8 months old.

Boosters Set Symposium On Transport

The Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau and the Redwood Empire Association are planning a symposium, possibly to be held March, on future transportaion needs in the region.

The symposium, which will be held in Marin, was unanimously endorsed at yesterday's meeting of directors of the chamber and visitors bureau, manager Carroll A. Snyker reported.

The symposium will cover all aspects of transportation, Snyker said, including a second crossing for San Francisco Bay, a second deck for the Golden Gate Bridge, the question of bus or ferry transportation to San Francisco and a lane being reserved on Highway 101 for bus traffic.

Directors also unanimously voted to urge board of supervisors to dissolve Fair-Marin and place it under county jurisdiction, Snyker said. This would give the county "a fighting chance to save money," Snyker said.

Water Watchdogs Delay Chemical Rules

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The State Water Resources Control Board yesterday delayed adoption of regulations to control chemicals used on shoreline or waterway oil spills after hearing objections from chemical manufacturers.

A new law enacted last summer gave the state authority for the first time to regulate chemicals and other oil collection or dispersion agents used against oil spills.

Hal Kasden, a Santa Barbara chemical distributor, told the board the proposed controls were "drawn purely on an emotional basis to satisfy certain groups."

"Chemicals have been branded as the worst thing to put on an oil spill. Nothing could be further from the truth . . . Chemicals are the only safe, practical, effective way" to control spills, Kasden said.

Dr. William H. McNeely of Ara Chem of El Cajon objected to supervision of the use of chemicals by the Department of Fish and Game because of that department's "zealous devotion to one top priority . . . the protection of fish."

Board chairman Kerry Mulligan called for adoption of the regulations as soon as possible after the Jan. 1, 1970 effective date of the legislation and set Jan. 8 for hearing on revised controls.

"I think we are under the gun to act," he said.

Two Fairfax Dogs Shot By Neighbor

Two long-haired shepherd dogs have been shot and killed in Fairfax by a resident who said the animals were attacking livestock on his property.

A member of a neighboring family which owned the dogs charged, yesterday, however, that the shepherds were "shot outright."

The Marin County Humane Society is investigating.

Gilbert R. Murphy of Bolinas Road told a Humane Society investigator he shot the dogs Wednesday with a rifle shortly after 10 a.m. when they attacked chickens and a pony on his property. A third dog escaped injury.

Mrs. C. L. Pedroni of 26 Bosque Road, whose son, Mike, owned the dogs, said the three pets unexpectedly fled their property and ran toward the Meadow Club, a short distance away. She and her husband, a fire captain at Fort Cronkhite, gave chase, she said, later hearing shots.

One dog was found lying in Bolinas Road.

"They had never been on his property before . . . they were not vicious, not wild dogs and they would only bark for protection," Mrs. Pedroni said. She believed Murphy mistook her son's animals for other dogs in the neighborhood.

Both of the dead animals were about 8 months old.

Six new board members have also been elected. They are: Shane Brady, with Dean Witter and Co.; Jack E. Bucknum, Bank of Marin; Gunther Hagel, owner of Gunther Hagel Home and Building Maintenance; S. Boosters Set Symposium On Transport

The Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau and the Redwood Empire Association are planning a symposium, possibly to be held March, on future transportaion needs in the region.

The symposium, which will be held in Marin, was unanimously endorsed at yesterday's meeting of directors of the chamber and visitors bureau, manager Carroll A. Snyker reported.

The symposium will cover all aspects of transportation, Snyker said, including a second crossing for San Francisco Bay, a second deck for the Golden Gate Bridge, the question of bus or ferry transportation to San Francisco and a lane being reserved on Highway 101 for bus traffic.

Directors also unanimously voted to urge board of supervisors to dissolve Fair-Marin and place it under county jurisdiction, Snyker said. This would give the county "a fighting chance to save money," Snyker said.

Water Watchdogs Delay Chemical Rules

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The State Water Resources Control Board yesterday delayed adoption of regulations to control chemicals used on shoreline or waterway oil spills after hearing objections from chemical manufacturers.

A new law enacted last summer gave the state authority for the first time to regulate chemicals and other oil collection or dispersion agents used against oil spills.

Hal Kasden, a Santa Barbara chemical distributor, told the board the proposed controls were "drawn purely on an emotional basis to satisfy certain groups."

"Chemicals have been branded as the worst thing to put on an oil spill. Nothing could be further from the truth . . . Chemicals are the only safe, practical, effective way" to control spills, Kasden said.

Dr. William H. McNeely of Ara Chem of El Cajon objected to supervision of the use of chemicals by the Department of Fish and Game because of that department's "zealous devotion to one top priority . . . the protection of fish."

Board chairman Kerry Mulligan called for adoption of the regulations as soon as possible after the Jan. 1, 1970 effective date of the legislation and set Jan. 8 for hearing on revised controls.

"I think we are under the gun to act," he said.

Rail Link Pact

Malaysian Role For Terra Linda Youth

Terra Linda High School will represent Malaysia at the North American Model United Nations Conference Feb. 19-22 in Washington, D. C.

Terra Linda students were selected for the national conference because of the school's success since 1960 at the Model United Nations at the University of California at Berkeley.

The 10-student team is studying information sent to them by the Malaysia consulate in San Francisco in preparation for the session, reported Albert Gautraud, group advisor.

The group is now seeking financial support from the community since it will coast $4,000 in expenses for the 10 students, Gautraud reported.

There will be a dance for adults Jan. 25 at the Noncommissioned Officers Club at Hamilton Air Force Base as a fund raising event toward meeting the expenses, he said.

The student council at Terra Linda High School has contributed $2,000, and the Terra Linda Lions Club has contributed $100 toward the trip, Gautraud reported.

Job Directories In Hub Library

Copies of "Summer Employment Directory of the United States 1970" and "Directory of Overseas Summer Jobs 1970" are available at the San Anselmo Public Library, 110 Tunstead Avenue, a library spokesman announced today.

Eighty thousand summer job openings in the United States and Canada are listed in the 1970 directory. The jobs, at resorts, summer camps, national parks, summer theaters, ranches and restaurants, are available to high school seniors, college students and teachers.

Fifty thousand job openings in England, Scotland, Ireland, Germany, France and other European countries are listed in an overseas directory, the library said.

Pleads Guilty To A Morals Charge

Peter J. Hawkins of San Rafael pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on one count of a lewd and lascivious act with a child, but five additional charges of the same offense that allegedly took place in Novato last year and earlier this year were dismissed.

He was ordered to appear in Marin Superior Court Jan. 12 for setting of a sentencing date.

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The Marin Motion Picture and Television Council provides these ratings of movies currently being shown in Marin County. The council's findings are from the California and National Parent-Teachers Association magazines and the Film Report of the Film Estimate Board unless otherwise noted. More complete reviews may be obtained by calling the San Rafael Library.

FAMILY

"Hard Days Night" — Beatles first film about the predicaments they get into when trying to have a little fun between their stage shows.

"Help" — The Beatles sing, play and clown their way through England, the Bahamas and the Alps.

"Ring of Bright Water" — Comic account of the trials and triumphs of raising a pet otter. Exquisite color photography of London and the Highlands.

"2001: Space Odyssey" — A long epic space adventure that is a fantastic and overwhelming experience that moves from prehistoric man to a space journey with a lifelike computer at the controls. The ending is subject to any interpretation the viewer may put on it.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Alice's Restaurant" — Thought provoking true happening in New England village in 1964-1967. Story told with implied criticism of Establishment and its follies, shows the immature, uncommitted, unmotivated hippies in their own milieu, enjoying their "pot" with sexual abandon and harming only themselves. For the most mature teens only.

"Beyond the Time Barrier" — Test piolt breaks time barrier and lands in the year 2024 and sees the results of a worldwide epidemic of 1970. Sets are interesting.

"Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid" — Script based on true story of two bandits told in farcical tone but documentary in presentation. Film does not deny the violence attendant on their lives and deaths. Memorable performances from cast. Good dialogue.

"Charly" — Poignant dramatization of a fictional case history of first human subject of a new type of brain surgery on a mentally retarded young man. Thought-provoking, sensitive performances from the cast.

"How Sweet It Is" — A broad marital farce about the sex life of a middle-aged couple while acting as chaperones on a students' group tour of Europe.

"Journey to the Seventh Planet" — Science fiction of an exploratory trip to a foreign planet and attempts to destroy alien forces there.

"Planet of the Apes" — Provocative mixture of comedy, satire and melodramatic but cynical science fiction about our astronauts who crash land on a desolate planet in an era 2,000 years hence.

"Planet of the Vampires" — Eerily photographed, atmospheric science fiction of space ship seeking lost comrades on planet where strange powers control minds.

"Voyage to the End of the Universe" — Misadventures of 25th Century travelers enroute to "green planet" aboard a deluxe space ship. (Parents Magazine.)

"With Six You Get Eggroll" — Hard fought merger of a widow with three sons and a widower with teen-age daughter is delayed a while by their disapproving brood. Plot amusing but ethics are confused.

BORDERLINE
(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Dirty Dozen" — Twelve convicts are offered clemency if they can complete a near suicidal mission just before D-Day in 1944. Pace is nerve wracking, much sadistic brutality shown but is very well acted by excellent cast.

"Gypsy Moths" — Sky divers in mid-air acrobatics are featured in this well photographed film. Nudity, explicit sex scenes in an ellicit love story make film suitable only for the mature.

ADULTS ONLY

"Easy Rider" — Ballad of a cross-country odyssey: two hippie motorcyclists encounter a wide range of people, some beautiful, some horrifying. Film suffers from an overlong LSD sequence and some plot inconsistencies. Poetically photographed.

"I Am Curious, Yellow" — Laborious Swedish social expose which received undue publicity when seized by U.S. Customs because of its explicit treatment of total male and female nudity, intercourse and oral-genital contact. (Parents Magazine.)

"Midnight Cowboy" — Offbeat, hard-hitting story of a male prostitute and a crippled hustler who meet on New York's seedy side. Sordidness is tempered by skill and compassion, told in an uncompromising way.

"Thomas Crown Affair" — Plotting and execution of big bank robbery is ingenious. Criminal and investigator become involved in torrid love affair. Crime pays well in this case. Very modern treatment. All phases of immorality are taken for granted.

By a strange quirk the only times the States were divided the two divisions were headed by presidents from the same state. Abraham Lincoln president of the U.S. and Jefferson Davis, Confederate president were born in Kentucky.

Rex Harrison, Wife Separate

LONDON (UPI)—Rex Harrison, 61, is living apart from his wife, actress Rachel Roberts, 41, his lawyer announced yesterday.

The attorney, Bryan Eagles, said Harrison had instructed him to make the announcement.

"In view of certain rumors that have begun to circulate about his marriage to Miss Roberts, he has authorized me to announce that he and his wife are living separate and apart," Eagles said.

Advice Is Sought On Extra School Uses

The Larkspur School District board asked last night for an opinion from the county counsel's office on outside use of district schools.

Supt. Milton S. Cohen said two persons in the audience at last night's board meeting objected to use of the Larkspur-Corte Madera School last weekend in connection with the Vietnam War protest.

"We're trying to get cut and dried regulations on use," Cohen said.

The Larkspur School District board also:

SIDEWALK — Authorized a joint agreement with the City of Larkspur for repair of the Magnolia Avenue sidewalk at the Larkspur-Corte Madera School. The district insurance carrier advised the repairs, Cohen said. At the same time, the city will make repairs to Magnolia Avenue itself, he said. The school district's share of the sidewalk work will not exceed $1,800.

NEGOTIATIONS — Took final action on rules under which teacher salary negotiations will be conducted.

KINDERGARTEN — Authorized hiring an additional kindergarten teacher, effective Feb. 1, to comply with state law under which kindergarten sessions must be 180 minutes.

INITIATIVE — Took no action on a drive by the California Teachers Association to force the state, by constitutional initiative, to provide 50 per cent of the financial support for local schools.

REPORT — Heard from Cohen that parent attendance was 98 per cent at parent-teacher conferences and that students in the first, second, third and sixth grade finished in the top 10 per cent in recent statewide tests.

BARRY — Instructed staff to write a letter of appreciation to Denise Barry, 9-year-old student at Henry C. Hall School who has undertaken a city cleanup project.

Two Hurt In Ramp Accident

Two persons were injured, neither seriously, in a two-car accident of the Highway 101 ramp to Tamalpais drive in Corte Madera yesterday, the California Highway Patrol reported.

To see their own physicians for minor injuries were Stella Maria Giannaras, 62, of 45 Tamal Vista Drive, Corte Madera, and Glory Cumming, 42, of 50 Ridgecrest Road, Kentfield.

Mrs. Giannaras was the driver of a car which struck one driven by George Warden Cumming, 51, of Kentfield, in the 10:10 a.m. accident. Cumming's car apparently was stalled on the ramp, the patrol said, but other circumstances of the wreck were unclear.

Bruce Lashes State Groups' Tax Proposal

The so-called "tax reform" initiative, sponsored by the California Teachers Association and the County Supervisors Association of California, "would benefit few and penalize many," County Administrator Alan R. Bruce decalred today.

"It is not a tax reform measure. It is a tax increase and tax shift measure," Bruce asserted. "It aims to wipe out the middle class." He said most Marin residents would end up paying $60 to as much as $700 more in taxes each year.

SUPPORT REFUSED

The county supervisors association had asked the Marin County Board of Supervisors to back the initiative, but Marin supervisors this week said nothing doing.

The supervisors indicated they would take active opposition if necessary.

In brief, the initiative would increase state contribution to schools and welfare funding wiuthout specifying where the state will get that extra money.

In his analysis, Bruce declared:

"The state director of finance and the state legislative analyst have estimated that, in the first year, the measure would increase state costs, and thereby state taxes by $1.13 billion. The cost will increase annually thereafter."

Bruce concluded that to raise the extra $1.13 billion, the state would be forced to raise other taxes such as income and sales taxes.

Driver Injured

A Petaluma man was injured yesterday at 6:30 p.m. when his car went into a ditch on Magnolia Avenue near Keokuk Street, Petaluma. Frank Bonomolo, 23, of 890 Cherry Street, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital for a head cut. Police had no details of the accident.

Zone Talks Set For Willow Creek

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — A public hearing on the rezoning of the Willow Creek property on the north edge of Petaluma was set last night for Jan. 15 at 4 p.m. by the Sonoma County Planning Commission.

Willow Creek Properties Inc. requested that its property at 5225 Old Redwood Highway, opposite McDowell Boulevard North, be rezoned from agriculture to retail business-commercial.

The Petaluma Planning Commission this week recommended that the rezoning be approved and that annexation of the land be considered.

Commerce Secretary Received By Tito

ZAGREB, Yugoslavia (AP) — President Tito Friday received Maurice H. Stans, U.S. secretary of commerce who is on visit to Yugoslavia.

Stans is the first member of President Richard M. Nixon's cabinet to make an official visit to this country. It is designed to promote trade and economic relations.

Petaluma Bond Ballot Second Try March 3

The Petaluma $1 million street and fire department improvement bond election has been set for March 3 by the city's bond attorneys.

The election will include a $200,000 issue for a new fire station on South McDowell Boulevard at Berrydale Drive and an addition to the central station on D Street.

A street improvement issue totaling $800,000 would include improvement of Caulfield Lane from South McDowell Boulevard to Highway 101 where the state would build an overpass. It would also widen Lakeville Highway and Hopper Street to D Street.

Both measures appeared on a bond election in June and were defeated, although both received more than a majority vote.

City Clerk Lillian Nommsen said that registration for the special election will close Jan. 8. Would-be voters may register at the city hall or at either fire station.

Truck Stolen

A white pickup truck and camper, license ZIX-405, belonging to Arthur A. Bayles of 1427 Dawes Street, Novato, was taken from the frontage road beside highway 101, south of Ignacio overpass sometime between 6:45 a.m. and 6:20 p.m. yesterday, according to police reports.

Nixon Attracts Top TV Audience

NEW YORK (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon's news conference Monday, Dec. 8, was the top-rated television program for that week in the Nielsen 70-city survey.

The 30-minute news conference was seen on all networks, but the rating was for NBC. The rating was 29.9.

The news conference edged out the "Hans Brinker" special on NBC and "Marcus Welby" on ABC, which tied for No. 2 with 27.3.

Malaysian Role For Terra Linda Youth

Terra Linda High School will represent Malaysia at the North American Model United Nations Conference Feb. 19-22 in Washington, D. C.

Terra Linda students were selected for the national conference because of the school's success since 1960 at the Model United Nations at the University of California at Berkeley.

The 10-student team is studying information sent to them by the Malaysia consulate in San Francisco in preparation for the session, reported Albert Gautraud, group advisor.

The group is now seeking financial support from the community since it will coast $4,000 in expenses for the 10 students, Gautraud reported.

There will be a dance for adults Jan. 25 at the Noncommissioned Officers Club at Hamilton Air Force Base as a fund raising event toward meeting the expenses, he said.

The student council at Terra Linda High School has contributed $2,000, and the Terra Linda Lions Club has contributed $100 toward the trip, Gautraud reported.

Job Directories In Hub Library

Copies of "Summer Employment Directory of the United States 1970" and "Directory of Overseas Summer Jobs 1970" are available at the San Anselmo Public Library, 110 Tunstead Avenue, a library spokesman announced today.

Eighty thousand summer job openings in the United States and Canada are listed in the 1970 directory. The jobs, at resorts, summer camps, national parks, summer theaters, ranches and restaurants, are available to high school seniors, college students and teachers.

Fifty thousand job openings in England, Scotland, Ireland, Germany, France and other European countries are listed in an overseas directory, the library said.

Pleads Guilty To A Morals Charge

Peter J. Hawkins of San Rafael pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on one count of a lewd and lascivious act with a child, but five additional charges of the same offense that allegedly took place in Novato last year and earlier this year were dismissed.

He was ordered to appear in Marin Superior Court Jan. 12 for setting of a sentencing date.

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The Marin Motion Picture and Television Council provides these ratings of movies currently being shown in Marin County. The council's findings are from the California and National Parent-Teachers Association magazines and the Film Report of the Film Estimate Board unless otherwise noted. More complete reviews may be obtained by calling the San Rafael Library.

FAMILY

"Hard Days Night" — Beatles first film about the predicaments they get into when trying to have a little fun between their stage shows.

"Help" — The Beatles sing, play and clown their way through England, the Bahamas and the Alps.

"Ring of Bright Water" — Comic account of the trials and triumphs of raising a pet otter. Exquisite color photography of London and the Highlands.

"2001: Space Odyssey" — A long epic space adventure that is a fantastic and overwhelming experience that moves from prehistoric man to a space journey with a lifelike computer at the controls. The ending is subject to any interpretation the viewer may put on it.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Alice's Restaurant" — Thought provoking true happening in New England village in 1964-1967. Story told with implied criticism of Establishment and its follies, shows the immature, uncommitted, unmotivated hippies in their own milieu, enjoying their "pot" with sexual abandon and harming only themselves. For the most mature teens only.

"Beyond the Time Barrier" — Test piolt breaks time barrier and lands in the year 2024 and sees the results of a worldwide epidemic of 1970. Sets are interesting.

"Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid" — Script based on true story of two bandits told in farcical tone but documentary in presentation. Film does not deny the violence attendant on their lives and deaths. Memorable performances from cast. Good dialogue.

"Charly" — Poignant dramatization of a fictional case history of first human subject of a new type of brain surgery on a mentally retarded young man. Thought-provoking, sensitive performances from the cast.

"How Sweet It Is" — A broad marital farce about the sex life of a middle-aged couple while acting as chaperones on a students' group tour of Europe.

"Journey to the Seventh Planet" — Science fiction of an exploratory trip to a foreign planet and attempts to destroy alien forces there.

"Planet of the Apes" — Provocative mixture of comedy, satire and melodramatic but cynical science fiction about our astronauts who crash land on a desolate planet in an era 2,000 years hence.

"Planet of the Vampires" — Eerily photographed, atmospheric science fiction of space ship seeking lost comrades on planet where strange powers control minds.

"Voyage to the End of the Universe" — Misadventures of 25th Century travelers enroute to "green planet" aboard a deluxe space ship. (Parents Magazine.)

"With Six You Get Eggroll" — Hard fought merger of a widow with three sons and a widower with teen-age daughter is delayed a while by their disapproving brood. Plot amusing but ethics are confused.

BORDERLINE
(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Dirty Dozen" — Twelve convicts are offered clemency if they can complete a near suicidal mission just before D-Day in 1944. Pace is nerve wracking, much sadistic brutality shown but is very well acted by excellent cast.

"Gypsy Moths" — Sky divers in mid-air acrobatics are featured in this well photographed film. Nudity, explicit sex scenes in an ellicit love story make film suitable only for the mature.

ADULTS ONLY

"Easy Rider" — Ballad of a cross-country odyssey: two hippie motorcyclists encounter a wide range of people, some beautiful, some horrifying. Film suffers from an overlong LSD sequence and some plot inconsistencies. Poetically photographed.

"I Am Curious, Yellow" — Laborious Swedish social expose which received undue publicity when seized by U.S. Customs because of its explicit treatment of total male and female nudity, intercourse and oral-genital contact. (Parents Magazine.)

"Midnight Cowboy" — Offbeat, hard-hitting story of a male prostitute and a crippled hustler who meet on New York's seedy side. Sordidness is tempered by skill and compassion, told in an uncompromising way.

"Thomas Crown Affair" — Plotting and execution of big bank robbery is ingenious. Criminal and investigator become involved in torrid love affair. Crime pays well in this case. Very modern treatment. All phases of immorality are taken for granted.

By a strange quirk the only times the States were divided the two divisions were headed by presidents from the same state. Abraham Lincoln president of the U.S. and Jefferson Davis, Confederate president were born in Kentucky.

Rex Harrison, Wife Separate

LONDON (UPI)—Rex Harrison, 61, is living apart from his wife, actress Rachel Roberts, 41, his lawyer announced yesterday.

The attorney, Bryan Eagles, said Harrison had instructed him to make the announcement.

"In view of certain rumors that have begun to circulate about his marriage to Miss Roberts, he has authorized me to announce that he and his wife are living separate and apart," Eagles said.

Advice Is Sought On Extra School Uses

The Larkspur School District board asked last night for an opinion from the county counsel's office on outside use of district schools.

Supt. Milton S. Cohen said two persons in the audience at last night's board meeting objected to use of the Larkspur-Corte Madera School last weekend in connection with the Vietnam War protest.

"We're trying to get cut and dried regulations on use," Cohen said.

The Larkspur School District board also:

SIDEWALK — Authorized a joint agreement with the City of Larkspur for repair of the Magnolia Avenue sidewalk at the Larkspur-Corte Madera School. The district insurance carrier advised the repairs, Cohen said. At the same time, the city will make repairs to Magnolia Avenue itself, he said. The school district's share of the sidewalk work will not exceed $1,800.

NEGOTIATIONS — Took final action on rules under which teacher salary negotiations will be conducted.

KINDERGARTEN — Authorized hiring an additional kindergarten teacher, effective Feb. 1, to comply with state law under which kindergarten sessions must be 180 minutes.

INITIATIVE — Took no action on a drive by the California Teachers Association to force the state, by constitutional initiative, to provide 50 per cent of the financial support for local schools.

REPORT — Heard from Cohen that parent attendance was 98 per cent at parent-teacher conferences and that students in the first, second, third and sixth grade finished in the top 10 per cent in recent statewide tests.

BARRY — Instructed staff to write a letter of appreciation to Denise Barry, 9-year-old student at Henry C. Hall School who has undertaken a city cleanup project.

Two Hurt In Ramp Accident

Two persons were injured, neither seriously, in a two-car accident of the Highway 101 ramp to Tamalpais drive in Corte Madera yesterday, the California Highway Patrol reported.

To see their own physicians for minor injuries were Stella Maria Giannaras, 62, of 45 Tamal Vista Drive, Corte Madera, and Glory Cumming, 42, of 50 Ridgecrest Road, Kentfield.

Mrs. Giannaras was the driver of a car which struck one driven by George Warden Cumming, 51, of Kentfield, in the 10:10 a.m. accident. Cumming's car apparently was stalled on the ramp, the patrol said, but other circumstances of the wreck were unclear.

Bruce Lashes State Groups' Tax Proposal

The so-called "tax reform" initiative, sponsored by the California Teachers Association and the County Supervisors Association of California, "would benefit few and penalize many," County Administrator Alan R. Bruce decalred today.

"It is not a tax reform measure. It is a tax increase and tax shift measure," Bruce asserted. "It aims to wipe out the middle class." He said most Marin residents would end up paying $60 to as much as $700 more in taxes each year.

SUPPORT REFUSED

The county supervisors association had asked the Marin County Board of Supervisors to back the initiative, but Marin supervisors this week said nothing doing.

The supervisors indicated they would take active opposition if necessary.

In brief, the initiative would increase state contribution to schools and welfare funding wiuthout specifying where the state will get that extra money.

In his analysis, Bruce declared:

"The state director of finance and the state legislative analyst have estimated that, in the first year, the measure would increase state costs, and thereby state taxes by $1.13 billion. The cost will increase annually thereafter."

Bruce concluded that to raise the extra $1.13 billion, the state would be forced to raise other taxes such as income and sales taxes.

Driver Injured

A Petaluma man was injured yesterday at 6:30 p.m. when his car went into a ditch on Magnolia Avenue near Keokuk Street, Petaluma. Frank Bonomolo, 23, of 890 Cherry Street, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital for a head cut. Police had no details of the accident.

Zone Talks Set For Willow Creek

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — A public hearing on the rezoning of the Willow Creek property on the north edge of Petaluma was set last night for Jan. 15 at 4 p.m. by the Sonoma County Planning Commission.

Willow Creek Properties Inc. requested that its property at 5225 Old Redwood Highway, opposite McDowell Boulevard North, be rezoned from agriculture to retail business-commercial.

The Petaluma Planning Commission this week recommended that the rezoning be approved and that annexation of the land be considered.

Commerce Secretary Received By Tito

ZAGREB, Yugoslavia (AP) — President Tito Friday received Maurice H. Stans, U.S. secretary of commerce who is on visit to Yugoslavia.

Stans is the first member of President Richard M. Nixon's cabinet to make an official visit to this country. It is designed to promote trade and economic relations.

Petaluma Bond Ballot Second Try March 3

The Petaluma $1 million street and fire department improvement bond election has been set for March 3 by the city's bond attorneys.

The election will include a $200,000 issue for a new fire station on South McDowell Boulevard at Berrydale Drive and an addition to the central station on D Street.

A street improvement issue totaling $800,000 would include improvement of Caulfield Lane from South McDowell Boulevard to Highway 101 where the state would build an overpass. It would also widen Lakeville Highway and Hopper Street to D Street.

Both measures appeared on a bond election in June and were defeated, although both received more than a majority vote.

City Clerk Lillian Nommsen said that registration for the special election will close Jan. 8. Would-be voters may register at the city hall or at either fire station.

Truck Stolen

A white pickup truck and camper, license ZIX-405, belonging to Arthur A. Bayles of 1427 Dawes Street, Novato, was taken from the frontage road beside highway 101, south of Ignacio overpass sometime between 6:45 a.m. and 6:20 p.m. yesterday, according to police reports.

Nixon Attracts Top TV Audience

NEW YORK (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon's news conference Monday, Dec. 8, was the top-rated television program for that week in the Nielsen 70-city survey.

The 30-minute news conference was seen on all networks, but the rating was for NBC. The rating was 29.9.

The news conference edged out the "Hans Brinker" special on NBC and "Marcus Welby" on ABC, which tied for No. 2 with 27.3.

Outlawed Animals Brought Into Marin As Pets

CUTE PEST — This tiny rodent, a gerbil, is a cuddlesome thing, but he spells big trouble. Gerbils are prolific and voracious. Their raids on grain have meant famine in parts of the world.

Catfish Walking Around?

By ALAN JONES

The name Clarias batrachus doesn't turn anybody on, but mention a walking catfish and you have everyone's interest.

The fish has been banned in California as a potential pest and danger to existing aquatic life, but there may be dozens of them in Marin, legally imported and sold before the ban.

A perfect albino specimen of the amazing amphibious fish is alive and well in a 300-gallon tank at Aquatics from Paradise, at pet shop run by John Dauksha at 5589 Paradise Drive, Corte Madera.

Dauksha's fish, which he bought as a fingerling two and a half years ago, has grown from a pencil-thin inch and a half to a two-foot fish as big around as a Willie McCovey bat.

The walking catfish has become a pest in southern Florida, where it literally walked out of captivity and into the open waterways that line the area from Miami to Lake Okeechobee. Brought in from Asia as an aquarium curiosity, the voracious lung-bearing fish is now accused of wiping out domestic fish where it competes with them.

Because of Florida'a experience, California banned the catfish this year, the prohibition taking effect six weeks ago.

But until three or four months ago, Dauksha said, he did a brisk business in the curious fish, which he said is useful as a scavenger in large fish tanks. Like other catfish, it is a bottom feeder and will clean up organic debris.

But because it grows to two or three feet in length, it needs a big tank to live in. And any fish in the same tank with it had better be too big to eat, or the catfish will eradicate them, Dauksha said.

His fish is living peacefully with two big oscars, which look like giant carp, angel fish and a few other species.

The fish had been known in Florida to walk as far as a quarter-mile to find a new pond, and apparently can live out of water indefinitely if its body stays wet.

The catfish has two sets of gills and a lung, and it will suffocate if kept underwater away from the air. It breathes in quick trips to the surface when it takes on a fresh gulp of air, discharging the exhausted air an instant before.

On some of its zooms to the surface, Dauksha said, the fish has knocked the top off the tank and plummeted to the floor. When that happens, the fish may be found hours later, apparently moribund because it has dried out. But when dropped back in the water, it revives immediately, he said.

Dauksha said he was served notice Wednesday by the Fish and Game Department to ship the fish out of the state or turn it over to be destroyed. But he plans to ask the state for a permit to keep the fish for display purposes.

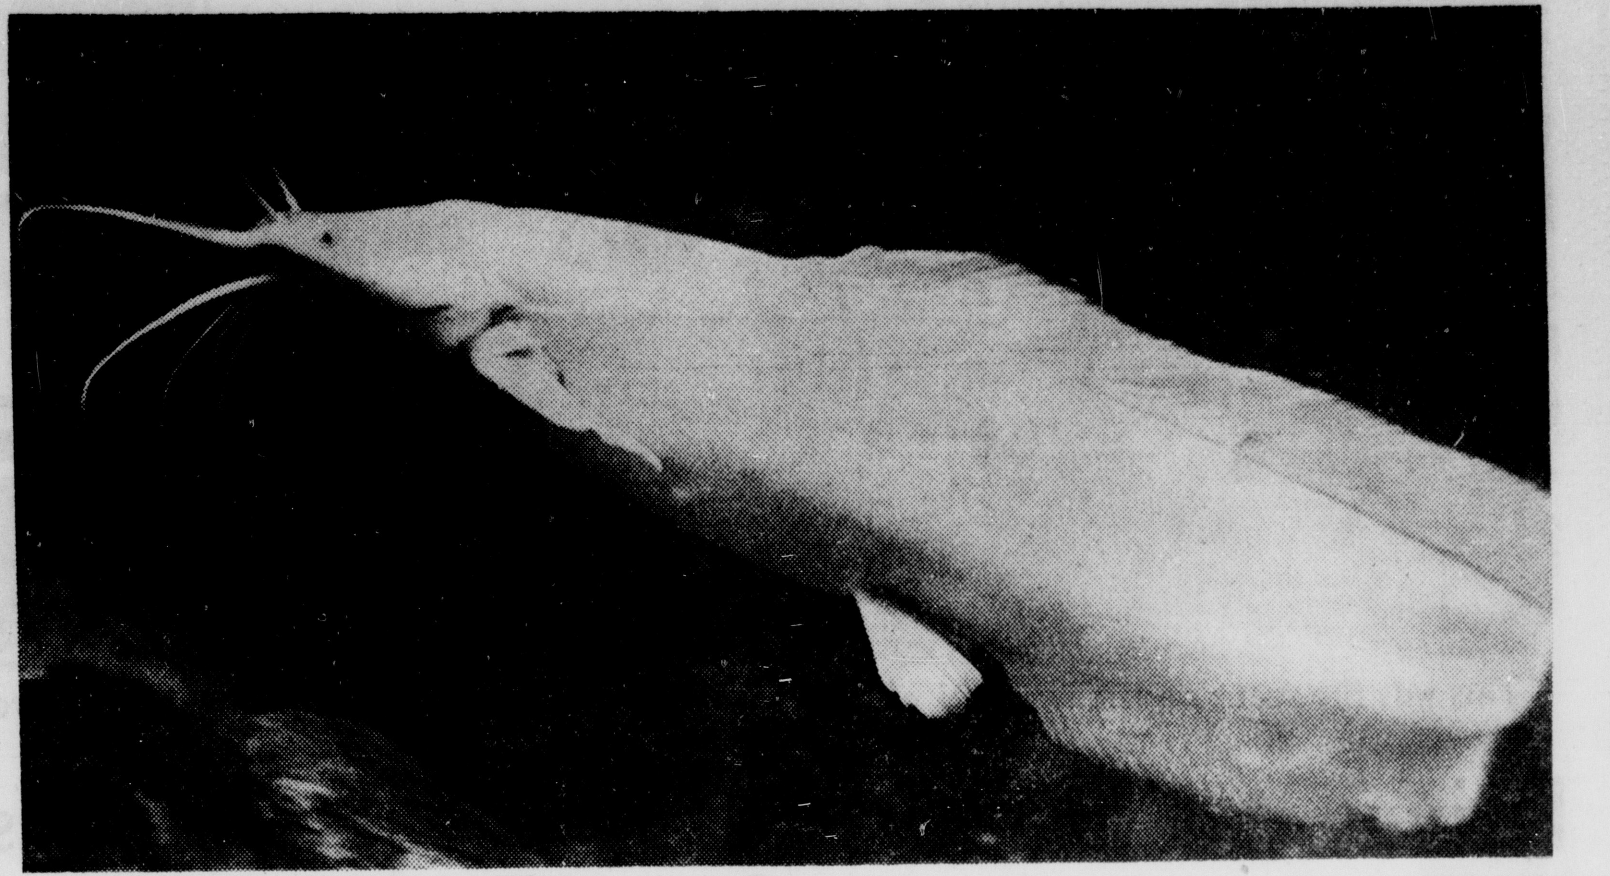
The same sort of permit, he said, has been issued to many pet shops to keep piranha, the deadly South American flesh-eaters.

Although unable to get the catfish in recent months, Dauksha said he had sold "a hell of a lot" of them in this area.

If not permitted to keep the fish, Dauksha said, he will donate it to Steinhart Aquarium, which has several of them already and is permitted to have them as a public institution.

Russell Ilds, fish and game warden, said the walking catfish is illegal even in pet shops. The new law, he said, requires the fish be destroyed or returned to the distributor.

Dauksha said the fish is still sold by distributors in the east and midwest, but not to California shops. California wholesalers will not handle the fish any more, he said.



STRANGER IN PARADISE — This walking catfish, a tiny fingerling 30 months ago, has grown to two feet in its aquarium at a pet shop on Paradise Drive in Corte Madera. Now an outlaw in California, his days are numbered, but there may be many of his ilk here and there in Marin. (Independent-Journal photo)

Cuddly Rat Is Under Quarantine

A cuddly-looking rat called the Gerbil (pronounced Jerble) may look friendly and harmless, but it is so destructive it has been outlawed under the state Fish and Game Code, County Agricultural Commissioner R. Allan Ballard warned today.

One such Gerbil, at Redwood High School, is now under quarantine and to be used only for educational purposes, said Ballard.

The Gerbil is barred from the state except by prior permit from the Department of Fish and Game, and only for scientific and educational purposes.

It is a sand rat from Asia and Africa and such a voracious destroyer that it has caused food shortages and even famine in Asia, Asia Minor and North Africa, said Ballard.

Gerbils eat grain, seed and roots, and burrow extensively in the soil. They have bright black eyes, brown soft fur and a gentle disposition.

They reproduce prolifically. A female can produce a litter of three to eight young every 30 days.

"If brought into California as pets, eventually some would escape," said Ballard. "Once established in the wild state, our crops, irrigation systems and recreational environment would be seriously impaired."

CAR DONATED

Gifts To Huskey Family Continue

The outpouring of concern and aid for the Bill Huskey family continued yesterday as Marin County residents offered food, money and even a car to the homeless family.

Bill and Joy Huskey and their five children were rescued Wednesday from their leaky tent in Samuel P. Taylor Park where they had been camping for the past two weeks because they had been unable to find a house to rent after a streak of misfortune had left them homeless, jobless and sick.

Although temporarily housed in a summer home in Inverness, the Huskeys are still searching for a permanent home at the $150 a month rent they can afford.

Mrs. Huskey said today that the Marin County Real Estate Board donated $100 to a fund for the family and has promised to aid in the search for a home.

The First Presbyterian Church of San Rafael has agreed to administer a fund for the family, but church officials said they would be able only to accept money donations and not those of food, clothing or Christmas presents for the five children, ranging in age from 2 to 12.

Sally Stanford, owner of the Valhalla restaurant in Sausalito, yesterday offered $1,000 toward payment on a new home.

And a young Tamalpais Valley couple, also living on a small income, yesterday gave the Huskeys their Rambler station wagon after hearing that the family car had broken down Tuesday.

"They said they were going to sell the car because they needed the money, but decided to give it to us because, they said, we needed it more," Mrs. Huskey said.

"They're like so many of the people who have called. Most of those who have wanted to help have had their own troubles, too," she said.

Aid May Be Sliced To Marin City CSD

The Marin County Housing Authority is reconsidering the level of its financial assistance to the Marin City Community Services District because of the district's low level of activity, Wallace K. Shepherd, assistant secretary of the authority, reported today.

The authority board, meeting in Marin City Wednesday night, delayed any action, however, until next month after the community services district board meets with its new members.

The CSD board last night seated two new members, Gussie Blakeley and C. J. Williams. CSD board member Frank Phillips Sr. said Douglas Quiett Jr. will continue as chairman. Doretha Mitchell is the fifth member.

No formal actions were taken by the CSD board last night.

In other action Wednesday night, housing authority trustees agreed to meet with the Marin City Tenants Council at St. Andrew United Presbyterian Church at 8 p.m. Jan. 8 to discuss the authority's occupancy policies.

The authority also authorized the expenditure of $3,100 for a contract with architect Morris Finisy for architectural services and $2,700 for a contract with Gayner Engineers for outdoor lighting services.

The Marin County Redevelopment Agency, also scheduled to meet Wednesday night, did not meet because of a lack of quorum.

Driver Is Fair From Span Crash

Peter Paul Stevens Jr., 43, of Point Reyes Station, was reported in fair condition at Kaiser Foundation Hospital's intensive care unit in San Francisco today with a head injury suffered when his car was hit from the rear, then rammed a Greyhound commuter bus on Golden Gate Bridge yesterday.

The highway patrol said Stevens' car was hit in the rear by a car driven by Ronald Edgar Little, 39, of 2071 Huckleberry Road, San Rafael, then hit the rear of a bus driven by Dan M. Smith, 44, of 841 Deca Decanso Way, San Rafael.

The 6:30 p.m. mishap occurred during a light rain, the patrol said.

Motel Items Stolen

Pots, pans, silverware, dishes and a coffee pot, with a total value of $75, were stolen Dec. 13 from the Colonial Motel, 1735 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael police reported today.

Tam Valley Fugitive Eludes Posse

A widespread manhunt for a man suspected of burglary and car theft in a heavily wooded area of Tamalpais Valley proved fruitless yesterday afternoon, sheriff's deputies reported.

Armed units of the sheriff's office, California Highway Patrol and the Mill Valley police fruitlessly combed the area near Shoreline Highway and Loring Avenue for several hours. The stolen car the suspect was driving ran off the road there.

Deputies said the man was surprised during an attempted burglary of a home near Olema when the occupant returned home. Roadblocks were set up in West and South Marin yesterday morning and a deputy spotted the suspect somewhere west of Mill Valley shortly before noon and gave chase.

After his car ran off the road, the suspect fled on foot.

Hospital Orders New Equipment

Hillcrest Hospital directors awarded a contract for an air conditioning sustem yesterday and approved purchase of equipment totaling more than $5,000.

Low bidder for the air conditioning system to be installed in patient care areas, was the Peterson Mechanical Corp. of Sonoma at $67,530.

The board approved purchase of panic bars for hospital doors at a cost of $415 from the Swallow Construction Co. of Petaluma and a fourth television monitoring system for use in the cardiac care section at a cost of $3,675.

Also voted was $371 for orthopedic instruments, $96 for a warmer for newborn babies and $665 for a refrigerator for the blood bank.

Store Is Looted

Two recapped tires valued at $33, two radial 990 tires, with a total value of $130, one 660 tire worth $49, three chrome wheels valued at $60, a $15 tire and an $8 spoke-type wheel were stolen Wednesday from Triple S Tires, 1837 Fourth Street, San Rafael police reported today.

Action Taken To Protect Tennis Court Players

The Sausalito Recreation Commission last night came down on the side of the little guy by recommending that it be made a misdeameanor to chase someone off a tennis court.

Public Works, Director Norman Wohlschlaeger said the commission made the recommendation to the city council because of the fact that older people frequently order young people off the courts so they can play tennis.

In other action, the commission reviewed proposed bylaws for the youth center and approved criteria for redoing Tiffany Park at the end of North Street. The commission also approved maps of bicycle paths in the city and sent them to the council with a recommendation for installation of signs.

$100,000 Asked In Beard Fuss

BANGOR, Maine (UPI)—The father of a 17-year-old Belfast student filed suit in U.S. District Court yesterday seeking $100,000 in damages for his son suspended for growing a beard.

Leon Woodbury said his son, Errol, was following a family tradition in growing the beard, and the suspension could adversely affect his chances for a college scholarship.

Named in the suit were school district 34, the superintendent, the principal and 14 members of the district's board of directors.

This was the scene on Highway 101 after the last of three crashes caused in the Novato area, the highway patrol said, by a Woodacre motorist. Three persons were hurt.

Driver Accused Of Three Wrecks

A 42-year-old Woodacre man was booked for felony hit-and-run driving last night after he caused three separate accidents in North Marin, the California Highway Patrol said. Three persons were injured.

Held for arraignment this afternoon with no bail set was Gerald Thomas Fisher.

Police said Fisher's car sideswiped a car driven by John Martin Ferguson, 25, of 1045 Bel Marin Keys Boulevard, in Bel Marin Keys at 4:10 p.m. He didn't stop, the patrol said, but proceeded onto Highway 101, then onto eastbound Highway 37.

Tisher then turned his car around on Highway 37 and headed west in the eastbound lanes back onto the ramp to Highway 101. There, a car driven by Janet Sue Jones, 22, Reed Boulevard, Mill Valley, swerved to avoid him and overturned, the patrol said. Her year-old-son Jeffrey, was treated at Marin General Hospital for a bump on the head.

Fisher then went into the northbound lanes of Highway 101 heading south and struck a car driven by Cindy Margaret Lawrence, 16, of 26 Soreno Drive, Novato, caromed off and hit head-on a car driven by Robert Jon Steele, 32, of 7 Mary Lane, Corte Madera. A fourth car, driven by an unidentified motorist, also was involved. Steele was reported in satisfactory condition at Novato General Hospital today with a possible fractured hip, a cut on the head and possible internal injuries.

Miss Lawrence's brother, Michael, 13, was to see his own doctor for unspecified injuries.

After hitting Steele's car, the patrol said, Fisher fled on foot and apparently hitchhiked home. His wife later took him to Marin General where he was treated for a cut and hospital authorities called police.

Swedish Star To Wed U.S. Soldier

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — Swedish movie star Camilla Sparv and Herbert Hoover III, grandson of the founder of Hoover Vacuum Cleaner Co., will be married here tomorrow.

Hoover arrived yesterday from Germany, where he has been stationed with the U.S. Army. The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Sparv, arrived from Sweden.

The wedding will be in the fashionable Church by the Sea, with a reception later at the Indian Creek Country Club.

Mammoth Banquet Hall In New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Coliseum's banquet and dining facility — the largest in Manhattan — utilizes a recently expanded kitchen that can serve 5,000 people at one sitting. At the center of the all-gas-fueled kitchen that occupies a block and a half of space is a giant precision oven weighing more than nine tons.

The rotary oven can prepare thousands of pounds of meat or poultry at a time, and it is programmed so that every portion receives equal degrees of heat.

Chilean Jet Ordered To Fly To Cuba

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI)—A Chilean LAN Airlines jet with 98 persons aboard was hijacked today by an unidentified armed man and ordered to fly to Cuba. It was the year's 61st hijacking and the 30th of a Latin American aircraft.

LAN said the jet, a Boeing 727, would have to make several refueling stops en route to Havana. At the first of these, Arica, the hijacker permitted 15 women and children passengers to disembark.

In addition to Africa, the plane will refuel at Lima, Peru; Guayaquil, Ecuador, and Panana City, Panama.

A LAN spokesman said the hijacking occurred shortly after takeoff from Santiago on the flight to Arica and a refueling stop.

On Nov. 12 a LAN airliner was hijacked by two youths, 15 and 16, but they were overpowered by the crew in flight after the passengers had been released at a refueling stop.

The two boys have since been made wards of a juvenile court.

That was LAN's first hijack and afterward the company announced that a prepared plan had been put into action against the hijackers during the episode.

NEW DELHI (AP) — Fifty-one missing children were recovered by New Delhi police one night in 37 raids throughout the city. Most of the children were runaways from other Indian cities.

Youth Chased, Held On Rash Of Holdups

A 20-year-old San Francisco youth was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of car theft and armed robbery of a San Anselmo service station.

Donald Earnest Steward was arrested at 9:40 p.m. by San Anselmo police who said they found $51 in his pockets, allegedly stolen from Bob Brogioli's Richfield Station, 100 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

Police said Stewart is wanted in connection with five other service station robberies, two in Campbell, Santa Clara County; two in Santa Clara and one in Santa Rosa. Military authorities have notified the Marin County Sheriff's office that Stewart has been listed as absent without leave since Oct. 25.

Police were alerted to the robbery by the station attendant, Larry Lindelli, who fled while the robber was in the station's men's room collecting the money he had ordered the attendant to leave there.

Lindelli said Stewart had told him not to resist, because two men armed with rifles were covering him from the street. Lindelli's brother, Bryan Lindelli, arrived at the station during the robbery, followed the suspect after he left the station, caught him and turned him over to police.

Stewart struggled with the officers and had to be handcuffed.

He was held to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

Czech Aftermath Snags SALT Talk

HELSINKI, (AP) — The snag in the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks is linked to the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia, diplomatic sources here said today.

The SALT talks have continued beyond their expected conclusion date because of disagreement on a site for full-scale negotiations next year. The Soviet insists on Helsinki, while the United States prefers Vienna, Austria.

Diplomatic sources said the dispute has little to do with the facilities or convenience of the two cities but relates primarily to what happened after Soviet armies poured into Czechoslovakia in August 1968.

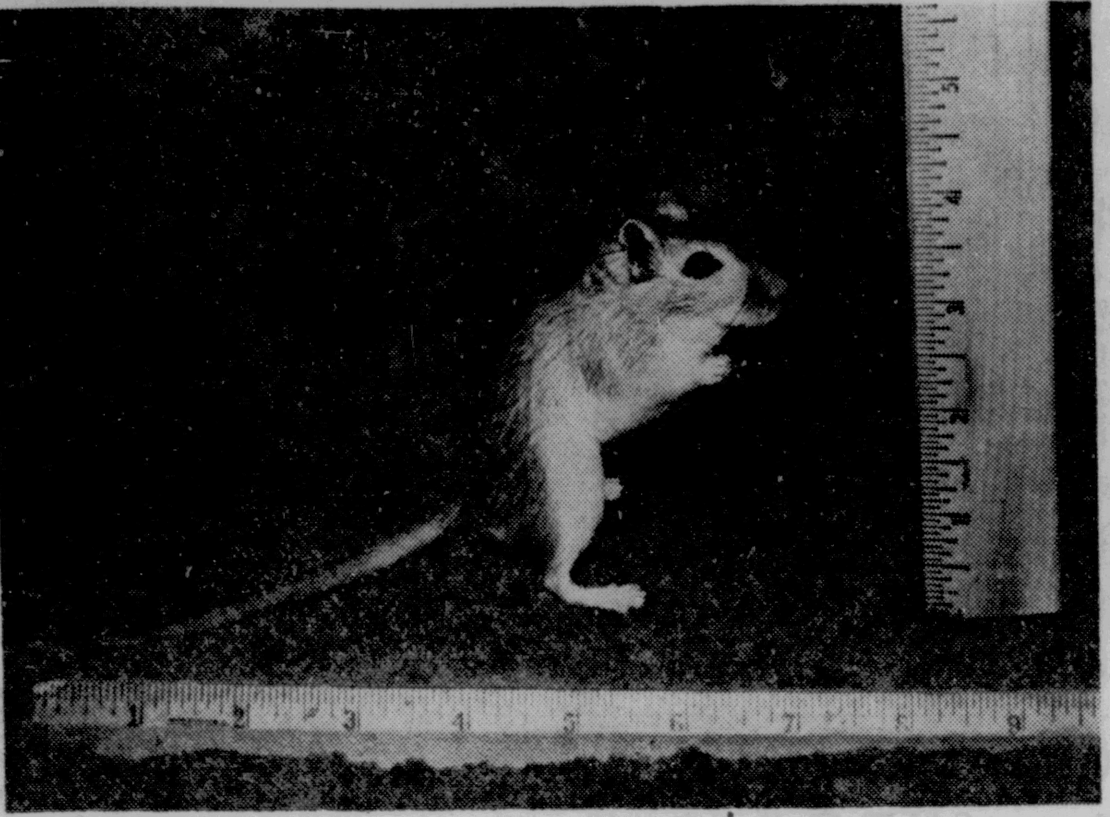
Outlawed Animals Brought Into Marin As Pets



CUTE PEST — This tiny rodent, a gerbil, is a cuddlesome thing, but he spells big trouble. Gerbils are prolific and voracious. Their raids on grain have meant famine in parts of the world.

CAR DONATED

Gifts To Huskey Family Continue

The outpouring of concern and aid for the Bill Huskey family continued yesterday as Marin County residents offered food, money and even a car to the homeless family.

Bill and Joy Huskey and their five children were rescued Wednesday from their leaky tent in Samuel P. Taylor Park where they had been camping for the past two weeks because they had been unable to find a house to rent after a streak of misfortune had left them homeless, jobless and sick.

Although temporarily housed in a summer home in Inverness, the Huskeys are still searching for a permanent home at the $150 a month rent they can afford.

Mrs. Huskey said today that the Marin County Real Estate Board donated $100 to a fund for the family and has promised to aid in the search for a home.

The First Presbyterian Church of San Rafael has agreed to administer a fund for the family, but church officials said they would be able only to accept money donations and not those of food, clothing or Christmas presents for the five children, ranging in age from 2 to 12.

Sally Stanford, owner of the Valhalla restaurant in Sausalito, yesterday offered $1,000 toward payment on a new home.

And a young Tamalpais Valley couple, also living on a small income, yesterday gave the Huskeys their Rambler station wagon after hearing that the family car had broken down Tuesday.

"They said they were going to sell the car because they needed the money, but decided to give it to us because, they said, we needed it more," Mrs. Huskey said.

"They're like so many of the people who have called. Most of those who have wanted to help have had their own troubles, too," she said.

Aid May Be Sliced To Marin City CSD

The Marin County Housing Authority is reconsidering the level of its financial assistance to the Marin City Community Services District because of the district's low level of activity, Wallace K. Shepherd, assistant secretary of the authority, reported today.

The authority board, meeting in Marin City Wednesday night, delayed any action, however, until next month after the community services district board meets with its new members.

The CSD board last night seated two new members, Gussie Blakeley and C. J. Williams. CSD board member Frank Phillips Sr. said Douglas Quiett Jr. will continue as chairman. Doretha Mitchell is the fifth member.

No formal actions were taken by the CSD board last night.

In other action Wednesday night, housing authority trustees agreed to meet with the Marin City Tenants Council at St. Andrew United Presbyterian Church at 8 p.m. Jan. 8 to discuss the authority's occupancy policies.

The authority also authorized the expenditure of $3,100 for a contract with architect Morris Finisy for architectural services and $2,700 for a contract with Gayner Engineers for outdoor lighting services.

The Marin County Redevelopment Agency, also scheduled to meet Wednesday night, did not meet because of a lack of quorum.

Driver Is Fair From Span Crash

Peter Paul Stevens Jr., 43, of Point Reyes Station, was reported in fair condition at Kaiser Foundation Hospital's intensive care unit in San Francisco today with a head injury suffered when his car was hit from the rear, then rammed a Greyhound commuter bus on Golden Gate Bridge yesterday.

The highway patrol said Stevens' car was hit in the rear by a car driven by Ronald Edgar Little, 39, of 2071 Huckleberry Road, San Rafael, then hit the rear of a bus driven by Dan M. Smith, 44, of 841 Deca Decanso Way, San Rafael.

The 6:30 p.m. mishap occurred during a light rain, the patrol said.

Motel Items Stolen

Pots, pans, silverware, dishes and a coffee pot, with a total value of $75, were stolen Dec. 13 from the Colonial Motel, 1735 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael police reported today.

Cuddly Rat Is Under Quarantine

A cuddly-looking rat called the Gerbil (pronounced Jerble) may look friendly and harmless, but it is so destructive it has been outlawed under the state Fish and Game Code, County Agricultural Commissioner R. Allan Ballard warned today.

One such Gerbil, at Redwood High School, is now under quarantine and to be used only for educational purposes, said Ballard.

The Gerbil is barred from the state except by prior permit from the Department of Fish and Game, and only for scientific and educational purposes.

It is a sand rat from Asia and Africa and such a voracious destroyer that it has caused food shortages and even famine in Asia, Asia Minor and North Africa, said Ballard.

Gerbils eat grain, seed and roots, and burrow extensively in the soil. They have bright black eyes, brown soft fur and a gentle disposition.

They reproduce prolifically. A female can produce a litter of three to eight young every 30 days.

"If brought into California as pets, eventually some would escape," said Ballard. "Once established in the wild state, our crops, irrigation systems and recreational environment would be seriously impaired."

Tam Valley Fugitive Eludes Posse

A widespread manhunt for a man suspected of burglary and car theft in a heavily wooded area of Tamalpais Valley proved fruitless yesterday afternoon, sheriff's deputies reported.

Armed units of the sheriff's office, California Highway Patrol and the Mill Valley police fruitlessly combed the area near Shoreline Highway and Loring Avenue for several hours. The stolen car the suspect was driving ran off the road there.

Deputies said the man was surprised during an attempted burglary of a home near Olema when the occupant returned home. Roadblocks were set up in West and South Marin yesterday morning and a deputy spotted the suspect somewhere west of Mill Valley shortly before noon and gave chase.

After his car ran off the road, the suspect fled on foot.

Hospital Orders New Equipment

Hillcrest Hospital directors awarded a contract for an air conditioning sustem yesterday and approved purchase of equipment totaling more than $5,000.

Low bidder for the air conditioning system to be installed in patient care areas, was the Peterson Mechanical Corp. of Sonoma at $67,530.

The board approved purchase of panic bars for hospital doors at a cost of $415 from the Swallow Construction Co. of Petaluma and a fourth television monitoring system for use in the cardiac care section at a cost of $3,675.

Also voted was $371 for orthopedic instruments, $96 for a warmer for newborn babies and $665 for a refrigerator for the blood bank.

Catfish Walking Around?

By ALAN JONES

The name Clarias batrachus doesn't turn anybody on, but mention a walking catfish and you have everyone's interest.

The fish has been banned in California as a potential pest and danger to existing aquatic life, but there may be dozens of them in Marin, legally imported and sold before the ban.

A perfect albino specimen of the amazing amphibious fish is alive and well in a 300-gallon tank at Aquatics from Paradise, at pet shop run by John Dauksha at 5589 Paradise Drive, Corte Madera.

Dauksha's fish, which he bought as a fingerling two and a half years ago, has grown from a pencil-thin inch and a half to a two-foot fish as big around as a Willie McCovey bat.

The walking catfish has become a pest in southern Florida, where it literally walked out of captivity and into the open waterways that line the area from Miami to Lake Okeechobee. Brought in from Asia as an aquarium curiosity, the voracious lung-bearing fish is now accused of wiping out domestic fish where it competes with them.

Because of Florida'a experience, California banned the catfish this year, the prohibition taking effect six weeks ago.

But until three or four months ago, Dauksha said, he did a brisk business in the curious fish, which he said is useful as a scavenger in large fish tanks. Like other catfish, it is a bottom feeder and will clean up organic debris.

But because it grows to two or three feet in length, it needs a big tank to live in. And any fish in the same tank with it had better be too big to eat, or the catfish will eradicate them, Dauksha said.

His fish is living peacefully with two big oscars, which look like giant carp, angel fish and a few other species.

The fish had been known in Florida to walk as far as a quarter-mile to find a new pond, and apparently can live out of water indefinitely if its body stays wet.

The catfish has two sets of gills and a lung, and it will suffocate if kept underwater away from the air. It breathes in quick trips to the surface when it takes on a fresh gulp of air, discharging the exhausted air an instant before.

On some of its zooms to the surface, Dauksha said, the fish has knocked the top off the tank and plummeted to the floor. When that happens, the fish may be found hours later, apparently moribund because it has dried out. But when dropped back in the water, it revives immediately, he said.

Dauksha said he was served notice Wednesday by the Fish and Game Department to ship the fish out of the state or turn it over to be destroyed. But he plans to ask the state for a permit to keep the fish for display purposes.

The same sort of permit, he said, has been issued to many pet shops to keep piranha, the deadly South American flesh-eaters.

Although unable to get the catfish in recent months, Dauksha said he had sold "a hell of a lot" of them in this area.

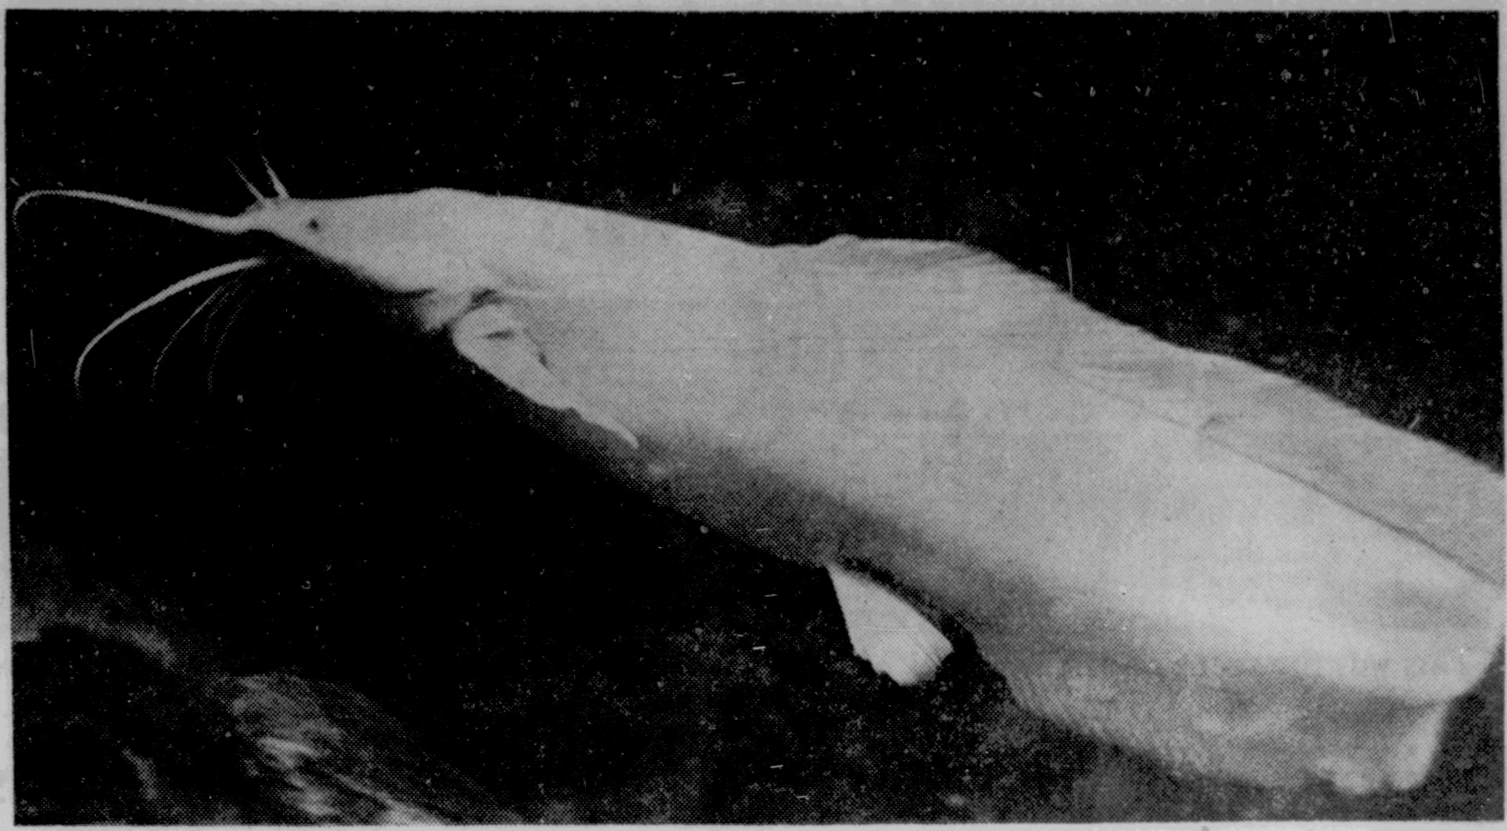
If not permitted to keep the fish, Dauksha said, he will donate it to Steinhart Aquarium, which has several of them already and is permitted to have them as a public institution.

Russell Ilds, fish and game warden, said the walking catfish is illegal even in pet shops. The new law, he said, requires the fish be destroyed or returned to the distributor.

Dauksha said the fish is still sold by distributors in the east and midwest, but not to California shops. California wholesalers will not handle the fish any more, he said.

Store Is Looted

Two recapped tires valued at $33, two radial 990 tires, with a total value of $130, one 660 tire worth $49, three chrome wheels valued at $60, a $15 tire and an $8 spoke-type wheel were stolen Wednesday from Triple S Tires, 1837 Fourth Street, San Rafael police reported today.



STRANGER IN PARADISE — This walking catfish, a tiny fingerling 30 months ago, has grown to two feet in its aquarium at a pet shop on Paradise Drive in Corte Madera. Now an outlaw in California, his days are numbered, but there may be many of his ilk here and there in Marin.

Action Taken To Protect Tennis Court Players

The Sausalito Recreation Commission last night came down on the side of the little guy by recommending that it be made a misdeameanor to chase someone off a tennis court.

Public Works, Director Norman Wohlschlaeger said the commission made the recommendation to the city council because of the fact that older people frequently order young people off the courts so they can play tennis.

In other action, the commission reviewed proposed bylaws for the youth center and approved criteria for redoing Tiffany Park at the end of North Street. The commission also approved maps of bicycle paths in the city and sent them to the council with a recommendation for installation of signs.

$100,000 Asked In Beard Fuss

BANGOR, Maine (UPI)—The father of a 17-year-old Belfast student filed suit in U.S. District Court yesterday seeking $100,000 in damages for his son suspended for growing a beard.

Leon Woodbury said his son, Errol, was following a family tradition in growing the beard, and the suspension could adversely affect his chances for a college scholarship.

Named in the suit were school district 34, the superintendent, the principal and 14 members of the district's board of directors.

ESKIMO OR MARINITE

Pupils Communicate Through Art Works

By LAURA DEVENDORF

If you asked a child in Marin to draw a picture of the biggest things in his life he'd probably come up with a car, a house and an enormous TV set. But not the Eskimo children in Labrador's Dog Teeth Mountains.

This is much to the delight of Marin school children who have recently been touring the Louise A. Boyd Museum in San Rafael. Marin youngsters really seem to relate to the exhibit of drawings, soapstone carvings and embroidery created by students at the Moravian School in Nain. For while showing an unfamiliar snow-blanketed environment dotted with huskies, sleds, seals, snow shoes, parkas and polar bears, the art has all the reality and disarming honesty of a child's point of view.

There are other interesting distinctions beyond the environmental ones.

Eskimo students pay exacting attention to detail. Meticulously drawn Mounties file by a equally exact housing compound and when one of the group is portrayed as having flaming red hair, you'd better believe he did.

The tracking, trapping and killing of animals is also definite. While Eskimos now have canned goods, game for them is still for food and not for sport. Therefore, hunting to the Eskimo child artist is unemotionally routine, rather than the blood-chilling "no-no" our children are coming to believe.

Unlike most American children, Eskimos always draw shadows for everything and frequently show objects partially chopped off by the edge of the page.

It's just a guess but when the world is reduced to near-empty, continuous white, each thing in it must seem distinctive in itself. Even shadows are easily noticed where they would be missed in our color-and-thing-cluttered vistas. And that same unending whiteness would make any subject seem just cut from a continuous panorama.

Originally, the Nain school was a Moravian Mission founded in 1929 by Arctic explorer Rear Adm. Donald B. MacMillan, taught by Miss Katie Hettasch and aided by the Boyd Museum group. The connection prompted Mrs. Ian White to arrange this current exhibit which continues daily except Monday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Mrs. White hoped the Eskimo children might want to help the Marin children now, by boosting the museum's sales desk. Miss Hettasch, who is still with the school, responded with this exhibit. It is one-third sold so far and part of the sales revenues will be returned to the Eskimo school for its use.

About her students' imaginative and very skillful art, Miss Hettasch says, "Any time — Sundays, rainy days, evenings — out came the crayons and papers to cut out and to draw. This is what they liked and enjoyed." Obviously, they still do. And it shows what fruitful happenings can occur when snowbound without a television set.

Fairfax Zoning Review Is Held

The Fairfax Planning Commission last night covered highway commercial and commercial services zonings in its continuing review of a proposed zoning ordinance.

Chief objections came from persons who own property now zoned highway commercial and proposed to be changed to residential.

The next public hearing on the zoning ordinance was changed from Jan. 8 to Jan. 15 at 8 p.m. at the Women's Club to give time to notify all property owners involved.

In other business last night, the commission denied a lot split requested by Loyd Ward at 56 Rocca Drive because the split would create two substandard lots.

Judges Appreciate Defenders' Efforts

A resolution praising the work of two deputy public defenders who have resigned was read yesterday by Judge Alvin H. Goldstein of Marin Municipal Court.

Thanked during the afternoon session were Richard H. Breiner and Robert I. Conn, who will be devoting all their time to private practice after next week. The resolution was signed by all the municipal judges.

FEATURED THIS SATURDAY

Christmas traditions vary throughout nations from the pinata in Mexico to the plum pudding in Great Britain, and Germany has its share. A look at some of the German traditions is given by Mrs. Johannes Haeussler of San Rafael in tomorrow's I-J Marin Magazine. The Christmas cookies, the advent candles, the home-made presents, the early start of the season and the late unveiling of the Christmas tree are among the customs that set the German Christmas apart from the American Christmas. In Germany, people make gifts for each other, and Mrs. Haeussler's story is accompanied by photos of what can be fashioned by a skillful housewife or father.

For those who enjoy original stories of Christmas from the pens of youngsters, the I-J weekend supplement has some from a non-graded reading group at Coleman School in San Rafael, taught by Jan Jacobson. The pupils even tell what they would do if they were a Christmas tree.

In the spirit of the religious season, there is a special feature about a display of pages from ancient bibles at Marin General Hospital with the oldest dated 1496.

This was the scene on Highway 101 after the last of three crashes caused in the Novato area, the highway patrol said, by a Woodacre motorist. Three persons were hurt.

Driver Accused Of Three Wrecks

A 42-year-old Woodacre man was booked for felony hit-and-run driving last night after he caused three separate accidents in North Marin, the California Highway Patrol said. Three persons were injured.

Held for arraignment this afternoon with no bail set was Gerald Thomas Fisher.

Police said Fisher's car sideswiped a car driven by John Martin Ferguson, 25, of 1045 Bel Marin Keys Boulevard, in Bel Marin Keys at 4:10 p.m. He didn't stop, the patrol said, but proceeded onto Highway 101, then onto eastbound Highway 37.

Tisher then turned his car around on Highway 37 and headed west in the eastbound lanes back onto the ramp to Highway 101. There, a car driven by Janet Sue Jones, 22, Reed Boulevard, Mill Valley, swerved to avoid him and overturned, the patrol said. Her year-old-son Jeffrey, was treated at Marin General Hospital for a bump on the head.

Fisher then went into the northbound lanes of Highway 101 heading south and struck a car driven by Cindy Margaret Lawrence, 16, of 26 Soreno Drive, Novato, caromed off and hit head-on a car driven by Robert Jon Steele, 32, of 7 Mary Lane, Corte Madera. A fourth car, driven by an unidentified motorist, also was involved. Steele was reported in satisfactory condition at Novato General Hospital today with a possible fractured hip, a cut on the head and possible internal injuries.

Miss Lawrence's brother, Michael, 13, was to see his own doctor for unspecified injuries.

After hitting Steele's car, the patrol said, Fisher fled on foot and apparently hitchhiked home. His wife later took him to Marin General where he was treated for a cut and hospital authorities called police.

Swedish Star To Wed U.S. Soldier

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — Swedish movie star Camilla Sparv and Herbert Hoover III, grandson of the founder of Hoover Vacuum Cleaner Co., will be married here tomorrow.

Hoover arrived yesterday from Germany, where he has been stationed with the U.S. Army. The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Sparv, arrived from Sweden.

The wedding will be in the fashionable Church by the Sea, with a reception later at the Indian Creek Country Club.

Mammoth Banquet Hall In New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Coliseum's banquet and dining facility — the largest in Manhattan — utilizes a recently expanded kitchen that can serve 5,000 people at one sitting. At the center of the all-gas-fueled kitchen that occupies a block and a half of space is a giant precision oven weighing more than nine tons.

The rotary oven can prepare thousands of pounds of meat or poultry at a time, and it is programmed so that every portion receives equal degrees of heat.

Chilean Jet Ordered To Fly To Cuba

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI)—A Chilean LAN Airlines jet with 98 persons aboard was hijacked today by an unidentified armed man and ordered to fly to Cuba. It was the year's 61st hijacking and the 30th of a Latin American aircraft.

LAN said the jet, a Boeing 727, would have to make several refueling stops en route to Havana. At the first of these, Arica, the hijacker permitted 15 women and children passengers to disembark.

In addition to Africa, the plane will refuel at Lima, Peru; Guayaquil, Ecuador, and Panana City, Panama.

A LAN spokesman said the hijacking occurred shortly after takeoff from Santiago on the flight to Arica and a refueling stop.

On Nov. 12 a LAN airliner was hijacked by two youths, 15 and 16, but they were overpowered by the crew in flight after the passengers had been released at a refueling stop.

The two boys have since been made wards of a juvenile court.

That was LAN's first hijack and afterward the company announced that a prepared plan had been put into action against the hijackers during the episode.

Runaway Roundup

NEW DELHI (AP) — Fifty-one missing children were recovered by New Delhi police one night in 37 raids throughout the city. Most of the children were runaways from other Indian cities.

Youth Chased, Held On Rash Of Holdups

A 20-year-old San Francisco youth was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of car theft and armed robbery of a San Anselmo service station.

Donald Earnest Steward was arrested at 9:40 p.m. by San Anselmo police who said they found $51 in his pockets, allegedly stolen from Bob Brogioli's Richfield Station, 100 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

Police said Stewart is wanted in connection with five other service station robberies, two in Campbell, Santa Clara County; two in Santa Clara and one in Santa Rosa. Military authorities have notified the Marin County Sheriff's office that Stewart has been listed as absent without leave since Oct. 25.

Police were alerted to the robbery by the station attendant, Larry Lindelli, who fled while the robber was in the station's men's room collecting the money he had ordered the attendant to leave there.

Lindelli said Stewart had told him not to resist, because two men armed with rifles were covering him from the street. Lindelli's brother, Bryan Lindelli, arrived at the station during the robbery, followed the suspect after he left the station, caught him and turned him over to police.

Stewart struggled with the officers and had to be handcuffed.

He was held to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

Czech Aftermath Snags SALT Talk

HELSINKI, (AP) — The snag in the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks is linked to the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia, diplomatic sources here said today.

The SALT talks have continued beyond their expected conclusion date because of disagreement on a site for full-scale negotiations next year. The Soviet insists on Helsinki, while the United States prefers Vienna, Austria.

Diplomatic sources said the dispute has little to do with the facilities or convenience of the two cities but relates primarily to what happened after Soviet armies poured into Czechoslovakia in August 1968.

Lebanon Finding It Difficult To Keep Cool In Mideast Strife

BEIRUT (AP) — Little Lebanon, with its 2.5 million people, has long known the key to survival in the explosive Middle East is strict neutrality. But maintaining that neutrality is proving difficult.

Palestinian guerrillas, bent on regaining territory held by Israel since the 1967 Arab-Israeli war, recognize their best chances for attacks against Israel are through Lebanon's southern frontier, bordering on the Jewish nation.

And Israel has made it clear that attacks launched from Lebanon bring automatic, and deadly, retaliation strikes against the neighbor to the north.

Lebanon first tasted the fury of Israeli retaliation in December 1968, after guerrillas, who had flown from Beirut to Athens, bombed and machine-gunned an Israeli airliner in the Greek city. Israel's response was a devastating commando raid on the international airport of Beirut, all but wiping out Lebanon's fleet of commercial airplanes.

While Lebanese politicians squabbled and governments fell and were reformed, the guerrillas took advantage of the situation, operating with impunity from Lebanese soil, and as winter deepened, the guerrillas left their mountain strongholds in the northeast and penetrated further into Lebanon, occupying several villages.

Israel has charged that some 50 raids into its territory has been launched from Lebanon since last Aug. 1, and reprisal attacks increased in number and intensity.

Syria, Lebanon's neighbor to the east, has made it clear from the start that it supports the efforts of the Arab guerrillas to get back the Golan Heights territory, which it lost during the 1967 war. Recently, Syria tightened the squeeze on Lebanon by closing its border to Lebanese army troops attacking guerrilla concentrations across the border.

Adding to the pinch is the dual religious character of Lebanon. The country is about half Christian and half Moslem, and alliance with more militant Arab neighbors is by no means unanimously desired in Lebanon.

Although Arab guerrillas have boasted they could increase their operations within Lebanon at will, recent clashes have shown the Lebanese army is capable of rising to the occasion.

The guerrillas failed to capture the key mountain town of Rashaya, which dominates the Israeli border. Although they held a major portion of the northern port city of Tripoli, and thousands of Palestinian refugees seized control of their camps, the guerrillas failed to spark the general uprising they had predicted.

Now, other Arab governments are no longer sure the battle by the guerrillas for the right to operate from Lebanon is such a good thing. A major concern is a highly visible disintegration of Arab unity.

An agreement reached with the aid of the Nasser government in Egypt finally ended the 10 days of civil strife in Lebanon, granting the guerrillas the right to operate only under certain conditions.

New $315,000 Rohnert Park Road Opens

A new realigned Rohnert Park frontage road to open up the west side of Highway 101 for development was officially opened yesterday with ribbon cutting ceremonies.

The new link is the first phase of road development to open up the land designated as a future regional shopping center being planned by Hugh and Richard Codding of Santa Rosa.

SECOND PHASE

The second phase will come next month when the state Division of Highways opens bids for construction of southbound on-ramps at the Rohnert Park Expressway.

Allen Hart of the state Division of Highways said yesterday that construction funds will probably be available for the winter project.

COLLEGE ENTRANCE

When completed, the road will provide easier access to Sonoma State College and move the school's main entrance from East Cotati Avenue to the Rohnert Park Expressway.

The $315,000 frontage road was financed largely by property owners with assistance from the state, county and city.

10 Nike Sites Will Be Closed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has announced plans to shut down 10 Nike-Hercules sites by March 31 as a cost-cutting move but the action will leave some 68 of the anti-missile batteries in place around the United States.

The announcement last night said three firing sites and two headquarters in the Niagara-Buffalo area of New York will be closed along with three firing sites and two headquarters in the Cincinnati-Dayton area of Ohio. Also, four batteries and one headquarters at Fort Bliss, Tex., will be deactivated.

Officials justified the move from a security standpoint by saying the Russian bomber threat has not developed to a serious stage, with only about 155 Soviet long-range bombers in existance.

MAN SPEEDS UP PACE

Pollution Of Ocean Spurs Prof's Warning

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Man, even with his relatively brief history on earth, has managed to surpass nature in polluting the broad oceans of the planet, says a leading California oceanographer.

And before it's too late, Dr. Edward D. Goldberg warned, man must research and discover the biological effects of his dumping of toxic substances.

Goldberg, professor of chemistry at the Scripps Institute of Oceanography at La Jolla, discussed man's increasing pollution of the seas in a speech to the American Geophysical Union here Wednesday.

He said living organisms have had millions of years to adapt through evolution to the slow accumulation of alien matter discharged by nature in the ocean.

But an exploding human population has added not only man-made pesticides, but huge quantities of matter from natural sources, he said.

Goldberg said some recent studies indicate that DDT will remain a hazard indefinitely.

Noting that excessive DDT residues resulted in the condemnation of one port's mackerel catch this year, Goldberg said there is a possibility that this important fish crop may not be usable next year, or for many years to come.

On the man vs. nature competition, Goldberg said:

Highly poisonous mercury has been washed to the sea by the rivers at a rate of some 5,000 tons a year, while man is sending another 5,000 to 10,000 tons of the element into the ocean each year.

Lead leaches from rocks and 150,000 tons is washed by the rivers to the oceans each year; man's use of antiknock gasoline in automobiles has resulted in the discharge of 250,000 tons of tetraethyl lead each year into the oceans.

Goldberg said at least a million tons of oil annually is lost on the surface of the ocean by tankers and that while fouled beaches and dead sea-birds are evident, the effect on lower organisms is almost entirely unknown.

Whether the oceans can survive as a home for life is an open question, he said.

Prisoners Freed

TOKYO (UPI)—The Viet Cong have released nine South Vietnamese prisoners captured in November, the National Liberation Front's Gia Phong Press Agnecy said yesterday in a broadcast monitored in Tokyo. The broadcast said the prisoners were freed Dec. 3.

Heart Fund Scholarship Signups On

Applications for college science students wanting to spend the summer working in the cardiovascular research field are now being taken by the Marin County Heart Association.

Thirty-five students will be granted scholarships under the 1970 Student Research Associates Program of the California Heart Association, William D. Linn, director of the Marin County Heart Association has announced.

They will work in research laboratories alongside well-known medical scientists in both northern and southern California, Linn said.

Two of the scholarships will be paid for by the local heart association.

Students, selected according to grade averages, will be given $750 to cover living expenses for a 10-week period starting shortly after June 1, Linn explained.

Applications must be filed by Feb. 1. Information may be obtained at the local heart association office at 1363 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael.

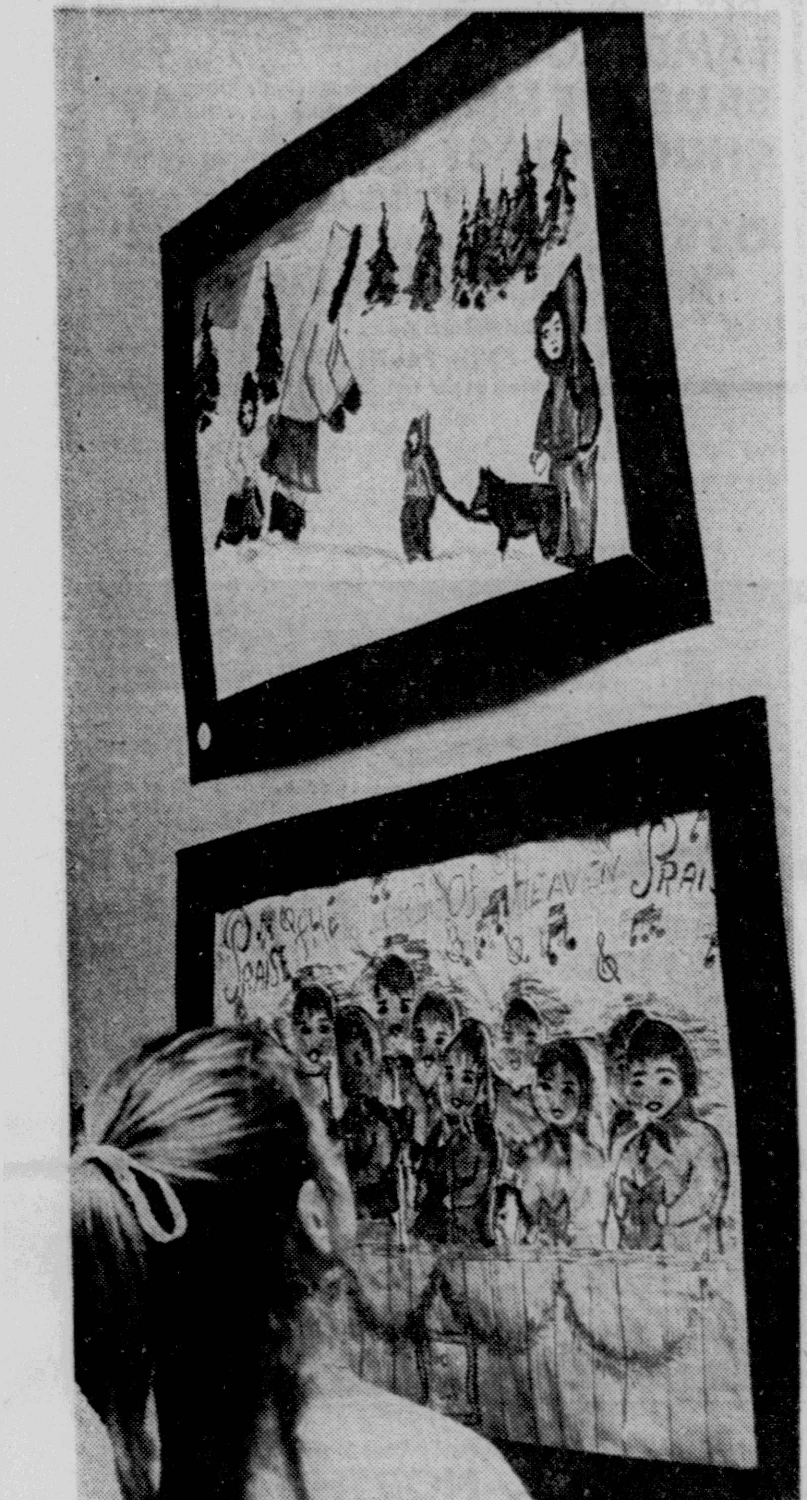
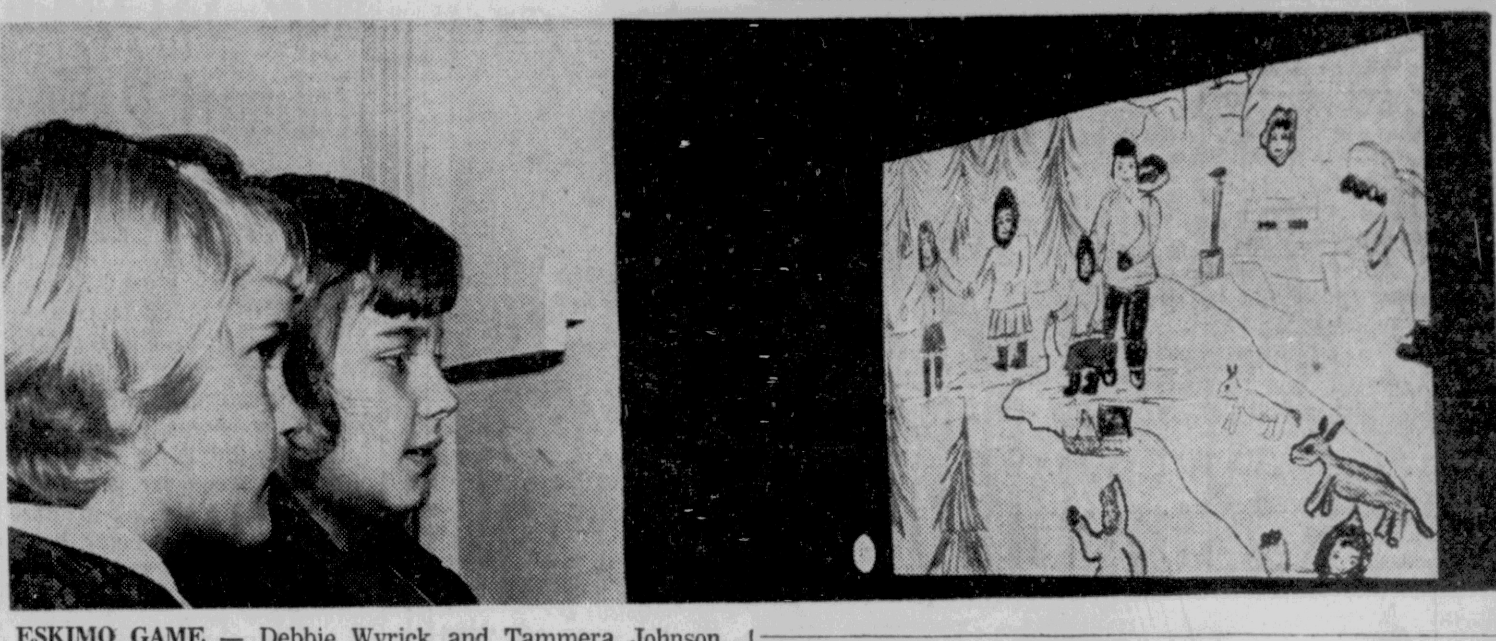
SOAPSTONE CARVING — Roberta Beecher, student at the Lu Sutton School in Novato, gets a closer look at the hunter and bear carved by Lucas Merkuratsuk, a student at the Moravian School in Nain, Labrador.



IMPORTANT PURSUITS—The outdoor life and the spiritual one are both important parts of Eskimo life as depicted in drawings by children in the Moravian School in Nain, Labrador. (Independent-Journal photos by Jim Kean)



ESKIMO GAME — Debbie Wyrick and Tammera Johnson on a Boyd Museum tour with the first and second grades from their school, are absorbed by a drawing of Eskimo children at play.

ESKIMO OR MARINITE

Pupils Communicate Through Art Works

By LAURA DEVENDORF

If you asked a child in Marin to draw a picture of the biggest things in his life he'd probably come up with a car, a house and an enormous TV set. But not the Eskimo children in Labrador's Dog Teeth Mountains.

This is much to the delight of Marin school children who have recently been touring the Louise A. Boyd Museum in San Rafael. Marin youngsters really seem to relate to the exhibit of drawings, soapstone carvings and embroidery created by students at the Moravian School in Nain. For while showing an unfamiliar snow-blanketed environment dotted with huskies, sleds, seals, snow shoes, parkas and polar bears, the art has all the reality and disarming honesty of a child's point of view.

There are other interesting distinctions beyond the environmental ones.

Eskimo students pay exacting attention to detail. Meticulously drawn Mounties file by a equally exact housing compound and when one of the group is portrayed as having flaming red hair, you'd better believe he did.

The tracking, trapping and killing of animals is also definite. While Eskimos now have canned goods, game for them is still for food and not for sport. Therefore, hunting to the Eskimo child artist is unemotionally routine, rather than the blood-chilling "no-no" our children are coming to believe.

Unlike most American children, Eskimos always draw shadows for everything and frequently show objects partially chopped off by the edge of the page.

It's just a guess but when the world is reduced to near-empty, continuous white, each thing in it must seem distinctive in itself. Even shadows are easily noticed where they would be missed in our color-and-thing-cluttered vistas. And that same unending whiteness would make any subject seem just cut from a continuous panorama.

Originally, the Nain school was a Moravian Mission founded in 1929 by Arctic explorer Rear Adm. Donald B. MacMillan, taught by Miss Katie Hettasch and aided by the Boyd Museum group. The connection prompted Mrs. Ian White to arrange this current exhibit which continues daily except Monday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Mrs. White hoped the Eskimo children might want to help the Marin children now, by boosting the museum's sales desk. Miss Hettasch, who is still with the school, responded with this exhibit. It is one-third sold so far and part of the sales revenues will be returned to the Eskimo school for its use.

About her students' imaginative and very skillful art, Miss Hettasch says, "Any time — Sundays, rainy days, evenings — out came the crayons and papers to cut out and to draw. This is what they liked and enjoyed." Obviously, they still do. And it shows what fruitful happenings can occur when snowbound without a television set.

Fairfax Zoning Review Is Held

The Fairfax Planning Commission last night covered highway commercial and commercial services zonings in its continuing review of a proposed zoning ordinance.

Chief objections came from persons who own property now zoned highway commercial and proposed to be changed to residential.

The next public hearing on the zoning ordinance was changed from Jan. 8 to Jan. 15 at 8 p.m. at the Women's Club to give time to notify all property owners involved.

In other business last night, the commission denied a lot split requested by Loyd Ward at 56 Rocca Drive because the split would create two substandard lots.

Judges Appreciate Defenders' Efforts

A resolution praising the work of two deputy public defenders who have resigned was read yesterday by Judge Alvin H. Goldstein of Marin Municipal Court.

Thanked during the afternoon session were Richard H. Breiner and Robert I. Conn, who will be devoting all their time to private practice after next week. The resolution was signed by all the municipal judges.

FEATURED THIS SATURDAY
Christmas traditions vary throughout nations from the pinata in Mexico to the plum pudding in Great Britain, and Germany has its share. A look at some of the German traditions is given by Mrs. Johannes Haeussler of San Rafael in tomorrow's I-J Marin Magazine. The Christmas cookies, the advent candles, the home-made presents, the early start of the season and the late unveiling of the Christmas tree are among the customs that set the German Christmas apart from the American Christmas. In Germany, people make gifts for each other, and Mrs. Haeussler's story is accompanied by photos of what can be fashioned by a skillful housewife or father.
For those who enjoy original stories of Christmas from the pens of youngsters, the I-J weekend supplement has some from a non-graded reading group at Coleman School in San Rafael, taught by Jan Jacobson. The pupils even tell what they would do if they were a Christmas tree.
In the spirit of the religious season, there is a special feature about a display of pages from ancient bibles at Marin General Hospital with the oldest dated 1496.

Lebanon Finding It Difficult To Keep Cool In Mideast Strife

BEIRUT (AP) — Little Lebanon, with its 2.5 million people, has long known the key to survival in the explosive Middle East is strict neutrality. But maintaining that neutrality is proving difficult.

Palestinian guerrillas, bent on regaining territory held by Israel since the 1967 Arab-Israeli war, recognize their best chances for attacks against Israel are through Lebanon's southern frontier, bordering on the Jewish nation.

And Israel has made it clear that attacks launched from Lebanon bring automatic, and deadly, retaliation strikes against the neighbor to the north.

Lebanon first tasted the fury of Israeli retaliation in December 1968, after guerrillas, who had flown from Beirut to Athens, bombed and machine-gunned an Israeli airliner in the Greek city. Israel's response was a devastating commando raid on the international airport of Beirut, all but wiping out Lebanon's fleet of commercial airplanes.

While Lebanese politicians squabbled and governments fell and were reformed, the guerrillas took advantage of the situation, operating with impunity from Lebanese soil, and as winter deepened, the guerrillas left their mountain strongholds in the northeast and penetrated further into Lebanon, occupying several villages.

Israel has charged that some 50 raids into its territory has been launched from Lebanon since last Aug. 1, and reprisal attacks increased in number and intensity.

Syria, Lebanon's neighbor to the east, has made it clear from the start that it supports the efforts of the Arab guerrillas to get back the Golan Heights territory, which it lost during the 1967 war. Recently, Syria tightened the squeeze on Lebanon by closing its border to Lebanese army troops attacking guerrilla concentrations across the border.

Adding to the pinch is the dual religious character of Lebanon. The country is about half Christian and half Moslem, and alliance with more militant Arab neighbors is by no means unanimously desired in Lebanon.

Although Arab guerrillas have boasted they could increase their operations within Lebanon at will, recent clashes have shown the Lebanese army is capable of rising to the occasion.

The guerrillas failed to capture the key mountain town of Rashaya, which dominates the Israeli border. Although they held a major portion of the northern port city of Tripoli, and thousands of Palestinian refugees seized control of their camps, the guerrillas failed to spark the general uprising they had predicted.

Now, other Arab governments are no longer sure the battle by the guerrillas for the right to operate from Lebanon is such a good thing. A major concern is a highly visible disintegration of Arab unity.

An agreement reached with the aid of the Nasser government in Egypt finally ended the 10 days of civil strife in Lebanon, granting the guerrillas the right to operate only under certain conditions.

New $315,000 Rohnert Park Road Opens

A new realigned Rohnert Park frontage road to open up the west side of Highway 101 for development was officially opened yesterday with ribbon cutting ceremonies.

The new link is the first phase of road development to open up the land designated as a future regional shopping center being planned by Hugh and Richard Codding of Santa Rosa.

SECOND PHASE

The second phase will come next month when the state Division of Highways opens bids for construction of southbound on-ramps at the Rohnert Park Expressway.

Allen Hart of the state Division of Highways said yesterday that construction funds will probably be available for the winter project.

COLLEGE ENTRANCE

When completed, the road will provide easier access to Sonoma State College and move the school's main entrance from East Cotati Avenue to the Rohnert Park Expressway.

The $315,000 frontage road was financed largely by property owners with assistance from the state, county and city.

10 Nike Sites Will Be Closed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has announced plans to shut down 10 Nike-Hercules sites by March 31 as a cost-cutting move but the action will leave some 68 of the anti-missile batteries in place around the United States.

The announcement last night said three firing sites and two headquarters in the Niagara-Buffalo area of New York will be closed along with three firing sites and two headquarters in the Cincinnati-Dayton area of Ohio. Also, four batteries and one headquarters at Fort Bliss, Tex., will be deactivated.

Officials justified the move from a security standpoint by saying the Russian bomber threat has not developed to a serious stage, with only about 155 Soviet long-range bombers in existance.

MAN SPEEDS UP PACE

Pollution Of Ocean Spurs Prof's Warning

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Man, even with his relatively brief history on earth, has managed to surpass nature in polluting the broad oceans of the planet, says a leading California oceanographer.

And before it's too late, Dr. Edward D. Goldberg warned, man must research and discover the biological effects of his dumping of toxic substances.

Goldberg, professor of chemistry at the Scripps Institute of Oceanography at La Jolla, discussed man's increasing pollution of the seas in a speech to the American Geophysical Union here Wednesday.

He said living organisms have had millions of years to adapt through evolution to the slow accumulation of alien matter discharged by nature in the ocean.

But an exploding human population has added not only man-made pesticides, but huge quantities of matter from natural sources, he said.

Goldberg said some recent studies indicate that DDT will remain a hazard indefinitely.

Noting that excessive DDT residues resulted in the condemnation of one port's mackerel catch this year, Goldberg said there is a possibility that this important fish crop may not be usable next year, or for many years to come.

On the man vs. nature competition, Goldberg said:

Highly poisonous mercury has been washed to the sea by the rivers at a rate of some 5,000 tons a year, while man is sending another 5,000 to 10,000 tons of the element into the ocean each year.

Lead leaches from rocks and 150,000 tons is washed by the rivers to the oceans each year; man's use of antiknock gasoline in automobiles has resulted in the discharge of 250,000 tons of tetraethyl lead each year into the oceans.

Goldberg said at least a million tons of oil annually is lost on the surface of the ocean by tankers and that while fouled beaches and dead sea-birds are evident, the effect on lower organisms is almost entirely unknown.

Whether the oceans can survive as a home for life is an open question, he said.

Prisoners Freed

TOKYO (UPI)—The Viet Cong have released nine South Vietnamese prisoners captured in November, the National Liberation Front's Gia Phong Press Agnecy said yesterday in a broadcast monitored in Tokyo. The broadcast said the prisoners were freed Dec. 3.

Heart Fund Scholarship Signups On

Applications for college science students wanting to spend the summer working in the cardiovascular research field are now being taken by the Marin County Heart Association.

Thirty-five students will be granted scholarships under the 1970 Student Research Associates Program of the California Heart Association, William D. Linn, director of the Marin County Heart Association has announced.

They will work in research laboratories alongside well-known medical scientists in both northern and southern California, Linn said.

Two of the scholarships will be paid for by the local heart association.

Students, selected according to grade averages, will be given $750 to cover living expenses for a 10-week period starting shortly after June 1, Linn explained.

Applications must be filed by Feb. 1. Information may be obtained at the local heart association office at 1363 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael.

If you're fussy and particular and looking for the best and cleanest older station wagon for the money—see this wagon before you buy any.

This all-white 6-cylinder station wagon will give unusually good mileage for the Marin family.

Local, one-owner wagon that defies the fact that it's 6 years old. There isn't a speck of wear anywhere inside or out, and if you've looked at any wagons, this is a rare trait.

Abernathy In Jail; Vows Fasting Lesson

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, chairman of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, went to jail last night vowing he would "teach Memphis a lesson" by fasting in his cell.

Abernathy, one of 19 civil rights leaders indicted Dec. 9 as an outgrowth of the seven-week classroom boycott by Negroes, said he would only drink liquids during his confinement.

Arriving from Atlanta with six staff members, Abernathy led about 400 persons on a two-columned march down sidewalks on both sides of Main Street and surrendered at the county jail.

The chanting marchers on the one-mile trek from a downtown church to the civic center snarled traffic at the height of a rush hour.

Abernathy was expected to remain in jail at least until Monday when a U.S. District Court judge will act on a suit that seeks to enjoin state, city and police officials from further prosecuting the charges against the 19 persons. Civil rights attorneys contend the new state law making it a misdemeanor for an adult to encourage a pupil to stay out of school to engage in a protest demonstration is unconstitutional.

Abernathy joined four local civil rights leaders who have declined on principle to post a token $1 bail required before their release.

The civil rights drive that resulted in the indictments was designed to pressure the school board into granting Negroes a greater voice in school affairs and to force Catholic-operated St. Joseph Hospital to negotiate with a Negro union local that has been on strike against the hospital since Oct. 5.

There have been no talks in the strike, although the school board has named two Negro board advisers and has promised to push for a change in election procedures to give Negroes a chance to run for the board.

The boycott of the schools at times kept about one-half of the city's 135,000 pupils out of classes. Fifty-four per cent of the enrollment is Negro.

Tough Coal Mine Safety Plan Sent To President

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite Republican warnings of a veto, Congress has sent to the White House a tough safety bill for the nation's 140,000 coal miners.

Chief targets in the bill are mine explosions and the dreaded "black lung" disease, daily threats in some 140,000 coal mines.

Before passage last night, the administration made known its objection to one major provision of the bill: federal payments to miners disabled by black lung.

A disabled miner with a wife and two children would receive $272 a month. The administration contends this will cost $385 million a year. Democrats put the figure at $60 million.

An important provision sets permissible dust levels in all mines. Coal dust can mean black lung and explosions. All mines have six years to meet a standard of not more than two miligrams per cubic meter of air . . .

Other provisions would:

Require reporting of all accidents and ignitions even if minor.

Fix expanded criminal penalties for willful violations, civil penalties against operators who violate the health and safety standards, and civil penalties for mines who violate such rules as the smoking ban.

Establish new controls over roof falls.

Expand the scope of present law on imminent danger closing orders.

Set up a new government health and safety research program.

Require improved mine lighting and at least two separate escapeways from each mine.

Make available a chest X-ray to all miners within 18 months and periodically thereafter.

Wife Of War Prisoner Sends Nixon Petition

SANTA CLARA (AP) — The wife of the first American pilot captured in the Vietnam War has sent President Richard M. Nixon a 70,000-signature petition asking him to press for the return of the estimated 1,380 U.S. prisoners of war.

Tangee Alvarez, 29, of Santa Clara said after the signatures were mailed yesterday that she does not expect any miracles from the petition, only that Nixon will "do something to get my man home."

"But we have worked so hard, you know, ever since September, and people from all over California have gotten involved," Mrs. Alvarez said. She shrugged and added, "Nixon keeps announcing troop reductions, but nobody announces when my husband is coming home."

She married Navy Lt. Everett Alvarez, two months before he left for Vietnam five and one-half years ago. Four months later — on Aug. 15, 1964 — he was shot down and captured during the second day of air fighting over North Vietnam.

Mrs. Alvarez said she kept silent on Navy orders until last August, when she publicly stated: "I don't believe enough is being done about the prisoners of war."

Then she started a petition drive in behalf of her husband and the other Americans presumed captured during the war.

She has received about 30 letters from her 31-year-old husband.

Key To Success

LYMINGTON, England (AP) — Christine Rix has a lot of success teaching elderly ladies to drive. All they need is a piano. Using a poker wedged in a coal scuttle as the gear shift, she recommends her pupils practice at the piano before they take their automobile out on the highway. "It gives them a lot of confidence," says Mrs. Rix.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Pancreatitis' Sudden Pain Is Often Tied With Gallbladder

VAN DELLEN

Pancreatitis is a painful and serious abdominal condition. The acute attack is most severe and often associated with shock. The distress begins in the "pit of the stomach" and usually radiates to the back or beneath the breastbone.

There is very little fever, and the skin is cold and clammy due to shock.

The manifestations vary, and as a result, certain blood tests are done whenever there is abdominal distress and pancreatitis is suspected. The serum amylase level rises early in the course of the disease. This occurs even in mild attacks.

SOME KNOWLEDGE of the anatomy of the pancreas is needed to appreciate the condition. The slender organ is located behind and beneath the stomach. Some of its cells manufacture insulin which is absorbed into the bloodstream to metabolize carbohydrates.

The remaining cells manufacture powerful digestants that empty into the small intestine through the same duct that bile from the gallbladder goes.

This explains why pancreatitis is frequently associated with gallbladder disease. The common opening into the intestine may be partially or completely obstructed by gallstones, spasm, or inflammation leading to a reflux of bile into the pancreas.

The duct wall swells and when the irritating pancreatic enzymes cannot escape, they overflow into the framework of the organ and begin to eat away the pancreas.

PANCREATITIS may follow a large intake of alcohol. It is believed that the alcohol leads to an irritation or swelling of the drainage duct of the pancreas and gallbladder. Too much booze may also have a chemical effect upon the pancreatic cells.

Acute pancreatitis is best treated in the hospital. The aftercare also is important to prevent recurrences. Overeating, obesity, and alcoholic abuse should be avoided.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

AN OLD REMEDY

C. H. writes: Would inhaling oxygen relieve a migraine headache?

REPLY

Oxygen was used in the past with questionable results. We now have more efficient remedies such as Cafergot and ergotamine. Sansert (methysergide) is a good preventive. It also helps to avoid the emotional causes and to get ample rest and outdoor activity. Now and then a food allergy is responsible

EPILEPSY AND WEAKNESS

J. T. writes: Can epilepsy per se cause the muscles to become weaker?

REPLY

No. There are various forms of epilepsy and in the major type the victim develops a convulsion in which the muscles become tense and rigid followed by clonic or jerky movements. This may lead to temporary fatigue of the muscle but should not cause weakness.

SOURCES OF LYSINE

L. W. writes: What is lysine and in what foods is the substance found?

REPLY

Lysine is one of the essential amino acids. It is found in fish, cheese, eggs, meat, yeast, corn, wheat germ, and leafy green vegetables. Proteins are composed of a variety of amino acids and some foods contain more of these building blocks than others.

BRAIN DAMAGE

B. L. writes: Can damage to the brain (after an accident) be determined via X-ray?

REPLY

In some cases, yes. But the majority also require a thorough examination and other tests such as the spinal tap.

PENICILLIN AND COLDS

D. N. P. writes: If penicillin is ineffective for colds, why do so many physicians give it?

REPLY

1. Most individuals do not consult the physician unless the cold is severe and a secondary infection exists.

2. Many strep sore throats and other bacterial infections are mislabeled colds. Penicillin is of value in these conditions.

3. Some patients demand penicillin. They feel cheated when told they have a common cold, and are given aspirin, or advised to stay in bed until well.

INFECTED BLADDER

M. P. writes: My husband had a physical checkup and the only thing found was blood and pus in the urine. Does this mean he will need an operation?

REPLY

No. Blood and pus in the urine usually suggest inflammation in the bladder, kidneys, or prostate. As a rule, such conditions can be corrected with medication. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on hematuria.

CIGARETTE COUGH

A reader writes: I have smoked cigarettes for many years and have a bad cough and am always spitting. I want to quit because my lungs are so full they hurt. My physician gave me cough medicine which has helped the hacking but my lungs are full again. I am 65.

REPLY

The best medicine is willpower. You have sufficient reason to quit smoking so why not take advantage of this motivating force?

EXCELLENT BUILDING BLOCKS

Mrs. M. C. writes: My two children (5 and 8 years old) eat lots of meat. Is this doing them any harm?

REPLY

No. Meat is rich in the types of proteins that make excellent building blocks. These youngsters also need other basic foods, such as fruits, vegetables, milk, dairy products, eggs, and cereals.

Alioto Witness Is Kept Secret

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Attorneys in San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto's $12.5 million libel suit against Look Magazine refuse to say who was involved in a secret deposition hearing held yesterday in Sacramento.

There were reports that Tommy Lee Thomas, a former son-in-law of alleged Mafia figure James Fratianno, was involved, but the attorneys would not commnt.

A court order requires that when Thomas gives his deposition, its contents must be kept secret.

Alioto attorneys say Thomas is the only source for a statement in the magazine that Alioto and Fratianno met at a restaurant between San Francisco and Sacramento. Alioto has denied such a meeting took place.

Children Made Wards Of Court

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Three children of Mrs. Betty Lansdown Fouquet, accused of abandoning her 5-year-old daughter next to a busy freeway, were made wards of the court yesterday during a closed hearing.

The hearing, however, failed to reveal the whereabouts of the woman's missing 8-year-old son.

Mrs. Fouquet, 26, was arrested with her common-law husband, Ronald, 31, after the woman's daughter by a previous marriage, Jody, was found clinging to a freeway fence near Bakersfield Oct. 25. The couple faces trial in Bakersfield Feb. 2 on child abandonment charges.

Hoarding Begins As Result Of Strike At Ports

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — With 39 freighters already stalled in Pacific ports by a month-old maritime labor dispute, householders in Hawaii and Guam are hoarding rice and other staple foods.

The Pacific Maritime Association said the dispute involves five of its member companies with fleets totalling 120 vessels, the issue is the number of firemen needed to man two Matson Navigation Co. containerized ships still under construction in Baltimore, Md.

Matson contends the new ships will be so highly mechanized that fewer crewmen will be needed.

Hawaii and Guam, greatly dependent on imports for the necessities of life, were already feeling the pinch.

In Honolulu, a buyer for a large supermarket chain said customers were buying up to 25 pounds of rice at a time.

Abernathy In Jail; Vows Fasting Lesson

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, chairman of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, went to jail last night vowing he would "teach Memphis a lesson" by fasting in his cell.

Abernathy, one of 19 civil rights leaders indicted Dec. 9 as an outgrowth of the seven-week classroom boycott by Negroes, said he would only drink liquids during his confinement.

Arriving from Atlanta with six staff members, Abernathy led about 400 persons on a two-columned march down sidewalks on both sides of Main Street and surrendered at the county jail.

The chanting marchers on the one-mile trek from a downtown church to the civic center snarled traffic at the height of a rush hour.

Abernathy was expected to remain in jail at least until Monday when a U.S. District Court judge will act on a suit that seeks to enjoin state, city and police officials from further prosecuting the charges against the 19 persons. Civil rights attorneys contend the new state law making it a misdemeanor for an adult to encourage a pupil to stay out of school to engage in a protest demonstration is unconstitutional.

Abernathy joined four local civil rights leaders who have declined on principle to post a token $1 bail required before their release.

The civil rights drive that resulted in the indictments was designed to pressure the school board into granting Negroes a greater voice in school affairs and to force Catholic-operated St. Joseph Hospital to negotiate with a Negro union local that has been on strike against the hospital since Oct. 5.

There have been no talks in the strike, although the school board has named two Negro board advisers and has promised to push for a change in election procedures to give Negroes a chance to run for the board.

The boycott of the schools at times kept about one-half of the city's 135,000 pupils out of classes. Fifty-four per cent of the enrollment is Negro.

Tough Coal Mine Safety Plan Sent To President

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite Republican warnings of a veto, Congress has sent to the White House a tough safety bill for the nation's 140,000 coal miners.

Chief targets in the bill are mine explosions and the dreaded "black lung" disease, daily threats in some 140,000 coal mines.

Before passage last night, the administration made known its objection to one major provision of the bill: federal payments to miners disabled by black lung.

A disabled miner with a wife and two children would receive $272 a month. The administration contends this will cost $385 million a year. Democrats put the figure at $60 million.

An important provision sets permissible dust levels in all mines. Coal dust can mean black lung and explosions. All mines have six years to meet a standard of not more than two miligrams per cubic meter of air . . .

Other provisions would:

Require reporting of all accidents and ignitions even if minor.

Fix expanded criminal penalties for willful violations, civil penalties against operators who violate the health and safety standards, and civil penalties for mines who violate such rules as the smoking ban.

Establish new controls over roof falls.

Expand the scope of present law on imminent danger closing orders.

Set up a new government health and safety research program.

Require improved mine lighting and at least two separate escapeways from each mine.

Make available a chest X-ray to all miners within 18 months and periodically thereafter.

Wife Of War Prisoner Sends Nixon Petition

SANTA CLARA (AP) — The wife of the first American pilot captured in the Vietnam War has sent President Richard M. Nixon a 70,000-signature petition asking him to press for the return of the estimated 1,380 U.S. prisoners of war.

Tangee Alvarez, 29, of Santa Clara said after the signatures were mailed yesterday that she does not expect any miracles from the petition, only that Nixon will "do something to get my man home."

"But we have worked so hard, you know, ever since September, and people from all over California have gotten involved," Mrs. Alvarez said. She shrugged and added, "Nixon keeps announcing troop reductions, but nobody announces when my husband is coming home."

She married Navy Lt. Everett Alvarez, two months before he left for Vietnam five and one-half years ago. Four months later — on Aug. 15, 1964 — he was shot down and captured during the second day of air fighting over North Vietnam.

Mrs. Alvarez said she kept silent on Navy orders until last August, when she publicly stated: "I don't believe enough is being done about the prisoners of war."

Then she started a petition drive in behalf of her husband and the other Americans presumed captured during the war.

She has received about 30 letters from her 31-year-old husband.

Key To Success

LYMINGTON, England (AP) — Christine Rix has a lot of success teaching elderly ladies to drive. All they need is a piano. Using a poker wedged in a coal scuttle as the gear shift, she recommends her pupils practice at the piano before they take their automobile out on the highway. "It gives them a lot of confidence," says Mrs. Rix.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Pancreatitis' Sudden Pain Is Often Tied With Gallbladder

VAN DELLEN

Pancreatitis is a painful and serious abdominal condition. The acute attack is most severe and often associated with shock. The distress begins in the "pit of the stomach" and usually radiates to the back or beneath the breastbone.

There is very little fever, and the skin is cold and clammy due to shock.

The manifestations vary, and as a result, certain blood tests are done whenever there is abdominal distress and pancreatitis is suspected. The serum amylase level rises early in the course of the disease. This occurs even in mild attacks.

SOME KNOWLEDGE of the anatomy of the pancreas is needed to appreciate the condition. The slender organ is located behind and beneath the stomach. Some of its cells manufacture insulin which is absorbed into the bloodstream to metabolize carbohydrates.

The remaining cells manufacture powerful digestants that empty into the small intestine through the same duct that bile from the gallbladder goes.

This explains why pancreatitis is frequently associated with gallbladder disease. The common opening into the intestine may be partially or completely obstructed by gallstones, spasm, or inflammation leading to a reflux of bile into the pancreas.

The duct wall swells and when the irritating pancreatic enzymes cannot escape, they overflow into the framework of the organ and begin to eat away the pancreas.

PANCREATITIS may follow a large intake of alcohol. It is believed that the alcohol leads to an irritation or swelling of the drainage duct of the pancreas and gallbladder. Too much booze may also have a chemical effect upon the pancreatic cells.

Acute pancreatitis is best treated in the hospital. The aftercare also is important to prevent recurrences. Overeating, obesity, and alcoholic abuse should be avoided.

AN OLD REMEDY

C. H. writes: Would inhaling oxygen relieve a migraine headache?

REPLY

Oxygen was used in the past with questionable results. We now have more efficient remedies such as Cafergot and ergotamine. Sansert (methysergide) is a good preventive. It also helps to avoid the emotional causes and to get ample rest and outdoor activity. Now and then a food allergy is responsible

EPILEPSY AND WEAKNESS

J. T. writes: Can epilepsy per se cause the muscles to become weaker?

REPLY

No. There are various forms of epilepsy and in the major type the victim develops a convulsion in which the muscles become tense and rigid followed by clonic or jerky movements. This may lead to temporary fatigue of the muscle but should not cause weakness.

SOURCES OF LYSINE

L. W. writes: What is lysine and in what foods is the substance found?

REPLY

Lysine is one of the essential amino acids. It is found in fish, cheese, eggs, meat, yeast, corn, wheat germ, and leafy green vegetables. Proteins are composed of a variety of amino acids and some foods contain more of these building blocks than others.

BRAIN DAMAGE

B. L. writes: Can damage to the brain (after an accident) be determined via X-ray?

REPLY

In some cases, yes. But the majority also require a thorough examination and other tests such as the spinal tap.

PENICILLIN AND COLDS

D. N. P. writes: If penicillin is ineffective for colds, why do so many physicians give it?

REPLY

1. Most individuals do not consult the physician unless the cold is severe and a secondary infection exists.

2. Many strep sore throats and other bacterial infections are mislabeled colds. Penicillin is of value in these conditions.

3. Some patients demand penicillin. They feel cheated when told they have a common cold, and are given aspirin, or advised to stay in bed until well.

INFECTED BLADDER

M. P. writes: My husband had a physical checkup and the only thing found was blood and pus in the urine. Does this mean he will need an operation?

REPLY

No. Blood and pus in the urine usually suggest inflammation in the bladder, kidneys, or prostate. As a rule, such conditions can be corrected with medication. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on hematuria.

CIGARETTE COUGH

A reader writes: I have smoked cigarettes for many years and have a bad cough and am always spitting. I want to quit because my lungs are so full they hurt. My physician gave me cough medicine which has helped the hacking but my lungs are full again. I am 65.

REPLY

The best medicine is willpower. You have sufficient reason to quit smoking so why not take advantage of this motivating force?

EXCELLENT BUILDING BLOCKS

Mrs. M. C. writes: My two children (5 and 8 years old) eat lots of meat. Is this doing them any harm?

REPLY

No. Meat is rich in the types of proteins that make excellent building blocks. These youngsters also need other basic foods, such as fruits, vegetables, milk, dairy products, eggs, and cereals.

Black Studies Pay Blocked For Aides

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Pay for student aides in the controversial Black Studies Department at San Francisco State College has been cut off and President S. I. Hayakawa, of Mill Valley, says faculty salaries are "under review."

Hayakawa, who has said a "reign of terror" exists in the department, and Dean Urban Whitaker made the announcement at a news conference in Hayakawa's office.

Whitaker said the 10 teacher assistants were paid "about $130" each for November "but no future expenditures of public funds are authorized."

Whitaker's action, endorsed by Hayakawa, came after publication Wednesday in the student newspaper "Black Fire" of a confidential Whitaker memo which threatened to cut off faculty and student teacher aides' pay if the Black Studies faculty failed to meet with him to discuss departmental problems.

Whitaker said he has asked the Black Studies faculty to meet with him seven times since Sept. 12 but the faculty has refused.

"It is only natural, as in any organization, that communication exist between all levels," he said.

Hayakawa said further lack of cooperation from the Black Studies faculty may have to be "controlled through the paychecks."

Rather than abandon the Black Studies program, he said, it might be necessary to divide it among existing classes such as English and sociology.

Black Studies has an enrollment of 460 students with 18 faculty members.

Warehouse Fire Damage $100,000

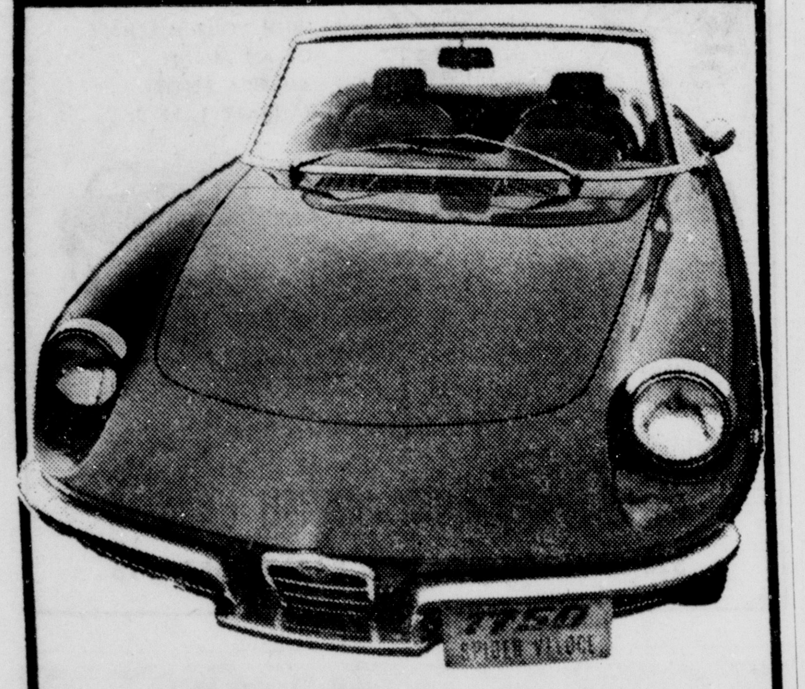
SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A three-alarm fire at a White Front store warehouse yesterday destroyed or damaged more than $100,000 worth of Christmas merchandise.

Fire Chief John Marchi said automatic sprinklers prevented what might have been a $1 million loss, but the sprinklers did a considerable amount of water damage.

The chief said the $100,000 estimate was "very conservative" and placed damage to the building at $10,000.

Marchi said a discarded cigarette was believed to have started the blaze. Six employees were at work in the building and tried to put the fire out with the store's fire hoses.

The Declaration of Independence is preserved in a helium-filled glass case in the National Archives Building in Washington.



Alfa Romeo 1750 Spider Veloce.

Be a sport.

That's at least one thousand dollars less than any car in an Alfa Romeo's class.

And what a class.

This year, Alfa's 1750 Spider Veloce has a larger, more powerful twin-overhead-cam engine. It turns out 132 hp. And at 90 mph about half its power is still in reserve.

The 1750 Spider now also has a new race-proven fuel injection system. A system that improves performance and saves gas. And it's standard.

What else is new?

New pressure-equalized disc brakes on all four wheels. Which means you're going to stop like you never stopped before.

And of course, you still get five forward speeds, fully synchronized. And wide-tread, high-performance, premium radial-ply tires on all four wheels.

All this, and a beautiful Italian body, for $4248 POE.

That's Alfa's 1750 Spider Veloce.

Alioto Witness Is Kept Secret

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Attorneys in San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto's $12.5 million libel suit against Look Magazine refuse to say who was involved in a secret deposition hearing held yesterday in Sacramento.

There were reports that Tommy Lee Thomas, a former son-in-law of alleged Mafia figure James Fratianno, was involved, but the attorneys would not commnt.

A court order requires that when Thomas gives his deposition, its contents must be kept secret.

Alioto attorneys say Thomas is the only source for a statement in the magazine that Alioto and Fratianno met at a restaurant between San Francisco and Sacramento. Alioto has denied such a meeting took place.

Children Made Wards Of Court

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Three children of Mrs. Betty Lansdown Fouquet, accused of abandoning her 5-year-old daughter next to a busy freeway, were made wards of the court yesterday during a closed hearing.

The hearing, however, failed to reveal the whereabouts of the woman's missing 8-year-old son.

Mrs. Fouquet, 26, was arrested with her common-law husband, Ronald, 31, after the woman's daughter by a previous marriage, Jody, was found clinging to a freeway fence near Bakersfield Oct. 25. The couple faces trial in Bakersfield Feb. 2 on child abandonment charges.

Hoarding Begins As Result Of Strike At Ports

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — With 39 freighters already stalled in Pacific ports by a month-old maritime labor dispute, householders in Hawaii and Guam are hoarding rice and other staple foods.

The Pacific Maritime Association said the dispute involves five of its member companies with fleets totalling 120 vessels, the issue is the number of firemen needed to man two Matson Navigation Co. containerized ships still under construction in Baltimore, Md.

Matson contends the new ships will be so highly mechanized that fewer crewmen will be needed.

Hawaii and Guam, greatly dependent on imports for the necessities of life, were already feeling the pinch.

In Honolulu, a buyer for a large supermarket chain said customers were buying up to 25 pounds of rice at a time.

Emotional Time For Rough, Tough Collegiate Gridders

Visit Shriners Hospital

By EDITH M. LEDERER

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — With tears in his eyes, University of Indiana running back John Isenbarger leaned over the bedside of 11-year-old Fotula and offered her some Christmas toys and candy.

The dark-haired Greek girl, flat on her back with a dislocated right hip, turned away shyly from her 6-foot-3, 205-pound "Santa Claus" in a blue blazer.

In another room, Stanford linebacker Don Parish made small talk with 14-year-old Norman, a brown-haired youth who was suspended in a bicycle wheel brace, recuperating from an operation for curvature of the spine.

A VISIT

From football fields across the nation, members of the 45th annual Shrine East-West teams came yesterday to the San Francisco Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children to visit the youngsters who wouldn't be able to make the Dec. 27th classic at Stanford Stadium.

"It adds a lot to the game, that's for sure," said Army's star running back, Lynn Moore, as he wound up talking with 15-year-old Pam, bedridden with a knee problem.

"I really admire these kids," he said. "It makes you wonder about yourself. They've been in the hospital so long and they're in great spirits and we're out in the world running around and complaining."

AGREES

As he sat on the edge of 9-year-old Mike's bed, helping him figure out a new game, UCLA running back Greg Jones echoed Moore's sentiments.

Noting that all proceeds from the game go to the hospital, Jones said: "It's such a big honor really to be able to help these kids by doing something we can do well. They're just great."

For Parish, the visit was a "double honor." He was on the high school Shrine team and had visited the hospital before. As a veteran, he divided is time between Norman and 2½-year-old Terry, dressed in a Seanford red sweater and red and white beanie.

Carrying Terry in his arms, Parish wandered through the ward, taking occasional licks from the little boy's lollipop stick and crowing: "Show them how we share our food."

LETTERMAN

Nearby, University of Oregon end-tackle Andy Maurer and his wife sat on chairs in front of 9-year-old Rudy, strapped to a standing board.

Halfway through a skiing game, Maurer realized that Rudy's green and gold Oregon sweater with two stripes on the sleeve made him a second-year letterman. "He's got more letters than I've got," quipped Maurer.

Each youngster had a present for his football "Santa Claus"—a picture of himself and a picture of the hospital in a handmade leather picture frame.

University of Oklahoma tight end Steve Zabel, obviously touched by the gift, asked 10-year-old Danny if he would autograph the picture.

With great concentration, the bedridden youth haltingly printed his signature in big crooked letters and handed it back to a smiling Zabel.

JIM GILMARTIN

Versatile Raceway For State Capital

James R. Coleman of Kentfield, John V. Boito of San Rafael and Arthur B. Siri of Santa Rosa, who were instrumental in the creation of Sears Point International Raceway, have now pooled their talents in the renaissance of Sacramento International Raceways.

Members of the news media were given a look at the plans for the new motor sports complex in the state capital Wednesday and versatility seems to be its major appeal.

Said Coleman, an officer and former general manager at Sears Point, "The (Sacramento) facility is designed to accommodate all recognized forms of automobile racing in an atmosphere of safety and comfort for contestants and spectators. It will be the most modern and complete one of its kind in Northern California."

The facility will include a lighted and paved three-eights mile oval, a flat, quarter-mile dirt track for motorcycles, lighted drag strip, a two-plus mile road circuit that can accommodate races ranging from amateurs to Grand Prix and Indianapolis-type cars.

"We'll also have an off-road dirt configuration available for dune buggy and four-wheel drive racing," said Coleman, who added that a 15,000-seat grandstand, moderate admission fees, general all-around comfort and a program of variety will give the state capital an appealing motor sports program for the whole family.

To Start First Of The Year

Weather permitting, actual construction on the elaborate racing plant will start soon after the first of the year and should be ready to roll by next spring.

Coleman, Siri and Boito have joined forces in this venture with Donald G. Davis, an independent real estate developer, and Melvin G. Gilpen, a management consultant.

Siri was the engineering contractor who built Sears Point while Boito was involved in the Sonoma County raceway from its inception.

GREAT NEWS from the Ivy League: Barry Brink of Mill Valley, the Dartmouth College defensive tackle by way of Tamalpais High School, has been named to the official Coaches' All-Ivy team as an honorable mention selection.

Brink, only a junior, was one of the key reasons for Dartmouth's fine 8-1 co-championship record this year. He also was cited by the Associated Press as an honorable mention on both the All-Ivy and All-New England squads.

Barry seems to be following in the footsteps of his dad, Mill Valley auto dealer Larry Brink, who played a lot of college and pro ball in his day.

Marin Will Miss Cookie

THE RICH GET Richer Dept.: Cookie Arrighi, 15-year-old Marin Swim Club ace, and her family are moving to Santa Clara where Cookie will join coach George Haines' powerful Olympic-minded Santa Clara Swim Club.

Earlier this year another Marin star, Leslie Bryans, joined the Santa Clara team.

Said Mrs. Kay Campion of the Marin Swim Club: "Let's face it, until we can get more pools, especially 50 meters, and more and better training time we just can't do right by our dedicated kids and they'll have to go elsewhere.

"You know, reading remarks from coaches and educators concerning discipline and dedication makes me wonder why our county, particularly, seems to be unaware of the needs of the hundreds of kids in Marin who are involved in the most demanding, most disciplined, most time consuming of all sports completely on a voluntary basis."

Miss Arrighi, at 15 a seven-year vet of AAU swimming, this year qualified for both outdoor and indoor Senior Women's Nationals as well as setting a couple of Pacific Association records and spearheading her age group medley and freestyle relay teams to seven national and 14 P.A. marks.

We wish her well in the "Big Time" at Santa Clara.

Bud Poile Fired By Flyers

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Bud Poile, general manager of the Philadelphia Flyers since their founding, was fired today by the National Hockey League club.

Assistant General Manager Keith Allen, who coached the club to the playoffs in its first two seasons before moving into the front office this year, was named acting general manager.

The Flyers are in fourth place in the NHL's West Division with a 5-11-11 record for 21 points.

Poile, reached at his home here, said his dismissal came as a complete surprise. Asked if he had any idea prior to the announcement, he said, "No. Not a bit."

Flyers Board Chairman Ed Snider gave Poile, a former coach and general manager of the Seals when they were in San Francisco, the news by telephone. The announcement said the firing was over "fundamental differences of opinion" between the owners and Poile on several phases of club operations.

"There are no hard feelings involved," Snider said. "I wish Bud the best of success wherever he goes."

Poile said he has no idea where he is going.

Redwood, San Marin Booters Tie

It's a tie.

That's the way the 1969 Marin County Athletic League soccer race wound up yesterday in a last round of games played on sloshy fields.

In the key game, San Marin, with goals from Pete Whitoff and Ken LaRoche, downed Terra Linda, 2-0, to keep pace with Redwood, a 3-0 winner of Tamalpais.

That left San Marin and Redwood tied for championship honors with identical 6-1-3 records and 15 points each.

San Rafael, a 3-1 winner over Novato, tied Terra Linda for third place. Drake, a 2-0 winner over Marin Catholic finished sixth, just behind Tamalpais.

Andeirs Carlsson whipped in two goals, including one on a direct corner kick, to lead Redwood over Tamalpais. Jon Broderick scored the other goal.

San Rafael got goals from Paul Crovo, Bob Klyce and Andy Colan.

A's Jackson Top Slugger In The A.L.

BOSTON (AP) — Reggie Jackson of Oakland won the American League's individual slugging title this year with a .608 percentage, while Boston edged baltimore pennant-winning Orioles in team slugging, .415 to .414.

Jackson, playing only his second full season in the majors, hammered out 47 homers, 36 doubles and three triples among his 151 hits. That gave his 334 total bases in 549 at bats and a 16-point edge in the percentages over second place Rico Petrocelli of Boston, who had a .589 mark.

The 23-year-old outfielder tied with Minnesota's harmon Killebrew for the league lead in receiving the most intentional bases on balls, 20, and also took the dubious distinction of most strikeouts for the second year in a row with 142.

Killebrew was third in the slugging percentages with a .584 average, while Washington's Frank Howard, the 1968 champion with a .552 mark, rose to .574 this year but wound up in fourth place according to official averages released today by the league office.

Marin 'Cats Advance In Tourney

Marin Catholic's basketball team vaulted into the semifinals of the Rose City Invitational Tournament at Cardinal Newman High School in Santa Rosa yesterday by nicking Eureka, 57-53.

The Wildcats, who snapped a six-game losing streak, will meet Cardinal Newman at 9:30 tonight.

Junior forward Bill Donnellan did most of the damage with 29 points, 20 coming in the first half. Only four Wildcats got into the scoring act, with Mike Parnow getting 15 points and Tim Stone 12.

It seemed to be a no-touch game as both teams were called for only six fouls each. The Wildcats won it by taking a one-point lead in the third quarter and nursing it through a low-scoring final period, which saw only 15 points go on the scoreboard.

Maravich Scores 50 But Troy Nips LSU

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

One day after their worst setback of the young basketball season, Coast cage fans got their greatest triumph.

USC called on LSU last night and handed the Tigers their first loss of the season in a wild 101-98 scramble. The brilliant Pete Maravich of the Tigers hooped 50, but USC's balanced attack saw five men score between 14 and 19.

The Trojans roared out to a 23-point lead but the Tigers cut it to 97-96 with 51 seconds to go. But Trojan center Ron Riley got credit for tipping in a missed free throw during a wild scramble and Dennis Layton's two free throws with nine seconds to go capped the victory.

The win came one day after unbeaten Houston easily defeated Santa Clara in a let-down for Coast cage fans who thought the Broncs might be one of the nation's top teams.

It was a good night all around for the West.

For instance, Nevada Reno called on Creighton and pulled a stunning 67-66 upset. Rollie Hess hit 14 of 15 free throws and 28 points in leading Wolfpack to its third win in six starts.

And Brigham Young won at Texas Tech 87-81 but Arizona fell at North Texas 98-81 to give the West a solid 3-for-4 night on the road where wins are scarce.

University of Pacific, along with Santa Clara the West Coast Athletic Conference's best, ran its record to 5-1 with a 93-85 win over Portland.

Black Studies Pay Blocked For Aides

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Pay for student aides in the controversial Black Studies Department at San Francisco State College has been cut off and President S. I. Hayakawa, of Mill Valley, says faculty salaries are "under review."

Hayakawa, who has said a "reign of terror" exists in the department, and Dean Urban Whitaker made the announcement at a news conference in Hayakawa's office.

Whitaker said the 10 teacher assistants were paid "about $130" each for November "but no future expenditures of public funds are authorized."

Whitaker's action, endorsed by Hayakawa, came after publication Wednesday in the student newspaper "Black Fire" of a confidential Whitaker memo which threatened to cut off faculty and student teacher aides' pay if the Black Studies faculty failed to meet with him to discuss departmental problems.

Whitaker said he has asked the Black Studies faculty to meet with him seven times since Sept. 12 but the faculty has refused.

"It is only natural, as in any organization, that communication exist between all levels," he said.

Hayakawa said further lack of cooperation from the Black Studies faculty may have to be "controlled through the paychecks."

Rather than abandon the Black Studies program, he said, it might be necessary to divide it among existing classes such as English and sociology.

Black Studies has an enrollment of 460 students with 18 faculty members.

Warehouse Fire Damage $100,000

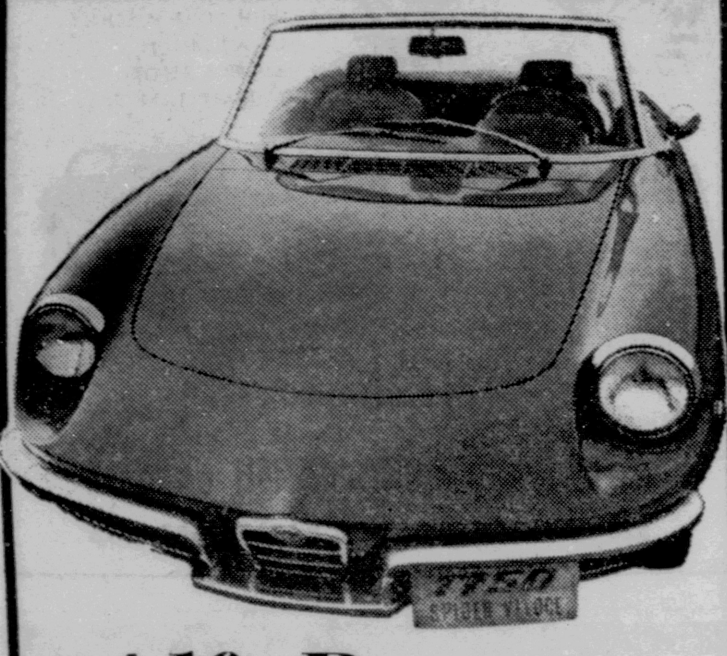
SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A three-alarm fire at a White Front store warehouse yesterday destroyed or damaged more than $100,000 worth of Christmas merchandise.

Fire Chief John Marchi said automatic sprinklers prevented what might have been a $1 million loss, but the sprinklers did a considerable amount of water damage.

The chief said the $100,000 estimate was "very conservative" and placed damage to the building at $10,000.

Marchi said a discarded cigarette was believed to have started the blaze. Six employees were at work in the building and tried to put the fire out with the store's fire hoses.

The Declaration of Independence is preserved in a helium-filled glass case in the National Archives Building in Washington.



Alfa Romeo 1750 Spider Veloce.

Be a sport.

That's at least one thousand dollars less than any car in an Alfa Romeo's class.

And what a class.

This year, Alfa's 1750 Spider Veloce has a larger, more powerful twin-overhead-cam engine. It turns out 132 hp. And at 90 mph about half its power is still in reserve.

The 1750 Spider now also has a new race-proven fuel injection system. A system that improves performance and saves gas. And it's standard.

What else is new?

New pressure-equalized disc brakes on all four wheels. Which means you're going to stop like you never stopped before.

And of course, you still get five forward speeds, fully synchronized. And wide-tread, high-performance, premium radial-ply tires on all four wheels.

All this, and a beautiful Italian body, for $4248 POE.

That's Alfa's 1750 Spider Veloce.

A Traveling Accident: That's Jerry Quarry

When Jerry Quarry, the box-fighter, was a very young man, he poised on the edge of a swimming pool one day and executed a perfect swan dive. Which would have been all right except there wasn't any water in the pool.

When Jerry Quarry got his first chance at the heavyweight title, he chose the eve of the fight to get in a little horse play wrestling with his brother. Which would have been all right except he sprained his back.

WHEN JERRY Quarry fought Jimmy Ellis for the WBA heavyweight championship, his fight plan called for him to out-box Jimmy. Which would have been all right except the only thing Ellis does well is box.

When Jerry Quarry fought Joe Frazier for the heavyweight championship of the world, his fight plan called for him to slug it out with Frazier. Which would have been all right except the only thing Frazier can do is slug.

WHEN JERRY Quarry fought George Chuvalo for the hell of it, his fight plan called for him to butt heads with Chuvalo. Which would have been all right except that the only thing Chuvalo can do is butt heads.

When Jerry Quarry got knocked down and bounced back up at the count of 1, he could even have made a phone call as long as he stood on his feet, and the referee would still have wiped his gloves at the count of 8 and resumed the contest. Which would have been all right except Jerry sank back to one knee and gave the ref no choice but to count him out, even though he was as conscious as the ushers.

If Jerry Quarry's life story is ever made into a book, the title will be "Oops!"

JERRY QUARRY is the kind of guy who, if he brought you hot soup at the hospital, he'd spill it on you. If he brought you flowers, they'd have a bee in them. If he helped you on with your tux, he'd rip it. He's a traveling accident. He went surfing one day and was on his way to Hawaii when the lifeguards caught up to him. He would have been the first guy in history to lose the heavyweight title by drowning.

Jerry "The Accident" Quarry is a guy who, if he got his choice of weapons in a fight with a lion, would choose biting. In a contest with an elephant, he would chose stomping. He would trade kicks with a mule, scents with a skunk. Jerry has unequal talent at putting himself at a disadvantage. Only three fighters in the world can lick Jerry Quarry. Unfortunately, one of them is Jerry Quarry.

HE WOULD FOLD a hand with three aces. If he were leading the Open, he would play the wrong ball on No. 18.

George Chuvalo didn't knock Jerry Quarry out. Jerry Quarry knocked Jerry Quarry out. It is Jerry's 18th lifetime KO and he is the first man to put Jerry Quarry down for a 10-count.

Chuvalo moved just fast enough in the ring to keep birds from nesting on him. So Jerry fought the kind of fight that could have been fought in a bathtub.

But, since Chuvalo was just another spectator at this knockout, my problem is this: Jerry Quarry was ranked No. 3 in the world before this fight. Now that Jerry Quarry has knocked out the No. 3-ranked heavyweight, does this qualify him for another title shot? Or, does Jerry Quarry want a rematch with Jerry Quarry?

FORFEIT VICTORY

Brawl Ends Game Before Halftime

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—Jacksonville University won a ball game and earned at least a draw in two brawls last night, but the Dolphins may have lost their place as the nation's highest scoring collegiate basketball team.

Jacksonville, 19th ranked, was awarded a 41-26 victory over Georgetown when visiting Coach Jack Magee herded his team off the floor with 1:23 remaining in the first half. Georgetown's walkoff followed two brawls between the opposing players,

RISK

"I'm responsible for 18 people. I can't risk having them hurt. When they come at you out of the stands, it's time to get out," Magee said in explaining why he removed his team from the contest.

Dolphins Coach Joe Williams declined to blame any one person for the brawling.

"But that's the last time you'll see a JU team come off the bench," Williams vowed. "Regardless of what happened, our team should not have come onto the floor."

The first fight started when Georgetown's Arthur White threw a punch at Jacksonville's Mike Blevins. Both benches emptied into the court and fought briefly.

RESTARTS

As the players were heading back to their benches, Blevins walked up behind White, apparently intending to shake hands.

"But someone said something to me and I hit the guy," Blevins said.

The benches emptied into the court again and this time dozens of spectators swarmed out of the stands and joined a two-minute melee that the coaches managed to break up without police being called.

Jacksonville's Rex Morgan was the only person seriously injured. He reopened a cut by his eye that required two stitches to close.

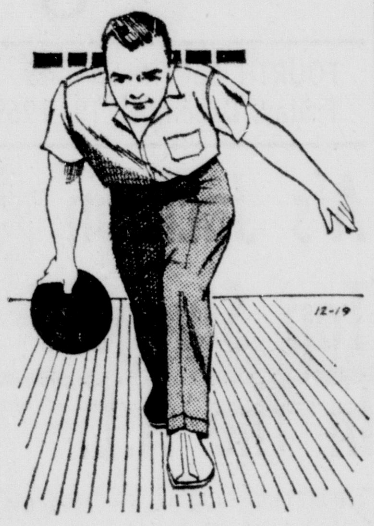
BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER



Did you ever have anyone tell you you're "letting your shoulder drop?" many bowlers will not wisely, yet not really know what to do about it. Keeping the shoulders level, however, is important.

The best way to insure against shoulder-dropping is to have a firm intention to reach out as you deliver the ball. This will help you get the ball out across the foul line accurately.

Chiefs Pulling Out All Stops For Jets

KC. 'Goes For Broke' Tomorrow

NEW YORK (AP) — Kansas City is set to unwrap its ornate offensive package at Shea Stadium tomorrow, but the New York Jets figure they can handle any special deliveries Hank Stram sends their way.

The battle lines were drawn today for the American Football League playoff clash, with Chiefs' Coach Stram promising a "go for broke" game plan—in contrast to his close-to-the-vest tactics at Oakland last Sunday—and the Jets working themselves up for a super effort to rebuff the favored invaders.

Kansas City, runner up to Oakland in the Western Division, is a 2½-point choice to oust the Eastern Division champs in the first game of the unprecedented semifinal playoffs. Houston, second in the East during the regular season, takes on the Raiders at Oakland Sunday, with the survivors meeting in the Jan. 4 AFL championship game.

"We'll go for broke in this one," Stram said yesterday after admitting he kept the Chiefs' attack under wraps in their 10-6 loss to Oakland that decided the Western title. Quarterback Len Dawson threw only six passes, completing two, as Kansas City ran at the Raiders from start to finish.

"You've got to go with balance in one like this," Stram continued. "This is completely different from the Oakland game. We wanted to win it, of course, but after all is said and done, it was a nothing game.

"Our objective is to win the championship—nothing else."

WON'T PLAY SUNDAY

Wells Remains On The Roster

OAKLAND (AP) — Warren Wells' spot on the Oakland Raiders' roster for their game with the Houston Oilers Sunday will be taken by...Warren Wells.

There is no chance that the fleet receiver will be able to play when the Raiders and Oilers battle in an American Football League playoff game, but Oakland is looking ahead to the league title game and beyond.

SHOULDER

Wells, who leads the league in touchdown receptions with 14, suffered a shoulder injury last Saturday against Kansas City. At first, an operation was thought to be necessary. Then, it was delayed.

Now, Raider Coach John Madden says, "There is virtually no chance he'll be operated on. I expect him to be released from the hospital."

The club can only make two personnel switches for the playoffs and Madden does not want to use one of them on Wells if there is a possibility he could play in the AFL title game and the Super Bowl.

The Oilers were to arrive here tonight and with the absence of Wells from the Raiders' line-up, they boast the biggest long-distance receiving threat in rookie Jerry Levias.

"I'd consider him, along with Don Maynard, Lance Alworth and Wells, as the most dangerous deep threat in the league," said Raider safety Dave Grayson. "He's got real good speed and quickness."

Madden added: "He's even more dangerous than Maynard or Wells in one respect because he's a threat to go all the way every time he gets his hands on the ball.

"He can score with a long pass like Maynard or Wells, but he can also score on a punt return, a kickoff return, a deep reverse, a halfback screen pass or just running from scrimmage."

Versatile Raceway For State Capital

James R. Coleman of Kentfield, John V. Boito of San Rafael and Arthur B. Siri of Santa Rosa, who were instrumental in the creation of Sears Point International Raceway, have now pooled their talents in the renaissance of Sacramento International Raceways.

Members of the news media were given a look at the plans for the new motor sports complex in the state capital Wednesday and versatility seems to be its major appeal.

Said Coleman, an officer and former general manager at Sears Point, "The (Sacramento) facility is designed to accommodate all recognized forms of automobile racing in an atmosphere of safety and comfort for contestants and spectators. It will be the most modern and complete one of its kind in Northern California."

The facility will include a lighted and paved three-eights mile oval, a flat, quarter-mile dirt track for motorcycles, lighted drag strip, a two-plus mile road circuit that can accommodate races ranging from amateurs to Grand Prix and Indianapolis-type cars.

"We'll also have an off-road dirt configuration available for dune buggy and four-wheel drive racing," said Coleman, who added that a 15,000-seat grandstand, moderate admission fees, general all-around comfort and a program of variety will give the state capital an appealing motor sports program for the whole family.

To Start First Of The Year

Weather permitting, actual construction on the elaborate racing plant will start soon after the first of the year and should be ready to roll by next spring.

Coleman, Siri and Boito have joined forces in this venture with Donald G. Davis, an independent real estate developer, and Melvin G. Gilpen, a management consultant.

Siri was the engineering contractor who built Sears Point while Boito was involved in the Sonoma County raceway from its inception.

GREAT NEWS from the Ivy League: Barry Brink of Mill Valley, the Dartmouth College defensive tackle by way of Tamalpais High School, has been named to the official Coaches' All-Ivy team as an honorable mention selection.

Brink, only a junior, was one of the key reasons for Dartmouth's fine 8-1 co-championship record this year. He also was cited by the Associated Press as an honorable mention on both the All-Ivy and All-New England squads.

Barry seems to be following in the footsteps of his dad, Mill Valley auto dealer Larry Brink, who played a lot of college and pro ball in his day.

Marin Will Miss Cookie

THE RICH GET Richer Dept.: Cookie Arrighi, 15-year-old Marin Swim Club ace, and her family are moving to Santa Clara where Cookie will join coach George Haines' powerful Olympic-minded Santa Clara Swim Club.

Earlier this year another Marin star, Leslie Bryans, joined the Santa Clara team.

Said Mrs. Kay Campion of the Marin Swim Club: "Let's face it, until we can get more pools, especially 50 meters, and more and better training time we just can't do right by our dedicated kids and they'll have to go elsewhere.

"You know, reading remarks from coaches and educators concerning discipline and dedication makes me wonder why our county, particularly, seems to be unaware of the needs of the hundreds of kids in Marin who are involved in the most demanding, most disciplined, most time consuming of all sports completely on a voluntary basis."

Miss Arrighi, at 15 a seven-year vet of AAU swimming, this year qualified for both outdoor and indoor Senior Women's Nationals as well as setting a couple of Pacific Association records and spearheading her age group medley and freestyle relay teams to seven national and 14 P.A. marks.

We wish her well in the "Big Time" at Santa Clara.

Bud Poile Fired By Flyers

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Bud Poile, general manager of the Philadelphia Flyers since their founding, was fired today by the National Hockey League club.

Assistant General Manager Keith Allen, who coached the club to the playoffs in its first two seasons before moving into the front office this year, was named acting general manager.

The Flyers are in fourth place in the NHL's West Division with a 5-11-11 record for 21 points.

Poile, reached at his home here, said his dismissal came as a complete surprise. Asked if he had any idea prior to the announcement, he said, "No. Not a bit."

Flyers Board Chairman Ed Snider gave Poile, a former coach and general manager of the Seals when they were in San Francisco, the news by telephone. The announcement said the firing was over "fundamental differences of opinion" between the owners and Poile on several phases of club operations.

"There are no hard feelings involved," Snider said. "I wish Bud the best of success wherever he goes."

Poile said he has no idea where he is going.

Redwood, San Marin Booters Tie

It's a tie.

That's the way the 1969 Marin County Athletic League soccer race wound up yesterday in a last round of games played on sloshy fields.

In the key game, San Marin, with goals from Pete Whitoff and Ken LaRoche, downed Terra Linda, 2-0, to keep pace with Redwood, a 3-0 winner of Tamalpais.

That left San Marin and Redwood tied for championship honors with identical 6-1-3 records and 15 points each.

San Rafael, a 3-1 winner over Novato, tied Terra Linda for third place. Drake, a 2-0 winner over Marin Catholic finished sixth, just behind Tamalpais.

Andeirs Carlsson whipped in two goals, including one on a direct corner kick, to lead Redwood over Tamalpais. Jon Broderick scored the other goal.

San Rafael got goals from Paul Crovo, Bob Klyce and Andy Colan.

A's Jackson Top Slugger In The A.L.

BOSTON (AP) — Reggie Jackson of Oakland won the American League's individual slugging title this year with a .608 percentage, while Boston edged baltimore pennant-winning Orioles in team slugging, .415 to .414.

Jackson, playing only his second full season in the majors, hammered out 47 homers, 36 doubles and three triples among his 151 hits. That gave his 334 total bases in 549 at bats and a 16-point edge in the percentages over second place Rico Petrocelli of Boston, who had a .589 mark.

The 23-year-old outfielder tied with Minnesota's harmon Killebrew for the league lead in receiving the most intentional bases on balls, 20, and also took the dubious distinction of most strikeouts for the second year in a row with 142.

Killebrew was third in the slugging percentages with a .584 average, while Washington's Frank Howard, the 1968 champion with a .552 mark, rose to .574 this year but wound up in fourth place according to official averages released today by the league office.

Emotional Time For Rough, Tough Collegiate Gridders

Visit Shriners Hospital

By EDITH M. LEDERER

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — With tears in his eyes, University of Indiana running back John Isenbarger leaned over the bedside of 11-year-old Fotula and offered her some Christmas toys and candy.

The dark-haired Greek girl, flat on her back with a dislocated right hip, turned away shyly from her 6-foot-3, 205-pound "Santa Claus" in a blue blazer.

In another room, Stanford linebacker Don Parish made small talk with 14-year-old Norman, a brown-haired youth who was suspended in a bicycle wheel brace, recuperating from an operation for curvature of the spine.

A VISIT

From football fields across the nation, members of the 45th annual Shrine East-West teams came yesterday to the San Francisco Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children to visit the youngsters who wouldn't be able to make the Dec. 27th classic at Stanford Stadium.

"It adds a lot to the game, that's for sure," said Army's star running back, Lynn Moore, as he wound up talking with 15-year-old Pam, bedridden with a knee problem.

"I really admire these kids," he said. "It makes you wonder about yourself. They've been in the hospital so long and they're in great spirits and we're out in the world running around and complaining."

AGREES

As he sat on the edge of 9-year-old Mike's bed, helping him figure out a new game, UCLA running back Greg Jones echoed Moore's sentiments.

Noting that all proceeds from the game go to the hospital, Jones said: "It's such a big honor really to be able to help these kids by doing something we can do well. They're just great."

For Parish, the visit was a "double honor." He was on the high school Shrine team and had visited the hospital before. As a veteran, he divided is time between Norman and 2½-year-old Terry, dressed in a Seanford red sweater and red and white beanie.

Carrying Terry in his arms, Parish wandered through the ward, taking occasional licks from the little boy's lollipop stick and crowing: "Show them how we share our food."

LETTERMAN

Nearby, University of Oregon end-tackle Andy Maurer and his wife sat on chairs in front of 9-year-old Rudy, strapped to a standing board.

Halfway through a skiing game, Maurer realized that Rudy's green and gold Oregon sweater with two stripes on the sleeve made him a second-year letterman. "He's got more letters than I've got," quipped Maurer.

Each youngster had a present for his football "Santa Claus"—a picture of himself and a picture of the hospital in a handmade leather picture frame.

University of Oklahoma tight end Steve Zabel, obviously touched by the gift, asked 10-year-old Danny if he would autograph the picture.

With great concentration, the bedridden youth haltingly printed his signature in big crooked letters and handed it back to a smiling Zabel.

Marin 'Cats Advance In Tourney

Marin Catholic's basketball team vaulted into the semifinals of the Rose City Invitational Tournament at Cardinal Newman High School in Santa Rosa yesterday by nicking Eureka, 57-53.

The Wildcats, who snapped a six-game losing streak, will meet Cardinal Newman at 9:30 tonight.

Junior forward Bill Donnellan did most of the damage with 29 points, 20 coming in the first half. Only four Wildcats got into the scoring act, with Mike Parnow getting 15 points and Tim Stone 12.

It seemed to be a no-touch game as both teams were called for only six fouls each. The Wildcats won it by taking a one-point lead in the third quarter and nursing it through a low-scoring final period, which saw only 15 points go on the scoreboard.

Maravich Scores 50 But Troy Nips LSU

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

One day after their worst setback of the young basketball season, Coast cage fans got their greatest triumph.

USC called on LSU last night and handed the Tigers their first loss of the season in a wild 101-98 scramble. The brilliant Pete Maravich of the Tigers hooped 50, but USC's balanced attack saw five men score between 14 and 19.

The Trojans roared out to a 23-point lead but the Tigers cut it to 97-96 with 51 seconds to go. But Trojan center Ron Riley got credit for tipping in a missed free throw during a wild scramble and Dennis Layton's two free throws with nine seconds to go capped the victory.

The win came one day after unbeaten Houston easily defeated Santa Clara in a let-down for Coast cage fans who thought the Broncs might be one of the nation's top teams.

It was a good night all around for the West.

For instance, Nevada Reno called on Creighton and pulled a stunning 67-66 upset. Rollie Hess hit 14 of 15 free throws and 28 points in leading Wolfpack to its third win in six starts.

And Brigham Young won at Texas Tech 87-81 but Arizona fell at North Texas 98-81 to give the West a solid 3-for-4 night on the road where wins are scarce.

University of Pacific, along with Santa Clara the West Coast Athletic Conference's best, ran its record to 5-1 with a 93-85 win over Portland.

FISH AND GAME

By AL GIDDINGS

There's No Reason To Harm The Salmon

From early October to the present, a large number of fishermen have been trying to catch silver salmon in Tomales Bay, and in the tide waters of Papermill Creek at Point Reyes Station.

Last week before the rains, about 50 anglers per day and more than 200 per weekend took part in this sporty venture. About five to 10 salmon were caught daily this past week. With the arrival of the rainy season, these salmon have been moving upstream into the closed area above tidewaters on their annual spawning run.

THESE fish stop feeding when they reach the fresh water streams, using their stored up fat to stay alive, and to supply the energy needed to reach the spawning beds in Papermill, Nicasio and San Geronimo Valley streams.

The rough journey these fish have to take to get upstream causes the fish to develop fungus sores; and in losing their fat, the meat of the fish becomes soft and tasteless. Their only value is to spawn. They die after spawning.

EACH FEMALE salmon carries approximately 5,000 eggs. Sometimes just one pair of these fish are the ones which perpetuate the run of salmon in a small stream. The eggs are dropped into a gravel bed, fertilized by the male, and in six weeks fingerlings emerge.

The fingerlings live in the stream for a year or so, usually going to sea around April. Most of the fish taken by the kids throughout trout season are actually year-old silver salmon or steelhead.

BUT HERE'S the problem: Almost daily, calls are coming into the game wardens that kids are spearing, gaffing, throwing rocks, using clubs, snagging and in every way under the sun — and even under the moon — to harass these spawning fish. It seems such a waste!

In most cases the fish are left dead in the water. A few kids take the fish home to be cooked! The rotted flesh of these fish will nauseate anyone trying one for food, and the odor will drive the whole family out of the house.

THE DEPARTMENT of Fish and Game, along with the cooperation of the Marin Municipal Water District, has constructed a fish trap below Nicasio Dam. Construction and maintenance costs of the dam are $40,000, just to keep the salmon run going above Nicasio Dam. And wardens are hired to patrol the spawning areas all through the county to perpetuate these salmon runs.

The salmon are a valuable asset to the county, afford a great many hours of legal pleasure to fishermen in the open areas, give the kids many hours of "trout" fishing fun, and when fresh, provide an excellent meal to the lucky angler who catches one.

Why then, do the kids — and some adults, too — do these things?

IT'S MOSTLY because of a lack of education, though talks on this subject are given each year at the schools. It seems ridiculous for game wardens to have to sneak along creeks, behind houses, and through Samuel P. Taylor State Park to apprehend these youngsters. But what to do?

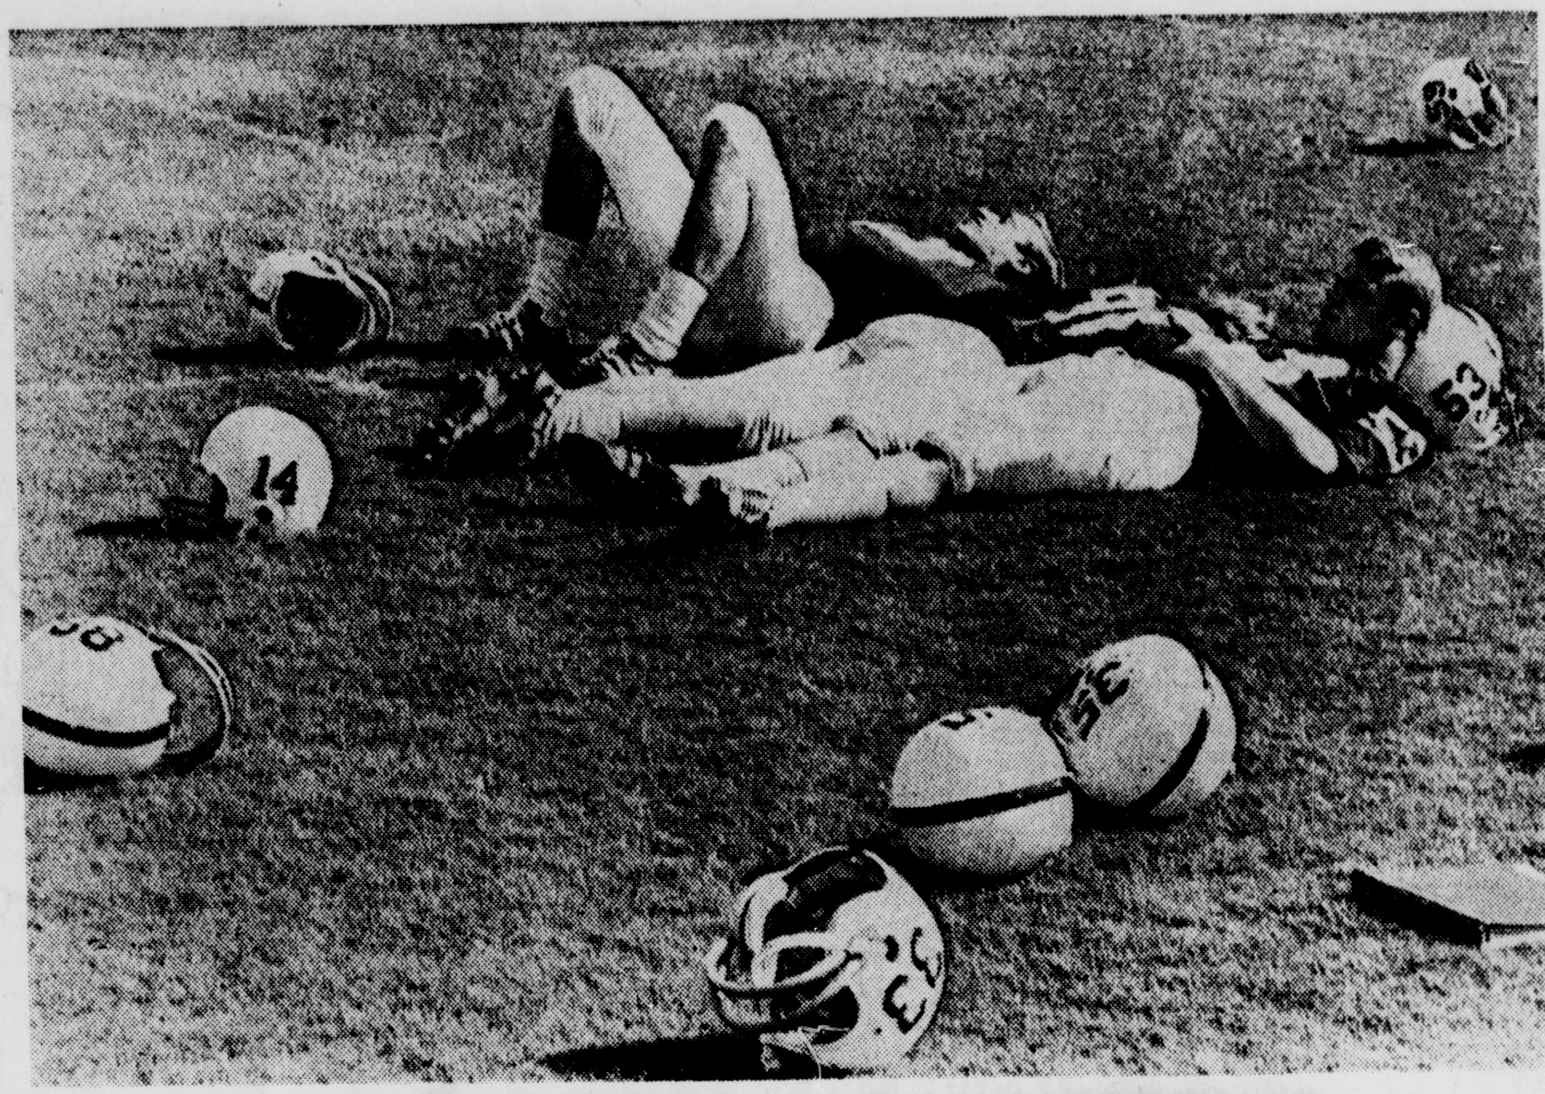
In the shallow streams, it doesn't take very long for the few salmon there to be killed off. The Christmas week vacation usually accounts for many of the killed fish. Making arrests and sending the kids to the juvenile officers with parents seems an endless task, and although it has probably helped, it is most unpopular.

I REALLY believe the parents can be the greatest help. Explanations of the spawning value of these fish should be given by parents to their youngsters. Taking them to White House Pool at Point Reyes Station, where fishing is legal, would be a great help.

Explaining to them that killing these fish will eliminate their summer "trout" fishing should also help. It would seem just good old common sense would apply here.

A FEW YEARS ago, the Department of Fish and Game planted approximately 100,000 silver salmon yearlings throughout Marin County to enhance the silver salmon runs at a cost of 15 cents per fish. It just doesn't make sense to erase the efforts put into this program by wastefully killing off the remaining spawners.

I sincerely hope everyone concerned will cooperate in this program.



IN THE GOOD OLD WINTERTIME

The winters in Florida are sun-shine good, as Penn State gridders find out while basking in the sun during a work session at Ft. Lauderdale Stadium. The unbeaten Nittany Lions will meet Missouri in the Orange Bowl on New Year's Day. And if the rest of the team is like these three players, they don't seem too worried about it. (UPI Telephoto)

Warriors Battle Tough Rockets

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—The San Francisco Warriors hope tonight's National Basketball Association game with San Diego unfolds a little differently than the previous four.

The Warriors aren't disturbed with their 3-1 showing against the Rockets so far this season. But San Francisco always has trouble, of one kind or another, with the stubborn Southern Californians.

After dropping the first game to San Diego by one point in overtime, the Warriors won the next two—also by only one point. Then, in a less hectic victory, Warrior forward Joe Ellis hurt a tendon in the little finger of his shooting hand.

The Rockets, 12-20, are 3-3 under new coach Alex Hannum, who once held down the head job with San Francisco. Hannum took over the Rockets when Jack McMahon was fired 10 days ago.

Title Fight Hurdles Obstacles

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)—The troubled heavyweight bout between World Boxing Association champ Jimmy Ellis and Argentine challenger Gregorio Peralta will finally take place tomorrow night as scheduled after an American referee was appointed two days before the fight.

Angelo Dundee, manager of Ellis, told United Press International "The fight is on."

Dundee said that the major stumbling block for the fight was eliminated when a Dec. 9 cable was finally received yesterday by WBA President Emile Bruneau.

The telegram asked the WBA to appoint one judge and one referee to join a judge selected by the local boxing commission.

Fight promoter Hector Mendez told newsmen last night that the WBA had appointed Herman Dutreix as referee.

Ellis and the local boxing commission also disagreed earlier with the selection of the three judges, but finally agreed there will be an Argentine, an Uruguayan and a U.S. judge.

Calvin Hill Is Named NFL Rookie Of Year

NEW YORK (AP) — When the Dallas Cowboys finally got their first round pick in the pro football draft last Jan. 23 other teams already had made their selections.

"Calvin Hill of Yale," said Tom Hardin, the Cowboys' representative on the scene. Eyebrows popped at 25 other tables.

The Cowboy brass thought of Hill as a tight end, linebacker or even a running back. They couldn't wait to get him to camp to find out. Hill quickly erased all doubts by running over and around the pros in the exhibition season. By the time the regular season started he was firmaly entrenched as a regular running back.

Hill has been voted Offensive Rookie of the Year in the National Football League by an overwhelming majority of the 48-man committee from 16 league cities who participated in The Associated Press' poll.

The final total showed 44 for Hill and one each for Larry Brown of Washington and Gene Washington of San Francisco. Two panel members did not vote in the category.

Hill and veteran quarterback Roman Gabriel head the Dallas and Los Angeles delegations that dominate the Associated Press' National Football League All Star teams.

Dallas and Los Angeles each placed five men on the offensive and defensive squads.

Hull, Snoopy, Seals Get Together Tonight

Bobby Hull, Charles Schulz' Snoopy and the Werner Muller skating chimps from the Holiday on Ice show will be the diverse attractions tonight when the Oakland Seals meet the Chicago Black Hawks in a National Hockey League match at 8 o'clock in the Coliseum Arena.

The program is billed as "Snoopy's Christmas Party."

Although no match for Hull on the ice, Snoopy (12-year-old David Baxter of Santa Rosa) and the four chimps probably will provide plenty of laughs during intermissions. Snoopy pins and several bicycles and stuffed Snoopy dogs will be handed out to youngsters.

Hull's appearance will be his first this season in Oakland.

A Traveling Accident: That's Jerry Quarry

When Jerry Quarry, the box-fighter, was a very young man, he poised on the edge of a swimming pool one day and executed a perfect swan dive. Which would have been all right except there wasn't any water in the pool.

When Jerry Quarry got his first chance at the heavyweight title, he chose the eve of the fight to get in a little horse play wrestling with his brother. Which would have been all right except he sprained his back.

WHEN JERRY Quarry fought Jimmy Ellis for the WBA heavyweight championship, his fight plan called for him to out-box Jimmy. Which would have been all right except the only thing Ellis does well is box.

When Jerry Quarry fought Joe Frazier for the heavyweight championship of the world, his fight plan called for him to slug it out with Frazier. Which would have been all right except the only thing Frazier can do is slug.

WHEN JERRY Quarry fought George Chuvalo for the hell of it, his fight plan called for him to butt heads with Chuvalo. Which would have been all right except that the only thing Chuvalo can do is butt heads.

When Jerry Quarry got knocked down and bounced back up at the count of 1, he could even have made a phone call as long as he stood on his feet, and the referee would still have wiped his gloves at the count of 8 and resumed the contest. Which would have been all right except Jerry sank back to one knee and gave the ref no choice but to count him out, even though he was as conscious as the ushers.

If Jerry Quarry's life story is ever made into a book, the title will be "Oops!"

JERRY QUARRY is the kind of guy who, if he brought you hot soup at the hospital, he'd spill it on you. If he brought you flowers, they'd have a bee in them. If he helped you on with your tux, he'd rip it. He's a traveling accident. He went surfing one day and was on his way to Hawaii when the lifeguards caught up to him. He would have been the first guy in history to lose the heavyweight title by drowning.

Jerry "The Accident" Quarry is a guy who, if he got his choice of weapons in a fight with a lion, would choose biting. In a contest with an elephant, he would chose stomping. He would trade kicks with a mule, scents with a skunk. Jerry has unequal talent at putting himself at a disadvantage. Only three fighters in the world can lick Jerry Quarry. Unfortunately, one of them is Jerry Quarry.

HE WOULD FOLD a hand with three aces. If he were leading the Open, he would play the wrong ball on No. 18.

George Chuvalo didn't knock Jerry Quarry out. Jerry Quarry knocked Jerry Quarry out. It is Jerry's 18th lifetime KO and he is the first man to put Jerry Quarry down for a 10-count.

Chuvalo moved just fast enough in the ring to keep birds from nesting on him. So Jerry fought the kind of fight that could have been fought in a bathtub.

But, since Chuvalo was just another spectator at this knockout, my problem is this: Jerry Quarry was ranked No. 3 in the world before this fight. Now that Jerry Quarry has knocked out the No. 3-ranked heavyweight, does this qualify him for another title shot? Or, does Jerry Quarry want a rematch with Jerry Quarry?

A ROSE FOR THE WOLVERINES

It was a bright and sunny day in Los Angeles when Tournament of Roses Princess Dixie Ann Whatley pinned a rose on the lapel of Michigan coach Glenn Schembechler as he and his Michigan Wolverines arrived yesterday at Los Angeles International Airport for their New Year's Day Rose Bowl football date with Southern California.

Chiefs Pulling Out All Stops For Jets

KC. 'Goes For Broke' Tomorrow

NEW YORK (AP) — Kansas City is set to unwrap its ornate offensive package at Shea Stadium tomorrow, but the New York Jets figure they can handle any special deliveries Hank Stram sends their way.

The battle lines were drawn today for the American Football League playoff clash, with Chiefs' Coach Stram promising a "go for broke" game plan—in contrast to his close-to-the-vest tactics at Oakland last Sunday—and the Jets working themselves up for a super effort to rebuff the favored invaders.

Kansas City, runner up to Oakland in the Western Division, is a 2½-point choice to oust the Eastern Division champs in the first game of the unprecedented semifinal playoffs. Houston, second in the East during the regular season, takes on the Raiders at Oakland Sunday, with the survivors meeting in the Jan. 4 AFL championship game.

"We'll go for broke in this one," Stram said yesterday after admitting he kept the Chiefs' attack under wraps in their 10-6 loss to Oakland that decided the Western title. Quarterback Len Dawson threw only six passes, completing two, as Kansas City ran at the Raiders from start to finish.

"You've got to go with balance in one like this," Stram continued. "This is completely different from the Oakland game. We wanted to win it, of course, but after all is said and done, it was a nothing game.

"Our objective is to win the championship—nothing else."

WON'T PLAY SUNDAY

Wells Remains On The Roster

OAKLAND (AP) — Warren Wells' spot on the Oakland Raiders' roster for their game with the Houston Oilers Sunday will be taken by...Warren Wells.

There is no chance that the fleet receiver will be able to play when the Raiders and Oilers battle in an American Football League playoff game, but Oakland is looking ahead to the league title game and beyond.

SHOULDER

Wells, who leads the league in touchdown receptions with 14, suffered a shoulder injury last Saturday against Kansas City. At first, an operation was thought to be necessary. Then, it was delayed.

Now, Raider Coach John Madden says, "There is virtually no chance he'll be operated on. I expect him to be released from the hospital."

The club can only make two personnel switches for the playoffs and Madden does not want to use one of them on Wells if there is a possibility he could play in the AFL title game and the Super Bowl.

The Oilers were to arrive here tonight and with the absence of Wells from the Raiders' lineup, they boast the biggest long-distance receiving threat in rookie Jerry Levias.

"I'd consider him, along with Don Maynard, Lance Alworth and Wells, as the most dangerous deep threat in the league," said Raider safety Dave Grayson. "He's got real good speed and quickness."

Madden added: "He's even more dangerous than Maynard or Wells in one respect because he's a threat to go all the way every time he gets his hands on the ball.

"He can score with a long pass like Maynard or Wells, but he can also score on a punt return, a kickoff return, a deep reverse, a halfback screen pass or just running from scrimmage."

FORFEIT VICTORY

Brawl Ends Game Before Halftime

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—Jacksonville University won a ball game and earned at least a draw in two brawls last night, but the Dolphins may have lost their place as the nation's highest scoring collegiate basketball team.

Jacksonville, 19th ranked, was awarded a 41-26 victory over Georgetown when visiting Coach Jack Magee herded his team off the floor with 1:23 remaining in the first half. Georgetown's walkoff followed two brawls between the opposing players,

RISK

"I'm responsible for 18 people. I can't risk having them hurt. When they come at you out of the stands, it's time to get out," Magee said in explaining why he removed his team from the contest.

Dolphins Coach Joe Williams declined to blame any one person for the brawling.

"But that's the last time you'll see a JU team come off the bench," Williams vowed. "Regardless of what happened, our team should not have come onto the floor."

The first fight started when Georgetown's Arthur White threw a punch at Jacksonville's Mike Blevins. Both benches emptied into the court and fought briefly.

RESTARTS

As the players were heading back to their benches, Blevins walked up behind White, apparently intending to shake hands.

"But someone said something to me and I hit the guy," Blevins said.

The benches emptied into the court again and this time dozens of spectators swarmed out of the stands and joined a two-minute melee that the coaches managed to break up without police being called.

Jacksonville's Rex Morgan was the only person seriously injured. He reopened a cut by his eye that required two stitches to close.

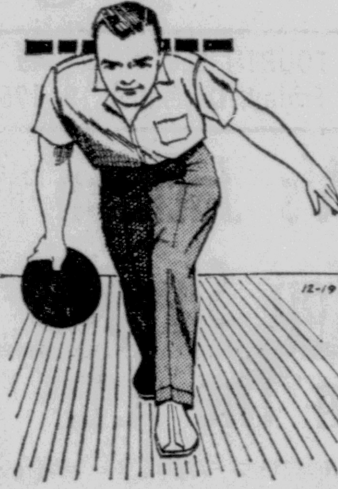
BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER



Did you ever have anyone tell you you're "letting your shoulder drop?" many bowlers will not wisely, yet not really know what to do about it. Keeping the shoulders level, however, is important.

The best way to insure against shoulder-dropping is to have a firm intention to reach out as you deliver the ball. This will help you get the ball out across the foul line accurately.

ALMANAC

Today is Friday, Dec. 19, the 353rd day of 1969 with 12 days to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning stars are Venus and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1777, George Washington and the Continental Army began their winter encampment at Valley Forge, Pa.

In 1942, members of the American Federation of Labor elected William Green as president to succeed organized labor pioneer Samuel Gompers.

In 1950, Gen. Dwight Eisenhower was named commander of military forces operating under the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

In 1965, Charles de Gaulle won a second five-year term as president of France when he received 55 per cent of the vote in a national runoff.

In 1968, Norman Thomas, six times the Socialist party candidate for president, died at the age of 84.

A thought for the day: President Woodrow Wilson once commented, "Sometimes people called me an idealist. Well, that is the way I know I am an American. America is the only idealistic nation in the world."

HOW TO PLAY BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Kibitzer Just Doesn't See More Than The Players Do

"Somebody should tell these wiseacres that bridge isn't played that way," the old Kibitzer growled. "One side is as bad as the other. One fellow is too fancy to return his partner's suit, and the other fellow's too fancy to make sure of a trick. They must think they're playing ping-pong."

TWO FINE PLAYS

The old gentleman had walked away from a table at which two very fine plays had been made on the same trick. He was right in saying that bridge isn't played that way, but that's because every day isn't a holiday.

West led the three of diamonds, and East won with the ace. East thought of returning a diamond, but then thought again. East and dummy each had 10 points in high cards, and South's opening bid promised at least 16 points at most. West could not have both the king and queen of diamonds, which meant that the defense couldn't get much nourishment from the suit.

BEST SUIT

The setting tricks could come only from spades, but East couldn't get far if he led a low spade or even the ace first and then a low spade. South would surely let a low spade ride around to dummy's jack and would thus get two spade tricks instead of only one.

East came to the right choice when he returned the queen of spades at the second trick. If South put up the king to make sure of a spade trick, he would eventually have to lead a diamond to develop his ninth trick. West would take the king of diamonds and lead his other spade, whereupon East would defeat the contract with the rest of the spades.

COUNTERS EAST

South countered East's brilliant switch by refusing to cover with the king of spades. This holdup play limited East to two spade tricks. West would eventually get his side's second diamond trick, but then South would easily win the rest.

FISH AND GAME

By AL GIDDINGS

There's No Reason To Harm The Salmon

From early October to the present, a large number of fishermen have been trying to catch silver salmon in Tomales Bay, and in the tide waters of Papermill Creek at Point Reyes Station.

Last week before the rains, about 50 anglers per day and more than 200 per weekend took part in this sporty venture. About five to 10 salmon were caught daily this past week. With the arrival of the rainy season, these salmon have been moving upstream into the closed area above tidewaters on their annual spawning run.

THESE fish stop feeding when they reach the fresh water streams, using their stored up fat to stay alive, and to supply the energy needed to reach the spawning beds in Papermill, Nicasio and San Geronimo Valley streams.

The rough journey these fish have to take to get upstream causes the fish to develop fungus sores; and in losing their fat, the meat of the fish becomes soft and tasteless. Their only value is to spawn. They die after spawning.

EACH FEMALE salmon carries approximately 5,000 eggs. Sometimes just one pair of these fish are the ones which perpetuate the run of salmon in a small stream. The eggs are dropped into a gravel bed, fertilized by the male, and in six weeks fingerlings emerge.

The fingerlings live in the stream for a year or so, usually going to sea around April. Most of the fish taken by the kids throughout trout season are actually year-old silver salmon or steelhead.

BUT HERE'S the problem: Almost daily, calls are coming into the game wardens that kids are spearing, gaffing, throwing rocks, using clubs, snagging and in every way under the sun — and even under the moon — to harass these spawning fish. It seems such a waste!

In most cases the fish are left dead in the water. A few kids take the fish home to be cooked! The rotted flesh of these fish will nauseate anyone trying one for food, and the odor will drive the whole family out of the house.

THE DEPARTMENT of Fish and Game, along with the cooperation of the Marin Municipal Water District, has constructed a fish trap below Nicasio Dam. Construction and maintenance costs of the dam are $40,000, just to keep the salmon run going above Nicasio Dam. And wardens are hired to patrol the spawning areas all through the county to perpetuate these salmon runs.

The salmon are a valuable asset to the county, afford a great many hours of legal pleasure to fishermen in the open areas, give the kids many hours of "trout" fishing fun, and when fresh, provide an excellent meal to the lucky angler who catches one.

Why then, do the kids — and some adults, too — do these things?

IT'S MOSTLY because of a lack of education, though talks on this subject are given each year at the schools. It seems ridiculous for game wardens to have to sneak along creeks, behind houses, and through Samuel P. Taylor State Park to apprehend these youngsters. But what to do?

In the shallow streams, it doesn't take very long for the few salmon there to be killed off. The Christmas week vacation usually accounts for many of the killed fish. Making arrests and sending the kids to the juvenile officers with parents seems an endless task, and although it has probably helped, it is most unpopular.

I REALLY believe the parents can be the greatest help. Explanations of the spawning value of these fish should be given by parents to their youngsters. Taking them to White House Pool at Point Reyes Station, where fishing is legal, would be a great help.

Explaining to them that killing these fish will eliminate their summer "trout" fishing should also help. It would seem just good old common sense would apply here.

A FEW YEARS ago, the Department of Fish and Game planted approximately 100,000 silver salmon yearlings throughout Marin County to enhance the silver salmon runs at a cost of 15 cents per fish. It just doesn't make sense to erase the efforts put into this program by wastefully killing off the remaining spawners.

I sincerely hope everyone concerned will cooperate in this program.

Warriors Battle Tough Rockets

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—The San Francisco Warriors hope tonight's National Basketball Association game with San Diego unfolds a little differently than the previous four.

The Warriors aren't disturbed with their 3-1 showing against the Rockets so far this season. But San Francisco always has trouble, of one kind or another, with the stubborn Southern Californians.

After dropping the first game to San Diego by one point in overtime, the Warriors won the next two—also by only one point. Then, in a less hectic victory, Warrior forward Joe Ellis hurt a tendon in the little finger of his shooting hand.

The Rockets, 12-20, are 3-3 under new coach Alex Hannum, who once held down the head job with San Francisco. Hannum took over the Rockets when Jack McMahon was fired 10 days ago.

IN THE GOOD OLD WINTERTIME

The winters in Florida are sun-shine good, as Penn State gridders find out while basking in the sun during a work session at Ft. Lauderdale Stadium. The unbeaten Nittany Lions will meet Missouri in the Orange Bowl on New Year's Day. And if the rest of the team is like these three players, they don't seem too worried about it. (UPI Telephoto)

Title Fight Hurdles Obstacles

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)—The troubled heavyweight bout between World Boxing Association champ Jimmy Ellis and Argentine challenger Gregorio Peralta will finally take place tomorrow night as scheduled after an American referee was appointed two days before the fight.

Angelo Dundee, manager of Ellis, told United Press International "The fight is on."

Dundee said that the major stumbling block for the fight was eliminated when a Dec. 9 cable was finally received yesterday by WBA President Emile Bruneau.

The telegram asked the WBA to appoint one judge and one referee to join a judge selected by the local boxing commission.

Fight promoter Hector Mendez told newsmen last night that the WBA had appointed Herman Dutreix as referee.

Ellis and the local boxing commission also disagreed earlier with the selection of the three judges, but finally agreed there will be an Argentine, an Uruguayan and a U.S. judge.

Calvin Hill Is Named NFL Rookie Of Year

NEW YORK (AP) — When the Dallas Cowboys finally got their first round pick in the pro football draft last Jan. 23 other teams already had made their selections.

"Calvin Hill of Yale," said Tom Hardin, the Cowboys' representative on the scene. Eyebrows popped at 25 other tables.

The Cowboy brass thought of Hill as a tight end, linebacker or even a running back. They couldn't wait to get him to camp to find out. Hill quickly erased all doubts by running over and around the pros in the exhibition season. By the time the regular season started he was firmaly entrenched as a regular running back.

Hill has been voted Offensive Rookie of the Year in the National Football League by an overwhelming majority of the 48-man committee from 16 league cities who participated in The Associated Press' poll.

The final total showed 44 for Hill and one each for Larry Brown of Washington and Gene Washington of San Francisco. Two panel members did not vote in the category.

Hill and veteran quarterback Roman Gabriel head the Dallas and Los Angeles delegations that dominate the Associated Press' National Football League All Star teams.

Dallas and Los Angeles each placed five men on the offensive and defensive squads.

Hull, Snoopy, Seals Get Together Tonight

Bobby Hull, Charles Schulz' Snoopy and the Werner Muller skating chimps from the Holiday on Ice show will be the diverse attractions tonight when the Oakland Seals meet the Chicago Black Hawks in a National Hockey League match at 8 o'clock in the Coliseum Arena.

The program is billed as "Snoopy's Christmas Party."

Although no match for Hull on the ice, Snoopy (12-year-old David Baxter of Santa Rosa) and the four chimps probably will provide plenty of laughs during intermissions. Snoopy pins and several bicycles and stuffed Snoopy dogs will be handed out to youngsters.

Hull's appearance will be his first this season in Oakland.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Generous Income Yields From Pacific Lighting

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. According to what I have read Pacific Lighting is the largest and fastest-growing utility in the country. If this is true why doesn't the share price go up? The 6 per cent yield doesn't indicate a growth issue. — B. H.

A. Pacific Lighting serves Southern California, including Los Angeles, one of the fastest population growth areas in our country. Because use of natural gas in space heaters is subject to weather conditions, earnings have fluctuated in a saw-tooth pattern. Earnings have nonetheless shown an overall uptrending growth pattern increasing an average of 8.4 per cent a year. An above-average gain in earnings this year — $2.20 a share estimated — with reflect last year's poor showing because of weather.

Utility issues are closely tied to money rates because of their heavily funded positions. Pacific's subsidiaries have a long-term debt of $357 million. As interest rates increase, utilities which must continue to raise funds through bond issues are caught in a profit squeeze. These shares now yielding 6.4 per cent are best suited for investors seeking income and gradual appreciation.

Q. I would like to start investing in a no-load mutual fund which offers a Keogh Plan. I prefer one which emphasizes fast growth. — J. K.

A. There are 70 no-load funds in existence. (A list of names and addresses is available on request.) There are certainly a sizable number of these which offer a Keogh Plan and are growth-oriented. Some of the larger and slightly more conservative are Johnston, T. Rowe Price and Scudder Stock funds.

The company, with $70 million in assets, is one of the country's major thrift and loan institutions.

Activity In Northern Coastal Area Unchanged Last Month

Business activity in the 16-county northern coastal area during November remained relatively unchanged from the previous month, according to a report from Carl K. Schieck of San Rafael, executive vice president of Security Pacific National Bank's Northern California headquarters.

The bank's November index of 202.1 was slightly below the previous high of 203.6 set last August, but Schieck said the region's economy is approximately 8.8 per cent ahead of the year-ago pace.

PACIFIC GAS AND ELECTRIC CO. will have a $385 million construction outlay in 1970, setting a new annual expansion record for the company. The investment is said to be necessary to keep the company's resources ahead of continually rising energy demands in Northern and Central California. PG&E expects to connect 100,000 new gas and electric customers to its lines next year.

U. S. NATURAL RESOURCES, INC., Menlo Park, and Yosemite Park and Curry Co. have agreed in principle on a merger of Yosemite into U. S. National Resources. Directors of both companies have given their approval but terms must still be approved by stockholders of Yosemite Park and Curry Co. which would become a wholly-owned subsidiary.

ALLIS CHALMERS has purchased from Penn-Pacific Corp. 80 per cent of the outstanding common stock of Lantz International Corp., a Philadelphia importer, designer and marketer of electrical appliances. Penn-Pacific will continue to own the remaining 20 per cent.

THE BANK OF TOKYO OF CALIFORNIA has declared a 65 cents per share cash dividend for the second half of 1969, an increase of five cents over the dividend paid for the previous six month period. Dividend checks will be mailed Jan. 15. The bank anticipates record year-end profits.

H. L. HEINZ CO. directors have voted to increase the quarterly dividend on common shares from 21 to 35 cents, payable Jan. 10. Heinz has also filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission a registration statement covering 1,675,000 shares of common stock, of which 1,500,000 will be offered by the company and 175,000 by the Howard Heinz Endowment, a charitable trust. Heinz consolidated net income rose 12.1 per cent during the three months ended Oct. 29 over the comparable period last year.

Wall Street Continues Uptrend On Credit Hopes

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks closed higher today as Wall Street continued to savor a statement by Arthur F. Burns, newly appointed Federal Reserve Board chairman, that he hoped the fed could reconsider its tight money policy after it sees the tax reform bill and the new budget.

The UPI market indicator, measuring all stocks traded, showed a gain of 0.89 per cent on 1,637 issues traded. There were 986 advances and 394 declines.

A turnover of around 15 million shares ran slightly below the previous session's pace.

Oils, electronics, and computer strength after climbing sharply in the previous session.

Motors generally worked higher in fractions, as did aircrafts and most chemicals. At the close, General Motors gained 1-2 to 69, Ford was up 1 1-4 to 41 3-4 and Chrysler rose 1 to 34 1-2.

Steels, rails and airlines traded in both directions, and generally in narrow ranges.

H.H. Robertson was a strong feature in heavy turnover, gaining 4 5-8 before the close. John C. Hill, vice president of Robertson, said he knew of no reason to account for the stock's climb.

Other heavily traded stocks including Texaco, Mapco, Glen Alden, and faberge which expected improved 1969 earnings. Texaco closed up 3-8 to 29 3-8.

In late trading, Walt Disney gained 4 and Memorex was up 2.

Authored by
Edward Hungerford, leading transportation historian and former Wells Fargo Express executive for thirty years. Originally published by Random House, N.Y. in 1949.

This is the most readable authentic story ever written about Wells Fargo Express. Its 320 pages are richly illustrated with historical pictures and it explains how the Wells Fargo Bank was formed in 1905.

Chapter 6, THE PONY EXPRESS, is an accurate and definitive story of it and no claim is made for Wells Fargo in connection therewith other than that as an express company they used its services.

This book is long out of print and definitely research material. We have over 150 copies which were purchased out of its last printing by Bonanza Books. Price. $5.95.

I have enclosed $_______ for which please send me _______ copies of Wells Fargo at $5.95 each, prepaid, plus 5% tax.

HOW TO PLAY BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Kibitzer Just Doesn't See More Than The Players Do

"Somebody should tell these wiseacres that bridge isn't played that way," the old Kibitzer growled. "One side is as bad as the other. One fellow is too fancy to return his partner's suit, and the other fellow's too fancy to make sure of a trick. They must think they're playing ping-pong."

TWO FINE PLAYS

The old gentleman had walked away from a table at which two very fine plays had been made on the same trick. He was right in saying that bridge isn't played that way, but that's because every day isn't a holiday.

West led the three of diamonds, and East won with the ace. East thought of returning a diamond, but then thought again. East and dummy each had 10 points in high cards, and South's opening bid promised at least 16 points at most. West could not have both the king and queen of diamonds, which meant that the defense couldn't get much nourishment from the suit.

BEST SUIT

The setting tricks could come only from spades, but East couldn't get far if he led a low spade or even the ace first and then a low spade. South would surely let a low spade ride around to dummy's jack and would thus get two spade tricks instead of only one.

East came to the right choice when he returned the queen of spades at the second trick. If South put up the king to make sure of a spade trick, he would eventually have to lead a diamond to develop his ninth trick. West would take the king of diamonds and lead his other spade, whereupon East would defeat the contract with the rest of the spades.

COUNTERS EAST

South countered East's brilliant switch by refusing to cover with the king of spades. This holdup play limited East to two spade tricks. West would eventually get his side's second diamond trick, but then South would easily win the rest.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠ A Q 10 8 4
♥ 10 8 3
♦ A 7
♣ 8 3 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass or bid one spade.

Most experts would pass this hand but would bid if there were a sixth spade. Some experts would open the hand as it stands.

ALMANAC

Today is Friday, Dec. 19, the 353rd day of 1969 with 12 days to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning stars are Venus and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1777, George Washington and the Continental Army began their winter encampment at Valley Forge, Pa.

In 1942, members of the American Federation of Labor elected William Green as president to succeed organized labor pioneer Samuel Gompers.

In 1950, Gen. Dwight Eisenhower was named commander of military forces operating under the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

In 1965, Charles de Gaulle won a second five-year term as president of France when he received 55 per cent of the vote in a national runoff.

In 1968, Norman Thomas, six times the Socialist party candidate for president, died at the age of 84.

A thought for the day: President Woodrow Wilson once commented, "Sometimes people called me an idealist. Well, that is the way I know I am an American. America is the only idealistic nation in the world."

Marin Dining And Wining

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Gregory's Owners To Depart For Venture On North Coast

Marin County will soon lose one of its most popular husband and wife restaurant teams — Gregory and Mary Alyce Seubert.

They are selling Gregory's Restaurant in the Paradise Shopping Center, Corte Madera and will soon make their full-time headquarters in Mendocino County.

This will come as no surprise to friends who have known of the Seubert's wish to do more living at their Albion home on the north coast. We've already mentioned that Gregory will be a principal and manager of the new Noyo River Inn now under construction at Fort Bragg and overlooking Noyo River Yacht Harbor.

In understand that the inn is targeted for an opening by Washington's Birthday. Before that occurs Gregory and Mary Alyce will take a trip to Europe. They will be long remembered in Marin.

New owners at Gregory's will be a trio known in local restaurant circles. They promise to keep both the German food featured by the Seuberts on the menu and the name Gregory's.

Bernard Epstein was formerly chef at Le Chalet Basque and before that with La Petite Auberge. He is European-trained and as chef at Gregory's will expand the menu to include many of those international dishes for which he has become known. I hope to have a copy of his new menu next week.

John Napoli is best remembered in Marin as one-time co-owner of Pandora in San Anselmo, before and during the time it was called Pandora's Steak House. Third member of this team is Angelo Camilleri, who recently sold his interest in Anjo's in San Rafael.

Gregory's will now be open for dinners seven days a week — from 7 to 11 p.m. Mondays through Fridays and from 5 to 11 Saturdays and Sundays. Lunches will be served from 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. Mondays through Fridays. Reservations are now being taken for New Year's Eve festivities.

THE PROJECT that Dick Templeton and Gordon Jones talked about when they first bought the property at Rubini's in Fairfax — a banquet room — is now coming to pass.

It will be at the rear of the main dining room and take parties of up to 60 persons. But it won't be completed for another month.

Meanwhile chef Gordon has turned out a new menu, with every entree available either a la carte or on the complete dinner. He has restored two of the former Rubini's favorites — Corky's seafood platter and Betty's Neptune steak — and has added beef and lobster brochettes and sauteed chicken livers as new items.

And here's a novelty in today's cost of living index — some of the prices (mostly on the beef side) have been lowered.

Rubini's will be closed Monday through Christmas and will reopen next Friday. New Year's Eve dinner is being served at 6 p.m., 8 p.m. and at 10 p.m. — the latter being the annual champagne dinner with noisemakers and entertainment to round out the year. Make reservations for any one of these periods. Frank Stitt at the Baldwin organ will again play a musical duo with Lowell Hawk at the piano.

Rubini's will close on New Year's Day.

NORMANDIE, the new French restaurant which opened a month ago on the San Rafael Miracle Mile (where L'Europe used to be) has a special dinner menu for Christmas Eve and will serve from 5 p.m. to 1 a.m.

A full course dinner at $20 per couple is planned, including champagne cocktail, Belon oysters on ice, consomme paillettes, quail en brioche or turkey with chestnuts, potatoes amandine, salade belle de nuit, demitasse and for dessert a buche de Noel.

Last time I talked to co-owner Michel Braud, he and his partner Andre Marquer were undecided on whether to remain open Christmas Day. It was finally left that if sufficient advance reservations were received they would give service. If you think you would like to have Christmas dinner here, let them know far enough ahead that they can make plans.

IN LAGUNITAS, Matts and Phyllis Mattsson are planning to keep the Old Viking open Christmas Day, serving their regular dinner menu from 1 p.m.

New Year's Eve they will serve from 5:30 p.m. and New Year's Day from 1 p.m. — also the regular menu. Make reservations for all occasions.

YOUNGSTERS WILL FIND Santa Claus with candy canes for them at Franchini's Chateau starting tonight and every night except Monday up through Christmas Eve. He'll be there at 6 p.m. each evening — Sunday from 2 p.m.

ALTHOUGH Christmas decorations are now up at Bill and Adolph's West End Villa, this San Rafael restaurant will be closed on Christmas Day. You can see them either before or after. Bill Bisson's son Ron did the job — naturally.

The new idea at West End of preparing cannelloni to take home has gone over well — but it appears to be causing complications. Bill tells me he may have to enlarge the kitchen to keep up with the demand.

ZIM'S RESTAURANT CHAIN has received an award from the American Dairy Association for consistent quality in service and products. It makes note of the fact that Zim's has never served imitation dairy products.

Zim's is headed by Arthur Zimmerman of Kent Woodlands. There are eight restaurants in San Francisco, one in Corte Madera Shopping Center and one will open in the Kent Woodlands Shopping Center (where the Woodlands used to be) early in 1970.

BILL AT THE LION'S SHARE, San Anselmo has been changed. Lightning Hopkins canceled his appearance and is being replaced by another blues singer, Jesse Fuller, composer of San Francisco Bay Blues. Supporting performers are still the Johnny Blues Band and Lambert and Nuttycomb.

GIFT CERTIFICATES now being sold at Senor Alfredo's Mexican Restaurant in San Anselmo make good Christmas or birthday presents. Included with them are one of the restaurants fancy posters and a menu.

Senor Alfredo's will be open from 11:30 a.m. through 8 p.m. on Dec. 24, but closed Christmas Day — then open again Friday, Saturday and Sunday of next week. Regular menu will be served New Year's Eve which will be feted at midnight with wine cocktails and champagne. Open New Year's Day.

I UNDERSTAND that Chalet Basque in Santa Venetia still has a few tables open for New Year's Eve. There will be a special dinner, favors and music. But reservations should be made as soon as possible.

IT IS WITH SORROW that I report the death of Herb Saman, who for so many years provided lively musical entertainment at Blue Rock Inn in Larkspur. His perpetual buoyancy and piano playing gave many of his listeners a lift in spirits when they most needed it. We will remember him fondly.

After leaving the Blue Rock several years ago he returned to playing at the night spots in San Francisco where he lived. Our condolences to his family and especially to his daughter Judy, who I understand lives in San Rafael.

Pilots Demand Hijack Actions

LONDON (AP) — Men who pilot the planes of the world's airlines declared today that hijacking has become a global crime, must be met with global assault, and any nation which countenances such conduct should be obstracized.

The International Federation of Airline Pilots, after a two-day meeting here, issued a statement which gave the United Nations high credit for paying attention to the mounting problem.

But, the pilots decided:

1. Any nation which accepts hijacking and does nothing about it should be frozen out of all civilian traffic.
2. All international units concerned should be coordinated so that movements of passengers and freight cargo would be restricted immediately.
3. In the event of a hijacking, there should be a 24-hour stop to all air traffic of the country involved.

Church Is Presenting Live Nativity Scene

A live nativity scene will be ebacted each evening tonight through Tuesday on the lawn of the First Baptist Church of Mill Valley, 285 Miller Avenue.

The nativity conducted each year by the youth of the church, will feature live farm animals provided by George Giannecchini of Tennessee Valley.

It will be presented at 8:30 p.m. today, 8 p.m. Sunday and 7:30 and 8:30 p.m. tomorrow, Monday and Tuesday.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Generous Income Yields From Pacific Lighting

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. According to what I have read Pacific Lighting is the largest and fastest-growing utility in the country. If this is true why doesn't the share price go up? The 6 per cent yield doesn't indicate a growth issue. — B. H.

A. Pacific Lighting serves Southern California, including Los Angeles, one of the fastest population growth areas in our country. Because use of natural gas in space heaters is subject to weather conditions, earnings have fluctuated in a saw-tooth pattern. Earnings have nonetheless shown an overall uptrending growth pattern increasing an average of 8.4 per cent a year. An above-average gain in earnings this year — $2.20 a share estimated — with reflect last year's poor showing because of weather.

Utility issues are closely tied to money rates because of their heavily funded positions. Pacific's subsidiaries have a long-term debt of $357 million. As interest rates increase, utilities which must continue to raise funds through bond issues are caught in a profit squeeze. These shares now yielding 6.4 per cent are best suited for investors seeking income and gradual appreciation.

Q. I would like to start investing in a no-load mutual fund which offers a Keogh Plan. I prefer one which emphasizes fast growth. — J. K.

A. There are 70 no-load funds in existence. (A list of names and addresses is available on request.) There are certainly a sizable number of these which offer a Keogh Plan and are growth-oriented. Some of the larger and slightly more conservative are Johnston, T. Rowe Price and Scudder Stock funds.

To Head Division

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — Gary B. Friedman, executive vice president of ITEL Corp., has been named president of ITEL's data processing division. He will continue as executive vice president and a director of ITEL.

NEW LOAN OFFICE OPENS

First Marin County office of Fireside Thrift has opened at 1011 C Street, San Rafael, its 52nd opening since the founding of the company. In this picture are Joan Torres, teller; John Escano, company supervisor, and Sydney Boultwood, manager of the San Rafael office. The company, with $70 million in assets, is one of the country's major thrift and loan institutions.

THIS WEEK IN BUSINESS

Activity In Northern Coastal Area Unchanged Last Month

Business activity in the 16-county northern coastal area during November remained relatively unchanged from the previous month, according to a report from Carl K. Schieck of San Rafael, executive vice president of Security Pacific National Bank's Northern California headquarters.

The bank's November index of 202.1 was slightly below the previous high of 203.6 set last August, but Schieck said the region's economy is approximately 8.8 per cent ahead of the year-ago pace.

PACIFIC GAS AND ELECTRIC CO. will have a $385 million construction outlay in 1970, setting a new annual expansion record for the company. The investment is said to be necessary to keep the company's resources ahead of continually rising energy demands in Northern and Central California. PG&E expects to connect 100,000 new gas and electric customers to its lines next year.

U. S. NATURAL RESOURCES, INC., Menlo Park, and Yosemite Park and Curry Co. have agreed in principle on a merger of Yosemite into U. S. National Resources. Directors of both companies have given their approval but terms must still be approved by stockholders of Yosemite Park and Curry Co. which would become a wholly-owned subsidiary.

ALLIS CHALMERS has purchased from Penn-Pacific Corp. 80 per cent of the outstanding common stock of Lantz International Corp., a Philadelphia importer, designer and marketer of electrical appliances. Penn-Pacific will continue to own the remaining 20 per cent.

THE BANK OF TOKYO OF CALIFORNIA has declared a 65 cents per share cash dividend for the second half of 1969, an increase of five cents over the dividend paid for the previous six month period. Dividend checks will be mailed Jan. 15. The bank anticipates record year-end profits.

H. L. HEINZ CO. directors have voted to increase the quarterly dividend on common shares from 21 to 35 cents, payable Jan. 10. Heinz has also filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission a registration statement covering 1,675,000 shares of common stock, of which 1,500,000 will be offered by the company and 175,000 by the Howard Heinz Endowment, a charitable trust. Heinz consolidated net income rose 12.1 per cent during the three months ended Oct. 29 over the comparable period last year.

Wall Street Continues Uptrend On Credit Hopes

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks closed higher today as Wall Street continued to savor a statement by Arthur F. Burns, newly appointed Federal Reserve Board chairman, that he hoped the fed could reconsider its tight money policy after it sees the tax reform bill and the new budget.

The UPI market indicator, measuring all stocks traded, showed a gain of 0.89 per cent on 1,637 issues traded. There were 986 advances and 394 declines.

A turnover of around 15 million shares ran slightly below the previous session's pace.

Oils, electronics, and compu- strength after climbing sharply in the previous session.

Motors generally worked higher in fractions, as did aircrafts and most chemicals. At the close, General Motors gained 1-2 to 69, Ford was up 1 1-4 to 41 3-4 and Chrysler rose 1 to 34 1-2.

Steels, rails and airlines traded in both directions, and generally in narrow ranges.

H.H. Robertson was a strong feature in heavy turnover, gaining 4 5-8 before the close. John C. Hill, vice president of Robertson, said he knew of no reason to account for the stock's climb.

Other heavily traded stocks including Texaco, Mapco, Glen Alden, and faberge which expected improved 1969 earnings. Texaco closed up 3-8 to 29 3-8.

In late trading, Walt Disney gained 4 and Memorex was up 2.

Prices also gained on the American Stock Exchange in moderately active trading.

Steel Plant

DUESSELDORF, Germany (UPI) — Schloemann A.G. says it has received a contract to build a specialized cold rolling steel plant for Signode System GMBH, a West German subsidiary of Signode Corp. of Chicago. Terms were not disclosed.

Edward Hungerford, leading transportation historian and former Wells Fargo Express executive for thirty years. Originally published by Random House, N.Y. in 1949.

This is the most readable authentic story ever written about Wells Fargo Express. Its 320 pages are richly illustrated with historical pictures and it explains how the Wells Fargo Bank was formed in 1905.

Chapter 6, THE PONY EXPRESS, is an accurate and definitive story of it and no claim is made for Wells Fargo in connection therewith other than that as an express company they used its services.

This book is long out of print and definitely research material. We have over 150 copies which were purchased out of its last printing by Bonanza Books. Price. $5.95.

Senators Join In Oil Slick Protest

SANTA BARBARA (AP) — Opponents of offshore drilling in the Santa Barbara Channel have word that both of California's U.S. senators share their views as a new oil slick floated over about 50 square miles of the blue Pacific.

Democrat Alan Cranston asked President Richard M. Nixon yesterday to place the channel oil reserves "in escrow" and that all new drilling be banned until adequate safeguards are developed against further spills.

And Republican George Murphy told a Washington new conference the new leak may be a warning to abandon drilling, adding: "We ought to take the hint. Maybe God doesn't want us to do any more poking around in the channel."

Cranston's statement added that "President Nixon has a unique opportunity to correct the errors of the past and, at the same time, make a dramatic turn toward a new and environmentally sane national policy of oil production."

The new slick off the picturesque coastline continued to spready—moving slowly southeastward about six miles off the coast.

Fritz Springmann, a Union Oil Co. spokesman, said the faulty pipeline was expected to be replaced by night.

The Coast Guard has estimated that more than 10,000 gallons of crude oil spurted from an eight-inch break in the undersea pipe at a spot where the pipeline was welded to the drilling platform.

It was at the same platform last Jan. 28 that a massive blowout created a disastrous slick that blackened 40 miles of beaches and hundreds of miles of ocean.

Irate Santa Barbara officials said the new leak detected Tuesday is "another example of the lies that the oil industry and the federal government have told us."

County Supervisor George Clyde sent a telegram to Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel, asking why promised safeguards failed to function.

Union Oil acknowledged automatic pump cut-off equipment failed to activate when the seepage developed and all 16 wells on the platform had to be shut down manually.

A government spokesman theorized the leak was too small to set off the automatic devices.

Marvin Stuart, a member of a citizens committee to Get Oil Out GOO, asserted "oil cannot be a clean neighbor. This leak is a normal occurrence despite promises to the contrary.

"This is a perfect example of what GOO people have been trying to tell the community."

Own Work Better?

DENVER (AP) — Fred Pasternak, a Denver pawnbroker, was given a small speaking part in a film made here. Afterward he told director Richard Brooks, "This is tough work. I'm going to stick to pawnbroking."

Warrant Issued In Drug Case

A bench warrant was issued yesterday for the arrest of Marin County's former New Careers coordinator after he failed to appear for a preliminary hearing on narcotics charges in San Francisco Municipal Court.

The warrant, for Michael R. James, 28, of Oakland, was issued by Judge Gerald J. O'Gara. James, who had been free on $1,000 bail, was arrested by San Francisco police in the Fillmore district Dec. 8.

San Francisco police said James had several small balloons containing what appaered to be heroin in his possession when he was apprehended.

Following his arrest, James, who had a previous prison record, was fired from his $11,808 per year job with the county. He had been hired Oct. 17 by the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

Belfast Plans Holiday Patrols

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—Premier James Chicher-Clark said yesterday troops will patrol Belfast streets on Christmas Day and barbed wire emplacements will remain standing.

"These things remind us how far we have fallen below the standards of a truly Christian community," he told a news conference.

British troops were sent into Northern Ireland last summer after fighting between the Protestant majority and the Roman Catholic minority. The barbed wire emplacements separate Protestant and Catholic areas.

Indians On Alcatraz Get Murphy's Backing

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Indians on Alcatraz Island found their 28th day of occupation an eventual one yesterday as they gained the support of a U.S. senator, established a "Radio Free Alcatraz"—and lost their telephone.

Gen. George Murphy, R-Calif., urged in Washington that the Indians be allowed to develop the island as a cultural center. He also suggested it be included in the national park system in honor of all American Indians.

Murphy said Indian occupation of the former federal prison in San Francisco Bay had been "peaceful" so he made his recommendations to the White House. He said he was assured Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel would ask to include the proposal among possible uses of the island.

It was also announced that "Radio Free Alcatraz" will go on the air from the island Monday. The daily 15-minute live program will be produced over KPFA-FM radio in Berkeley with facilities donated by the station.

But the Indians lost their telephone service.

The General Services Administration, which has jurisdiction over the island, said the number of the government telephone has been changed and it will not be available to the public.

The only other telephone on the island, a private line in the nane of custodian John Hart, has been disconnected.

Trio Reelected

All three officers of the Novato Fire District board were reelected last night. They are Peter Ferrarese, chairman; Joseph Silviera, vice chairman, and Henry Alvernaz, secretary.

Drowning Victim Is Identified

OAKLAND (UPI)—The man who drowned in an irrigation canal during the Altamont rock festival on Dec. 6 was identified yesterday as Leonard J. Kryszak, 18, of Orchard Park, N.Y.

The Alameda County Coroner's office said the identification was made by the FBI through fingerprints.

Police said Kryszak was arrested last Sept. 17 in Columbus, Kan., as a hitchhiking passenger in a stolen car. He was released the following day.

Saboteurs Fail To Hurt Pipeline

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Saboteurs made an unsuccessful attempt last Tuesday to blow up the American-owned pipeline carrying oil from Saudi Arabia to the Mediterranean, officials reported Today.

A spokesman for the operating company, Tapline, said the saboteurs placed explosives against a pipe used to channel oil from the shore installations at Lebanon's Sidon terminal to oil tankers at sea. But the explosion only caused slight damage to a concrete casing without affecting the pipeline, he added.

The pipeline has been damaged by saboteurs three times since May. Jordan and Lebanon lost millions of dollars through the loss of transit revenues and the delays also cost Saudi Arabia heavily.

Pinups Banned

TAIPEI (AP) — Police have banned the posting of nude pinups on the walls of hotel rooms. Police said the ban was designed to protect public moral. It warned that offenders would be prosecuted.

Survey Shows 52 Per Cent Back Agnew's Media Blast

NEW YORK (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's charge that television news reporting is biased has the support of 52 per cent in a national poll taken for ABC. The survey found 33 per cent disagree.

However, the poll, which was released last night on the ABC Evening News, reported that the right of television newsmen to comment immediately after a presidential speech was supported by a ratio of two and one-half to one.

Asked if they agree with Agnew that newspapers are biased, the survey said 36 per cent of those interviewed agreed, 34 per cent disagreed and 30 per cent didn't know or had no opinion.

Freedom of the press for all media was endorsed by the majority of the 559 adults in 12 cities who were interviewed.

After Agnew's criticism of the networks for their news analysis following President Nixon's Nov. 3 Vietnam speech, ABC retained Lieberman Research, Inc., of New York to conduct the poll.

The principal reason cited by those who supported Agnew's criticisms was a belief that the news media does slant the news.

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Gregory's Owners To Depart For Venture On North Coast

Marin County will soon lose one of its most popular husband and wife restaurant teams — Gregory and Mary Alyce Seubert.

They are selling Gregory's Restaurant in the Paradise Shopping Center, Corte Madera and will soon make their full-time headquarters in Mendocino County.

This will come as no surprise to friends who have known of the Seubert's wish to do more living at their Albion home on the north coast. We've already mentioned that Gregory will be a principal and manager of the new Noyo River Inn now under construction at Fort Bragg and overlooking Noyo River Yacht Harbor.

In understand that the inn is targeted for an opening by Washington's Birthday. Before that occurs Gregory and Mary Alyce will take a trip to Europe. They will be long remembered in Marin.

New owners at Gregory's will be a trio known in local restaurant circles. They promise to keep both the German food featured by the Seuberts on the menu and the name Gregory's.

Bernard Epstein was formerly chef at Le Chalet Basque and before that with La Petite Auberge. He is European-trained and as chef at Gregory's will expand the menu to include many of those international dishes for which he has become known. I hope to have a copy of his new menu next week.

John Napoli is best remembered in Marin as one-time co-owner of Pandora in San Anselmo, before and during the time it was called Pandora's Steak House. Third member of this team is Angelo Camilleri, who recently sold his interest in Anjo's in San Rafael.

Gregory's will now be open for dinners seven days a week — from 7 to 11 p.m. Mondays through Fridays and from 5 to 11 Saturdays and Sundays. Lunches will be served from 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. Mondays through Fridays. Reservations are now being taken for New Year's Eve festivities.

THE PROJECT that Dick Templeton and Gordon Jones talked about when they first bought the property at Rubini's in Fairfax — a banquet room — is now coming to pass.

It will be at the rear of the main dining room and take parties of up to 60 persons. But it won't be completed for another month.

Meanwhile chef Gordon has turned out a new menu, with every entree available either a la carte or on the complete dinner. He has restored two of the former Rubini's favorites — Corky's seafood platter and Betty's Neptune steak — and has added beef and lobster brochettes and sauteed chicken livers as new items.

And here's a novelty in today's cost of living index — some of the prices (mostly on the beef side) have been lowered.

Rubini's will be closed Monday through Christmas and will reopen next Friday. New Year's Eve dinner is being served at 6 p.m., 8 p.m. and at 10 p.m. — the latter being the annual champagne dinner with noisemakers and entertainment to round out the year. Make reservations for any one of these periods. Frank Stitt at the Baldwin organ will again play a musical duo with Lowell Hawk at the piano.

Rubini's will close on New Year's Day.

NORMANDIE, the new French restaurant which opened a month ago on the San Rafael Miracle Mile (where L'Europe used to be) has a special dinner menu for Christmas Eve and will serve from 5 p.m. to 1 a.m.

A full course dinner at $20 per couple is planned, including champagne cocktail, Belon oysters on ice, consomme paillettes, quail en brioche or turkey with chestnuts, potatoes amandine, salade belle de nuit, demitasse and for dessert a buche de Noel.

Last time I talked to co-owner Michel Braud, he and his partner Andre Marquer were undecided on whether to remain open Christmas Day. It was finally left that if sufficient advance reservations were received they would give service. If you think you would like to have Christmas dinner here, let them know far enough ahead that they can make plans.

IN LAGUNITAS, Matts and Phyllis Mattsson are planning to keep the Old Viking open Christmas Day, serving their regular dinner menu from 1 p.m.

New Year's Eve they will serve from 5:30 p.m. and New Year's Day from 1 p.m. — also the regular menu. Make reservations for all occasions.

YOUNGSTERS WILL FIND Santa Claus with candy canes for them at Franchini's Chateau starting tonight and every night except Monday up through Christmas Eve. He'll be there at 6 p.m. each evening — Sunday from 2 p.m.

ALTHOUGH Christmas decorations are now up at Bill and Adolph's West End Villa, this San Rafael restaurant will be closed on Christmas Day. You can see them either before or after. Bill Bisson's son Ron did the job — naturally.

The new idea at West End of preparing cannelloni to take home has gone over well — but it appears to be causing complications. Bill tells me he may have to enlarge the kitchen to keep up with the demand.

ZIM'S RESTAURANT CHAIN has received an award from the American Dairy Association for consistent quality in service and products. It makes note of the fact that Zim's has never served imitation dairy products.

Zim's is headed by Arthur Zimmerman of Kent Woodlands. There are eight restaurants in San Francisco, one in Corte Madera Shopping Center and one will open in the Kent Woodlands Shopping Center (where the Woodlands used to be) early in 1970.

BILL AT THE LION'S SHARE, San Anselmo has been changed. Lightning Hopkins canceled his appearance and is being replaced by another blues singer, Jesse Fuller, composer of San Francisco Bay Blues. Supporting performers are still the Johnny Blues Band and Lambert and Nuttycomb.

GIFT CERTIFICATES now being sold at Senor Alfredo's Mexican Restaurant in San Anselmo make good Christmas or birthday presents. Included with them are one of the restaurants fancy posters and a menu.

Senor Alfredo's will be open from 11:30 a.m. through 8 p.m. on Dec. 24, but closed Christmas Day — then open again Friday, Saturday and Sunday of next week. Regular menu will be served New Year's Eve which will be feted at midnight with wine cocktails and champagne. Open New Year's Day.

I UNDERSTAND that Chalet Basque in Santa Venetia still has a few tables open for New Year's Eve. There will be a special dinner, favors and music. But reservations should be made as soon as possible.

IT IS WITH SORROW that I report the death of Herb Saman, who for so many years provided lively musical entertainment at Blue Rock Inn in Larkspur. His perpetual buoyancy and piano playing gave many of his listeners a lift in spirits when they most needed it. We will remember him fondly.

After leaving the Blue Rock several years ago he returned to playing at the night spots in San Francisco where he lived. Our condolences to his family and especially to his daughter Judy, who I understand lives in San Rafael.

I-J Special Report

Pilots Demand Hijack Actions

LONDON (AP) — Men who pilot the planes of the world's airlines declared today that hijacking has become a global crime, must be met with global assault, and any nation which countenances such conduct should be obstracized.

The International Federation of Airline Pilots, after a two-day meeting here, issued a statement which gave the United Nations high credit for paying attention to the mounting problem.

But, the pilots decided:

1. Any nation which accepts hijacking and does nothing about it should be frozen out of all civilian traffic.
2. All international units concerned should be coordinated so that movements of passengers and freight cargo would be restricted immediately.
3. In the event of a hijacking, there should be a 24-hour stop to all air traffic of the country involved.

Church Is Presenting Live Nativity Scene

Strange Things Happen To Fair And Memorial

Little did Marin veterans' organizations suspect, when they agreed that their veterans' memorial building could be transformed into a civic auditorium, that it could become the first unit in a $9 million cultural center — and that before it was even completed.

Little did the county board of supervisors suspect, when it decided to set up a non-profit corporation to operate the auditorium and the county fair, that the corporation would propose the fair be abandoned in favor of a year-long cultural and educational show — a sort of Cal-Expo in miniature.

But that's the way it turned out.

IT ALL CAME OUT Tuesday as supervisors and directors of Fair-Marin, the non-profit corporation, tangled in a heated battle of words at the Civic Center.

When bids on the auditorium came in much higher than the amount of money the county had available, it was agreed to scale down the plans and meantime start a drive for public subscriptions to raise a half million dollars to complete the building.

The supervisors on Tuesday accused Fair-Marin of doing nothing about getting started on the fund raising.

Leon G. Kalimos, Fair-Marin executive director, retorted that a plan for a $9 million cultural center is needed first.

WHEN THE SUPERVISORS set up Fair-Marin, one of its charges was to take over operation of the county fair, which was to be moved to the Civic Center fairgrounds from the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross.

On Tuesday, supervisors expressed displeasure that Fair-Marin not only cannot take over the county fair for next year (apparently there won't be one), but had expressed doubts about being able to stage it in 1971.

Fair-Marin officials retorted that instead of a five-day county fair, there should be a year-long cultural and educational program.

At that point William A. Gnoss, most mild-mannered of the supervisors, bristled and said that if there was to be no agricultural fair, there would be no money.

The supervisors suggested that Harold Stockstad should resign as president of Fair-Marin. He said he wouldn't do it. (He "resigned" from the Fair-Marin board once, but was back in the chair the very next meeting.)

IN THE TALK about year-around educational activities, a $9 million cultural center, etc., everyone seemed to have forgotten a few things.

The money that is now being spent on constructing the auditorium came from a special tax, authorized by the voters, for a veterans' memorial building.

Money for the county fair has come each year from the state pari-mutuel fund — $58,500 per year the last three years, $65,000 per year before that.

What we have is the money the taxpayers paid for one thing (a veterans' memorial) becoming the nest egg for something quite different — a $9 million cultural center. And the county's share of the money spent on horse racing won't be forthcoming unless there is a county fair.

Truly, strange things have happened to what started out to be a fairgrounds and a veterans' memorial building.

The Mexican Flower

Poinsettias seem to be inseparable from Christmas in our minds. But it was not until the early 1900s that poinsettias became almost as much a part of the holiday tradition in this country as the Christmas tree.

Long known in Mexico as the Christmas eve flower, the poinsettia was introduced into the U.S. by Ambassador Joel Poinsett, from whom it derived the name by which we all know it. In tropical climates this colorful plant often grows to a height of 10 or 12 feet.

This plant with its crown of bright scarlet leaves is one of nature's beautiful marvels. And it is just as lovely three feet tall in a pot as 10 feet tall in a tropical garden.

Those Who Play Political Game On Campus Should Accept Rules

(Reprinted from Phoenix, San Francisco State College student-edited newspaper)

The pawns of last year's political game are in the process of being swept off the board, and the cries can be heard all over the campus.

Of the bloc of teachers being denied tenure this semester, a disproportionate number are AFT members and leaders of last year's strike. These teachers, led by Erwin Kelly, are yelling "political purge," a yell prodded by the sudden realization that they're going to be out of a job.

IF ONE ACCEPTS the charge — as yet unproved but highly possible — that these teachers are being ousted for their political activities, the next question is: So?

These teachers belong to a group that had a hand in the deposing of two college presidents — a political maneuver.

They belong to a group that has consistently attacked the administration through the media — a political maneuver.

They walked out of their classrooms last year and joined picket lines — a political maneuver.

THOSE WHO LIVE by politics can starve by politics.

If you play the game, you have to be willing to accept the penalties involved. If you don't like the rules, don't play.

The teachers involved, Kelly in particular, seem to have a one-side approach to the political chess tournament on this campus, a form of convoluted logic that makes it all right for them to attack, retreat, or distort, but when the opponent follows suit it becomes unfair.

AFT has had a great time in the last year shuffling bishops and pawns, holding conferences and firing broadsides, all with sneering immunity.

Now the administration is responding. And Dr. Hayakawa is taking the pieces, one by one.

It's part of the game.

The winner, whether you like it or not, will clear the board.

Priorities Mixed For Fairfax Schools

I find myself completely irritated and in the midst of a dilema. Yesterday I went to our school to deliver some letters. While there, I heard a very sad story about the difficulty our teachers had in obtaining supplies and resource materials and how poor the district was.

Today I read that H. Reginald Hammond, superintendent of the Fairfax School District, reported that his staff was working on gathering materials to be used to supplement regular material to cover various areas of ethnic study.

Am I terribly misinformed or did I just hear two completely contadictory facts within 24 hours??

Our school district eliminated bus service due to a bond issue not passing — no money. We share a psychologist with another district this year — not enough money for one of our own. Remedial reading cut back — not enough money. "If the heating system fails it cannot be repaired" — not enough money. Our teachers are the lowest paid in the county — no money. Poor Fairfax Schools.

If our district is so poor, where are they getting the money for multi-ethnic education? I agree that this type of program is desirable, but if the district is so poor and can't provide some of the basic services, isn't it getting it's priorities mixed up?

Firemen Practice On Smoggy Day

Over the last month of November we have had the most marvelous weather that I can ever remember. But also with this weather, we have had the worst case of air pollution in the San Francisco Bay Area. Today, Dec. 2, the smog seemed to be a little heavier than normal, but today some of the local fire departments decided to have a practice fire at San Quentin.

During the mid-morning break at Redwood High School, you could see a black billow of smoke rising in the sky. At first, I thought there was a large oil fire in Richmond, and it wasn't until a few minutes later did I learn that the fire was from San Quentin.

Because of this ever increasing problem of pollution, in our air, earth and water, I find it quite strange that such a large fire is allowed to burn.

Teachers At Work On Trade Schooling

Your editorial of Dec. 3, in which you bemoan the lack of occupational education in the Marin County schools, came at a most appropriate time. On the day of your editorial, work experience teachers from all the high schools in the county and from the College of Marin met regarding this very problem. Also in attendance were members of the staff of the Neighborhood Youth Corps. Representatives from the county schools office and the Department of Vocational Rehabilitation were unable to attend. The purpose of this meeting was to unite the efforts of these people in meeting the vocational problems facing students who are not going on to college.

An organization has been founded which will seek and hopefully gain support from industry and trade unions in the county. The result of this coalition of the schools and the community will be to upgrade occupational education within the existing educational framework and to investigate the potential for such innovations as occupational centers and vocational or technical high schools.

Denis Ragan, work experience coordinator from Redwood High School, has been elected president of this new organization. Further inquiries may be directed to him at Redwood.

Inspired Moment Won't Be Forgotten

On Sunday, Dec. 7, Dominican College music department put on a cello recital with 13 young people performing.

A young man, Jed Barahal, played one number, "Kol Nidrei" by Bruch, that I feel is worthy of mention.

This boy has performed on different occasions around Marin and has real talent. I made the effort to go hear the recital just to hear him, and was rewarded with a moment of unbelievable beauty.

Call it a combination of talent, training, discipline — or an inspired moment in time — but I shall never forget it.

The Western Big Four, meeting in Paris, agreed to propose a summit meeting with Premier Nikita Khrushchev of the USSR.

Marin County residents shivered as the mercury dropped to 26 degrees in Woodacre and 29 in Novato.

Teacher Applauds Courthouse Idea

I am terribly excited about Mrs. (Nancy) Olmsted's proposal to buy the old courthouse and convert it into a Center for Experimental Education and Human Resources.

As a multi-ethnics teacher, I have realized what a great need there is for such a center where students and teachers from all parts of Marin would have a chance to meet and exchange ideas on topics related to the human resources field — from ecology to multi-ethnic studies.

In Berkeley there is a fascinating multi-media center called EPOCH, which operates as a training and demonstration center for seeking new ways to trace the cultural achievements of all ethnic groups and their relationship to life today. I had hoped that I could take my classes for a visit to EPOCH, but have found that the charge for out-of-district schools is prohibitive. Wouldn't it be wonderful to have such a center right here in Marin — housed in the old county courthouse along with other groups?

Three cheers for a great idea. It has my enthusiastic support!

Forest Knolls Arson Editorial 'Inspired'

Usually I find your editorials very disturbing because I feel they're not applicable to the progress that the world must make or be destroyed.

However, your editorial on the Forest Knolls arson attempts was really inspired and only too true.

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

NEIL MORGAN has a bit of sage advice for men who contemplate wearing a hairpiece, but are rather wary of the comments of their friends. "Grow a mustache first," counsels Neil. "When it's luxurious and bushy, put on the hairpiece and shave off the mustache. Your never-too-observant pals will all say, 'Hey, I see you've shed that mustache of yours' — and never notice the hairpiece!"

AN IOWA disc jockey was interviewing two farmers at his radio station. "What would you do," he suddenly asked them, "if you learned tomorrow that you had inherited a million dollars?"

"Lordy, lordy!" chuckled one. "I'd sell my farm immediately, and take my Matilda for a trip around the world. Then I'd live on what was left for the rest of my life."

"Not me," insisted the second farmer. "You can't teach an old dog new tricks. I'd bank my million, then just go on farming 'till it was all gone!"

THE DRUMMONDS

Nixon Fighting Democrats' Efforts To Swamp Him With Spending

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — The Democrats now see Vietnam a fading political issue, so they are starting to fight President Nixon on the home front to keep control of the Senate in the 1970 elections.

Their strategy: Undercut the President with the peope. Try to make him accept deficit spending to a degree he believes would push up the cost of living. Or make him shrink vital domestic programs to balance the budget.

MR. NIXON will accept the challenge. He will refuse to choose between mounting deficit spending or neglect of domestic programs. He will fight back despite political hazards.

He is ready to:

1. Go through with his threat to veto the tax bill if it retains anything near the multibillion dollar losses in revenue voted by the Senate.
2. Call Congress into special session right after Christmas if an acceptable tax reform and the appropriation bill are not forthcoming before.
3. Take the issue to the nation in a major televised address the way he took his Vietnam peace plan to the people last month — and won.

Richard Nixon is prepared to turn the economic issue against the Democrats. His counterstrategy: Pin inflation on the Democrats, hold the line on federal spending until ending the Vietnamese war bring savings, then go into bigger domestic programs.

THIS IS ONE of the hard decisions he must make to live up to his campaign promises. It is politically riskful. But he has no choice because, having made his fight against inflation his priority domestic goal, he knows he must resist every pressure and every temptation to scuttle that goal.

Here's why:

If anything near the Senate tax bill becomes law, all prospect of any sizable surplus in the current budget next June will vanish.

And the budget outlook for next year would be worse, a mounting deficit unless Mr. Nixon slashes his own modest spending program and impounds much of what Congress is now appropriating.

Such deficits can have only one effect — fuel inflation at the very moment when there is some success in checking it.

This isn't a partisan view of economics. It is the other half of Keynesian economics which most American economists accept — that taxes should be reduced when the economy needs stimulus, then increased or maintained when the economy needs restraint.

The Nixon administration is united in the conviction that the projected budget surpluses this year and next must be preserved if all hope of controlling inflation is not to be lost.

THE FULL IMPORT of this unreported strategy of the Senate Democratic liberals is coming into fuller view. It seems illogical for these Democrats — the big domestic spenders — to vote to decrease the federal revenue needed to finance more domestic spending.

But they did and it can now be seen that there was a political design in their maneuver.

It is to counter this design that Nixon has decided not only to use every power of the President to prevent a deficit-producing tax bill but also to go to the public soon to expound his reasons.

His first choice is to win on the tax bill in Congress.

But he is convinced that he can make his fight to contain the rising cost of living a winning political issue against the Democratic efforts to push him into big deficit spending.

You can't control inflation with a series of unbalanced budgets.

President Nixon can't get a balanced budget unless he can block Democratic efforts to cut revenue or unless he slashes his own domestic program to the bone.

This is why Richard Nixon is in a tense and tight squeeze and will fight hard to get out of it.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Two And One-Half War Planning Is Abandoned

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — The old myth, which supposed that the Pentagon was preparing to fight two and a half wars at the same time, has now been officially exploded.

The concept, developed during the Kennedy administration, assumed that the United States might be faced, simultaneously, with major wars in Europe and in Asia plus a minor incident in some other part of the world. It became a basic guideline for military planners.

In this year's congressional battles over military spending, the two-and-a-half war concept was sharply criticized. Lawmakers questioning the need for manned aircraft, carrier task forces, modern tanks and the like questioned the planning guidelines too.

NOW SEC. OF DEFENSE Melvin R. Laird has told appropriations committee of the House and Senate that the two-and-a-half war concept has been abandoned. The guideline was never really translated into Pentagon policy at all, according to Laird.

"If we price out where we are in our budget today," Laird told the House committee, "we are realistically in a position — if we discount the present Vietnam situation — where we could support one major war and one minor conflict."

The secretary's review indicated that the Joint Chiefs of Staff have been encouraged to submit budget requests based on a two-and-one-half war capability. Then, however, cuts have been made by defense secretaries.

According to Laird, the Joint Chiefs of Staff developed a $111 billion two-and-a-half war defense blueprint for the present fiscal year. That sum was first reduced to $100 billion by the military services. Then Secy. Clark Clifford trimmed it to $80 billion before sending it to the White House.

"The forces provided by the budgets of past years could not support a two-and-a-half war concept, loosely expressed. We, in effect, were kidding ourselves by having a strategic concept which envisioned such a capability," observed Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, current chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

THERE ARE important budget implications in Laird's plans which would reduce the armed forces to their lowest level since 1966.

There were about 3,460,000 men and women in the armed services at the end of the last budget year, on June 30. That total was down only slightly — to about 3,445,000 — by Sept. 30.

However, Laird plans armed forces totaling 3,200,000, or perhaps a bit less, by the end of the current year. Clearly, those personnel reductions will justify budget cuts, with the amount in dollars depending on how rapidly the force reductions are effected.

Expensive weapon systems have been cut back too, although the actions have not provoked the publicity which attended attacks on the ABM, aircraft carriers and the like. Some of the weapons cuts were made at Laird's behest.

A great many people think they are thinking when they are merely rearranging their prejudices. — William James.

Senators Join In Oil Slick Protest

SANTA BARBARA (AP) — Opponents of offshore drilling in the Santa Barbara Channel have word that both of California's U.S. senators share their views as a new oil slick floated over about 50 square miles of the blue Pacific.

Democrat Alan Cranston asked President Richard M. Nixon yesterday to place the channel oil reserves "in escrow" and that all new drilling be banned until adequate safeguards are developed against further spills.

And Republican George Murphy told a Washington new conference the new leak may be a warning to abandon drilling, adding: "We ought to take the hint. Maybe God doesn't want us to do any more poking around in the channel."

Cranston's statement added that "President Nixon has a unique opportunity to correct the errors of the past and, at the same time, make a dramatic turn toward a new and environmentally sane national policy of oil production."

The new slick off the picturesque coastline continued to spready—moving slowly southeastward about six miles off the coast.

Fritz Springmann, a Union Oil Co. spokesman, said the faulty pipeline was expected to be replaced by night.

The Coast Guard has estimated that more than 10,000 gallons of crude oil spurted from an eight-inch break in the undersea pipe at a spot where the pipeline was welded to the drilling platform.

It was at the same platform last Jan. 28 that a massive blowout created a disastrous slick that blackened 40 miles of beaches and hundreds of miles of ocean.

Irate Santa Barbara officials said the new leak detected Tuesday is "another example of the lies that the oil industry and the federal government have told us."

County Supervisor George Clyde sent a telegram to Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel, asking why promised safeguards failed to function.

Union Oil acknowledged automatic pump cut-off equipment failed to activate when the seepage developed and all 16 wells on the platform had to be shut down manually.

A government spokesman theorized the leak was too small to set off the automatic devices.

Marvin Stuart, a member of a citizens committee to Get Oil Out GOO, asserted "oil cannot be a clean neighbor. This leak is a normal occurrence despite promises to the contrary.

"This is a perfect example of what GOO people have been trying to tell the community."

Warrant Issued In Drug Case

A bench warrant was issued yesterday for the arrest of Marin County's former New Careers coordinator after he failed to appear for a preliminary hearing on narcotics charges in San Francisco Municipal Court.

The warrant, for Michael R. James, 28, of Oakland, was issued by Judge Gerald J. O'Gara. James, who had been free on $1,000 bail, was arrested by San Francisco police in the Fillmore district Dec. 8.

San Francisco police said James had several small balloons containing what appaered to be heroin in his possession when he was apprehended.

Following his arrest, James, who had a previous prison record, was fired from his $11,808 per year job with the county. He had been hired Oct. 17 by the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

Belfast Plans Holiday Patrols

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—Premier James Chicher-Clark said yesterday troops will patrol Belfast streets on Christmas Day and barbed wire emplacements will remain standing.

"These things remind us how far we have fallen below the standards of a truly Christian community," he told a news conference.

British troops were sent into Northern Ireland last summer after fighting between the Protestant majority and the Roman Catholic minority. The barbed wire emplacements separate Protestant and Catholic areas.

Indians On Alcatraz Get Murphy's Backing

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Indians on Alcatraz Island found their 28th day of occupation an eventual one yesterday as they gained the support of a U.S. senator, established a "Radio Free Alcatraz"—and lost their telephone.

Gen. George Murphy, R-Calif., urged in Washington that the Indians be allowed to develop the island as a cultural center. He also suggested it be included in the national park system in honor of all American Indians.

Murphy said Indian occupation of the former federal prison in San Francisco Bay had been "peaceful" so he made his recommendations to the White House. He said he was assured Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel would ask to include the proposal among possible uses of the island.

It was also announced that "Radio Free Alcatraz" will go on the air from the island Monday. The daily 15-minute live program will be produced over KPFA-FM radio in Berkeley with facilities donated by the station.

But the Indians lost their telephone service.

The General Services Administration, which has jurisdiction over the island, said the number of the government telephone has been changed and it will not be available to the public.

The only other telephone on the island, a private line in the nane of custodian John Hart, has been disconnected.

Trio Reelected

All three officers of the Novato Fire District board were reelected last night. They are Peter Ferrarese, chairman; Joseph Silviera, vice chairman, and Henry Alvernaz, secretary.

Drowning Victim Is Identified

OAKLAND (UPI)—The man who drowned in an irrigation canal during the Altamont rock festival on Dec. 6 was identified yesterday as Leonard J. Kryszak, 18, of Orchard Park, N.Y.

The Alameda County Coroner's office said the identification was made by the FBI through fingerprints.

Police said Kryszak was arrested last Sept. 17 in Columbus, Kan., as a hitchhiking passenger in a stolen car. He was released the following day.

Saboteurs Fail To Hurt Pipeline

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Saboteurs made an unsuccessful attempt last Tuesday to blow up the American-owned pipeline carrying oil from Saudi Arabia to the Mediterranean, officials reported Today.

A spokesman for the operating company, Tapline, said the saboteurs placed explosives against a pipe used to channel oil from the shore installations at Lebanon's Sidon terminal to oil tankers at sea. But the explosion only caused slight damage to a concrete casing without affecting the pipeline, he added.

The pipeline has been damaged by saboteurs three times since May. Jordan and Lebanon lost millions of dollars through the loss of transit revenues and the delays also cost Saudi Arabia heavily.

Pinups Banned

TAIPEI (AP) — Police have banned the posting of nude pinups on the walls of hotel rooms. Police said the ban was designed to protect public moral. It warned that offenders would be prosecuted.

Survey Shows 52 Per Cent Back Agnew's Media Blast

NEW YORK (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's charge that television news reporting is biased has the support of 52 per cent in a national poll taken for ABC. The survey found 33 per cent disagree.

However, the poll, which was released last night on the ABC Evening News, reported that the right of television newsmen to comment immediately after a presidential speech was supported by a ratio of two and one-half to one.

Asked if they agree with Agnew that newspapers are biased, the survey said 36 per cent of those interviewed agreed, 34 per cent disagreed and 30 per cent didn't know or had no opinion.

Freedom of the press for all media was endorsed by the majority of the 559 adults in 12 cities who were interviewed.

After Agnew's criticism of the networks for their news analysis following President Nixon's Nov. 3 Vietnam speech, ABC retained Lieberman Research, Inc., of New York to conduct the poll.

The principal reason cited by those who supported Agnew's criticisms was a belief that the news media does slant the news.

Tensions Grow In Long-Troubled Southern Marin School District

Since it is the holiday season, it perhaps would be more fitting to write in this space of peace and love instead of fear and hate, but there is something happening in Southern Marin that demands attention.

The air of tension in Marin City has become almost tangible.

While there obviously are many reasons, some reaching infinitely deeper than the surface manifestations of them, there are two subjects which seem to be both causes and symptoms of the tension.

The two are related and both affect the long-troubled Sausalito School District, particularly Martin Luther King School.

One is the intensifying polarization between the black community and significant portion of the white community.

The other is the conviction, on a charge of disturbing a school critic's peace, of Black Panther leader George Gaines.

Gaines, who is to be sentenced Jan. 9, was convicted last week of disturbing the peace of Delta Christ at a Black Panther-sponsored breakfast at King School last spring by calling her a racist bitch.

He was acquitted of committing battery on Mrs. Christ, who is one of the leaders of Citizens for Excellence in Integrated Education.

The subject is the number one topic of conversation among blacks, particularly the more militant ones, in Marin City and among students at King, according to school district community worker, Gabe Jackson, who is in a position to know.

Jackson, who was present at the confrontation between Mrs. Christ and Gaines, and told police he saw nothing happen, claims the black community is viewing the Gaines case as a clear-cut case of white oppression.

He says the people are angered because Gaines was convicted by an all-white jury; that Mrs. Christ did not call any witnesses to support her charges; that Gaines had several witnesses whose testimony apparently was ignored by the jury; and because Mrs. Christ and others still are harassing the school district, particularly black educators at King.

The Gaines issue is adding to the polarization in the district, as is the increasing stridency of voices opposing Principal Sidney F. Walton Jr. of King School.

The focus of the opposition currently is the CEIE, which wants Walton out, wants King's assistant principal James T. Toliver Jr. out wants District Supt. Phillip W. Schneider out, and wants at least three members of the school board out.

The group, although steadfastly refusing to reveal how big-or-small — it is, says it's growing. Whether it is or not, it is a significant factor in the continuing problems of the district, as is the increasing militance of at least some Black Panthers, which is viewed in some quarters as a last-gasp effort to maintain the party's political punch and influence over young people in Marin City.

Sadly, the pawns — and the victims — of this confrontation remain the children, black and white, of the Sausalito School District. We may all be victims in the end.

COUNTY COMMENT

Fair-Marin Dispute Recalls Comments Made A Year Ago

Fusselman

Putting out the column today is not the sort of thing I feel like doing, but I know Billie would urge me to, for she agreed with my thinking about this Fair-Marin setup.

Here are some things I said a year ago, in December, 1968. "This further piece of abdication by the board of supervisors, in their handing over 80 of the 140 acres which were purchased for the Civic Center site to a private group, is hard to understand. (Or is it?) . . . The board of supervisors said Fair-Marin should operate 80 acres with the degree of control to be spelled out.

"An I-J editorial in the Nov. 20 issue discussed the whole contemplated setup in a wide range of aspects. One went as follows: 'Moreover the very name of the organization (Fair-Marin) is contradictory to its purpose. Although it was set up to operate fairgrounds and auditorium for the good of all, its directors were chosen from special purpose groups seeking to promote their own special uses of these facilities. It thus has built-in conflict of interest'."

THERE IS a completely different situation here than existed in respect to the Marin Art and Garden operation. Those grounds are privately owned by their group and it was a perfectly natural and proper procedure to contract with them. But now we are dealing with publicly owned land and buildings. These facilities should not be turned over to any private group. The editorial pointed out that the parks and recreation commission was completely bypassed creating Fair-Marin and that it was not even represented on the board of that group.

I spoke of the ultimate plans for a fair operation out at Brasilia and commented: "So you see this would mean about $4.5 million, which in my opinion is far too much public funds and assets to hand over to a private group of amateurs to play around with.

"The parks and recreation commission and its director are the logical ones to handle this, not Fair-Marin . . . And most certainly the board of supervisors should be deeply involved (personally) and should remain as the fair commission. That's the way this whole thing was built up over the years."

WHEN I READ "Supervisors Flay Fair-Marin Acts" and the exchage between chairman John McInnis and Harold Stockstad, it wonders me no end.

Question: Why didn't McInnis, who was a member of the board last year, stop his purring then, and how did Stockstad ever get the nod to head up Fair-Marin? And perhaps you noticed the following:

In the Wed. Dec. issue of the I-J: "Mary Robinson Summers added that Bruce (administrator) had even stopped Fair-Marin from contacting supervisors directly. 'We were told we couldn't even talk to the architect',"

Marin Peace Plea Mailed To Nixon

Letters to President Richard M. Nixon bearing signatures of 1,302 Marinites opposed to continued involvement in Vietnam were mailed today by Richard M. Adams of Belvedere, one of the organizers of the Dec. 15 peace walks and rallies for the "silent majority."

Adams said the signatures were all obtained at the rallies held in Marin communities, and noted that no letter to the president was circulated for signatures at the Novato rally.

The letters urge Nixon to withdraw Americans entirely from Vietnam, declaring, "We cannot provide a solution to the Vietnamese people's conflict, and our participation in it has been and is corrosive to the human spirit of our citizenry."

Lawless Element Invaded Valley

Your editorial of Dec. 8 regarding conditions in San Geronimo Valley and Forest Knolls in particular amazes me beyond expression and prompts this reply.

The ignorance displayed in the editorial of conditions the past summer in San Geronimo Valley are almost unbelievable.

Here are some of the facts that can easily be substantiated by the board of supervisors, the district attorney, the sheriff's department, the county fire department:

That a lawless and irresponsible element did invade San Geronimo Valley last summer.

That threats of violence against residents of the valley were made by this element if they objected to these conditions.

That shootings did occur nightly throughout the summer, some being with automatic weapons.

That Burt's Realty office suffered numerous bullets fired at it; one directly through the plate glass window over the desk.

That daily robberies occurred as many as five in one home alone.

That obscene sex acts occurred on the streets of Forest Knolls.

That Papermill Creek was used as a public toilet.

That more than two dozen fires were set in the wooded area about the lakes, some incendiary, endangering the watershed.

That more than 800 sheriff's calls were made to the valley from Jan. 1 to Nov. 1, 1969. A terrific increase.

That the outdoor demonstrations at the cafe were a direct violation of a county ordinance prohibiting such demonstrations.

And in the face of all these facts you now infer that the latest fire at the cafe could have been set by the residents that have objected to these conditions. . . .

What prompted you to write the editorial is unexplainable. It seems to me that the first consideration of a good newspaper should be to aid an area plagued with lawlessness, not to condemn it for its effort to control it. . . .

Must Be A Way To End Violence

We, the younger generation, are going through some heavy, heavy changes, and fast. Within the last year the number of people of all ages acting together for peace in this country has been unbelievable. . . .

We, as a nation, I hope, are fast becoming a more civilized people who think more of goodness than materialistic possessions. A people that are thinking of how to make this nation a better place for all who live within it. We aren't content with the present problems of air pollution, water pollution, over-population, starvation, and all the rest. And we are searching for answers desperately. . . .

This week at Altamont Speedway, the site of close to 300,000 people, our theories on how to obtain peace throughout the world were temporarily destroyed. If we could concentrate on the whole area and consider it as our present situation in the world, we can possibly get to some of the problems. The war that took place at Altamont Speedway is typical of the wars that infect our world at present. It involved everyone there no matter how far away. From the start of the concert it seemed to me the Hell's Angels were out to turn the concert into a series of fights and wars instead of a music concert. The Angels accomplished the beating up of numerous amounts of people . . .

Violence, we have accepted as a way of life; in wars, in our business, in our outward social structure, in competition. We are familiar with it and accept it as a way of life. Should it be this way? . . .

It seems to me we as no other generation has must learn how to handle these power-hungry people who thrive on violence, with peace and love. That seems almost impossible to me but there must be a way. . . .

We as a generation are becoming very close on a great many issues and this is one of them: Can we as a people, a nation, and a world come together with complete trust — or are we all too afraid?

Christmas Project Helps Guide Dogs

This is to call your attention to a gift-giving project devised by Mrs. Bernice Hawkins of San Leandro, a graduate of Guide Dogs for the Blind, for the new student dormitory at the Guide Dogs campus here in San Rafael.

For several years Mrs. Hawkins has been collecting trading stamps and General Mills (Betty Crocker) coupons which will be used to help furnish the dormitory in the near future. Anyone wishing to contribute trading stamps or coupons to Mrs. Hawkin's project should mail them (with sufficient postage, please) to Mrs. Bernice Hawkins, 2013 Fairbanks St., San Leandro, Calif. 94577.

About Hill Case And Drug Scene

Re: I-J page 1 article, Dec. 4, "Fatal Dope Trial Stalls 14 Months."

"Hooray," not only for Bill Yager's perseverance for justice, but for Bryce Anderson's "guts" to write the article. This is referred to (in some circles) as "telling it like it is."

As a working mother, raising two sons alone (present ages 18 and 13) and considering my past two years of a "rapid, forced education" to the "drug scene" . . . I very definitely feel qualified . . . to express the "total frustration and disappointment" we parents experience when . . . our loved ones falter and fall, and as we stand by to help them up . . .

Upon being faced with the "nitty-gritty" of the situation, only then do we realize how truly "laxed" our present laws are pertaining to the over-all picture of the "drug happening."

Then we are confronted with the "long line" of authority. From the presiding judge, to the police officer, probation department, etc. (all shifting the blame) until it finally reaches the level of the parent and the child. By then (usually) the parent receives the brunt of the blame from the probation officer assigned to the juvenile involved.

In the meantime, maybe the drug supplier and/or pusher has been arrested and incarcerated briefly, which makes the parent wonder if it was only for appearance sake, to again shift the blame back up the long line . . .

In the interim, the parent stands by and dies a little each day watching their child become entirely confused, withdrawn, and distrustful of everyone around them.

This, fellow parents . . . is what our present structure is doing to our children — the future American voting public.

As parents who care about the "now generation," let's pursue whatever (morally and legally right) avenue is open to us, to help our "now" teen-agers, that we love so dearly.

Choice Of Route Proves Disappointing

It is with great disappointment that I have read of the dicision of the city council and the board of supervisors to widen South San Pedro Road, rather than construct a new route through the marsh land.

The engineer's first choice was the new route.

The public works director's choice was the new route.

The residents of the area involved favored the new route, as evidenced by their petitions and vote at a combined homeowners meeting of Loch Lomond, Glenwood and Peacock Gap. This meeting was attended by John McGinnis (Sic), who voted in favor of the new route.

Since the newspaper article did not disclose what was behind the reasoning to overrule the professional recommeddations as well as the will of the people involved, I am asking if the Independent-Journal could determine the grounds for justification of such action.

People's Lobby Critic Answered

This is in response to William Benton Matthews' letter (Dec. 6) and his allegations re a "one-sided newspaper article which appeared in an earlier I-J issue. Mr. Matthews wrote: "the anti-pollution initiatives remove many laws protecting our environment . . . could annul other bills imperative to the preservation of our ecology, including many dealing with water pollution. . .would do far more harm than good."

We assume that these deceitful charges were provided Mr. Matthews by an individual or individuals in mortal fear of: losing a job; a reduced income; political reprisals, due to debts or obligations with political overtones; or facing the loss of charitable contributions from industrial polluters. If so, his basic judgement is gravely distorted. What do jobs, incomes, political favors or organization contributions matter, if in order to preserve them, his children and grand-children must wage a struggle to survive, due to pollution imposed upon them by inertia and cupidity — today, tomorrow, forever!

If successful, the People's Lobby constitutional amendment will put an immediate stop to thousands of cases being decided against the people and for the polluters. . .

Blame For Troubles In Forest Knolls

Your editorial on Forest Knolls Dec. 8 is more than most of us can endure. You should have been apprised of the true facts before you allowed such a biased article to be published.

After the Easter fiasco at the restaurant, a meeting was held by the valley residents and Mr. (Richard) Green said, "We will drive you out of your lead closets!" Who was doing the intimidating? How about all the shots that were fired at the Burch Realty?

The septic tank of this restaurant was overflowing and running across Castro Road into the creek. After weeks went by and nothing was done, we wrote to the department of environmental health. A few days later, we received a phone call, threatening to "burn us out" because they said we made trouble for the owner, Roma Weaver. How nice? . . .

We were robbed (again) the day after your editorial appeared in the paper. All our prescriptions drugs were taken, plus antique bottles, etc. . . .

Most of the dropouts in the valley are either remittance men or are on welfare. They are not, and obviously don't want to be employable . . .

If you really want to do something commendable, use your influence and try to have all the welfare recipients evacuated . . .

Don't blame the older residents of Forest Knolls for everything. We have an investment to protect, and are civic minded . . .

Judge Cites Need For Speedy Trials

I have read with great interest the recent series of articles and editorials in the Independent-Journal concerning the tremendous delays in criminal proceedings in the San Francisco courts. As the series suggests, the problem is not confined to San Francisco.

The justice court in West Marin has a relatively small case-load and we are usually able to bring criminal matters to trial within two or three weeks. But even here there has been a recent tendency, particularly in cases involving narcotics and dangerous drugs, toward delaying tacitcs.

The constitutional guarantee of a speedy trial was originally adopted for the protection of the defendant. Yet society too has a legitimate interest in seeing that these matters are disposed of promptly before memories fade and witnesses disappear.

The ultimate responsibility for seeing that this is done rests with the judges. The I-J performs a useful public service in occasionally reminding us of that responsibility.

Tiburon Council 'Rubber Stamp'

As the holiday season approaches and the celebrating starts, the citizens of Tiburon may inadvertently overlook their moment of truth — a chance to influence or determine the forthcoming election of three city councilmen.

The present administration boasts of its efficiency, and there is no dispute that the most efficient government is a dictatorship. Councilmen who rubber stamp the city manager are all busy executives whose full-time jobs leave them little time to examine the issues in depth. With the two-member committee system, most issues carry committee recommendations and hence require only one additional vote for passage. It is apparent to anyone attending council meetings that most decisions are made before the meeting, and the "lightning gavel" of Mayor Fanning is poised to throttle any citizen's view from the audience which does not coincide with the predestined vote.

Citizens who are satisfied with the present form of government need read no further. They can sit back, relax and prepare to vote in April for the "status quo" slate . . .

Citizens who are not satisfied should round up three candidates who are not too busy to look into the issues, determine the public sentiment and vote accordingly. The last date candidates can file for city council is Feb. 19 . . .

Candlelighters Need More Help

Due to the outpouring of public response to your recent news article about my testifying in Washington on behalf of the Candlelighters' effort to increase federal funds for cancer research, I suggest the following courses of action for those people who are anxious to assist in our effort:

1. Urge President Nixon and his budget director, Robert P. Mayo, to release all funds appropriated specifically for the National Cancer Institute.
2. Congratulate and thank Sen. Alan Cranston for his earnestly assisting the Candlelighters' plea in Washington.
3. Thank Senator George Murphy for his continued support for cancer research.
4. Encourage Congressman William Mailliard to support fully the Candlelighters' effort.
5. Contribute to cancer fighting organizations such as the American Cancer Society or the Leukemia Society of America, Inc. (of which the Candlelighters are now an auxiliary.)
6. Donate blood.
7. ask your service clubs, P.T.A.s, etc., to endorse the Candlelighters' plea to establish a national goal to prevent and control childhood cancer by 1976.
8. Pray for our success.

Majority Favors Quick Withdrawal

This weekend in more than a dozen Marin County communities men, women, and children walked and rallied again for peace. Presdent Nixon will be receiving this week the considerately stated letter circulated and signed at these rallies.

Here in Muir Beach, just below Muir Woods, we had a mini-peace walk and house-to-house canvass, collecting nearly 100 signatures. Very few people we talked with feel President Nixon's announced program adequate. The overwhelming majority here, vocal or silent, favor immediate withdrawal from Vietnam rather than continued destruction of that country and its people in the name of honor and commitment.

The undersigned have sent a wire to this effect to President Nixon.

Courthouse Plan Wins Approval

We, as concerned citizens of Marin County, agree to support Mrs. Roger Olmstead's proposal for use of the courthouse as a "Marin Center for Experimental Education and Human Resources."

For more than one year now the Education Corps of Marin County has worked in the fields of education for the underprivileged as well as in multi-ethnic studies in local communities. With a county-wide center to house these activities our group believes we could be more effective and help more people throughout the county. . .

Many in our group would be happy to volunteer their services at such a center. We would enjoy seeing it become a center for the arts for culturally deprived children. . .

Another Withdrawal Clinic Scheduled

The Marin County Interagency Council on Smoking and Health was very pleased with the article appearing in the Dec 13 Marin Magazine section of the Independent-Journal. We feel that Gil Pearson's coverage was excellent, and certainly told the story properly.

This withdrawal clinic was conceived by the Interagency Council when Dr. Michael Harris of Novato was chairman of the council. With the cooperation of Nicholas Gennaro, Redwood High School adult education dean, we were able to locate Duncan McSwain as the instructor and we feel that the clinic has been very successful.

The Interagency Council is also sponsoring a similar clinic to be held at San Rafael High School on Jan. 15 through 26, instructed by John Donovan. This clinic will be designed more toward teaching agencies and individuals to construct their own clinics. We hope that all organizations or individuals interested will find out more about this from Floyd Peterson, adult director, San Rafael City Schools.

Some Complaints About Mill Valley

What is worng with Mill Valley? It is, in general, a very lovely, pretty city. But when are they going to fix (1) the rock slide on the main street? (Yes, I have heard of the thousands it will take to fix it.) Has anyone tried to form a volunteer group on a Saturday to haul some of the dirt away — some people who need fill dirt?

(2) The flood that came with near rain near the high school and Safeway? Could a retainer wall, etc., be put up?

(3) Tam Valley intersection. Who is responsible for not having stop lights? On a Sunday the traffic is backed up to the freeway.

Parents Also Must Enforce Discipline

I read, with a great deal of interest, the comments made by Carl Brown to the San Rafael school board on Dec. 9 and printed in the I-J on Dec. 10. Bravo to Mr. Brown for having the courage of his convictions to speak out on these issues.

Length of hair is but a symbol of the real issue. The real issue is that another valuable set of principles is at stake. Another line of authority has been undermined and the door has been opened to further and greater infractions of the rules.

I would add "parents" to Mr. Brown's statement — quote "if all teachers dealt in individual differences and demanded the same performance goals as most coaching staffs, we'd have darn few problems with either student or community support."

Athletics are a very important part of education. The self-discipline, sacrifice and dedication they teach a student are invaluable lessons.

In metropolitan America they substitute in some measure for the day to day hard physical labor that once was required to just live in rural America. . . This same self-discipline, sacrifice and dedication follows through every other phase of life. Without it we couldn't have become the great country we are. It's too bad that a "loud minority" is being allowed to undermine these principles.

Strange Things Happen To Fair And Memorial

Little did Marin veterans' organizations suspect, when they agreed that their veterans' memorial building could be transformed into a civic auditorium, that it could become the first unit in a $9 million cultural center — and that before it was even completed.

Little did the county board of supervisors suspect, when it decided to set up a non-profit corporation to operate the auditorium and the county fair, that the corporation would propose the fair be abandoned in favor of a year-long cultural and educational show — a sort of Cal-Expo in miniature.

But that's the way it turned out.

IT ALL CAME OUT Tuesday as supervisors and directors of Fair-Marin, the non-profit corporation, tangled in a heated battle of words at the Civic Center.

When bids on the auditorium came in much higher than the amount of money the county had available, it was agreed to scale down the plans and meantime start a drive for public subscriptions to raise a half million dollars to complete the building.

The supervisors on Tuesday accused Fair-Marin of doing nothing about getting started on the fund raising.

Leon G. Kalimos, Fair-Marin executive director, retorted that a plan for a $9 million cultural center is needed first.

WHEN THE SUPERVISORS set up Fair-Marin, one of its charges was to take over operation of the county fair, which was to be moved to the Civic Center fairgrounds from the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross.

On Tuesday, supervisors expressed displeasure that Fair-Marin not only cannot take over the county fair for next year (apparently there won't be one), but had expressed doubts about being able to stage it in 1971.

Fair-Marin officials retorted that instead of a five-day county fair, there should be a year-long cultural and educational program.

At that point William A. Gnoss, most mild-mannered of the supervisors, bristled and said that if there was to be no agricultural fair, there would be no money.

The supervisors suggested that Harold Stockstad should resign as president of Fair-Marin. He said he wouldn't do it. (He "resigned" from the Fair-Marin board once, but was back in the chair the very next meeting.)

IN THE TALK about year-around educational activities, a $9 million cultural center, etc., everyone seemed to have forgotten a few things.

The money that is now being spent on constructing the auditorium came from a special tax, authorized by the voters, for a veterans' memorial building.

Money for the county fair has come each year from the state pari-mutuel fund — $58,500 per year the last three years, $65,000 per year before that.

What we have is the money the taxpayers paid for one thing (a veterans' memorial) becoming the nest egg for something quite different — a $9 million cultural center. And the county's share of the money spent on horse racing won't be forthcoming unless there is a county fair.

Truly, strange things have happened to what started out to be a fairgrounds and a veterans' memorial building.

The Mexican Flower

Poinsettias seem to be inseparable from Christmas in our minds. But it was not until the early 1900s that poinsettias became almost as much a part of the holiday tradition in this country as the Christmas tree.

Long known in Mexico as the Christmas eve flower, the poinsettia was introduced into the U.S. by Ambassador Joel Poinsett, from whom it derived the name by which we all know it. In tropical climates this colorful plant often grows to a height of 10 or 12 feet.

This plant with its crown of bright scarlet leaves is one of nature's beautiful marvels. And it is just as lovely three feet tall in a pot as 10 feet tall in a tropical garden.

Those Who Play Political Game On Campus Should Accept Rules

(Reprinted from Phoenix, San Francisco State College student-edited newspaper)

The pawns of last year's political game are in the process of being swept off the board, and the cries can be heard all over the campus.

Of the bloc of teachers being denied tenure this semester, a disproportionate number are AFT members and leaders of last year's strike. These teachers, led by Erwin Kelly, are yelling "political purge," a yell prodded by the sudden realization that they're going to be out of a job.

IF ONE ACCEPTS the charge — as yet unproved but highly possible — that these teachers are being ousted for their political activities, the next question is: So?

These teachers belong to a group that had a hand in the deposing of two college presidents — a political maneuver.

They belong to a group that has consistently attacked the administration through the media — a political maneuver.

They walked out of their classrooms last year and joined picket lines — a political maneuver.

THOSE WHO LIVE by politics can starve by politics.

If you play the game, you have to be willing to accept the penalties involved. If you don't like the rules, don't play.

The teachers involved, Kelly in particular, seem to have a one-side approach to the political chess tournament on this campus, a form of convoluted logic that makes it all right for them to attack, retreat, or distort, but when the opponent follows suit it becomes unfair.

AFT has had a great time in the last year shuffling bishops and pawns, holding conferences and firing broadsides, all with sneering immunity.

Now the administration is responding. And Dr. Hayakawa is taking the pieces, one by one.

It's part of the game.

The winner, whether you like it or not, will clear the board.

Priorities Mixed For Fairfax Schools

I find myself completely irritated and in the midst of a dilema. Yesterday I went to our school to deliver some letters. While there, I heard a very sad story about the difficulty our teachers had in obtaining supplies and resource materials and how poor the district was.

Today I read that H. Reginald Hammond, superintendent of the Fairfax School District, reported that his staff was working on gathering materials to be used to supplement regular material to cover various areas of ethnic study.

Am I terribly misinformed or did I just hear two completely contadictory facts within 24 hours??

Our school district eliminated bus service due to a bond issue not passing — no money. We share a psychologist with another district this year — not enough money for one of our own. Remedial reading cut back — not enough money. "If the heating system fails it cannot be repaired" — not enough money. Our teachers are the lowest paid in the county — no money. Poor Fairfax Schools.

If our district is so poor, where are they getting the money for multi-ethnic education? I agree that this type of program is desirable, but if the district is so poor and can't provide some of the basic services, isn't it getting it's priorities mixed up?

Firemen Practice On Smoggy Day

Over the last month of November we have had the most marvelous weather that I can ever remember. But also with this weather, we have had the worst case of air pollution in the San Francisco Bay Area. Today, Dec. 2, the smog seemed to be a little heavier than normal, but today some of the local fire departments decided to have a practice fire at San Quentin.

During the mid-morning break at Redwood High School, you could see a black billow of smoke rising in the sky. At first, I thought there was a large oil fire in Richmond, and it wasn't until a few minutes later did I learn that the fire was from San Quentin.

Because of this ever increasing problem of pollution, in our air, earth and water, I find it quite strange that such a large fire is allowed to burn.

Teachers At Work On Trade Schooling

Your editorial of Dec. 3, in which you bemoan the lack of occupational education in the Marin County schools, came at a most appropriate time. On the day of your editorial, work experience teachers from all the high schools in the county and from the College of Marin met regarding this very problem. Also in attendance were members of the staff of the Neighborhood Youth Corps. Representatives from the county schools office and the Department of Vocational Rehabilitation were unable to attend. The purpose of this meeting was to unite the efforts of these people in meeting the vocational problems facing students who are not going on to college.

An organization has been founded which will seek and hopefully gain support from industry and trade unions in the county. The result of this coalition of the schools and the community will be to upgrade occupational education within the existing educational framework and to investigate the potential for such innovations as occupational centers and vocational or technical high schools.

Denis Ragan, work experience coordinator from Redwood High School, has been elected president of this new organization. Further inquiries may be directed to him at Redwood.

Inspired Moment Won't Be Forgotten

On Sunday, Dec. 7, Dominican College music department put on a cello recital with 13 young people performing.

A young man, Jed Barahal, played one number, "Kol Nidrei" by Bruch, that I feel is worthy of mention.

This boy has performed on different occasions around Marin and has real talent. I made the effort to go hear the recital just to hear him, and was rewarded with a moment of unbelievable beauty.

Call it a combination of talent, training, discipline — or an inspired moment in time — but I shall never forget it.

Teacher Applauds Courthouse Idea

I am terribly excited about Mrs. (Nancy) Olmsted's proposal to buy the old courthouse and convert it into a Center for Experimental Education and Human Resources.

As a multi-ethnics teacher, I have realized what a great need there is for such a center where students and teachers from all parts of Marin would have a chance to meet and exchange ideas on topics related to the human resources field — from ecology to multi-ethnic studies.

In Berkeley there is a fascinating multi-media center called EPOCH, which operates as a training and demonstration center for seeking new ways to trace the cultural achievements of all ethnic groups and their relationship to life today. I had hoped that I could take my classes for a visit to EPOCH, but have found that the charge for out-of-district schools is prohibitive. Wouldn't it be wonderful to have such a center right here in Marin — housed in the old county courthouse along with other groups?

Three cheers for a great idea. It has my enthusiastic support!

TRY AND STOP ME

NEIL MORGAN has a bit of sage advice for men who contemplate wearing a hairpiece, but are rather wary of the comments of their friends. "Grow a mustache first," counsels Neil. "When it's luxurious and bushy, put on the hairpiece and shave off the mustache. Your never-too-observant pals will all say, 'Hey, I see you've shed that mustache of yours' — and never notice the hairpiece!"

AN IOWA disc jockey was interviewing two farmers at his radio station. "What would you do," he suddenly asked them, "if you learned tomorrow that you had inherited a million dollars?"

"Not me," insisted the second farmer. "You can't teach an old dog new tricks. I'd bank my million, then just go on farming 'till it was all gone!"

THE DRUMMONDS

Nixon Fighting Democrats' Efforts To Swamp Him With Spending

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — The Democrats now see Vietnam a fading political issue, so they are starting to fight President Nixon on the home front to keep control of the Senate in the 1970 elections.

Their strategy: Undercut the President with the peope. Try to make him accept deficit spending to a degree he believes would push up the cost of living. Or make him shrink vital domestic programs to balance the budget.

MR. NIXON will accept the challenge. He will refuse to choose between mounting deficit spending or neglect of domestic programs. He will fight back despite political hazards.

He is ready to:

1. Go through with his threat to veto the tax bill if it retains anything near the multibillion dollar losses in revenue voted by the Senate.

2. Call Congress into special session right after Christmas if an acceptable tax reform and the appropriation bill are not forthcoming before.

3. Take the issue to the nation in a major televised address the way he took his Vietnam peace plan to the people last month — and won.

Richard Nixon is prepared to turn the economic issue against the Democrats. His counterstrategy: Pin inflation on the Democrats, hold the line on federal spending until ending the Vietnamese war bring savings, then go into bigger domestic programs.

THIS IS ONE of the hard decisions he must make to live up to his campaign promises. It is politically riskful. But he has no choice because, having made his fight against inflation his priority domestic goal, he knows he must resist every pressure and every temptation to scuttle that goal.

Here's why:

If anything near the Senate tax bill becomes law, all prospect of any sizable surplus in the current budget next June will vanish.

And the budget outlook for next year would be worse, a mounting deficit unless Mr. Nixon slashes his own modest spending program and impounds much of what Congress is now appropriating.

Such deficits can have only one effect — fuel inflation at the very moment when there is some success in checking it.

This isn't a partisan view of economics. It is the other half of Keynesian economics which most American economists accept — that taxes should be reduced when the economy needs stimulus, then increased or maintained when the economy needs restraint.

The Nixon administration is united in the conviction that the projected budget surpluses this year and next must be preserved if all hope of controlling inflation is not to be lost.

THE FULL IMPORT of this unreported strategy of the Senate Democratic liberals is coming into fuller view. It seems illogical for these Democrats — the big domestic spenders — to vote to decrease the federal revenue needed to finance more domestic spending.

But they did and it can now be seen that there was a political design in their maneuver.

It is to counter this design that Nixon has decided not only to use every power of the President to prevent a deficit-producing tax bill but also to go to the public soon to expound his reasons.

His first choice is to win on the tax bill in Congress.

But he is convinced that he can make his fight to contain the rising cost of living a winning political issue against the Democratic efforts to push him into big deficit spending.

You can't control inflation with a series of unbalanced budgets.

President Nixon can't get a balanced budget unless he can block Democratic efforts to cut revenue or unless he slashes his own domestic program to the bone.

This is why Richard Nixon is in a tense and tight squeeze and will fight hard to get out of it.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Two And One-Half War Planning Is Abandoned

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — The old myth, which supposed that the Pentagon was preparing to fight two and a half wars at the same time, has now been officially exploded.

The concept, developed during the Kennedy administration, assumed that the United States might be faced, simultaneously, with major wars in Europe and in Asia plus a minor incident in some other part of the world. It became a basic guideline for military planners.

In this year's congressional battles over military spending, the two-and-a-half war concept was sharply criticized. Lawmakers questioning the need for manned aircraft, carrier task forces, modern tanks and the like questioned the planning guidelines too.

NOW SEC. OF DEFENSE Melvin R. Laird has told appropriations committee of the House and Senate that the two-and-a-half war concept has been abandoned. The guideline was never really translated into Pentagon policy at all, according to Laird.

"If we price out where we are in our budget today," Laird told the House committee, "we are realistically in a position — if we discount the present Vietnam situation — where we could support one major war and one minor conflict."

The secretary's review indicated that the Joint Chiefs of Staff have been encouraged to submit budget requests based on a two-and-one-half war capability. Then, however, cuts have been made by defense secretaries.

According to Laird, the Joint Chiefs of Staff developed a $111 billion two-and-a-half war defense blueprint for the present fiscal year. That sum was first reduced to $100 billion by the military services. Then Secy. Clark Clifford trimmed it to $80 billion before sending it to the White House.

"The forces provided by the budgets of past years could not support a two-and-a-half war concept, loosely expressed. We, in effect, were kidding ourselves by having a strategic concept which envisioned such a capability," observed Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, current chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

THERE ARE important budget implications in Laird's plans which would reduce the armed forces to their lowest level since 1966.

There were about 3,460,000 men and women in the armed services at the end of the last budget year, on June 30. That total was down only slightly — to about 3,445,000 — by Sept. 30.

However, Laird plans armed forces totaling 3,200,000, or perhaps a bit less, by the end of the current year. Clearly, those personnel reductions will justify budget cuts, with the amount in dollars depending on how rapidly the force reductions are effected.

Expensive weapon systems have been cut back too, although the actions have not provoked the publicity which attended attacks on the ABM, aircraft carriers and the like. Some of the weapons cuts were made at Laird's behest.

A great many people think they are thinking when they are merely rearranging their prejudices. — William James.

A teacher affects eternity; he can never tell where his influence stops. — Henry Adams.

Tensions Grow In Long-Troubled Southern Marin School District

Since it is the holiday season, it perhaps would be more fitting to write in this space of peace and love instead of fear and hate, but there is something happening in Southern Marin that demands attention.

The air of tension in Marin City has become almost tangible.

While there obviously are many reasons, some reaching infinitely deeper than the surface manifestations of them, there are two subjects which seem to be both causes and symptoms of the tension.

The two are related and both affect the long-troubled Sausalito School District, particularly Martin Luther King School.

One is the intensifying polarization between the black community and significant portion of the white community.

The other is the conviction, on a charge of disturbing a school critic's peace, of Black Panther leader George Gaines.

Gaines, who is to be sentenced Jan. 9, was convicted last week of disturbing the peace of Delta Christ at a Black Panther-sponsored breakfast at King School last spring by calling her a racist bitch.

He was acquitted of committing battery on Mrs. Christ, who is one of the leaders of Citizens for Excellence in Integrated Education.

The subject is the number one topic of conversation among blacks, particularly the more militant ones, in Marin City and among students at King, according to school district community worker, Gabe Jackson, who is in a position to know.

Jackson, who was present at the confrontation between Mrs. Christ and Gaines, and told police he saw nothing happen, claims the black community is viewing the Gaines case as a clear-cut case of white oppression.

He says the people are angered because Gaines was convicted by an all-white jury; that Mrs. Christ did not call any witnesses to support her charges; that Gaines had several witnesses whose testimony apparently was ignored by the jury; and because Mrs. Christ and others still are harassing the school district, particularly black educators at King.

The Gaines issue is adding to the polarization in the district, as is the increasing stridency of voices opposing Principal Sidney F. Walton Jr. of King School.

The focus of the opposition currently is the CEIE, which wants Walton out, wants King's assistant principal James T. Toliver Jr. out wants District Supt. Phillip W. Schneider out, and wants at least three members of the school board out.

The group, although steadfastly refusing to reveal how big-or-small — it is, says it's growing. Whether it is or not, it is a significant factor in the continuing problems of the district, as is the increasing militance of at least some Black Panthers, which is viewed in some quarters as a last-gasp effort to maintain the party's political punch and influence over young people in Marin City.

Sadly, the pawns — and the victims — of this confrontation remain the children, black and white, of the Sausalito School District. We may all be victims in the end.

Fair-Marin Dispute Recalls Comments Made A Year Ago

Fusselman

Putting out the column today is not the sort of thing I feel like doing, but I know Billie would urge me to, for she agreed with my thinking about this Fair-Marin setup.

Here are some things I said a year ago, in December, 1968. "This further piece of abdication by the board of supervisors, in their handing over 80 of the 140 acres which were purchased for the Civic Center site to a private group, is hard to understand. (Or is it?) . . . The board of supervisors said Fair-Marin should operate 80 acres with the degree of control to be spelled out.

"An I-J editorial in the Nov. 20 issue discussed the whole contemplated setup in a wide range of aspects. One went as follows: 'Moreover the very name of the organization (Fair-Marin) is contradictory to its purpose. Although it was set up to operate fairgrounds and auditorium for the good of all, its directors were chosen from special purpose groups seeking to promote their own special uses of these facilities. It thus has built-in conflict of interest'."

THERE IS a completely different situation here than existed in respect to the Marin Art and Garden operation. Those grounds are privately owned by their group and it was a perfectly natural and proper procedure to contract with them. But now we are dealing with publicly owned land and buildings. These facilities should not be turned over to any private group. The editorial pointed out that the parks and recreation commission was completely bypassed creating Fair-Marin and that it was not even represented on the board of that group.

I spoke of the ultimate plans for a fair operation out at Brasilia and commented: "So you see this would mean about $4.5 million, which in my opinion is far too much public funds and assets to hand over to a private group of amateurs to play around with.

"The parks and recreation commission and its director are the logical ones to handle this, not Fair-Marin . . . And most certainly the board of supervisors should be deeply involved (personally) and should remain as the fair commission. That's the way this whole thing was built up over the years."

WHEN I READ "Supervisors Flay Fair-Marin Acts" and the exchage between chairman John McInnis and Harold Stockstad, it wonders me no end.

Question: Why didn't McInnis, who was a member of the board last year, stop his purring then, and how did Stockstad ever get the nod to head up Fair-Marin? And perhaps you noticed the following:

In the Wed. Dec. issue of the I-J: "Mary Robinson Summers added that Bruce (administrator) had even stopped Fair-Marin from contacting supervisors directly. 'We were told we couldn't even talk to the architect'."

Marin Peace Plea Mailed To Nixon

Letters to President Richard M. Nixon bearing signatures of 1,302 Marinites opposed to continued involvement in Vietnam were mailed today by Richard M. Adams of Belvedere, one of the organizers of the Dec. 15 peace walks and rallies for the "silent majority."

Adams said the signatures were all obtained at the rallies held in Marin communities, and noted that no letter to the president was circulated for signatures at the Novato rally.

The letters urge Nixon to withdraw Americans entirely from Vietnam, declaring, "We cannot provide a solution to the Vietnamese people's conflict, and our participation in it has been and is corrosive to the human spirit of our citizenry."

Courageous Stand Deserves Publicity

"Scathing Attack on Nation's Morals," Independent-Journal, Dec. 10. The above article was outstanding. My congratulations to Carl J. Brown on his courageous stand. His remarks in full should be printed on the front page of every newspaper in the country. It should also be given complete TV coverage. We have had all to much newspaper and TV coverage of the "negative" side of these issues.

Let us all get on this bandwagon now before the "seeds that caused the fall of Rome" become too deep-rooted for extraction.

Lawless Element Invaded Valley

Your editorial of Dec. 8 regarding conditions in San Geronimo Valley and Forest Knolls in particular amazes me beyond expression and prompts this reply.

The ignorance displayed in the editorial of conditions the past summer in San Geronimo Valley are almost unbelievable.

Here are some of the facts that can easily be substantiated by the board of supervisors, the district attorney, the sheriff's department, the county fire department:

That a lawless and irresponsible element did invade San Geronimo Valley last summer.

That threats of violence against residents of the valley were made by this element if they objected to these conditions.

That shootings did occur nightly throughout the summer, some being with automatic weapons.

That Burt's Realty office suffered numerous bullets fired at it; one directly through the plate glass window over the desk.

That daily robberies occurred as many as five in one home alone.

That obscene sex acts occurred on the streets of Forest Knolls.

That Papermill Creek was used as a public toilet.

That more than two dozen fires were set in the wooded area about the lakes, some incendiary, endangering the watershed.

That more than 800 sheriff's calls were made to the valley from Jan. 1 to Nov. 1, 1969. A terrific increase.

That the outdoor demonstrations at the cafe were a direct violation of a county ordinance prohibiting such demonstrations.

And in the face of all these facts you now infer that the latest fire at the cafe could have been set by the residents that have objected to these conditions. . . .

What prompted you to write the editorial is unexplainable. It seems to me that the first consideration of a good newspaper should be to aid an area plagued with lawlessness, not to condemn it for its effort to control it. . . .

Must Be A Way To End Violence

We, the younger generation, are going through some heavy, heavy changes, and fast. Within the last year the number of people of all ages acting together for peace in this country has been unbelievable. . . .

We, as a nation, I hope, are fast becoming a more civilized people who think more of goodness than materialistic possessions. A people that are thinking of how to make this nation a better place for all who live within it. We aren't content with the present problems of air pollution, water pollution, over-population, starvation, and all the rest. And we are searching for answers desperately. . . .

This week at Altamont Speedway, the site of close to 300,000 people, our theories on how to obtain peace throughout the world were temporarily destroyed. If we could concentrate on the whole area and consider it as our present situation in the world, we can possibly get to some of the problems. The war that took place at Altamont Speedway is typical of the wars that infect our world at present. It involved everyone there no matter how far away. From the start of the concert it seemed to me the Hell's Angels were out to turn the concert into a series of fights and wars instead of a music concert. The Angels accomplished the beating up of numerous amounts of people . . .

Violence, we have accepted as a way of life; in wars, in our business, in our outward social structure, in competition. We are familiar with it and accept it as a way of life. Should it be this way? . . .

It seems to me we as no other generation has must learn how to handle these power-hungry people who thrive on violence, with peace and love. That seems almost impossible to me but there must be a way. . . .

We as a generation are becoming very close on a great many issues and this is one of them: Can we as a people, a nation, and a world come together with complete trust — or are we all too afraid?

About Hill Case And Drug Scene

Re: I-J page 1 article, Dec. 4, "Fatal Dope Trial Stalls 14 Months."

"Hooray," not only for Bill Yager's perseverance for justice, but for Bryce Anderson's "guts" to write the article. This is referred to (in some circles) as "telling it like it is."

As a working mother, raising two sons alone (present ages 18 and 13) and considering my past two years of a "rapid, forced education" to the "drug scene" . . . I very definitely feel qualified . . . to express the "total frustration and disappointment" we parents experience when . . . our loved ones falter and fall, and as we stand by to help them up . . .

Upon being faced with the "nitty-gritty" of the situation, only then do we realize how truly "laxed" our present laws are pertaining to the over-all picture of the "drug happening."

Then we are confronted with the "long line" of authority. From the presiding judge, to the police officer, probation department, etc. (all shifting the blame) until it finally reaches the level of the parent and the child. By then (usually) the parent receives the brunt of the blame from the probation officer assigned to the juvenile involved.

In the meantime, maybe the drug supplier and/or pusher has been arrested and incarcerated briefly, which makes the parent wonder if it was only for appearance sake, to again shift the blame back up the long line . . .

In the interim, the parent stands by and dies a little each day watching their child become entirely confused, withdrawn, and distrustful of everyone around them.

This, fellow parents . . . is what our present structure is doing to our children — the future American voting public.

As parents who care about the "now generation," let's pursue whatever (morally and legally right) avenue is open to us, to help our "now" teen-agers, that we love so dearly.

Choice Of Route Proves Disappointing

It is with great disappointment that I have read of the dicision of the city council and the board of supervisors to widen South San Pedro Road, rather than construct a new route through the marsh land.

The engineer's first choice was the new route.

The public works director's choice was the new route.

The residents of the area involved favored the new route, as evidenced by their petitions and vote at a combined homeowners meeting of Loch Lomond, Glenwood and Peacock Gap. This meeting was attended by John McGinnis (Sic), who voted in favor of the new route.

Since the newspaper article did not disclose what was behind the reasoning to overrule the professional recommeddations as well as the will of the people involved, I am asking if the Independent-Journal could determine the grounds for justification of such action.

People's Lobby Critic Answered

This is in response to William Benton Matthews' letter (Dec. 6) and his allegations re a "one-sided newspaper article which appeared in an earlier I-J issue. Mr. Matthews wrote: "the anti-pollution initiatives remove many laws protecting our environment . . . could annul other bills imperative to the preservation of our ecology, including many dealing with water pollution. . .would do far more harm than good."

We assume that these deceitful charges were provided Mr. Matthews by an individual or individuals in mortal fear of: losing a job; a reduced income; political reprisals, due to debts or obligations with political overtones; or facing the loss of charitable contributions from industrial polluters. If so, his basic judgement is gravely distorted. What do jobs, incomes, political favors or organization contributions matter, if in order to preserve them, his children and grand-children must wage a struggle to survive, due to pollution imposed upon them by inertia and cupidity — today, tomorrow, forever!

If successful, the People's Lobby constitutional amendment will put an immediate stop to thousands of cases being decided against the people and for the polluters. . .

Blame For Troubles In Forest Knolls

Your editorial on Forest Knolls Dec. 8 is more than most of us can endure. You should have been apprised of the true facts before you allowed such a biased article to be published.

After the Easter fiasco at the restaurant, a meeting was held by the valley residents and Mr. (Richard) Green said, "We will drive you out of your lead closets!" Who was doing the intimidating? How about all the shots that were fired at the Burch Realty?

The septic tank of this restaurant was overflowing and running across Castro Road into the creek. After weeks went by and nothing was done, we wrote to the department of environmental health. A few days later, we received a phone call, threatening to "burn us out" because they said we made trouble for the owner, Roma Weaver. How nice? . . .

We were robbed (again) the day after your editorial appeared in the paper. All our prescriptions drugs were taken, plus antique bottles, etc. . . .

Most of the dropouts in the valley are either remittance men or are on welfare. They are not, and obviously don't want to be employable . . .

If you really want to do something commendable, use your influence and try to have all the welfare recipients evacuated . . .

Don't blame the older residents of Forest Knolls for everything. We have an investment to protect, and are civic minded . . .

Judge Cites Need For Speedy Trials

I have read with great interest the recent series of articles and editorials in the Independent-Journal concerning the tremendous delays in criminal proceedings in the San Francisco courts. As the series suggests, the problem is not confined to San Francisco.

The justice court in West Marin has a relatively small case-load and we are usually able to bring criminal matters to trial within two or three weeks. But even here there has been a recent tendency, particularly in cases involving narcotics and dangerous drugs, toward delaying tacitcs.

The constitutional guarantee of a speedy trial was originally adopted for the protection of the defendant. Yet society too has a legitimate interest in seeing that these matters are disposed of promptly before memories fade and witnesses disappear.

The ultimate responsibility for seeing that this is done rests with the judges. The I-J performs a useful public service in occasionally reminding us of that responsibility.

Tiburon Council 'Rubber Stamp'

As the holiday season approaches and the celebrating starts, the citizens of Tiburon may inadvertently overlook their moment of truth — a chance to influence or determine the forthcoming election of three city councilmen.

The present administration boasts of its efficiency, and there is no dispute that the most efficient government is a dictatorship. Councilmen who rubber stamp the city manager are all busy executives whose full-time jobs leave them little time to examine the issues in depth. With the two-member committee system, most issues carry committee recommendations and hence require only one additional vote for passage. It is apparent to anyone attending council meetings that most decisions are made before the meeting, and the "lightning gavel" of Mayor Fanning is poised to throttle any citizen's view from the audience which does not coincide with the predestined vote .

Citizens who are satisfied with the present form of government need read no further. They can sit back, relax and prepare to vote in April for the "status quo" slate . . .

Citizens who are not satisfied should round up three candidates who are not too busy to look into the issues, determine the public sentiment and vote accordingly. The last date candidates can file for city council is Feb. 19 . . .

Candlelighters Need More Help

Due to the outpouring of public response to your recent news article about my testifying in Washington on behalf of the Candlelighters' effort to increase federal funds for cancer research, I suggest the following courses of action for those people who are anxious to assist in our effort:

1. Urge President Nixon and his budget director, Robert P. Mayo, to release all funds appropriated specifically for the National Cancer Institute.
2. Congratulate and thank Sen. Alan Cranston for his earnestly assisting the Candlelighters' plea in Washington.
3. Thank Senator George Murphy for his continued support for cancer research.
4. Encourage Congressman William Mailliard to support fully the Candlelighters' effort.
5. Contribute to cancer fighting organizations such as the American Cancer Society or the Leukemia Society of America, Inc. (of which the Candlelighters are now an auxiliary.)
6. Donate blood.
7. ask your service clubs, P.T.A.s, etc., to endorse the Candlelighters' plea to establish a national goal to prevent and control childhood cancer by 1976.
8. Pray for our success.

Majority Favors Quick Withdrawal

This weekend in more than a dozen Marin County communities men, women, and children walked and rallied again for peace. Presdent Nixon will be receiving this week the considerately stated letter circulated and signed at these rallies.

Here in Muir Beach, just below Muir Woods, we had a mini-peace walk and house-to-house canvass, collecting nearly 100 signatures. Very few people we talked with feel President Nixon's announced program adequate. The overwhelming majority here, vocal or silent, favor immediate withdrawal from Vietnam rather than continued destruction of that country and its people in the name of honor and commitment.

The undersigned have sent a wire to this effect to President Nixon.

Courthouse Plan Wins Approval

We, as concerned citizens of Marin County, agree to support Mrs. Roger Olmstead's proposal for use of the courthouse as a "Marin Center for Experimental Education and Human Resources."

For more than one year now the Education Corps of Marin County has worked in the fields of education for the underprivileged as well as in multi-ethnic studies in local communities. With a county-wide center to house these activities our group believes we could be more effective and help more people throughout the county. . .

Many in our group would be happy to volunteer their services at such a center. We would enjoy seeing it become a center for the arts for culturally deprived children. . .

Another Withdrawal Clinic Scheduled

The Marin County Interagency Council on Smoking and Health was very pleased with the article appearing in the Dec 13 Marin Magazine section of the Independent-Journal. We feel that Gil Pearson's coverage was excellent, and certainly told the story properly.

This withdrawal clinic was conceived by the Interagency Council when Dr. Michael Harris of Novato was chairman of the council. With the cooperation of Nicholas Gennaro, Redwood High School adult education dean, we were able to locate Duncan McSwain as the instructor and we feel that the clinic has been very successful.

The Interagency Council is also sponsoring a similar clinic to be held at San Rafael High School on Jan. 15 through 26, instructed by John Donovan. This clinic will be designed more toward teaching agencies and individuals to construct their own clinics. We hope that all organizations or individuals interested will find out more about this from Floyd Peterson, adult director, San Rafael City Schools.

Some Complaints About Mill Valley

What is worng with Mill Valley? It is, in general, a very lovely, pretty city. But when are they going to fix (1) the rock slide on the main street? (Yes, I have heard of the thousands it will take to fix it.) Has anyone tried to form a volunteer group on a Saturday to haul some of the dirt away — some people who need fill dirt?

(2) The flood that came with near rain near the high school and Safeway? Could a retainer wall, etc., be put up?

(3) Tam Valley intersection. Who is responsible for not having stop lights? On a Sunday the traffic is backed up to the freeway.

Mrs. DAN TRUNKEY

Parents Also Must Enforce Discipline

I read, with a great deal of interest, the comments made by Carl Brown to the San Rafael school board on Dec. 9 and printed in the I-J on Dec. 10. Bravo to Mr. Brown for having the courage of his convictions to speak out on these issues.

Length of hair is but a symbol of the real issue. The real issue is that another valuable set of principles is at stake. Another line of authority has been undermined and the door has been opened to further and greater infractions of the rules.

I would add "parents" to Mr. Brown's statement — quote "if all teachers dealt in individual differences and demanded the same performance goals as most coaching staffs, we'd have darn few problems with either student or community support."

Athletics are a very important part of education. The self-discipline, sacrifice and dedication they teach a student are invaluable lessons.

In metropolitan America they substitute in some measure for the day to day hard physical labor that once was required to just live in rural America. . . This same self-discipline, sacrifice and dedication follows through every other phase of life. Without it we couldn't have become the great country we are. It's too bad that a "loud minority" is being allowed to undermine these principles.

Quail Hill Mess As Water Main Splits

Heavy, wind-driven sheets of rain pounded Marin and Southern Sonoma during the night, causing widespread flooding and damage.

The weatherman predicted a 40 per cent chance of rain tonight and cloudiness tomorrow.

One of the most critical problems came at the entrance of the new Quail Hill development, across from Terra Linda High School, when a new water main blew about 5 a.m. today.

The flooding caused a new street to give way and a series of small mudslides at the foot of Quail Hill. The high school and a half dozen homes were without water for an hour.

The 12-inch main has not been accepted by Marin Municipal Water District and the street has not been accepted by the City of San Rafael.

In other areas, rainfall combined with high tides flooded streets, snarling traffic for hours.

During the rush hour this morning on Highway 101, traffic was backed up from the Golden Gate Bridge past the Francisco Boulevard exits in San Rafael. One motorist said it took an hour to get from the Corte Madera Creek Bridge to the Golden Gate Bridge, a distance of 8.5 miles.

The rain and tides blocked the intersection of Camino Alto and Miller Avenue for more than an hour this morning and other Southern Marin streets were reported under four inches of water in spots.

In San Rafael, flooding was heaviest at Lovell and Woodland avenues, while several other streets had smaller amounts.

The Marin County Department of Public Works reported serious flooding on Adrian Way and other streets in Santa Venetia and also in Kent Woodlands, Greenbrae and Strawberry.

Strong winds, gusting up to 105 miles an hour atop Mount Tamalpais, accompanied the storm and knocked power out across the county.

No serious outages were reported but about 200 customers in Stinson Beach and Bolinas were without electricity from 9 to 9:50 a.m. and about 75 lost power from 9:15 to 10:20 a.m. in Inverness Park, a Pacific Gas and Electric Co. spokesman said.

Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. reported normal operations but several individual customers reported problems with phone service.

Rainfall totals around Marin to 8 a.m. today included Ross, 1.98 inches; Woodacre, 1.97; Civic Center, 1.29; the Chevy Chase section of Larkspur, 1.05; Novato, .90 of an inch; Mill Valley, .88; Tamalpais Valley, .72; Sausalito, .50, and Tiburon, .31. Petaluma had .77 of an inch at 8 a.m.

San Rafael's total at noon today was 2.68 inches.

Five Navy Craft In Trouble Off Bodega Coast

VALLEJO (AP) — The Navy said today that five patrol boats on a training exercise off Bodega Bay had run into trouble in stormy Pacific waters during the night, but all boats were "accounted for" and that there were no fatalities.

A spokesman said a more detailed statement would be issued later.

There was no immediate confirmation reports that at least one boat sank and one was wrecked on shore.

Some 20 to 25 men were reported involved in the exercise.

The Navy's Mare Island Naval Inshore Training Center for the past several years has been using San Francisco Bay Area waters and the San Joaquin-Sacramento Delta sloughs for training small boat crews for Vietnam patrol work.

U.S. Eases China Trade Ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department today formally announced an easing on nonstrategic trade restrictions with Communist China.

The move, recommended by Secretary of State William P. Rogers and approved by President Richard M. Nixon, represented only a limited lifting of restrictions.

Press officer Robert J. McCloskey, saying the new regulations will go into effect on Monday, said "it has been decided to remove most of the Foreign Assets Control restrictions (FAC) on U.S. foreign commercial) subsidiaries and on U.S. business particularly in third country trade in presumptive Chinese goods."

"It also has been decided to modify further the noncommercial imports from Communist China."

The State Department announcement said that the $100 ceiling on noncommercial purchases of Chinese Communist goods including food and rough- and so is a requirement that noncommercial imports from mainland China must enter the U.S. as accompanied baggage.

U.S. Treasury officials estimated that mainland China imports about $1 billion worth of goods including food and roughtly sells about the same amount to the world.

Easing of U.S. restrictions will help foreign subsidiaries of U.S. firms to engage in trade with Communist China under regulations which apply to their competitors in countries in which they operate.

Tentative Nod On Tax Reform Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate-House tax reform conferees have reached tentative agreement on a relief package that includes a boost in the personal income tax exemption from $600 to $750.

The conferees worked 16 and one-half hours until 3 o'clock this morning but still didn't quite finish their work on the entire tax reform bill, but conference chairman Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., said there was no doubt action would be completed today.

It was understood the relief package decided on as the last major compromise between the widely differing House and Senate versions provided:

An increase in the exemption to $650 starting next July. This would be coupled with a $1,100 low income allowance to help poor families and an increase in the standard deduction from the present 10 per cent with a $1,000 ceiling to 13 per cent with a $1,400 ceiling.

A $650 personal exemption for all of 1971, with a $1,050 low-income allowance, and a standard deduction of 14 per cent and a $1,700 ceiling.

For 1972 and thereafter, a $750 personal exemption, with a $1,000 low income allowance and a standard deduction of 15 per cent with a $2,000 ceiling.

The increase in the exemption to $650 effective July 1 next year would mean that cuts in withholding rates on pay checks to reflect this change would be in effect for the last half of the calendar year.

When the taxpayer files his 1970 return, in the early part of 1971, however, he will list $625 for each personal exemption. This would be the average of the $600 exemption in effect for the first half of the year and $650 for the last half.

The conferees also were reported to have agreed to accept the across-the-board 15 per cent increase in Social Security benefits of the Senate bill.

But they did not go along with the $100 minimum monthly payment for an individual which that measure also included.

President Richard M. Nixon has objected to the 15 per cent boost. But the House voted for Fire swept through a seven-room Mill Valley hillside home last night as a woman occupant fled to safety.

The house at 69 Marlin Avenue, owned by John M. Dennis, was gutted by the fire reported at 9:23 p.m. Damage was to the structure and contents was estimated by firemen at $30,000.

Firemen said Mrs. Dennis, alone in the house, first noticed the fire when she went to a room at one end of the horseshoe-shaped home and saw it in flames. She escaped only minutes before flames engulfed the house. The family cat, however, was killed in the blaze.

Mrs. Dennis said she smelled smoke earlier in the evening but assumed it was from a fire she had built in the living room fireplace.

Firemen said flames were breaking through the roof when they arrived and adjacent trees were ablaze. The fire was brought under control in 45 minutes.

Cause of the fire is under investigation.

MEETING HASTILY CALLED

Fair-Marin Balks At County's Stand

By WAT TAKESHITA

Fair-Marin directors, headed on a collision course with Marin County supervisors, met on quick notice last night and decided to stick by their guns when they face a showdown with supervisors next Tuesday.

The directors took their stand at an emergency meeting at the Civic Center, a meeting called less than five hours in advance, leaving no time for notification of the public and raising questions of violation of the Ralph M. Brown Act.

The Fair-Marin directors reaffirmed their belief that a fund-raising campaign to develop the fairground site should set its sights on a $9 million cultural and educational complex, with the first $500,000 raised to be used for completion of the Veterans Memorial Auditorium.

On Tuesday, county supervisors told Fair-Marin to forget the $9 million concept for a while and start immediately on a campaign to raise $500,000 to complete the auditorium's second phase. Without the second phase, which includes acoustics and seating, the building would be useless even after the first phase is completed next year, said supervisors.

Leon G. Kalimos, executive director of Fair-Marin, said the directors are still convinced the campaign should be tied to the larger goal, and cannot be started before September of 1970.

On Tuesday Fair-Marin directors and the board of supervisors also clashed on readiness of Fair-Marin to put on the 1971 fair at the Civic Center, and $500,000 for completion of the auditorium. That issue, too, will be discussed again next Tuesday.

Kalimos said the directors last night instructed him to present an outline of the 1971 fair.

Kalimos said the Art and Garden Fair in Ross cannot be duplicated at the Civic Center. The fair will be a combination indoor-outdoor show, with emphasis on the technological science exhibit type rather than the 4-H type. "We'll have performing arts, youth programs including 4-H, but we've got to consider the technological," said Kalimos.

"We will include 4-H, of course, but how about all the kids going into industrial arts, chemicals and computer science? We are no longer a rural community. We've got to include them." Kalimos explained that state prize money is available for technological exhibits as well as for the 4-H type exhibit.

Federal Probe Called Into Panther Slayings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell ordered a special investigation today in the Dec. 4 slaying of two Black Panther leaders by Chicago police.

Mitchell said the probe will be conducted by a seven-man team of government attorneys and a special federal grand jury in Chicago.

Noting that he ordered a preliminary investigation of the incident a week ago, Mitchell said that investigation failed to produce meaningful results because several unidentified witnesses refused to cooperate voluntarily with federal authorities.

The grand jury approach was adopted, he said, because of its power to subpoena reluctant witnesses.

The investigation will focus on the slayings of Fred Hampton, chairman of the Illinois Black Panthers, and Mark Clark, a party member.

They were shot to death when police assigned to the state attorney's office attempted to serve a search warrant in an apartment alleged to contain illegal firearms.

Six other persons were wounded.

Mitchell said the special team of lawyers will be headed by Asst. Atty Gen. Jerris Leonard, chief of the Justice Department's civil rights division.

Other members include James P. Turner, 39, Leonard's deputy assistant; K. William

Living Costs Up One-Half 1 Per Cent

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The cost of living jumped one half of 1 per cent in November, led by such basic items as food, clothing and home ownership, the Labor Department reported today.

The consumer price index advanced to 130.5 of the 1957-59 base period, an increase of 5.8 per cent over November, 1968.

The index means it cost $13.05 to purchase goods worth $10 about 10 years ago. The November-to-November increase between 1967 and 1968 was 4.8 per cent.

The 5.8 per cent rise between November, 1968, and last month was the sharpest for such a period since 1951.

The cost of living usually drops slightly in November so the month's increase, computed on an annual basis and including a seasonal adjustment was 7.2 per cent, the biggest rise since June.

Monagan Calls For Patterning Of Legislature After U.S. Congress

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Assembly Speaker Robert T. Monagan outlined today his proposed "new look" California Legislature for the 1970s that would meet in continuous two-year-long sessions like the U.S. Congress.

All meetings of the Assembly and Senate and their committees—with certain exceptions—would be open to the public under the constitutional changes outlined by Monagan, a Republican from Tracy.

He said the proposal has the support of Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan and of Senate leaders, although they have not studied the plan thoroughly.

Monagan said he hoped the proposal could be approved by voters at the June 1970 primary and go into effect by the end of the year.

At present, the legislature has to go through a complete new organization each year. Under Monagan's plan, developed by a special subcommittee, bills which aren't passed one year would carry over to the second year of the session. They die now.

"I actually think you would have shorter legislative sessions because you'd be able to do a better job," Monagan told a news conference.

This is because certain periods could be devoted exclusively to committee work and others to full floor discussions and voting on bills, Monagan said.

As for the open meeting provisions, Monagan told newsmen, "This is the public business we are conducting and it ought to be open to inspections."

The only exceptions would be those normally allowed to other public agencies—for discussion

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Rioters Sentenced

CASERTA, Italy (AP) —A local court today sentenced 69 persons for their part in the two-day riot last September over the demotion of a soccer team.

Antonio Esposito, 22, got the stiffest sentence, three years and four months. The other sentences varied from four months to two years.

The riot in this southern Italian city near Naples caused damage totaling over $1.6 million. The rampage was touched off when the National Soccer Federation canceled the advancement of the local team to a higher league after an investigation into a bribery charge.

One defendant, Mayor Enzo Avella of nearby Presenzano, was acquitted for lack of evidence.

'State Of Warning'

GUATEMALA (AP) — A two-week "state of warning" is in effect in Guatemala, meaning arrests can be made without a judge's order, police can use force to break up meetings of armed persons and movement of vehicles can be restricted.

President Julio Mendez Montenegro decreed the temporary abridgment of the constitution yesterday in an effort to combat rising terrorism in the Central American country. An anti-Communist congressman, David Guerra Guzman, was assassinated Wednesday.

Organized extremists of both the right and the left have been warring for several years. The latest wave of violence has resulted in the deaths of two guerrillas, six police agents and a youth as well as Guerra Guzman.

Base Progress

ROME (AP) — U.S. and Libyan representatives met for five hours in Tripoli last night, and Tripoli Radio said "substantial progress was made" on Libya's demand for an early liquidation of the Wheelus Air Force base near the capital.

The broadcast said the two sides scheduled a third meeting for Wednesday.

After the first meeting Monday between U.S. Ambassador Joseph Palmer and representatives of the new military government, the State Department announced that some equipment and material were being removed from the base.

Airport Loan

MONROVIA, Liberia (AP) — The United States signed an agreement today to lend $4 million to help improve Monrovia's international airport.

The loan is to be repaid in 40 years with the first payment not due for 10 years.

The five-year improvement program includes enlargement of the landing area, new landing and navigational aids, operational and support facilities, technical services, staff training, housing and security measures.

Teacher Supply

WASHINGTON (AP) — So many young women are entering the teaching field these days an oversupply of 75 per cent at the elementary and secondary levels is expected by 1980, a congressional subcommittee has been told.

Job openings will number about 2.4 million in those areas by 1980 while the output for trained teachers will be close to 4.2 million, thus requiring the opening of new training and employment opportunities to women, the government study said.

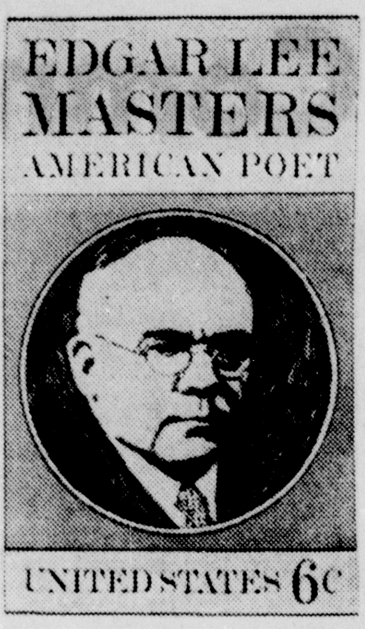
The study, prepared by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, was presented yesterday to the House education subcommittee.

Postal Reforms

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration has drafted a new postal reform plan that would establish a federal authority to operate the postal service which would have many of the powers of a corporation although still subject to government control.

Unveiled yesterday in the House Post Office Committee, the plan also calls for leaving employees under civil service but giving the Post Office authority to issue bonds and to fix postal rates. Congress would have power over rate hikes, under the plan.

The administration is proposing a pay-raise package as part of its plan, but no details have been released.



POET HONORED — This is the design of a new six-cent stamp, honoring poet Edgar Lee Masters. The Post Office Department said today date and place of issuance of the stamp, first in a series that will pay tribute to American poets, will be announced later. (AP Wirephoto)

Chicago Gang Bullet Fray Wounds Six

CHICAGO (AP) — Two street gangs staged a gun battle on Chicago's North Side last night and six persons were wounded, police said.

The fight, which police said involved more than 50 youths, was in the same general neighborhood where a 16-year-old boy was killed and four other young persons were wounded Wednesday night.

Nine youths were arrested in the latest outbreak. Five were charged with mob action and disorderly conduct. Four were juveniles and were released to custody of their parents.

Two of the wounded were in serious condition, both hit by a single shotgun blast, according to police. The others were treated and released.

Officers said more than 30 policemen converged on the scene. Shots were fired at police, officers said, but none was wounded in the brief but intense battle. Police said they did not have to return fire.

Detectives said the fight involved members of the Cobra Stones, primarily a South Side gang, and The Blacks, who dominate the North Side area where the battle occurred.

Rick Neely, 16, was shot to death in the Wednesday night incident.

Most Seriously hurt last night were Jerome Moore, 14, who suffered severe wounds to his right arm, and Willie Hill, 13, under treatment for head wounds.

Injuries Minor

Carolyn Leydecker, 17, of 170 Avenida Miraflores, Tiburon, received minor head injuries in an automobile accident at 2:54 p.m. yesterday in Tiburon. Miss Leydecker was treated by her own doctor. Further details of the accident were not available today from Tiburon sheriff's deputies.

Anniversary Brings Alert In Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. and South Vietnamese forces were alerted today for increased enemy attacks in observance of two major Vietnamese Communist anniversaries.

Captured enemy documents called for a stepup to mark the 23rd anniversary today of the start of the war that drove the French from Indochina and the ninth anniversary tomorrow of the founding of the National Liberation Front, the Viet Cong's political arm.

Saigon's sprawling Tan Son Nhut Air Base came under enemy rocket attack today for the first time in five and one-half months as Viet Cong gunners slammed four 100-pound rockets into the base before dawn.

CIVILIANS HIT

Two of the missiles landed in a housing complex where families of South Vietnamese paratroopers and airmen live, killing one Vietnamese woman and wounding 17 persons, five of them children. Seven houses were destroyed.

The other two rockets hit U.S. military positions on the base, wounding several Americans and causing light damage, spokesmen said.

As dawn broke, South Vietnamese troops began sweeping through the region immediately northwest of Saigon, searching for rocket launching sites.

The sounds of air attack could also be heard from the city as bombers cleared a path for American troops maneuvering south of the capital.

TANK ACCIDENT

In a freakish accident a shell went off in the gun of a tank being unloaded from a ship in Saigon, hit the home of a Vietnamese army colonel two miles away, and wounded two women and a child.

The M41 tank had been used by South Vietnamese forces, and an American ship had brought it to Saigon for repairs. A spokesman said tanks usually are disarmed before they are shipped.

Elsewhere:

Enemy troops opened fire with machine guns and rocket grenades on a column of armored personnel carriers from the U.S. 25th Division 36 miles northwest of Saigon. Two Americans and 14 of the enemy were reported killed in the three-hour fight, and six Americans were wounded.

Louisiana Asks School Desegregation Delays

WASHINGTON (AP) — Louisiana school officials have asked the Supreme Court to recall, as a "Christmas present" for whites and blacks, recent desegregation orders.

Instead, they said in a plea filed late yesterday, the court should hold an emergency hearing on the school desegregation situation throughout the entire region—Louisiana, Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi, Florida and Texas.

Should the court agree, school districts could be free of any requirement to desegregate student bodies by Feb. 1. But all schools in the six states could find themselves compelled to desegregate in September.

The Louisiana officials said an order Saturday requiring immediate preparations for desegregation has created "a state of absolute emergency" in West Feliciana, East Feliciana and Concordia parishes.

Similar orders were issued by the court and by Justice Hugo L. Black Saturday and Monday for 11 other school districts in Alabama, Mississippi, Florida and Georgia. The court is to decide whether the U.S. Court of Appeals in New Orleans was wrong in giving 16 districts, including one in Texas, until September to speed student integration.

With Christmas approaching, the school officials said, "it will be virtually impossible for the superintendents to take any steps whatsoever toward implementation" before next month.

A Feb. 1 deadline, which is being pushed by civil rights lawyers and several black families, would "totally disrupt the educational process," the officials said.

Criticizing the high court for acting without a hearing first, they added: "It is grossly unfair to these thousands of American citizens, black and white alike, to treat them, their rights and wishes and welfare, in such a summary manner."

The officials said recall of the orders would be "a wonderful Christmas present for these school systems and the many black and white children and teachers affected thereby."

Urgent consideration of a timetable for the entire region, instead of a few districts, would be "one small step" for the high court but "a giant stride for mankind," they said.

Pentagon Alters Notification Rule

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army said today it is taking steps to assure that all parents of servicemen killed in Vietnam are personally notified.

Until now, it was explained, some parents received notification by telegram if the serviceman were married and his wife was listed as the primary next of kin.

The Army said the Secretary Stanley R. Resor "recently directed that Army policy be reevaluated with a view towards doing more for the parents of deceased married personnel."

It said that it had been providing personal notification to parents who were secondary next of kin when the parents lived close to a wife of the man involved.

Now, apparently, this will be extended to all parents.

A WOMAN'S MUSICAL

Katharine Hepburn Returns In 'Coco'

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP) — "Coco" is a show to separate the men from the girls. The most highly touted musical of the Broadway season opened last night at the Hellinger theater.

There are all sorts of goodies for the ladies — a fantabulous, nonstop fashion show, a bit of moist-eyed feminine mystique and Katharine Hepburn for an indomitable heroine.

For the men? They can meditate on their own gallantry and self-sacrifice. Producer Frederick Brisson has been dreaming for years of creating a stage salute to Gabrielle Coco Chanel, the stylist from Paris who invented the little basic black gal slacks and costume chains.

What Alan Jay Lerner, on book and lyrics, and Andre Previn, for music, have provided in fulfillment of Brisson's hope are a nothing plot, little fun-bits and melodies to forget.

Miss Hepburn, juggling tirades with breathless ferocity, is hardly the embodiment of gallic clan, but her performance sustains a fantastic individuality. With regal disdain she takes part in nine musical interludes without ever trying to sing a note of negligible tunes.

The entertainment concerns the period in 1953 when Chanel was trying to make a comeback after 15 years away from the coturier world. The scenes are padded out with recollections about daddy and past lovers, done with live Miss Hepburn conversing with movie screen projections, one of many elaborate visual devices.

Since it's patently clear from the start that fame and fortune will be rescued in the nick of time, not by Marines but by buyers from big American department stores, Lerner-Previn invent a sub-romance between a wide-eyed model and a reporter.

The dialogue is filled with such lines as: "The only time you can believe a man is when he says he doesn't want to marry you." And there are lyrics at the level of "a dream unpossessable but so undressable."

Miss Hepburn's chief companions are George Rose, lawyer extraordinary who gets to sing an amusing ditty, "When Your Lover Says Goodbye;" Gale Dixon and David Holliday, the ever-loving youngsters, and Rene Auberjonois, as the resident butterfly who dresses mannequins.

These chorines show off Cecil Beaton's storeful of Chanelish costumes with salon chic in numbers choreographed simply by Michael Bennett.

Over-all direction is by Michael Benthal, who sagely saves Miss Hepburn's liveliest action and most touching emotion effort for the concluding half hour.

Go, girls, go. And you chaps, blessings.

What other press critics said:

Clive Barnes, New York Times: "The show has two great things going for it. One is the well-scrubbed and gallant radiance of Katharine Hepburn. I adored her through everything. The other is the occasionally acerbic wit and even occasional wisdom of Alan Jay Lerner's book. Yet . . . nothing really helps . . . The story is simple to the point of disappearance."

John Chapman, Daily News: "Katharine Hepburn . . . has brought some glamor to Broadway . . ."

One Cigarette Can Deaden Bronchial Tube Functions

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Tiny hairlike organs of the bronchial tubes that stop foreign matter from reaching the lungs can be paralyzed by the smoke of just one cigarette, a University of Southern California scientist said yesterday.

Dr. Wilbur Hallett, associate professor of medicine, said that whenever a foreign particle comes into contact with the organs, called cilia, they move en masse to carry it upward toward the mouth and nose away from the lungs.

"A single cigarette paralyzes the cilia temporarily. In habitual smokers the cilia have disappeared entirely," he said.

Hallett, president of the Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association of Los causes the walls of the bronchial tubes to thicken and become leathery.

The thickening, according to Hallett, is precancerous in many smokers and can result in death.

Hallett also said moderate smokers do not escape free.

"If he doesn't get cancer, he gets emphysema or chronic bronchitis," Hallett said. "As for light smokers, things get into their lungs that shouldn't because of the loss of function of the cilia."

But when a person quits Angeles, said smoking also smoking, Hallett said, "the normal lining of the airways begins to regenerate."

Many of the animals that we call rabbits, such as the snowshoe, are really hares.

PLAN

of personnel matters and the like, Monagan said.

The Legislature, with an annual budget of nearly $24 million, is considered to be the most modern in the nation. A special committee said the streamlining would better enable the 120 lawmakers to meet critical social, economic and environmental problems of the new decade.

The State Constitution would be changed to specify that both the Assembly and Senate, and all their committees, would meet in public.

The present wording allows lawmakers to meet behind closed doors "on occasions that in the opinion of the house require secrecy."

There has been increasing criticism in recent years of committees taking action in private sessions.

In a report to Monagan, the three-member committee said "We must adopt a modern management approach to our organization and shed the constitutional constraints which now impede the Legislature's ability to fulfill its role."

The proposal of the Select Committee on Assembly Reorganization, endorsed fully by Monagan, would have each session of the legislature begin in December of even-numbered years and continue through Nov. 30 two years later.

Instead of adjourning for the year after its main business is done, the legislature merely would recess — reconvening when any important business arose.

This would do away with special sessions limited to matters put before the legislature by the governor.

It also would eliminate the annual logjam of bills that builds up toward the end of each session now.

In a major reorganization approved by voters in 1966, the Legislature went on annual general sessions of unlimited length. But as a practical matter, the legislature has adjourned each year in August.

There were special sessions in 1967 and 1968 called by Reagan to handle urgent matters that arose.

New laws ordinarily would take effect on Jan. 1. Now, laws go into operation 60 days after final adjournment of the legislature. That means laws usually become effective in November now.

The December opening of the Legislature would permit the lawmakers to handle housekeeping matters such as election of officers before the lawmakers got down to major business in January.

Phones Must Wait

BHOPAL, India (AP) — Seven thousand persons in this south Indian town who have been waiting three years for phone connections were informed that although the system is finished, they will have to wait until Prime Minister Indira Gandhi or a member of her cabinet comes to town to dedicate the system, before it is put into use.

DURGAPUR, India (AP) — A monkey from a local Hindu temple ran wild in the streets of this steel town and injured at least 30 persons with bites and scratches. People in the town were afraid to challenge the animal for fear of insulting those who regard monkeys as sacred. Police finally took the animal into custody.

Mitchell said the lawyers and the special grand jury "will seek to establish the true facts" about the Chicago slayings "and hopefully will put an end to the rumor and speculation that have surrounded this incident."

"There have been serious allegations raised criticizing police tactics," he said. "A number of responsible citizens have questioned whether this incident may have involved a denial of federally protected rights."

Mitchell said he feels, along with U.S. Atty. Thomas Foran of Chicago and Leonard, "that the only way to answer these questions and these fears honestly and fairly is to conduct this special federal inquiry."

Mitchell did not disclose which witnesses refused to cooperate in the preliminary investigation. But a spokesman said both Black Panthers and police had declined to talk about the case.

There was no indication also why the FBI was not assigned a prominent role in the investigation.

Black Panthers had charged that Hampton and Clark were slain as they slept. An Illinois state senator, Charles Chew Jr., a Negro Democrat, protested to the department and said an independent autopsy backed up the Panther charges.

Subsequently, Negro leaders Roy Wilkins and Whitney Young Jr., urged Mitchell to have federal investigators look into the case.

Lions Go Hungry With Tons Of Food

PORT ELIZABETH, South Africa (AP) — A thick-skinned hippo was too tough for a pride of lions in the Kruger National Park, South Africa's largest game reserve. A National Parks Board newsletter related how the lions pulled down a hippopotamus which had been injured in a fight.

The sharp fangs of the big cats couldn't penetrate the hide of the ponderous carcass. After trying for three days to tear some meat from the hippo, they gave up in disgust.

Youngster Brings Humor To Nativity

LEBANON, Ky. (AP) — In viewing the Nativity scene at his church, 4-year-old Sammy Osbourne told his grandmother, Mrs. Henry Smith, the following:

"That's Mary, that's Joseph and that's the Baby Jesus." Then pointing to the Magi trio, the child added, "And those are the three Wise Guys."

Deer Vs. Tigers

BHOPAL, India (AP) — A barbed wire fence has been constructed inside the Kanha national park near here to protect the dwindling population of swamp deer. At last count the swamp deer population had fallen from 98 to 70 in one year. Park custodians believe the deer are being eaten by the tigers that roam the park.

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Insurance To Cover Riots

These days property owners are aware of "riot insurance." Recently the loss from civil disorders was set at $50 million a year or more.

Your standard fire policy does not cover losses from "insurrection, invasion, bombardment, rebellion, revolution, military or usurped power; or by order of civil authority."

Some policies also exclude loss for "explosion or riot unless there is a fire and then only for fire loss."

Most policies cover fire losses during a riot but not an "insurrection." Although insurance people did pay for the recent losses from riots, some of them had first regarded them as insurrections. As a rule, by paying a premium you can extend your coverage to losses from theft and looting.

In some cities owners, even at high rates, have had a hard time getting fire insurance since the companies have little experience in civic disorders upon which to base their rates.

Most states allow an owner to collect for his loss in civil strife if he can prove that the local or state governments acted negligently.

Insurance is now also available through pool arrangements to qualified property owners who could not normally get it. Companies doing business in California must take part in such pools.

In 1968 Congress passed an act to reinsure some of the risks of property in cities. This reinsurance plan has spread some of the cost and risks throughout the country. (Note: California lawyers offer this column so you may know about our laws.)

TAX

it unanimously Monday in a separate bill.

The low income allowance, which may be deducted from income in figuring taxes, will remove about 5 million poor families from the tax rolls entirely.

The conferees rejected entirely the cuts in all tax bracket rates voted by the House in favor of giving general relief through an increase in the personal exemption, the form favored by the Senate.

However, the Senate had voted for an $800 exemption by 1971, a figure which along with the Social Security benefit boost, had brought on threats of a veto by Nixon.

Thus the conferees moved to meet his objections in part by holding the exemption to $750 and delaying the final effective date to 1972.

The revenue loss in 1970 and 1971 resulting from the compromise will not be nearly so great concerned about his budgets in those years.

However, it was reported that Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., author of the tax relief package in the Senate bill, was highly pleased with the agreement.

He was understood to feel that a $750 exemption, combined with the new low-income allowance and increased standard deduction, would give relief equivalent to an $800 exemption.

In spite of his prediction that the conference work would end today, Mills said it was almost certain the compromise version of the bill could not be acted on in both branches until Monday.

It was also understood the conferees finished work on virtually all of the dozens of reform provisions in the bill aimed at tax loopholes.

The conferees did not even quit for dinner Thursday night. Sandwiches and coffee were brought to their meeting room off the House chamber at the Capitol.

They started meeting at 9:00 a.m. yesterday, quit an hour for lunch at 12:30 p.m., and reconvened at 1:30 in the afternoon for the session which ran to 3 a.m. this morning.

Official Deadbeats

PANAJI, India (AP) — The government telephone office turned off 80 telephones allotted to the Goa government for nonpayment of some $26,000 in back bills. Badly hit were the secretariat, the police department, and two hospitals as well as two state cabinet ministers and the deputy finance secretary.

FAIR

firm on their belief they should tie their fund-raising campaign to the $9 million goal, with the first $500,000 to go for auditorium completion, maintained the large program is needed to get large contributions.

Said Kalimos, "If we tell people we're going for $1, and then later go back and say we want $5 more, they won't go for it. It would be better to go for $5, and then collect in increments if necessary."

Kalimos repeated that the fund-raising campaign cannot be launched much earlier than September of 1970. County supervisors contend this would be too late because the auditorium's first phase would be completed, and the new building would be standing there unusable.

Fair-Marin president Harold Stockstad, who called last night's special meeting, notified the Independent-Journal at 3:15 p.m. yesterday, too late for a public announcement.

"We have always announced meetings well in advance but this was a case where we had to meet right away, and the only suitable time for the directors was tonight (Thursday)," said Stockstad.

When informed that 24 hours advance notice is required to give the public a chance to attend, Stockstad said Fair-Marin is a private corporation and not legally bound by the Brown Act, "although we have always conscientiously followed it." He said the corporation bylaws require open meetings and minutes, but prior announcements are not required.

How about notification to the 70 or 80 member organizations who belong to Fair-Marin? "It would have been better if we could have notified them," Stockstad agreed. "But because of pressure of time, we just couldn't in this case."

"He may be right technically," said County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney. "But they are a quasi-public body. Although I'm not their counsel, I would say it would be better for them to be on the safe side in observing the Brown Act."

Sausalito's 'Open Water' Challenged

Sausalito's proposal to establish pierhead and bulkhead lines and create "open water" in the central waterfront was challenged legally last night.

Sausalito City Council held the fourth in a series of sessions reviewing the city's proposed central waterfront plan, and when it was over, scheduled a fifth at 8 p.m. Jan. 8 in City Hall.

City Atty. Leland H. Jordon told the council he felt the city legally could establish the lines to preserve the water areas.

He was challenged by Atty. Leon Schiller, representing major property owners along the waterfront, who said there was court opinion there wasn't any public right of navigation and fishery in the privately-owned tidelands, proposed for open water.

Jordan contended there "may be other grounds" for establishing the open water, noting it could come under "public trust" or the general police power of the city.

Schiller contended that the land couldn't be taken without compensation to the owner. "If you take and create open water, you may be buying back the water by inverse condemnation. You show that as open water and you may have bought it."

Under the proposed plan two areas are designated for open water, one from Pine Street to Locust, and the other, from Litho Street to Mono, in an irregular shape.

During the discussion on the plan, Councilman Wyman Hicks, an advocate of having parking at the north end of Sausalito, suggested study to determine if the city could switch land dedicated for parking.

For example, he asked, if an owner dedicated land for parking in the central area, could the city take that land and give the owner parking spaces at the north end of town?

Councilmen previously agreed that the bulk of traffic should be taken off Alexander Avenue, and a major turnaround loop would be needed for traffic coming into the city from the north along Bridgeway.

Last night, they said, the turnaround loop should be north of Napa Street.

Councilman discussed designating which uses would be permitted inboard and which would be permitted outboard of the bulkhead line . William E. Spangle Jr. planning consultant, of San Mateo said he would review the matter before making a recommendation.

They also discussed the provision for an owner to transfer floor space credit from inboard to outboard and vice versa.

There was a brief discussion of the site for public buildings, city hall and library.

Councilman Alexander Imlay felt it was established that the public buildings would be in the area of Litho Street and Bridgeway.

"I thought it was wide open," said Hicks, who favored having city hall "here."

After a half dozen public hearings, and four study sessions, councilmen agreed they would need yet another special meeting to review the plan.

Planning Director H. Eric Borgwardt pointed out that the council hadn't yet tackled the question of houseboats in the central waterfront area. "This is an important type of use and should be considered," he said.

Other items scheduled for the next session were city hall location, pierhead and bulkhead lines, floor area ratios and the transfer of floor space credit.

Driver Data Sale Hit As Privacy Invasion

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Sale of information on drivers licenses and vehicle registration forms should be banned as a "gross invasion of personal privacy," the Assembly statewide information policy committee has been told.

"The potential for abuse by buyers of this information concerns me greatly," Assemblyman William Campbell, R-Hacienda Heights, told the committee yesterday.

Campbell, whose bill to stop such sales was killed in committee this year, asked: "When the state requires information from those persons who wish a permit to drive, does it not also have the responsibility of guarding the privacy of those persons?"

Campbell said sale of lists of vehicles and drivers' names also could contribute to burglaries and increased unwanted mail.

The policy of selling such information was defended by Keith A. Ball, a spokesman for the Department of Motor Vehicles, as necessary to "promote the normal conduct of human affairs."

He said information has been sold at least since 1938 and "the department considers the vehicle registration and driver license records are public records."

Ball said, however, that the state does not divulge such "confidential information" as mental or physical conditions of drivers.

Gov. Ronald Reagan, after a public controversy over the issue, ordered a halt last October to disclosure of information from the drivers license files. But the executive order did not stop sale of information from vehicular registration files.

Murphy Is Due Race Checkup

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., will run for reelection next year unless doctors recommend against it after a "complete physical examination" set for next month.

The former movie dancer told a news conference Thursday he would enter the Scripps Clinic at La Jolla Jan. 4 for a checkup expected to last several days.

Murphy underwent surgery for throat cancer more than three years ago and his voice is still little more than a hoarse whisper. He used an amplifier at the news conference but insisted that frequent examinations of his throat have shown no recurrence of cancer. But he said he owed it to his constituents to undergo one more complete physical examination.

SKYJUMPERS OVER SOUTH VIETNAM

South Vietnamese paratroopers jump from a C119 flying boxcar after receiving airborne instruction from U.S. military trainers, working to speed "Vietnamization" of the war effort. Diplomatic sources said yesterday the growing South Vietnamese strength was worrying Hanoi with fears that the war would be prolonged and adversely affect the Communists' chances for penetration of the south. A New York Demo Admits Senate Talk

WASHINGTON (AP) — A democratic congressman says some "prominent New York Republicans" have suggested he switch parties and oppose GOP Sen. Charles E. Goodell in the 1970 primary.

Rep. Sam Stratton regards the suggestion as "half serious, half facetious" and says he doesn't know if it has White House blessings. But Goodell surely is not President Richard M. Nixon's favorite senator.

The New Yorker opposed Nixon on Vietnam, ABM, and the Haynsworth nomination. He was with GOP moderates protesting a lack of communication with the White House. And this week he opposed Nixon's nominee to replace southern New York's U.S. Attorney.

Stratton, a hawk on Vietnam and generally more conservative than Goodell, says he assumes the idea is to give the President more support in the Senate.

He gets a lot of mail on the subject too, he says, but he has yet to consider the idea seriously. Stratton didn't name the Republicans he says approached him.

Stratton, 53, is serving his 6th two year term in the House from an upstate district that includes Rochester and generally regarded as Republican territory.

He is a former mayor of Schenectady, a Navy officer in World War II and Korea, a member of the House Armed Services Committee and a strong supporter of its chairman, L. Mendell Rivers, D- S.C., a leading congressional hawk on Vietnam.

There are precedents for party switches by members of Congress although there has been no instance—in recent years—where a House member of one party has switched to another party to make a Senate race.

Former Sen. Wayne Morse, of Oregon, switched from Republican to Independent to Democrat while a senator. Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, deserted the Democratic Party to become a Republican.

Probe Launched Into Real Estate Rates

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department has launched an investigation to determine if the nation's real estate boards are conspiring to fix commission rates on property sales.

Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell announced the probe yesterday and said Justice Department investigators are checking to determine if recent commission rate increases in various parts of the country violate antitrust laws.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Richard W. McLaren, the government's antitrust chief, said his probers are "particularly interested in this situation because of the inflationary impact of such increases on consumers in the purchase of homes."

The Justice Department yesterday also filed a civil antitrust suit against the Prince George's County (Md.) Board of Realtors Inc., charging the firm with recommending commission rates that are followed by its 1,000 members in their property transactions. Prince George's County is a Washington suburb.

Mitchell indicated similar arrangements are made by other real estate boards elsewhere in the nation.

The Prince George's suit, brought under the restraint of trade provision of the Sherman Act, marked the first antitrust action against a real estate board since 1947.

The alleged scheme is carried out, the government said, through the Prince George's Multiple Listing Service, and all members agree that no listing will be accepted at a commission rate less than the recommendation.

Consequently, the suit claimed commissions were fixed at a noncompetitive level and price competition among salesmen was eliminated.

Panama Seats New President

PANAMA (AP) — Engineer Demetrio B. Lakas was sworn in as president of Panama today. Arturo Sucre took oath as the other, member of a two-man ruling junta at a special noontime session of the Supreme Court in the presidential palace.

Lakas, 44-year-old Texas-educated son of a Greek immigrant, was named to the presidency yesterday by Gen. Omar Torrijos, winner of a round of coup and countercoup earlier in the week.

Torrijos was overthrown Monday by two subordinate officers of the National Guard while he was in Mexico City for a horse race. Torrijos immediately headed back to Panama, consolidated his National Guard support and retook the reins of power.

Restaurant Looted

Thieves, who entered the closed Chimes restaurant at 831 Francisco Boulevard yesterday through a window, stole a musical amplifier of unknown value and a tape recorder worth $187 owned by Ronald T. Chard of 292 Adobe Stone Drive, San Rafael police reported today.

Deposed Black Capitalism Official Switches Bosses

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thomas F. Roeser, once the frustrated head of the government's clearinghouse for Black Capitalism programs, has esigned entirely from the Commerce Department.

Roeser's resignation, effective Jan. 5 was made public yesterday when the department released a cordial exchange of letters between him and Secretary Maurice H. Stans, who is in Yugoslavia discussing international trade.

Roeser was fired Oct. 28 after seven months as director of the Office of Minority Business Enterprise, the Commerce agency set up by presidential order last March to coordinate the government's programs designed to get members of minority groups into business for themselves.

But he kept his job as assistant to Stans for minority enterprise—which succeeded "black capitalism" as the name of the administration program—and was succeeded as OMBE director by Abraham S. Venable, a black career civil servant who had been deputy director.

Roeser, 41, white and a Republican, was a publicist for the Quaker Oats Co. before joining OMBE. He will become director of public affairs for the Peace Corps.

The most visible sign of his discontent emerged in early October when, addressing a mostly Negro chamber of commerce, he assailed government officials who would promote the minority business program before it showed results. He urged the black businessmen to lobby the government to increase the program's activities.

Its first new program, a system of "minority enterprise small business investment corporations," was announced by Stans.

Elephants Rampage

SHILLONG, India (AP) — Wild elephants on a rampage in Dekiajul, a small tea town in Darrang district, reportedly ate a major portion of this year's sugar cane crop and badly damaged tea gardens and betelnut trees. The reason for the rampage was not known.

New Chemical Boasted As Car Smog Weapon

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Standard Oil of California has announced it had developed a new gasoline component which would cut smog-producing hydrocarbon emissions nearly in half.

Standard said 15 years of research and development went into the new fuel commponent, called "F-310."

The company said tests conducted under typical driving conditions indicated the additive reduces unburned hydrocarbons in exhaust from an average of 550 parts per million to 250 parts per million.

Standard said it would add F-310 to three grades of gasoline now on the market, beginning next month in the Los Angles area.

As the supply becomes available, Standard said, it will make the new ingredient available in virtually all its Chevron gasoline marketing areas.

The new component, said E. D. Kane, president of Chevron Research Co., "can actually take a used car in such bad shape from engine deposits built up from city driving that it is stalling and puffing clouds of black smoke from its tail pipe, and after a few tankfuls, restore it to proper working order."

More than 50,000 U.S. servicemen, mostly Marines and Air Force men, are on the island of Okinawa to man military installations.

Driver Is Fair From Accident

Dan Bell, 25, of 61 California Avenue, Tamalpais Valley, was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital with a concussion and dislocated left hip received in an automobile accident at 2:45 p.m. yesterday in Tiburon.

Also injured in the accident was Ethel Slocum, 41, of 1 Acacia Court, Tiburon, who was treated at the hospital for a cut left knee.

Further details of the accident were not available today from Tiburon sheriff's deputies.

OH! CHICAGO! INTERLUDE

"Chicago seven" defendants Jerry Rubin (left) and Abbie Hoffman (right) put their arms around Jacques Levy at the defendants' headquarters in Chicago. Levy, director of "Oh! Calcutta!", testified yesterday at the long-drawn trial. In other developments, the court refused a defense plea for a long weekend after Christmas, and the defense in turn planned to summon Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley to the witness stand on Friday. Park-School Cooperation Given Nod

Plans to develop land around the La Tercera School jointly with the City of Petaluma was agreed upon last night by the Old Adobe School District board.

Supt. Dean D. Magowan said that he and the district landscape architect, William L. Kapranos of San Rafael, would work with the city's planning and parks departments in developing the site.

A city council policy to place small neighborhood parks adjacent to school sites will be followed in the development plan.

The Old Adobe School District board also:

BONDS — Heard a report that $22,000 in bonds had been sold to the Atlantic and Pacific Building Corp. at an interest rate of 5 per cent. The funds will be used to finance street improvements in St. Francis Drive at the site of a future school.

TEACHERS — Agreed to the request of the Old Adobe Teachers Association to be placed regularly on the agenda of the first board meeting of the month to report on association activities.

VOTING — Approved the use of La Tercera and Bernard Eldredge schools as polling places in the March 3 special city bond election.

Watches Stolen

Two gold men's wristwatches, with a total value of $310, were stolen Wednesday from Gorb Jewelry Store, 1115 Fourth Street, San Rafael police reported today. A $300 man's gold watch was stolen from the same store Nov. 26, police also reported.

Six Children Are Killed In Auto Crash

DICKSON, Tenn. (AP) — Six children, ranging in age from 18 months to 17 years, were killed early today when the car in which they were riding went out of control on Interstate 40, just east of here.

The dead were children of Mr. and Mrs. John McMahon of Cleveland, Ohio. The parents and three other children were hospitalized.

Officers said the mother, Jean, 34, was driving the station wagon, which was pulling a camper. The parents and nine children were in the automobile.

Police said the camper started swerving causing the vehicles to crash through a bridge guardrail and plunge 35 feet onto a gravel road below.

The wreck occurred about two miles west of Tenn. 96.

The father, John McMahon, 35, was hospitalized in fair condition at Goodlark Hospital here. Two daughters, Barbara, 14, and Jean, 13, were hospitalized at Vanderbilt Hospital in Nashville. The mother and a son, Bryant, 8, were hospitalized at Dickson General Hospital.

The dead were identified as: Geneva, 17; Margaret Mary 11; John Edward 10; James Patrick, 9; Timothy Michael, 6; and Deborah, 18 months.

The family was reportedly en route to Texas.

Black Legislator In Housing Denial Fight

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A Negro assemblywoman says she was refused an apartment in Sacramento because of her race, and the state has gone to court on her behalf.

Yvonne Brathwaite, a Los Angeles Democrat, said she was turned down when she tried to rent a $135-a-month studio apartment for the forthcoming legislative session.

The Fair Employment Practices Commission, acting on her complaint, filed suit against the owner of the apartment, Watrous and McClory Inc., its president, Mrs. Regina Kimberlin and Mrs. Harry A. Jones, manager of the apartment.

Sacramento County Superior Court Judge William Gallagher set Dec. 30 for a hearing. Meanwhile, he issued a temporary restraining order prohibiting the owner from renting the apartment to anyone else but Mrs. Brathwaite.

Charging a violation of the state's open housing act, Mrs. Brathwaite said she had her secretary, Georgette Imura, apply for the apartment Dec. 8. Mrs. Imura was told by Mrs. Jones the apartment would be available around Jan. 15.

"She then asked Mrs. Imura if I were colored," Mrs. Brathwaite said in her complaint. "Mrs. Imura said 'yes.' "

Mrs. Brathwaite said Mrs. Jones told Mrs. Imura "don't misunderstand me, but I probably would lose all my tenants if I rented to her."

Mrs. Brathwaite said she has not had further word about the availability of an apartment. "I believe on the basis of the manager's statement to Mrs. Imura that the reason I have not been contacted is because of racial discrimination on the part of Mrs. Jones, the manager. I am Negro."

Mrs. Kimberlin, president of the realty firm, said she had no comment when contacted by newsmen.

But Dumas M. Robinson, an FEPC consultant, said Mrs. Kimberlin read the complaint Wednesday and "stated she had not discriminated against Mrs. Brathwaite because of her race." Mrs. Kimberlin said that the assemblywoman would have to be on a waiting list if she wanted an apartment.

Robinson said another applicant for an apartment, Geraldine Jekins, was told Saturday that a $135 a month apartment would be available Jan. 5.

Mrs. Brathwaite has served in the legislature since 1966.

A Phi Beta Kappa graduate of the University of California, Los Angeles, she is an attorney who has been active in civil rights and real estate cases.

She has worked as a deputy corporations commissioner for the state and an attorney on the staff of the McCone Commission investigating the 1965 Watts riots.

DEATH SCENE — This was the view through the bullet-blasted window at a store in the Mission district of San Francisco yesterday after an unidentified man whose body lies covered in the foreground killed himself and another man and wounded Jules Jobin, 39, of San Rafael.
(AP Wirephoto)

Robber Hits Dress Shop, Takes $500

An armed robber held up La Tee's dress shop at 1518 Grant Avenue, Novato, about 6:20 p.m. yesterday and escaped with $500, police reported.

The robber held an automatic pistol against clerk Celeste M. Bonomolo and demanded the money from the cash register. After getting it, he made her lie down on the floor and walked out of the store. Mrs. Bonomolo waited about five minutes before getting up to call police, she said. She did not see which way the robber went nor if he had a car, police reported.

She described the robber as in his late 20s or early 30s, about six-feet, two-to-four inches tall, of slim build. He had greasy black hair, was fair conplexioned and unshaven. He was wearing a black topcoat, gray pants and brown shoes.

San Rafael Man Survives Deadly San Francisco Street Fusillade

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A San Rafael man lay wounded today and two other men were dead, the victims of an unexplained shooting yesterday on a San Francisco street.

Jules Jobin, 39, of 53 Clayton Street, underwent surgery this morning at San Francisco General Hospital for a gunshot wound in his left thigh. A hospital spokesman said he is in fair condition and improving.

His attacker, who killed Richard Vargas, 21, of San Francisco, and himself, purchased a weapon moments before and announced he was going to "get me three or four dudes before they get me."

The gunman, armed with an 8mm Mauser semi-automatic rifle, apparently fired first at Jobin who was driving along Mission Street. The bullet smashed through the car door, hitting both legs.

Jobin's wife, Justine, a passenger, said she was her husband flinch. He said, 'It's hurt, it's hurt,' she reported, and then he managed to drive across the street and stop the car.

A traffic patrolman met Jobin's car as it came to a stop and reported that the first thing the injured man said was, 'What did he do that to me for'

The gunman apparently next saw Vargas walking across the street and fired at him. Vargas went down, a bullet above his heart. One witness said Vargas raised his hand and the man shot at him again.

Msgr. Clement McKenna, pastor of nearby St. Patrick's Catholic Church, said he looked out, saw Vargas lying on the sidewalk and a man with a gun walking away. He said he called police and went out to give the last rites to Vargas.

Meanwhile, the gunman sprayed four shots through the window of a sporting goods store, but none of the occupants was injured.

He then put the rifle to his head and killed himself.

Donald Zobrak, 35, manager of the Argonaut Pawn Shop where the gunman purchased the rifle for $90, said the man signed the name John Price to the required registration form.

However, authorities were attempting to establish positive identification through fingerprints. There was no identification on the body.

Zobrak said the man, in his late 20s to mid-30s, started loading the rifle before he left the pawn shop. Told he wasn't allowed to do that, Zobrak reported, the man made his promise to "get me three or four dudes." Minutes later the shots began.

Congress For Community Ideas Eyed

A congress for community progress will be held in Novato, probably next May, sponsored by the Novato Chamber of Commerce, according to secretary Billie Garl.

The board last night voted $200 for the congress after it heard a presentation by William Siden, Pacific Gas and Electric community affairs representative, on conducting such a congress.

President George Barnwell will name a committee to work on the congress at the Jan. 15 board meeting, said Mrs. Garl.

The Novato Chamber of Commerce board also:

CHRISTMAS DECORATION — Named Richard Grondberg chairman of the Christmas decoration committee for next year and voted that any money left from the approximately $2,000 collected so far this year, would be placed in a special Christmas decoration fund.

CLEANUP — Named Gordon C. Lee to the cleanup committee and voted $500 additional secretarial help for Mrs. Garl for the semiannual cleanup campaign.

FESTIVAL — Voted to pay the $172 cost of the Christmas festival.

BIRTHDAY — Set 6:30 p.m., Jan. 17 at the Moose Lodge for the city's birthday party. The proceeds of the party will go toward the congress.

Mayor, Reputed Mafia Boss Plead Innocent

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Mayor Hugh J. Addonizio and reputed Mafia boss Anthony (Tony Boy) Boiardo pleaded innocent today to federal charges of extortion and income tax evasion.

U.S. Dist. Court Judge James Coolahan set a period of 45 days for filing defense motions, after which a trial date will be set.

Judge Coolahan set bail for Boiardo at $50,000 and restricted his travel to New Jersey, New York City and Washington, D.C. Federal authorities have been seeking Boiardo for questioning by the federal grand jury which indicted him, the mayor and 13 other persons Wednesday.

Twelve other defendants also pleaded innocent, and the arraignment of the final defendant was set for next week because of his illness.

Boiardo, dressed in a grey suit and blue silk tie, looked tanned and fit at the arrignment.

Addonizio, who is free in $25,000 bail on his own recognizance, was surrounded by political supporters at the court session. When his name was called by the judge, the mayor arose and said in a loud, husky voice, "not guilty."

On Thursday night, the board of the Greater Newark chamber of Commerce voted to ask Addonizio and other city officials indicted on the income tax and extortion charges to step aside until their cases are settled in court. A board spokesman said a formal request to that effect will be issued shortly.

The mayor has said he will not step down and has pledged the city's government will operate "efficiently and effectively" despite the indictment.

Addonizio and 11 others are charged with income tax evasion. All 15 are charged with extortion.

40-Story Market Street Building Is Announced

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —A 40-story office building is planned for a block-square site at First and Market streets, builder Robert V. Tishman said today.

The structure on the south side of Market will be the tallest and biggest yet built on San Francisco's major downtown thoroughfare.

With 1.2 million square feet of space it will be the city's second largest office building, Tishman said. Bank of America's new 52-story headquarters is the largest.

He said work is expected to begin on the site early in 1971 and that it will be a joint venture of the Tishman Realty & Construction Co. and the Cahill Construction Co. of San Francisco.

Completion is expected by mid-1972.

Union Leader Bridges Halts Libel Action

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Longshoremen's Union leader Harry Bridges has abandoned his four and one-half year old libel suit against some of the nation's most prominent liberals and radicals.

In his $250,000 suit, Bridges had charged the men—a committee of influential professors, civil rights leaders, authors and others—with "maliciously" attacking him in literature they circulated nationally.

They did it in 1964, Bridges charged, while soliciting money for court action by 82 longshoremen here.

PANEL ATTACKED

In dropping his suit yesterday, Bridges said he still considered the committee "a real gang of phonies...enemies of labor."

But he said he decided on his course of action because they admitted they never intended to put their name "on a malicious piece of literature" that called Bridges a racist. Besides, he said, recent changes in the libel laws would make it hard to win a suit.

Bridges' opponents asserted that Bridges never had a case. Their attorney, Arthur Brunwasser, said Bridges "didn't really want to go to court."

The attorney said Bridges merely wanted to use the threat of a libel suit to keep others from joining in the fight for the fired longshoremen and also to drain the funds of their supporters.

"DONATES MONEY"

Author Herbert Gold, one of 15 people named in Bridges' libel suit, said he had "donated his lunch money" as a teenager to committees defending Bridges from government attempts to deport him.

"It's sad," declared Gold, "that a man who has been persecuted by the government, and defended by artists and intellectuals, should have spent his union's money and many men's time and money in four and one-half years of legal persecution of writers, artists, ministers and teachers whose offense was that they sought to help a group of longshoremen deprived of their jobs."

Bridges—backed by a convention vote of the International Longshoremen's and Warehouseman's Union — had stated that the longshoremen involved were fired from temporary waterfront jobs "for cause."

The layman's definition of death, probably, is a state in which the heart has ceased to beat.

Casino Stock Deal Sparks Fraud Suit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new owners of the glittering Dunes Hotel and casino in Las Vegas defrauded stockholders in the proxy statement it issued offering to buy the plush gambling spot, the Securities and Exchange Commission has charged.

In a complaint filed yesterday in federal district court in New York, the SEC accused Continental Connector Corp., which bought the hotel last May, and M&R Investment Co., the Dunes' former owner, of employing "devices, schemes and artifices to defraud" and making "materially false and misleading" financial statements to investors and the public.

The American Stock Exchange halted trading in Continental stock hours before the suit was filed. It closed at $27.38 per share, a drop of 13 cents during the day.

The SEC asked the court for an injunction forbidding Continental, a manufacturers of precision electronic connectors based in Woodside, N.Y., to complete its planned purchase of the Golden Nugget, an older downtown Las Vegas casino, until stockholders are sent accurate financial information.

It also asked the court to order Continental and M&R to change the proxy statements used in the Dunes merger to bring them into line with commission rules.

Continental Connector got Nevada state approval last February to buy the Dunes for $59 million, and stockholders of both Continential and the Golden Nuggett have approved its sale for $20 million. Both transactions are in stock.

However, a Golden Nugget stockholder, Frank Simmons, had tried unsuccessfully to have the merger delayed until an SEC investigation was completed. The lawsuit apparently resulted from that probe.

Reagan Puts Reinecke At Helm Of Environment Panel

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — The coordination and development of a long range environmental plan for California has been placed in the hands of a state Environmental Policy Committee by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The governor announced the formation of the committee saying the action was "a part of a commitment I made to the people of California to wage an all-out war on pollution of our environment."

Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke was designated by Reagan as the chairman of the committee. Reinecke has been made responsible for the efforts of a number of state agencies concerned with various aspects of environmental protection.

The lieutenant governor's office presently administers the state Office of Planning, the Environmental Study Council, the Interagency Council on Ocean Resources, the California Advisory Commission on Marine and Coastal Resources, the Model Cities Program, the Solid Waste Management Task Force and the Governor's Flood Task Force.

The new Environmental Policy Committee will be composed of Reinecke and the secretaries of Resources, Business and Transportation, Agriculture and Services, and Human Relations Agencies, plus the state director of finance.

The committee will be charged with four responsibilities, Reagan said.

It will: Review suggestions on environmental improvements made at the recent Governor's Conference on California's Changing Environment and make specific recommendations; review departmental legislation to insure coordinated attack on pollution; initiate suggestions for interim controls; and analyze legislative proposals and their effects on the quality of life in the state.

'Extra Hire' Employee Hours Are Questioned

The Marin County personnel commission yesterday questioned the use of "extra hire" county employees and noted that many of them are putting in more hours than full time employees.

The commissioners, headed by chairman Bella Aaron, asked Personnel Director Maren Rinne to find out why so many "extra hire" employees are putting in so much time, particularly in Marin Juvenile Hall.

"It's just incredible," decalred A. Bruce McKenzie, "the number of hours put in under extra hire." He referred to a report submitted by Mrs. Rinne showing the extra hire employees and number of hours worked diing the six months from December 1968 through May of 1969.

The report shows 33 individuals were on "extra hire" at Juvenile Hall during the six months. One of them put in 1,134 hours in that time while a full-time employee, would work 1,040 hours (26 weeks at 40 hours per week). Other "extra hire" employees at the Hall put in 1,128 hours, 1,019 hours, and 1,012 hours.

Commissioners asked Mrs. Rinne to find out why so much "extra hire" is needed, and whether they should not be replaced by permanent employees. They also want the personnel department to complete job descriptions for each county position and rules of operation in various departments.

The Marin County Personnel Commission also:

TERMINATION — Asked for more information on the termination of Frank Schulz, a messenger mail clerk in the central services department, who was hired on May 20 and notified on Nov. 14 that he would be terminated. The county administrator gave him until Nov. 28 to look for anothrer job Schulz now claims he gained permanent status because his six-month probation period ended on Nov. 20.

GRIEVANCE — Ruled against Randall M. Prevo, manager of the Marin County Employees Association, who tried to get standby pay for all MCEA employees. The commissioners backed the county administrator, who contended that standby pay applies only to those eligible for overtime, not to supervisory employees whose jobs are not time-related.

Gun Victim Released By Mental Unit

A San Rafael salesman, who shot himself after a family argument and then drove to Marin General Hospital for aid, was released from the Community Mental Health Center at the hospital yesterday after a period of observation and treatment of wounds.

Police said Roy Bronson, 26, of 35 Fairfax Street, fired three times at himself with a .22-caliber pistol in the bedroom of the home Wednesday night.

The first bullet inflicted a superficial wound on the left side of his chest, officers said. The next round misfired, police reported, and the third passed through his chest into a wall of the bedroom, missing any vital body organs.

When Broson's wife, Helen, 22, went for help, he got into the family car and drove to the hospital, police said.

The Hermitage, near Nashville, Tenn. was the home of Andrew Jackson, seventh President of the United States.

Deaf Ear Falls On Holding Toll Costs

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

Pleas by Marin County officials to rescind toll increases for commuters and busses were brushed aside today by Golden Gate Bridge District directors.

The only matter that came to a vote, a motion by Marin Supervisor Michael Wornum to reconsider the hike in round trip bus tolls from 26 cents to $2, was swamped in a 3-10 vote.

The three votes were cast by Wornum and Marin's two other representatives on the bridge board, Mill Valley Mayor Dean N. Meyer and Joseph E. Sheeks of Belvedere.

Efforts by the Marin contingent to seek reconsideration of the commuter toll increase could not even muster a motion to reconsider.

The three Marin representatives were unable to make such a motion because they voted last week against the increase.

Last week's vote hiked the price of the 25 round trip commuter books from $6.10 to $10, effective Dec. 25. It also eliminated commuter books after June 1970.

Meyer continued to strike out in a proposal that the bridge district subcontract with the Alameda-Contra Costa Transit District to take over Greyhound's Marin commute service.

His suggestion was sent to the finance committe with a suggestion by Director L. E. Castner of Sonoma County that it be held there for "a long study before we make another hasty mistake."

Only one commuter, Adele Nolan of Sausalito, opposed the toll increase. She demanded to know why the district was "squeezing all this financing out of the commuter."

She also asked how many commuters were on the 18-member board. Three directors raised their hands.

Wornum, noting that Mrs. Nolan supported his election campaign, said "We are doing this for the Marin commuter. The motive was right, but the timing wrong," he said.

Wornum agreed with Mrs. Nolan that the directors should have given public notice before they raised the commute book price.

But Sheeks insisted that most commuters "were informed as to what we were doing, even if they didn't know the exact timing of the increase."

Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring said last week that the $10 commute books will increase annual district revenue by about $900,000. Directors agreed last week that the increased revenue should be earmarked for the proposed bus and ferry service to Marin.

In other business, directors voted unanimously to extend for an additional two weekends the Saturday ferry service between Tiburon and San Francisco. The service was to have ended after tomorrow.

Cotati Looks To Future City Home

The Cotati City Hall is bulging at the seams and it's time to move ahead with a new building, the city council decided last night. The council authorized City Mgr. Gordon H. Howe to have preliminary plans drawn for a new building on city property on Park Avenue adjacent to the Cotati Veterans Memorial building.

The council, which meets at the Cotati fire station, said the new building should include a small council chamber and private offices for police and department heads.

The city hall at 1 East Cotati Avenue is a reconverted house that was renovated 18 months ago for use as the city offices.

The Cotati City Council also:

SERVICE STATIONS — Adopted a service station ordinance despite objections from Virgil McNab of the Western Oil and Gas Association. McNab disagreed with sections limiting two stations per corner and none closer than 500 feet apart. Stations must also be more than 350 feet away from existing schools, parks, playgrounds and public buildings.

REZONING — Introduced an ordinance granting the rezoning request of Mrs. and Mrs. Bernard Santero to change their property at 415 School Street from single family residential to multifamily to permit apartments.

HOSPITAL — Heard a request from Paul Golis of the Rohnert Park Hospital Foundation to support a private hospital in the neighboring city. The council asked Golis to prepare a recommended resolution for consideration.

MEETING — Canceled the Jan. 1 meeting due to the holiday and will meet again Jan. 15 at 7:30 p.m.

Arabs Head For Morocco Parley

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — Arab leaders headed for Morocco today for their first summit meeting in two years. Their goal was a new unified war strategy against Israel.

The meeting, called by President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt, is intended to lead the Arabs out of the present impasse in which they seem neither able to go forward and conquer Israel nor willing to retreat into a peace agreement which they see as a surrender.

The first session will be held tomorrow.

Hashish Raid Charges Denied

Three men arrested in a raid on a Tamalpais Valley motel Tuesday where narcotics agents said they seized a large quantity of hashish as well as over $24,000 pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to drug charges.

A preliminary hearing was set for Jan. 13 for David Stuart King, 25, of Billings, Mont.; Jeffrey David Wyard, 25, of Missoula, Mont., and George S. Garr, 23, who gave the Fountain Motel as his address.

King and Wyard, college students from Montana who had only been in Marin a short time, are charged with possessing marijuana for sale, and Garr is accused of possession of marijuana.

$110,500 Written Off In Truax Case

I-J Special Report

BERKELEY — The Association of Bay Area Governments executive committee last night wrote off $110,500 in stolen funds in a unanimous vote to accept a final settlement of about 80 per cent of the total stolen by its former assistant executive director.

The former employee, Thomas N. Truax, vanished in February 1968, after his "diversion" of $511,000 in ABAG funds was detected. Truax, who spent most of the money gambling in Las Vegas, was found months later in Florida, and is serving a sentence of two to 20 years in prison.

The final settlement, $255,000, came from "various insurance companies for third parties," according to Alameda County Supervisor Joseph P. Bort, chairman of the special finance subcommittee that negotiated the settlement. The involvement of the companies was not explained, but they reportedly insured the various financial institutions through whose hands Truax diverted the money.

ABAG previously recovered $65,500 from its bonding company, $50,000 from San Francisco Federal Savings and Loan Association, and $30,000 from money the Internal Revenue Service recovered from Truax.

ABAG's special counsel in the 18 months of negotiation, Arthur Harris of Berkeley, estimated the cost of the recovery at about $7,000.

Bort, saying he was "quite pleased" with the settlement terms, said, "It would be disastrous, frankly, if we did not accept it."

Harris told the committee, meeting in the Hotel Claremont, that it was "not in a position to recover from the person who diverted these funds." The alternative was very costly litigation, he said, adding it would drag on at least three to four years, "and even then no one can guarantee the outcome."

Thomas J. Mellon, San Francisco's chief administrative officer, noted that even if ABAG won such litigation, its cost "in all probability" would be more than the missing $110,500.

With last night's additional $255,000, ABAG will be able to pay off its old debts left over after the theft, and still have $17,000 from the total amount recovered, Bort said.

ABAG's Proposed Shopping List Carries Healthy Increase In Dues

I-J Special Report

BERKELEY — County and city dues to the Association of Bay Area Governments next fiscal year, totaling $233,400, were proposed last night to its executive committee.

But the report of the finance subcommittee also offered a shopping list of proposed programs that could add $155,000 in dues.

Before figuring in any of the goodies on the shopping list, however, the dues total was only up slightly from the current year's $232,606. In Marin, the county this year paid $5,082 and Marin's 11 cities paid a total of $4,079. Cotati paid $43; Tohnert Park, $155. No figure was available for Petaluma which joined later in the year.

The proposed programs included $10,000 for lobbying in Sacramento, $10,000 to $15,000 to staff a parks and open space committee, $15,000 for planning in the fields of solid waste disposal and comprehensive health planning, $15,000 for water quality studies, and $50,000 to $100,000 to continue the study of regional airport needs.

Action on the proposals was deferred to the committee's Jan. 15 meeting. The committee's recommendations then will go to the general assembly on Feb. 19.

Alameda County Supervisor Joseph P. Bort, chairman of the finance subcommittee that drew up the proposed budget, said that each $10,000 increase in the budget would add $120 in annual dues for each 10,000 population for each member. For example, a member city with a population of 20,000 would see its dues jump $240 for a $10,000 increase in the budget.

All items on the shopping list, Bort said, "deserve serious consideration."

The Association of Bay Area Governments executive committee also:

SALARY — Raised executive director J. Julien Baget's annual salary from $24,150 to $25,200. Baget former Novato city manager, has been with ABAG since September 1968.

CHARGES — Asked Baget to study the feasibility of charging nonmembers benefitting from ABAG regional studies needed to maintain their eligibilty for federal grants.

ROADS — Recommended federal approval of Marin County's application for $94,000 to improve Novato Boulevard between San Miguel Way and west of Sutro Avenue, and for $158,400 to improve East Sir Francis Drake Boulevard around San Quentin Prison.

Suspect Seeking Bail Reduction

Leslie Lee Outley, 27-year-old San Rafael man arrested Dec. 1 by San Rafael police on a burglary warrant issued by Contra Costa County, will request reduction of his $2,875 bail at a hearing Tuesday at 10 a.m. in San Pablo Municipal Court. He is being held in Contra Costa County Jail in Martinez.

Outley was found by police in his car parked halfway in his driveway at 136 Front Street with an open bottle of bourbon on the front seat.

A preliminary hearing has been scheduled for Jan. 2 at 10 a.m. in the same court.

Next Moonwalk Team Rehearses

HILO, Hawaii (AP) — James A. Lovell Jr. and Fred W. Haise, due to be the next two Americans to walk on the moon, are in Hawaii walking on lava fields in preparation for their lunar landing next March in the Apollo 13 mission.

Lovell and Haise started their field study yesterday in the Aloi-Alae crater area, site of the latest eruptions in Kilauea volcano.

The Apollo 13 backup team of John W. Young and Charles M. Duke Jr., along with Jack R. Lousma and Vance D. Brand of the support unit, began geological reviews in another area.

Tiny Tim, Bride Visit Bahamas

FREEPORT, Bahamas (AP) — Along with 20 pieces of luggage and six ukeleles, Tiny Tim and his maxi-dressed bride checked into separate suites here Thursday to start a two-and-one-half-week honeymoon.

In keeping with what the falsetto singer called an Old Testament tradition, he and his 17-year-old wife planned to spend the first three days apart.

Rita Goodman, a hotel spokesman, said Tiny Tim would appear in a night club during the stay.

Officials said the female inspectors would help a labor shortage and "add a welcome touch of glamor for tired tourists."

Mob Attacks Group From U.S. Ship In Turkish Port

IZMIR, Turkey (UPI) — A mob screaming "Yankee go home!" attacked and pummeled a U.S. Navy officer and his enlisted companions today as they attempted to come ashore as the first party from visiting U.S. warships. The sailors fled back to their ship.

Hundreds of leftist students streamed through police cordons at Izmir Harbor as soon as they spotted the first two boats heading in from the guided missile cruiser Columbus, flagship of the five visiting 6th Fleet vessels that arrived today.

Witnesses said they saw one of the attackers strike the unidentified officer on the head with a stick. Others scuffled with the enlisted sailors. The Americans jumped back into their boats and sped back toward the cruiser.

Other protesters battled about 100 riot police in front of local headquarters of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO). Police dispersed them after about 15 minutes of scuffling and reported they had rounded up about 100 demonstrators.

The five U.S. Sixth Fleet ships were paying the first American call to Turkey since a visit that sparked violent demonstrations last February.

Threats by groups of leftist students to keep the U.S. Sixth Fleet sailors physically aboard their ships brought hundreds of police guards to the harbor area and forced the first emissary of the visiting ships to change his protocol plans,

Capt. D. J. J. Downey, commanding officer of the guided missile cruiser Columbus, said he decided to greet Gov. Namik Kemal Senturk and Mayor Osman Kibar at the governor's residence instead of visiting them separately.

Delays On Bill To Foil Nixon Veto

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic leaders indicated today they will delay passage of a $21.4-billion appropriation bill until next month to prevent a pocket veto by President Richard M. Nixon.

The money measure, second only to the defense appropriation bill in size, provides funds to finance the Health, Education and Welfare Department, the Labor Department, and the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Nixon advised Congress late last night that he intends to veto the bill if it is passed in its present form, saying it would add to inflationary pressures.

Democratic senators, after a party caucus, pictured the bill as part of their effort for a reordering of national priorities. They denied any fiscal irresponsibility.

Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said that up to now Congress has cut total appropriations approximately $6 billion below Nixon's budget requests. About $5.5 billion of the reduction is accounted for by the defense bill, he said.

Senate - House conferees were to meet this afternoon to try to compromise the differences between the Senate-House versions of the Labor-HEW appropriation bill.

Mansfield said the most serious consideration is being given to deferring final action on the bill until after Congress returns Jan. 19 from its Christmas recess. In that way, Mansfield said, Congress would be on hand to try to override the President.

Another alternative, Mansfield said, would be for Congress to pass the bill now and then stay in session to await a veto and take a vote on overriding.

Or, he said, Congress could pass the bill and adjourn and let the President, if he wished, pocket veto the bill by not signing it. If this were done, Congress would have to start from scratch on the bill when it returned in January.

Pair Nabbed As Suspects In Burglary Try At Store

Two men were arrested yesterday outside the Disco department store in San Rafael after one of them assaulted the store manager with a 30-30 rifle, police reported today.

Booked into Marin County Jail were Jon Fredric Bangert, 31, 1830 Mar West, Tiburon, on suspicion of burglary, assault with a deadly weapon and an outstanding traffic warrant, and Bernardo Morales Sanchez, 26, of 406 Richardson Street Sausalito on suspicion of possessing marijuana and burglary. Both were held to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

According to police it all started at 8:50 p.m. when Disco manager James E. Mariais, 55, received a telephone call from a Tom Harkelroad, partner of Bangert's in operating a Christmas tree lot. Harkelroad, according to police told the store manager that Bangert was insane and was on his way to the store.

Moments later, police said, Bangert entered the store at 55 Francisco Boulevard, bought a 30-30 rifle and told the manager his partners had cheated him and he was going to shoot them. Bangert according to the report hit Mariais in the chest with the rifle, saying, "I'm going to kill you," and fled in a waiting black limousine.

A patrolman summoned by the store stopped the car and placed Bangert under arrest. Sanchez, a passenger in the car, was found to have two plastic bottles containing marijuana and three bags of hashish in his possession, police said.

Bangert and Sanchez were booked on suspicion of burglary by Sausalito police, according to San Rafael authorities, when a search of the rented limousine disclosed property stolen yesterday between 10 a.m. and 9:30 p.m. from the home of Paul O'Callaghan at 212 Richardon Street.

City Employees Win Big Payoff

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Court of Appeal has ordered the city of Los Angeles to pay $2.7 million in retroactive wages and interest to about 10,000 city employees.

The court ruled yesterday that Mayor Sam Yorty's veto of city council - approved wage increases in 1962 was invalid. The increases were voted under a city charter provision which requires city employees to be paid a wage comparable to that in private industry.

Though the court said litigation in the matter should end with its decision, the city indicated it will appeal to the State Supreme Court.

High School Athlete Convicted Of Murder

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Victor E. Rios, 16-year-old high school football player, has been convicted of the murder of a drive-in restaurant owner.

Rios was found guilty yesterday of murder, robbery and attempted robbery. He was one of five youths accused in the slaying of G. C. Claybrook, 49, owner of a Rio Linda Boulevard drive in.

$5 Billion Plan To Fight Poverty

WASHINGTON (AP) — A two-year, $5 billion extension of the antipoverty program has been agreed to by House and Senate conferees.

The agreement, which now goes to the House and Senate for final approval, eliminates a controversial Senate amendment that gave governors a veto over legal services programs.

The money level approved for the current fiscal year — $2.2 billion — is $150 million over President Richard M. Nixon's budget request.

Yaks Flee, Too

GANGTOK, Sikkim (AP) — Five Tibetan refugees crossed into northern Sikkim with a herd of 79 yaks. Authorities said it was unusual for the refugees to get away with so many of the animals which are so highly valued by the occupying Chinese.

Wedding Ruse By Star's Sister

WALLINGFORD, Pa. (AP) — Prudence Ann Farrow, 21 year old sister of actress Mia Farrow, used some evasion tactics yesterday to ensure her wedding to Albert M. Bruns, 26, was a quiet one.

When it became known that Miss Farrow was to marry the New York teacher at Pendle Hill, a Quaker study center here, at 4 p.m., the couple quietly rescheduled the ceremony for 3 p.m. They were gone before the press or curiosity seekers arrived.

The minister, the Rev. David R. Kibby, of the Unitarian Church of Delaware County, said the wedding was "quiet and fine." The only guests, he said, were Prudence's mother, actress Maureen O'Sullivan, a younger sister, Stephanie, the bridegroom's mother, and a friend.

Kingsley House on Fort George Island east of Jacksonville, Fla. was home of slave trader Zephaniah Kingsley.

Fred Politz Ends A Yule Tradition

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Delicatessen owner Fred Politz of San Rafael, for the 21st and last time, yesterday served free Christmas meals to the downtrodden.

Some 2,000 men and women shuffled into his Mission District liguor and grocery store and were handed a plate of free food, milk and cookies.

Politz, 53, said "Merry Christmas" to each diner, and frequently patted a bent shoulder. A few tried to buy something, but Politz refused their business.

Politz, who moved to Marin in 1962, said this would be his last party for the city people. He has a heart condition, so he and his wife will set up shop in San Rafael at a neighborhood store, the Lincoln Market, which they bought in September.

"They are good people here," Politz said of this San Francisco customers, adding "I've never had any trouble."

One grizzled man commented that "Christmas won't be Christmas without old Fred."

Politz, who has had the Mission District business for 24 years, said he no longer could keep the pace of 20-hour days. In San Rafael, he'll be open only 10 hours a day.

"That's banker's hours," Politz said.

The Liberty Bell is said to have cracked when it was rung summoning the public for the first reading of the Declaration of Independence, but records show it cracked in 1752 just after it had arrived from England.

Daughter Of Paper Boss Abducted, Freed

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — Rosalyn Newhouse, 18, daughter of the general manager of the Springfield newspapers, was abducted by two men early today, police said. She was released a short time later in nearby Agawam.

Her sister Jo, 16, said Agawan police told the family the girl was in good condition.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. Newhouse, went to Springfield, Hospital where the girl was taken after she was found.

Newhouse is a cousin of S. I. Newhouse, founder of the newspaper group.

Police said the girl was returning from work at the Springfield Union, one of the three Newhouse newspapers in Springfield, when her car was forced off the road near her home and she was driven away in a blue and white car.

Police said she apparently was thrown from her captors' car in Agawam and walked to a nearby home and called her mother.

Jo said her sister was picked up by her abductors at 12:25 a.m. and released soon afterward.

Rosalyn is one of five Newhouse children. The others are Jo, Melanie, 13, Wendy, 11, and David, 10.

Jo said her elder sister attended Syracuse University last year as a freshman but decided to work this year at the Springfield newspapers in an effort to decide what she wanted to do.

Rosalyn was described at 5 feet 1 and weighing between 90 and 95 pounds.

Her job at the newspaper was in the composing room, where she worked on paste up and automated typesetting, Jo said.

Richmond Fights Segregation Suit

RICHMOND (UPI) — The Board of Education today asked the Contra Costa County counsel's office to provide legal representation to the defendants in a suit to force immediate desegregation of the Richmond Unified School District.

The board action was announced in a public session last night.

The Contra Costa Legal Services Foundation for 12 elementary school children was filed last week in Federal District Court. The defendants named were the school board members and the district superintendent.

Car Hits Trucks

Thomas S. Lindley, 26, of 608 C Street, San Rafael, was treated for a cut scalp at Marin General Hospital yesterday after he lost control of his car at 10:05 p.m. in front of 26 Woodland Avenue, crashing into three parked trucks owned by Golden West Catering of San Jose, San Rafael police reported today.

Rock Ban Sought By Supervisors

SAN LUIS OBISPO (UPI)—A scheduled rock music festival is only eight days away and county supervisors, remembering the massive turnout of 300,000 persons near Tracy earlier this month, are making and all-out effort to stop it.

An ordinance was passed yesterday preventing assemblies of more than 5,000 persons.

Bill Starne of Atlanta, Ga., coordinator of "Midwinter Pop Festival, Inc.", said the ordinance was unconstitutional. He contacted the attorney general's office today to get a court order enjoining the county from enforcing the ordinance.

Court Speedup Idea

DENVER (AP) — Before retiring in January as chief justice of the Colorado Supreme Court, O. Otto Moore suggested a way of speeding up cases in district courts. He proposed that each side pay $100 into the court treasury in every case lasting beyond 10 days.

Record Debunks Old Saw About Politicos

CHICAGO (AP) — The stereotype of a Congressman as not being very brainy won't stand up against the record.

Commerce Clearing House says more than 400 of the 435 Representatives have college degrees, over half, 219, have law degrees, 32 have at least a master's degree, and 13 have earned more than one advanced degree or a doctorate.

Being Mrs. Paul Grossinger Has Not Always Been Easy

By NAOMI ROCK

NEW YORK (AP) — The lady is down-to-earth and kind of kooky for someone of the over-30 set.

She digs her long-haired teen-age sons, and they dig her.

She's equally at home in her elegant Hotel Plaza suite — wearing slim Jims, cowboy boots and corduroy hat squashed firmly over her pixyish hairdo; or in her own home, in evening gown and hairpiece fall, entertaining the rich and famous.

WITH AN irreverent sense of humor — easily turned upon herself — she's made her way in this "often wretched world," and has spent her 22 years of married life striving to be herself — someone other than just Mrs. Paul Grossinger, daughter-in-law of the indomitable Jenny.

Being a Grossinger has not been easy.

"One feels a special responsibility as a Grossinger," the former Bunny Persky mused, the deepening worry lines around her mouth showing that she just might be the age she readily admits to — 45.

"You can't be a Grossinger without wanting to get your hands in the hotel pie. Sometimes it's a pain in the neck. But sometimes it's just groovy.

"It's like the business of keeping kosher," she continued, crossing one long, slim leg over the other and pushing her hat down closer to the dark, almost impish eyes.

"I come from a rather well integrated Jewish background. As a fourth generation American, Jewish traditions were alien to me until I married Paul. I thought that Grossingers' should be more in keeping with the times — less Jewish. But over the years I've changed."

THE YOUNG Mrs. Grossinger, whose own home on the 1,000 acre hotel grounds is not a kosher one, says that with age has come an understanding of Jewish traditions.

"It's like years ago, when I first met Danny and Sylvia Kaye at the hotel. They sat around and kibbitzed in Yiddish with my in-laws. There was a certain feeling, which I've seen over and over again. . . a felling that they were refurbishing something in the marrow of their bones."

But even so, Bunny maintained, Grossingers' is not strictly a Jewish hotel.

With an amused glint in her eyes, she recalled the time she was startled by a large black funeral hearse pulling up before the hotel. She rushed to the desk to learn what had happened, only to find that the hotel was hosting a funeral directors' convention, and that the hearse was bearing the luggage.

And, speaking of funny stories — there was the time the ever-hospitable Jenny Grossinger met a Japanese diplomat at the United Nations and invited him to be her guest.

KNOWING NOTHING of Grossingers', the diplomat asked directions in New York City, took a bus and turned up one day at the foot of the hotel grounds. A passing taxi driver picked him up, and thinking he was seeking work, dropped him at the hotel's rear door.

"Unfortunately we were hiring that day," Bunny recalls with a pained smile. "The poor man ended up sitting on a bench and filling out papers. He thought this was the American way of doing things.

"He was assigned a room, and when he asked for one with a private bath, he got a rather nasty answer from an incredulous hotel employee. Every time he asked to see Mrs. Grossinger, he was told curtly to 'wait his turn.' He put up with it for about an hour, and then when he'd had enough, and had complained loudly enough, someone discovered the horrible mistake."

In its 55 years of existence Grossingers' has hosted an endless stream of rich and famous: actors, artists, businessmen, writers, politicians, diplomats and others.

For Bunny Grossinger and for her children, being a Grossinger, living on the hotel grounds, has meant a deep-seated loneliness, and a life of working "just a little bit harder" to be accepted for themselves.

"The hotel has changed my life," she said. "Sometimes I've hated it because I think we were robbed of something. Our family didn't have the security of neighbors and close friends. We lived among constantly changing strangers, something I think of as 'the American dream' was never ours."

BUT LIFE at the hotel was often great fun, she continued, recalling the first time she met her screen idol, Van Johnson, but was horrified because he walked in unexpectedly and found her in curlers.

Other times, life was not easy.

"Being a Grossinger has given us a built-in acceptance," she continued. "You get admitted to and invited to, but that's not the best of all possible ways to live."

Particularly for her sons, (Michael, now a college sophmore and James, a high school senior) who were brought up at the hotel, learning to be something aside from a Grossinger has taken some doing.

"They had a swimming pool and skating rink, so they made friends easily," she recalled. "They had to work at being themselves, at being accepted for themselves. They've turned out just fine," she said, a hint of a proud smile creasing her college-girl complexion.

HER CHILDREN are grown now; they're leaving the nest. As many American women who've devoted 20 or more years to raising and caring for a family, Bunny Grossinger is looking for another way to find fulfillment. She's been lucky.

"I'm a greedy lady," Bunny joked. "I can't settle for fillers. I could take up mah jong now, only I'm a lousy card player.

"You have to have something to love and live for and you're enormously lucky if you find something. Three years ago I went to Israel and fell in love with the country.

"Somehow, I'm not sure exactly how yet, I felt cemented to my people. I'm going to work for Israel from this country. It will become my work, as my mother-in-law's hotel was her work."

Giving Gifts Of Antique Junk Is Catching On

For one of a kind, priceless gifts that will increase in value from Christmas to Christmas, many shoppers are looking for antique junk in Marin's many shops full of such treasures.

As one shop owner said, "They can't go to Macy's and find out how much it cost," and chances of finding something they don't already have are great.

"More people are buying this kind of gift instead of new ones," said one antique shop owner who is experiencing a Christmas rush. Some come looking for specific items to add to a collection.

"A lady came in this morning and bought all the cats I had and a lady came in this afternoon and bought all the mice," she said.

Among this year's hot items are old mugs and cigar tins which are now both used to hold cigars. Also iron stone, china and tin plates and dishes printed with blue patterns.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Weekends Are Drudgery For Her, Playtime With Neighbors For Him

DEAR HELEN:

Our neighbors have a son who plays college football. Every Saturday during the season, my husband went with them to the games. Because their two daughters went along, too, there was no room in the car for me. I'm not fond of football, but I would like the right of refusal. Especially when one daughter is 25, single, pretty, and a flirt.

Now that the football season is over, it's ice hockey, or some other sport — and often the parents don't go — just the girls, with my husband as Mr. Nice-Guy escort. He's 36 and looks younger. I'm 34 and keep myself up, but I'm no match for a 25-year-old. Even if I were invited along, I couldn't spend a whole Saturday away from home and kids, and housework. I have an outside job and must clean on weekends. If I had a man to help, the housework wouldn't spill over into Sunday.

People are beginning to talk, although I know my husband doesn't think of this girl in that way — yet. I am beginning to hate weekends. How can I stop this before it starts something?

—SATURDAY CHILLED

DEAR S.C.:

Why not have a confidential talk with your neighbors — and your husband? But at different times and on different levels. Tell the girl's parents you've heard some talk (though of course you don't believe it . . .), then plan a special weekend trip for two (the housework be hanged).

Once you break the Saturday chain, it may stay broken, especially if you stop looking on weekends as pure drudgery. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

There's a man on our block who is building a boat in which he wants to travel around the world, all by himself. He figures it will take him a year and a half of sailing, and the boat isn't big enough for two, so his wife can't go along. Not that any sane woman would want to.

What gets me is, why did this fellow get married if he's so hell bent on being alone? Why is it the adventurer who gets these wild ideas is almost always the married man? — READER

DEAR READER:

The answer is self-evident, but not the one you want. I'll pass — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Regarding this sex education business. It should be left up to the parents. This is such a difficult and sensitive subject that I'm afraid we don't have teachers with adequate training. It would take a very special person to conduct sex education classes in the right way, and few are qualified. — R.D.

DEAR R:

But all parents automatically are qualified to teach this difficult subject? How I wish that were true. — H.

Mrs. Stryker Warren Will Head Sausalito Episcopal Church Group

Mrs. Stryker Warren, president-elect of St. Brigid's Guild of Sausalito's Christ Episcopal Church, has long been active in Episcopal church work, though she has been a member of the local guild only a little more than two years.

She and her husband, who is an insurance underwriter with the California Western States Life Insurance Company with offices in San Rafael, have lived in Sausalito since 1966. Before that they lived in New York City.

The incoming president, who succeeds Mrs. George R. Chapman, believes the most important purposes of the guild are to help the rector in any program in which women can be of service and to interest women of the church in the diocese and national church.

A graduate of St. Margaret's in Waterbury, Conn., Edith Warren was employed eight years on the secretarial staff of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York City.

The Warrens, who have no children, share interests in music and boating — they have a cruiser, the "Zee."

Mrs. Warren says she likes reading, especially poetry, more than anything else and also enjoys traveling and gardening.

Other officers to be installed in January with Mrs. Warren are Mmes. Willard A. Hall, vice president; John Hinman, secretary, and A. C. Lyon, treasurer.

If The Tree Still Needs Ornaments, Use Tin Cans

AP Newsfeature

Get rid of those empty cans cluttering up your kitchen, and enliven your Christmas tree at the same time. Dyed in all-purpose fabric dye and cut with wire cutters or by punching with a can opener, the cans make marvelous tree ornaments.

Any rough edges can be covered by spraying with a clear plastic coating. Fasten ornaments to tree with wire or transparent thread.

To dye cans, reports Lady's Circle magazine, pull top tabs and can lids. Prepare a dye solution of liquid or powder dye. (Follow directions for dye selected.)

In an enamel or glass pot, add cans or lids to dye solution and simmer for five to six minutes until desired color is reached. Remove items, rinse and let dry. The dye is absorbed by the lacquer coating on the cans and as this coating varies with each can, many effects will be obtained.

A variety of cans can be used for making ornaments. Lightweight aluminum cans are especially easy to cut or puncture. For larger ornaments, use top and sides of can, cutting evenly-spaced strips in sides and bending strips up.

With glue for metal, attach smaller tabs for center decoration. Use pull-top tabs from beverage cans, dyed and linked together, for chains. Small juice-can lids, when dyed and punctured with a can opener, can be fitted around small tree lights to act as colorful reflectors. A nail or ice pick can be used to form a center hole through which to place the light.

Vinyl Floor

A good rule of thumb when cleaning vinyl floors: Use the least harsh method necessary to restore an attractive appearance. In other words, don't wash when a damp mopping will do the job. And don't damp mop when dry mopping, vacuuming or sweeping will suffice.

Two Fairfax Dogs Shot By Neighbor

Two long-haired shepherd dogs have been shot and killed in Fairfax by a resident who said the animals were attacking livestock on his property.

A member of a neighboring family which owned the dogs charged, yesterday, however, that the shepherds were "shot outright."

The Marin County Humane Society is investigating.

Gilbert R. Murphy of Bolinas Road told a Humane Society investigator he shot the dogs Wednesday with a rifle shortly after 10 a.m. when they attacked chickens and a pony on his property. A third dog escaped injury.

Mrs. C. L. Pedroni of 26 Bosque Road, whose son, Mike, owned the dogs, said the three pets unexpectedly fled their property and ran toward the Meadow Club, a short distance away. She and her husband, a fire captain at Fort Cronkhite, gave chase, she said, later hearing shots.

One dog was found lying in Bolinas Road.

"They had never been on his property before . . . they were not vicious, not wild dogs and they would only bark for protection," Mrs. Pedroni said. She believed Murphy mistook her son's animals for other dogs in the neighborhood.

Both of the dead animals were about 8 months old.

Clinic On Bible Starts Tonight

Under study will be "The letter of James," a newly published commentary by Clayton K. Harrop, professor of New Testament interpretation at the seminary.

Boosters Set Symposium On Transport

The Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau and the Redwood Empire Association are planning a symposium, possibly to be held March, on future transportaion needs in the region.

The symposium, which will be held in Marin, was unanimously endorsed at yesterday's meeting of directors of the chamber and visitors bureau, manager Carroll A. Snyker reported.

The symposium will cover all aspects of transportation, Snyker said, including a second crossing for San Francisco Bay, a second deck for the Golden Gate Bridge, the question of bus or ferry transportation to San Francisco and a lane being reserved on Highway 101 for bus traffic.

Directors also unanimously voted to urge board of supervisors to dissolve Fair-Marin and place it under county jurisdiction, Snyker said. This would give the county "a fighting chance to save money," Snyker said.

Water Watchdogs Delay Chemical Rules

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The State Water Resources Control Board yesterday delayed adoption of regulations to control chemicals used on shoreline or waterway oil spills after hearing objections from chemical manufacturers.

A new law enacted last summer gave the state authority for the first time to regulate chemicals and other oil collection or dispersion agents used against oil spills.

Hal Kasden, a Santa Barbara chemical distributor, told the board the proposed controls were "drawn purely on an emotional basis to satisfy certain groups."

"Chemicals have been branded as the worst thing to put on an oil spill. Nothing could be further from the truth . . . Chemicals are the only safe, practical, effective way" to control spills, Kasden said.

Dr. William H. McNeely of Ara Chem of El Cajon objected to supervision of the use of chemicals by the Department of Fish and Game because of that department's "zealous devotion to one top priority . . . the protection of fish."

Board chairman Kerry Mulligan called for adoption of the regulations as soon as possible after the Jan. 1, 1970 effective date of the legislation and set Jan. 8 for hearing on revised controls.

"I think we are under the gun to act," he said.

Malaysian Role For Terra Linda Youth

Terra Linda High School will represent Malaysia at the North American Model United Nations Conference Feb. 19-22 in Washington, D. C.

Terra Linda students were selected for the national conference because of the school's success since 1960 at the Model United Nations at the University of California at Berkeley.

The 10-student team is studying information sent to them by the Malaysia consulate in San Francisco in preparation for the session, reported Albert Gautraud, group advisor.

The group is now seeking financial support from the community since it will coast $4,000 in expenses for the 10 students, Gautraud reported.

There will be a dance for adults Jan. 25 at the Noncommissioned Officers Club at Hamilton Air Force Base as a fund raising event toward meeting the expenses, he said.

The student council at Terra Linda High School has contributed $2,000, and the Terra Linda Lions Club has contributed $100 toward the trip, Gautraud reported.

Job Directories In Hub Library

Copies of "Summer Employment Directory of the United States 1970" and "Directory of Overseas Summer Jobs 1970" are available at the San Anselmo Public Library, 110 Tunstead Avenue, a library spokesman announced today.

Eighty thousand summer job openings in the United States and Canada are listed in the 1970 directory. The jobs, at resorts, summer camps, national parks, summer theaters, ranches and restaurants, are available to high school seniors, college students and teachers.

Fifty thousand job openings in England, Scotland, Ireland, Germany, France and other European countries are listed in an overseas directory, the library said.

Pleads Guilty To A Morals Charge

Peter J. Hawkins of San Rafael pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on one count of a lewd and lascivious act with a child, but five additional charges of the same offense that allegedly took place in Novato last year and earlier this year were dismissed.

He was ordered to appear in Marin Superior Court Jan. 12 for setting of a sentencing date.

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The Marin Motion Picture and Television Council provides these ratings of movies currently being shown in Marin County. The council's findings are from the California and National Parent-Teachers Association magazines and the Film Report of the Film Estimate Board unless otherwise noted. More complete reviews may be obtained by calling the San Rafael Library.

FAMILY

"Hard Days Night" — Beatles first film about the predicaments they get into when trying to have a little fun between their stage shows.

"Help" — The Beatles sing, play and clown their way through England, the Bahamas and the Alps.

"Ring of Bright Water" — Comic account of the trials and triumphs of raising a pet otter. Exquisite color photography of London and the Highlands.

"2001: Space Odyssey" — A long epic space adventure that is a fantastic and overwhelming experience that moves from prehistoric man to a space journey with a lifelike computer at the controls. The ending is subject to any interpretation the viewer may put on it.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Alice's Restaurant" — Thought provoking true happening in New England village in 1964-1967. Story told with implied criticism of Establishment and its follies, shows the immature, uncommitted, unmotivated hippies in their own milieu, enjoying their "pot" with sexual abandon and harming only themselves. For the most mature teens only.

"Beyond the Time Barrier" — Test piolt breaks time barrier and lands in the year 2024 and sees the results of a worldwide epidemic of 1970. Sets are interesting.

"Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid" — Script based on true story of two bandits told in farcical tone but documentary in presentation. Film does not deny the violence attendant on their lives and deaths. Memorable performances from cast. Good dialogue.

"Charly" — Poignant dramatization of a fictional case history of first human subject of a new type of brain surgery on a mentally retarded young man. Thought-provoking, sensitive performances from the cast.

"How Sweet It Is" — A broad marital farce about the sex life of a middle-aged couple while acting as chaperones on a students' group tour of Europe.

"Journey to the Seventh Planet" — Science fiction of an exploratory trip to a foreign planet and attempts to destroy alien forces there.

"Planet of the Apes" — Provocative mixture of comedy, satire and melodramatic but cynical science fiction about our astronauts who crash land on a desolate planet in an era 2,000 years hence.

"Planet of the Vampires" — Eerily photographed, atmospheric science fiction of space ship seeking lost comrades on planet where strange powers control minds.

"Voyage to the End of the Universe" — Misadventures of 25th Century travelers enroute to "green planet" aboard a deluxe space ship. (Parents Magazine.)

"With Six You Get Eggroll" — Hard fought merger of a widow with three sons and a widower with teen-age daughter is delayed a while by their disapproving brood. Plot amusing but ethics are confused.

BORDERLINE
(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Dirty Dozen" — Twelve convicts are offered clemency if they can complete a near suicidal mission just before D-Day in 1944. Pace is nerve wracking, much sadistic brutality shown but is very well acted by excellent cast.

"Gypsy Moths" — Sky divers in mid-air acrobatics are featured in this well photographed film. Nudity, explicit sex scenes in an ellicit love story make film suitable only for the mature.

ADULTS ONLY

"Easy Rider" — Ballad of a cross-country odyssey: two hippie motorcyclists encounter a wide range of people, some beautiful, some horrifying. Film suffers from an overlong LSD sequence and some plot inconsistencies. Poetically photographed.

"I Am Curious, Yellow" — Laborious Swedish social expose which received undue publicity when seized by U.S. Customs because of its explicit treatment of total male and female nudity, intercourse and oral-genital contact. (Parents Magazine.)

"Midnight Cowboy" — Offbeat, hard-hitting story of a male prostitute and a crippled hustler who meet on New York's seedy side. Sordidness is tempered by skill and compassion, told in an uncompromising way.

"Thomas Crown Affair" — Plotting and execution of big bank robbery is ingenious. Criminal and investigator become involved in torrid love affair. Crime pays well in this case. Very modern treatment. All phases of immorality are taken for granted.

By a strange quirk the only times the States were divided the two divisions were headed by presidents from the same state. Abraham Lincoln president of the U.S. and Jefferson Davis, Confederate president were born in Kentucky.

Rex Harrison, Wife Separate

LONDON (UPI)—Rex Harrison, 61, is living apart from his wife, actress Rachel Roberts, 41, his lawyer announced yesterday.

The attorney, Bryan Eagles, said Harrison had instructed him to make the announcement.

"In view of certain rumors that have begun to circulate about his marriage to Miss Roberts, he has authorized me to announce that he and his wife are living separate and apart," Eagles said.

Advice Is Sought On Extra School Uses

The Larkspur School District board asked last night for an opinion from the county counsel's office on outside use of district schools.

Supt. Milton S. Cohen said two persons in the audience at last night's board meeting objected to use of the Larkspur-Corte Madera School last weekend in connection with the Vietnam War protest.

"We're trying to get cut and dried regulations on use," Cohen said.

The Larkspur School District board also:

SIDEWALK — Authorized a joint agreement with the City of Larkspur for repair of the Magnolia Avenue sidewalk at the Larkspur-Corte Madera School. The district insurance carrier advised the repairs, Cohen said. At the same time, the city will make repairs to Magnolia Avenue itself, he said. The school district's share of the sidewalk work will not exceed $1,800.

NEGOTIATIONS — Took final action on rules under which teacher salary negotiations will be conducted.

KINDERGARTEN — Authorized hiring an additional kindergarten teacher, effective Feb. 1, to comply with state law under which kindergarten sessions must be 180 minutes.

INITIATIVE — Took no action on a drive by the California Teachers Association to force the state, by constitutional initiative, to provide 50 per cent of the financial support for local schools.

REPORT — Heard from Cohen that parent attendance was 98 per cent at parent-teacher conferences and that students in the first, second, third and sixth grade finished in the top 10 per cent in recent statewide tests.

BARRY — Instructed staff to write a letter of appreciation to Denise Barry, 9-year-old student at Henry C. Hall School who has undertaken a city cleanup project.

Two Hurt In Ramp Accident

Two persons were injured, neither seriously, in a two-car accident of the Highway 101 ramp to Tamalpais drive in Corte Madera yesterday, the California Highway Patrol reported.

To see their own physicians for minor injuries were Stella Maria Giannaras, 62, of 45 Tamal Vista Drive, Corte Madera, and Glory Cumming, 42, of 50 Ridgecrest Road, Kentfield.

Mrs. Giannaras was the driver of a car which struck one driven by George Warden Cumming, 51, of Kentfield, in the 10:10 a.m. accident. Cumming's car apparently was stalled on the ramp, the patrol said, but other circumstances of the wreck were unclear.

Bruce Lashes State Groups' Tax Proposal

The so-called "tax reform" initiative, sponsored by the California Teachers Association and the County Supervisors Association of California, "would benefit few and penalize many," County Administrator Alan R. Bruce decalred today.

"It is not a tax reform measure. It is a tax increase and tax shift measure," Bruce asserted. "It aims to wipe out the middle class." He said most Marin residents would end up paying $60 to as much as $700 more in taxes each year.

SUPPORT REFUSED

The county supervisors association had asked the Marin County Board of Supervisors to back the initiative, but Marin supervisors this week said nothing doing.

The supervisors indicated they would take active opposition if necessary.

In brief, the initiative would increase state contribution to schools and welfare funding wiuthout specifying where the state will get that extra money.

In his analysis, Bruce declared:

"The state director of finance and the state legislative analyst have estimated that, in the first year, the measure would increase state costs, and thereby state taxes by $1.13 billion. The cost will increase annually thereafter."

Bruce concluded that to raise the extra $1.13 billion, the state would be forced to raise other taxes such as income and sales taxes.

Driver Injured

A Petaluma man was injured yesterday at 6:30 p.m. when his car went into a ditch on Magnolia Avenue near Keokuk Street, Petaluma. Frank Bonomolo, 23, of 890 Cherry Street, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital for a head cut. Police had no details of the accident.

Zone Talks Set For Willow Creek

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — A public hearing on the rezoning of the Willow Creek property on the north edge of Petaluma was set last night for Jan. 15 at 4 p.m. by the Sonoma County Planning Commission.

Willow Creek Properties Inc. requested that its property at 5225 Old Redwood Highway, opposite McDowell Boulevard North, be rezoned from agriculture to retail business-commercial.

The Petaluma Planning Commission this week recommended that the rezoning be approved and that annexation of the land be considered.

Commerce Secretary Received By Tito

ZAGREB, Yugoslavia (AP) — President Tito Friday received Maurice H. Stans, U.S. secretary of commerce who is on visit to Yugoslavia.

Stans is the first member of President Richard M. Nixon's cabinet to make an official visit to this country. It is designed to promote trade and economic relations.

Petaluma Bond Ballot Second Try March 3

The Petaluma $1 million street and fire department improvement bond election has been set for March 3 by the city's bond attorneys.

The election will include a $200,000 issue for a new fire station on South McDowell Boulevard at Berrydale Drive and an addition to the central station on D Street.

A street improvement issue totaling $800,000 would include improvement of Caulfield Lane from South McDowell Boulevard to Highway 101 where the state would build an overpass. It would also widen Lakeville Highway and Hopper Street to D Street.

Both measures appeared on a bond election in June and were defeated, although both received more than a majority vote.

City Clerk Lillian Nommsen said that registration for the special election will close Jan. 8. Would-be voters may register at the city hall or at either fire station.

Truck Stolen

A white pickup truck and camper, license ZIX-405, belonging to Arthur A. Bayles of 1427 Dawes Street, Novato, was taken from the frontage road beside highway 101, south of Ignacio overpass sometime between 6:45 a.m. and 6:20 p.m. yesterday, according to police reports.

Nixon Attracts Top TV Audience

NEW YORK (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon's news conference Monday, Dec. 8, was the top-rated television program for that week in the Nielsen 70-city survey.

The 30-minute news conference was seen on all networks, but the rating was for NBC. The rating was 29.9.

The news conference edged out the "Hans Brinker" special on NBC and "Marcus Welby" on ABC, which tied for No. 2 with 27.3.

Outlawed Animals Brought Into Marin As Pets

CUTE PEST — This tiny rodent, a gerbil, is a cuddlesome thing, but he spells big trouble. Gerbils are prolific and voracious. Their raids on grain have meant famine in parts of the world.

Catfish Walking Around?

By ALAN JONES

The name Clarias batrachus doesn't turn anybody on, but mention a walking catfish and you have everyone's interest.

The fish has been banned in California as a potential pest and danger to existing aquatic life, but there may be dozens of them in Marin, legally imported and sold before the ban.

A perfect albino specimen of the amazing amphibious fish is alive and well in a 300-gallon tank at Aquatics from Paradise, at pet shop run by John Dauksha at 5589 Paradise Drive, Corte Madera.

Dauksha's fish, which he bought as a fingerling two and a half years ago, has grown from a pencil-thin inch and a half to a two-foot fish as big around as a Willie McCovey bat.

The walking catfish has become a pest in southern Florida, where it literally walked out of captivity and into the open waterways that line the area from Miami to Lake Okeechobee. Brought in from Asia as an aquarium curiosity, the voracious lung-bearing fish is now accused of wiping out domestic fish where it competes with them.

Because of Florida'a experience, California banned the catfish this year, the prohibition taking effect six weeks ago.

But until three or four months ago, Dauksha said, he did a brisk business in the curious fish, which he said is useful as a scavenger in large fish tanks. Like other catfish, it is a bottom feeder and will clean up organic debris.

But because it grows to two or three feet in length, it needs a big tank to live in. And any fish in the same tank with it had better be too big to eat, or the catfish will eradicate them, Dauksha said.

His fish is living peacefully with two big oscars, which look like giant carp, angel fish and a few other species.

The fish had been known in Florida to walk as far as a quarter-mile to find a new pond, and apparently can live out of water indefinitely if its body stays wet.

The catfish has two sets of gills and a lung, and it will suffocate if kept underwater away from the air. It breathes in quick trips to the surface when it takes on a fresh gulp of air, discharging the exhausted air an instant before.

On some of its zooms to the surface, Dauksha said, the fish has knocked the top off the tank and plummeted to the floor. When that happens, the fish may be found hours later, apparently moribund because it has dried out. But when dropped back in the water, it revives immediately, he said.

Dauksha said he was served notice Wednesday by the Fish and Game Department to ship the fish out of the state or turn it over to be destroyed. But he plans to ask the state for a permit to keep the fish for display purposes.

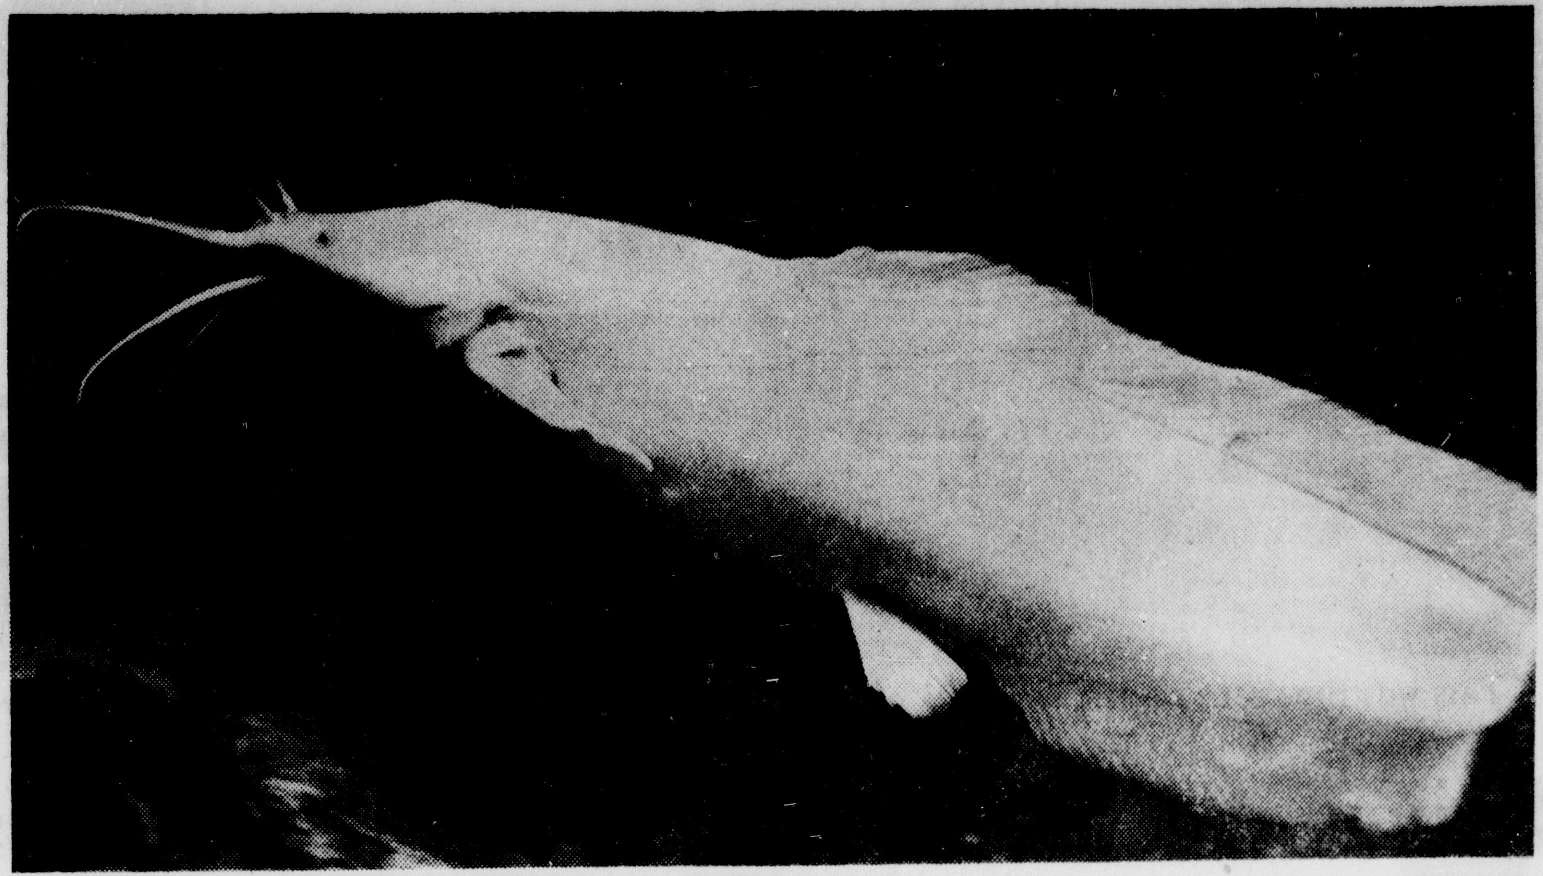
The same sort of permit, he said, has been issued to many pet shops to keep piranha, the deadly South American flesh-eaters.

Although unable to get the catfish in recent months, Dauksha said he had sold "a hell of a lot" of them in this area.

If not permitted to keep the fish, Dauksha said, he will donate it to Steinhart Aquarium, which has several of them already and is permitted to have them as a public institution.

Russell Ilds, fish and game warden, said the walking catfish is illegal even in pet shops. The new law, he said, requires the fish be destroyed or returned to the distributor.

Dauksha said the fish is still sold by distributors in the east and midwest, but not to California shops. California wholesalers will not handle the fish any more, he said.



STRANGER IN PARADISE — This walking catfish, a tiny fingerling 30 months ago, has grown to two feet in its aquarium at a pet shop on Paradise Drive in Corte Madera. Now an outlaw in California, his days are numbered, but there may be many of his ilk here and there in Marin.

CAR DONATED

Gifts To Huskey Family Continue

The outpouring of concern and aid for the Bill Huskey family continued yesterday as Marin County residents offered food, money and even a car to the homeless family.

Bill and Joy Huskey and their five children were rescued Wednesday from their leaky tent in Samuel P. Taylor Park where they had been camping for the past two weeks because they had been unable to find a house to rent after a streak of misfortune had left them homeless, jobless and sick.

Although temporarily housed in a summer home in Inverness, the Huskeys are still searching for a permanent home at the $150 a month rent they can afford.

Mrs. Huskey said today that the Marin County Real Estate Board donated $100 to a fund for the family and has promised to aid in the search for a home.

The First Presbyterian Church of San Rafael has agreed to administer a fund for the family, but church officials said they would be able only to accept money donations and not those of food, clothing or Christmas presents for the five children, ranging in age from 2 to 12.

Sally Stanford, owner of the Valhalla restaurant in Sausalito, yesterday offered $1,000 toward payment on a new home.

And a young Tamalpais Valley couple, also living on a small income, yesterday gave the Huskeys their Rambler station wagon after hearing that the family car had broken down Tuesday.

"They said they were going to sell the car because they needed the money, but decided to give it to us because, they said, we needed it more," Mrs. Huskey said.

"They're like so many of the people who have called. Most of those who have wanted to help have had their own troubles, too," she said.

Aid May Be Sliced To Marin City CSD

The Marin County Housing Authority is reconsidering the level of its financial assistance to the Marin City Community Services District because of the district's low level of activity, Wallace K. Shepherd, assistant secretary of the authority, reported today.

The authority board, meeting in Marin City Wednesday night, delayed any action, however, until next month after the community services district board meets with its new members.

The CSD board last night seated two new members, Gussie Blakeley and C. J. Williams. CSD board member Frank Phillips Sr. said Douglas Quiett Jr. will continue as chairman. Doretha Mitchell is the fifth member.

No formal actions were taken by the CSD board last night.

In other action Wednesday night, housing authority trustees agreed to meet with the Marin City Tenants Council at St. Andrew United Presbyterian Church at 8 p.m. Jan. 8 to discuss the authority's occupancy policies.

The authority also authorized the expenditure of $3,100 for a contract with architect Morris Finisy for architectural services and $2,700 for a contract with Gayner Engineers for outdoor lighting services.

The Marin County Redevelopment Agency, also scheduled to meet Wednesday night, did not meet because of a lack of quorum.

Driver Is Fair From Span Crash

Peter Paul Stevens Jr., 43, of Point Reyes Station, was reported in fair condition at Kaiser Foundation Hospital's intensive care unit in San Francisco today with a head injury suffered when his car was hit from the rear, then rammed a Greyhound commuter bus on Golden Gate Bridge yesterday.

The highway patrol said Stevens' car was hit in the rear by a car driven by Ronald Edgar Little, 39, of 2071 Huckleberry Road, San Rafael, then hit the rear of a bus driven by Dan M. Smith, 44, of 841 Deca Decanso Way, San Rafael.

The 6:30 p.m. mishap occurred during a light rain, the patrol said.

Motel Items Stolen

Pots, pans, silverware, dishes and a coffee pot, with a total value of $75, were stolen Dec. 13 from the Colonial Motel, 1735 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael police reported today.

Cuddly Rat Is Under Quarantine

A cuddly-looking rat called the Gerbil (pronounced Jerble) may look friendly and harmless, but it is so destructive it has been outlawed under the state Fish and Game Code, County Agricultural Commissioner R. Allan Ballard warned today.

One such Gerbil, at Redwood High School, is now under quarantine and to be used only for educational purposes, said Ballard.

The Gerbil is barred from the state except by prior permit from the Department of Fish and Game, and only for scientific and educational purposes.

It is a sand rat from Asia and Africa and such a voracious destroyer that it has caused food shortages and even famine in Asia, Asia Minor and North Africa, said Ballard.

Gerbils eat grain, seed and roots, and burrow extensively in the soil. They have bright black eyes, brown soft fur and a gentle disposition.

They reproduce prolifically. A female can produce a litter of three to eight young every 30 days.

"If brought into California as pets, eventually some would escape," said Ballard. "Once established in the wild state, our crops, irrigation systems and recreational environment would be seriously impaired."

Tam Valley Fugitive Eludes Posse

A widespread manhunt for a man suspected of burglary and car theft in a heavily wooded area of Tamalpais Valley proved fruitless yesterday afternoon, sheriff's deputies reported.

Armed units of the sheriff's office, California Highway Patrol and the Mill Valley police fruitlessly combed the area near Shoreline Highway and Loring Avenue for several hours. The stolen car the suspect was driving ran off the road there.

Deputies said the man was surprised during an attempted burglary of a home near Olema when the occupant returned home. Roadblocks were set up in West and South Marin yesterday morning and a deputy spotted the suspect somewhere west of Mill Valley shortly before noon and gave chase.

After his car ran off the road, the suspect fled on foot.

Action Taken To Protect Tennis Court Players

The Sausalito Recreation Commission last night came down on the side of the little guy by recommending that it be made a misdeameanor to chase someone off a tennis court.

Public Works, Director Norman Wohlschlaeger said the commission made the recommendation to the city council because of the fact that older people frequently order young people off the courts so they can play tennis.

In other action, the commission reviewed proposed bylaws for the youth center and approved criteria for redoing Tiffany Park at the end of North Street. The commission also approved maps of bicycle paths in the city and sent them to the council with a recommendation for installation of signs.

This was the scene on Highway 101 after the last of three crashes caused in the Novato area, the highway patrol said, by a Woodacre motorist. Three persons were hurt.

Driver Accused Of Three Wrecks

A 42-year-old Woodacre man was booked for felony hit-and-run driving last night after he caused three separate accidents in North Marin, the California Highway Patrol said. Three persons were injured.

Held for arraignment this afternoon with no bail set was Gerald Thomas Fisher.

Police said Fisher's car sideswiped a car driven by John Martin Ferguson, 25, of 1045 Bel Marin Keys Boulevard, in Bel Marin Keys at 4:10 p.m. He didn't stop, the patrol said, but proceeded onto Highway 101, then onto eastbound Highway 37.

Tisher then turned his car around on Highway 37 and headed west in the eastbound lanes back onto the ramp to Highway 101. There, a car driven by Janet Sue Jones, 22, Reed Boulevard, Mill Valley, swerved to avoid him and overturned, the patrol said. Her year-old-son Jeffrey, was treated at Marin General Hospital for a bump on the head.

Fisher then went into the northbound lanes of Highway 101 heading south and struck a car driven by Cindy Margaret Lawrence, 16, of 26 Soreno Drive, Novato, caromed off and hit head-on a car driven by Robert Jon Steele, 32, of 7 Mary Lane, Corte Madera. A fourth car, driven by an unidentified motorist, also was involved. Steele was reported in satisfactory condition at Novato General Hospital today with a possible fractured hip, a cut on the head and possible internal injuries.

Miss Lawrence's brother, Michael, 13, was to see his own doctor for unspecified injuries.

After hitting Steele's car, the patrol said, Fisher fled on foot and apparently hitchhiked home. His wife later took him to Marin General where he was treated for a cut and hospital authorities called police.

Swedish Star To Wed U.S. Soldier

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — Swedish movie star Camilla Sparv and Herbert Hoover III, grandson of the founder of Hoover Vacuum Cleaner Co., will be married here tomorrow.

Hoover arrived yesterday from Germany, where he has been stationed with the U.S. Army. The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Sparv, arrived from Sweden.

The wedding will be in the fashionable Church by the Sea, with a reception later at the Indian Creek Country Club.

Mammoth Banquet Hall In New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Coliseum's banquet and dining facility — the largest in Manhattan — utilizes a recently expanded kitchen that can serve 5,000 people at one sitting. At the center of the all-gas-fueled kitchen that occupies a block and a half of space is a giant precision oven weighing more than nine tons.

The rotary oven can prepare thousands of pounds of meat or poultry at a time, and it is programmed so that every portion receives equal degrees of heat.

Chilean Jet Ordered To Fly To Cuba

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI)—A Chilean LAN Airlines jet with 98 persons aboard was hijacked today by an unidentified armed man and ordered to fly to Cuba. It was the year's 61st hijacking and the 30th of a Latin American aircraft.

LAN said the jet, a Boeing 727, would have to make several refueling stops en route to Havana. At the first of these, Arica, the hijacker permitted 15 women and children passengers to disembark.

In addition to Africa, the plane will refuel at Lima, Peru; Guayaquil, Ecuador, and Panana City, Panama.

A LAN spokesman said the hijacking occurred shortly after takeoff from Santiago on the flight to Arica and a refueling stop.

On Nov. 12 a LAN airliner was hijacked by two youths, 15 and 16, but they were overpowered by the crew in flight after the passengers had been released at a refueling stop.

The two boys have since been made wards of a juvenile court.

That was LAN's first hijack and afterward the company announced that a prepared plan had been put into action against the hijackers during the episode.

Youth Chased, Held On Rash Of Holdups

A 20-year-old San Francisco youth was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of car theft and armed robbery of a San Anselmo service station.

Donald Earnest Steward was arrested at 9:40 p.m. by San Anselmo police who said they found $51 in his pockets, allegedly stolen from Bob Brogioli's Richfield Station, 100 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

Police said Stewart is wanted in connection with five other service station robberies, two in Campbell, Santa Clara County; two in Santa Clara and one in Santa Rosa. Military authorities have notified the Marin County Sheriff's office that Stewart has been listed as absent without leave since Oct. 25.

Police were alerted to the robbery by the station attendant, Larry Lindelli, who fled while the robber was in the station's men's room collecting the money he had ordered the attendant to leave there.

Lindelli said Stewart had told him not to resist, because two men armed with rifles were covering him from the street. Lindelli's brother, Bryan Lindelli, arrived at the station during the robbery, followed the suspect after he left the station, caught him and turned him over to police.

Stewart struggled with the officers and had to be handcuffed.

He was held to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

Czech Aftermath Snags SALT Talk

HELSINKI, (AP) — The snag in the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks is linked to the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia, diplomatic sources here said today.

The SALT talks have continued beyond their expected conclusion date because of disagreement on a site for full-scale negotiations next year. The Soviet insists on Helsinki, while the United States prefers Vienna, Austria.

Diplomatic sources said the dispute has little to do with the facilities or convenience of the two cities but relates primarily to what happened after Soviet armies poured into Czechoslovakia in August 1968.

SOAPSTONE CARVING — Roberta Beecher, student at the Lu Sutton School in Novato, gets a closer look at the hunter and bear carved by Lucas Merkuratsuk, a student at the Moravian School in Nain, Labrador.

ESKIMO OR MARINITE

Pupils Communicate Through Art Works

By LAURA DEVENDORF

If you asked a child in Marin to draw a picture of the biggest things in his life he'd probably come up with a car, a house and an enormous TV set. But not the Eskimo children in Labrador's Dog Teeth Mountains.

This is much to the delight of Marin school children who have recently been touring the Louise A. Boyd Museum in San Rafael. Marin youngsters really seem to relate to the exhibit of drawings, soapstone carvings and embroidery created by students at the Moravian School in Nain. For while showing an unfamiliar snow-blanketed environment dotted with huskies, sleds, seals, snow shoes, parkas and polar bears, the art has all the reality and disarming honesty of a child's point of view.

There are other interesting distinctions beyond the environmental ones.

Eskimo students pay exacting attention to detail. Meticulously drawn Mounties file by a equally exact housing compound and when one of the group is portrayed as having flaming red hair, you'd better believe he did.

The tracking, trapping and killing of animals is also definite. While Eskimos now have canned goods, game for them is still for food and not for sport. Therefore, hunting to the Eskimo child artist is unemotionally routine, rather than the blood-chilling "no-no" our children are coming to believe.

Unlike most American children, Eskimos always draw shadows for everything and frequently show objects partially chopped off by the edge of the page.

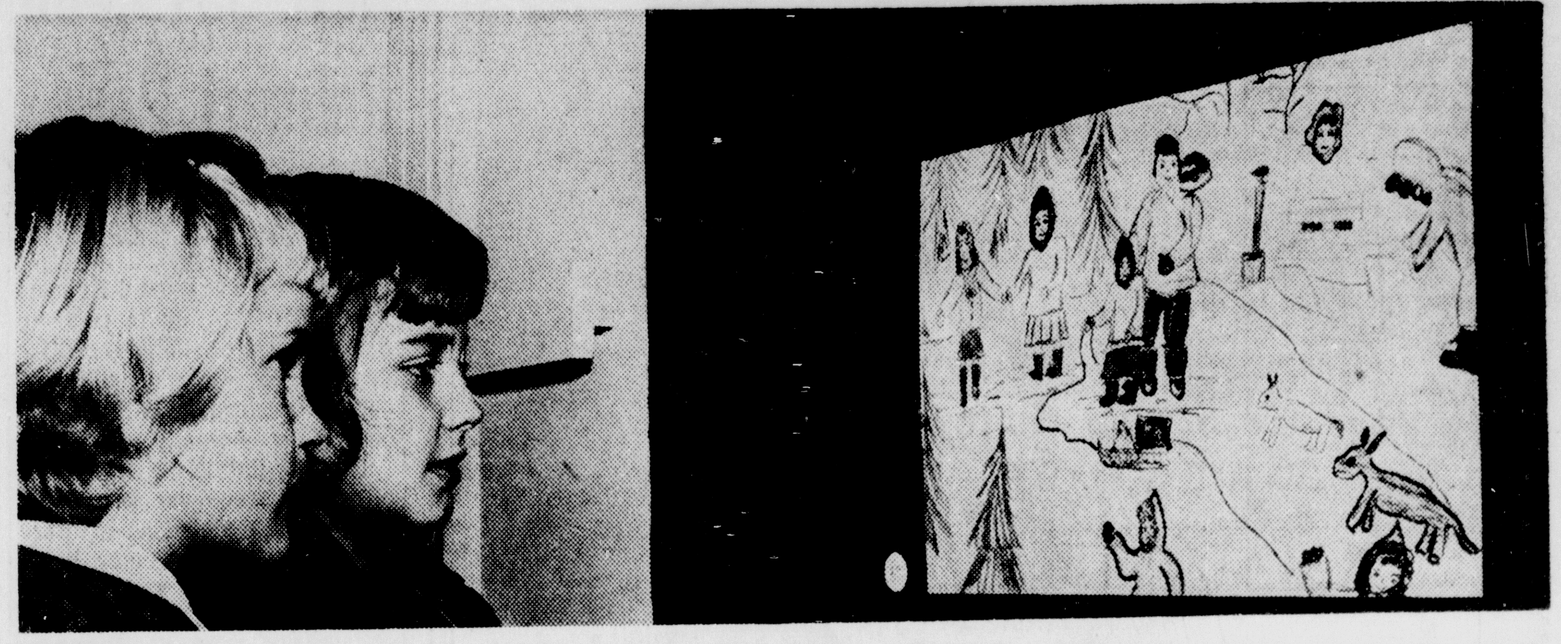
It's just a guess but when the world is reduced to near-empty, continuous white, each thing in it must seem distinctive in itself. Even shadows are easily noticed where they would be missed in our color-and-thing-cluttered vistas. And that same unending whiteness would make any subject seem just cut from a continuous panorama.

Originally, the Nain school was a Moravian Mission founded in 1929 by Arctic explorer Rear Adm. Donald B. MacMillan, taught by Miss Katie Hettasch and aided by the Boyd Museum group. The connection prompted Mrs. Ian White to arrange this current exhibit which continues daily except Monday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Mrs. White hoped the Eskimo children might want to help the Marin children now, by boosting the museum's sales desk. Miss Hettasch, who is still with the school, responded with this exhibit. It is one-third sold so far and part of the sales revenues will be returned to the Eskimo school for its use.

About her students' imaginative and very skillful art, Miss Hettasch says, "Any time — Sundays, rainy days, evenings — out came the crayons and papers to cut out and to draw. This is what they liked and enjoyed." Obviously, they still do. And it shows what fruitful happenings can occur when snowbound without a television set.

IMPORTANT PURSUITS—The outdoor life and the spiritual one are both important parts of Eskimo life as depicted in drawings by children in the Moravian School in Nain, Labrador. (Independent-Journal photos by Jim Kean)



ESKIMO GAME — Debbie Wyrick and Tammera Johnson on a Boyd Museum tour with the first and second grades from their school, are absorbed by a drawing of Eskimo children at play.

Judges Appreciate Defenders' Efforts

A resolution praising the work of two deputy public defenders who have resigned was read yesterday by Judge Alvin H. Goldstein of Marin Municipal Court.

Thanked during the afternoon session were Richard H. Breiner and Robert I. Conn, who will be devoting all their time to private practice after next week. The resolution was signed by all the municipal judges.

Fairfax Zoning Review Is Held

The Fairfax Planning Commission last night covered highway commercial and commercial services zonings in its continuing review of a proposed zoning ordinance.

Chief objections came from persons who own property now zoned highway commercial and proposed to be changed to residential.

The next public hearing on the zoning ordinance was changed from Jan. 8 to Jan. 15 at 8 p.m. at the Women's Club to give time to notify all property owners involved.

In other business last night, the commission denied a lot split requested by Loyd Ward at 56 Rocca Drive because the split would create two substandard lots.

FEATURED THIS SATURDAY

Christmas traditions vary throughout nations from the pinata in Mexico to the plum pudding in Great Britain, and Germany has its share. A look at some of the German traditions is given by Mrs. Johannes Haeussler of San Rafael in tomorrow's I-J Marin Magazine. The Christmas cookies, the advent candles, the home-made presents, the early start of the season and the late unveiling of the Christmas tree are among the customs that set the German Christmas apart from the American Christmas. In Germany, people make gifts for each other, and Mrs. Haeussler's story is accompanied by photos of what can be fashioned by a skillful housewife or father.

For those who enjoy original stories of Christmas from the pens of youngsters, the I-J weekend supplement has some from a non-graded reading group at Coleman School in San Rafael, taught by Jan Jacobson. The pupils even tell what they would do if they were a Christmas tree.

In the spirit of the religious season, there is a special feature about a display of pages from ancient bibles at Marin General Hospital with the oldest dated 1496.

Lebanon Finding It Difficult To Keep Cool In Mideast Strife

BEIRUT (AP) — Little Lebanon, with its 2.5 million people, has long known the key to survival in the explosive Middle East is strict neutrality. But maintaining that neutrality is proving difficult.

Palestinian guerrillas, bent on regaining territory held by Israel since the 1967 Arab-Israeli war, recognize their best chances for attacks against Israel are through Lebanon's southern frontier, bordering on the Jewish nation.

And Israel has made it clear that attacks launched from Lebanon bring automatic, and deadly, retaliation strikes against the neighbor to the north.

Lebanon first tasted the fury of Israeli retaliation in December 1968, after guerrillas, who had flown from Beirut to Athens, bombed and machine-gunned an Israeli airliner in the Greek city. Israel's response was a devastating commando raid on the international airport of Beirut, all but wiping out Lebanon's fleet of commercial airplanes.

While Lebanese politicians squabbled and governments fell and were reformed, the guerrillas took advantage of the situation, operating with impunity from Lebanese soil, and as winter deepened, the guerrillas left their mountain strongholds in the northeast and penetrated further into Lebanon, occupying several villages.

Israel has charged that some 50 raids into its territory has been launched from Lebanon since last Aug. 1, and reprisal attacks increased in number and intensity.

Syria, Lebanon's neighbor to the east, has made it clear from the start that it supports the efforts of the Arab guerrillas to get back the Golan Heights territory, which it lost during the 1967 war. Recently, Syria tightened the squeeze on Lebanon by closing its border to Lebanese army troops attacking guerrilla concentrations across the border.

Adding to the pinch is the dual religious character of Lebanon. The country is about half Christian and half Moslem, and alliance with more militant Arab neighbors is by no means unanimously desired in Lebanon.

Although Arab guerrillas have boasted they could increase their operations within Lebanon at will, recent clashes have shown the Lebanese army is capable of rising to the occasion.

The guerrillas failed to capture the key mountain town of Rashaya, which dominates the Israeli border. Although they held a major portion of the northern port city of Tripoli, and thousands of Palestinian refugees seized control of their camps, the guerrillas failed to spark the general uprising they had predicted.

Now, other Arab governments are no longer sure the battle by the guerrillas for the right to operate from Lebanon is such a good thing. A major concern is a highly visible disintegration of Arab unity.

An agreement reached with the aid of the Nasser government in Egypt finally ended the 10 days of civil strife in Lebanon, granting the guerrillas the right to operate only under certain conditions.

New $315,000 Rohnert Park Road Opens

A new realigned Rohnert Park frontage road to open up the west side of Highway 101 for development was officially opened yesterday with ribbon cutting ceremonies.

The new link is the first phase of road development to open up the land designated as a future regional shopping center being planned by Hugh and Richard Codding of Santa Rosa.

SECOND PHASE

The second phase will come next month when the state Division of Highways opens bids for construction of southbound on-ramps at the Rohnert Park Expressway.

Allen Hart of the state Division of Highways said yesterday that construction funds will probably be available for the winter project.

COLLEGE ENTRANCE

When completed, the road will provide easier access to Sonoma State College and move the school's main entrance from East Cotati Avenue to the Rohnert Park Expressway.

The $315,000 frontage road was financed largely by property owners with assistance from the state, county and city.

10 Nike Sites Will Be Closed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has announced plans to shut down 10 Nike-Hercules sites by March 31 as a cost-cutting move but the action will leave some 68 of the anti-missile batteries in place around the United States.

The announcement last night said three firing sites and two headquarters in the Niagara-Buffalo area of New York will be closed along with three firing sites and two headquarters in the Cincinnati-Dayton area of Ohio. Also, four batteries and one headquarters at Fort Bliss, Tex., will be deactivated.

Officials justified the move from a security standpoint by saying the Russian bomber threat has not developed to a serious stage, with only about 155 Soviet long-range bombers in existance.

MAN SPEEDS UP PACE

Pollution Of Ocean Spurs Prof's Warning

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Man, even with his relatively brief history on earth, has managed to surpass nature in polluting the broad oceans of the planet, says a leading California oceanographer.

And before it's too late, Dr. Edward D. Goldberg warned, man must research and discover the biological effects of his dumping of toxic substances.

Goldberg, professor of chemistry at the Scripps Institute of Oceanography at La Jolla, discussed man's increasing pollution of the seas in a speech to the American Geophysical Union here Wednesday.

He said living organisms have had millions of years to adapt through evolution to the slow accumulation of alien matter discharged by nature in the ocean.

But an exploding human population has added not only man-made pesticides, but huge quantities of matter from natural sources, he said.

Goldberg said some recent studies indicate that DDT will remain a hazard indefinitely.

Noting that excessive DDT residues resulted in the condemnation of one port's mackerel catch this year, Goldberg said there is a possibility that this important fish crop may not be usable next year, or for many years to come.

On the man vs. nature competition, Goldberg said:

Highly poisonous mercury has been washed to the sea by the rivers at a rate of some 5,000 tons a year, while man is sending another 5,000 to 10,000 tons of the element into the ocean each year.

Lead leaches from rocks and 150,000 tons is washed by the rivers to the oceans each year; man's use of antiknock gasoline in automobiles has resulted in the discharge of 250,000 tons of tetraethyl lead each year into the oceans.

Goldberg said at least a million tons of oil annually is lost on the surface of the ocean by tankers and that while fouled beaches and dead sea-birds are evident, the effect on lower organisms is almost entirely unknown.

Whether the oceans can survive as a home for life is an open question, he said.

Prisoners Freed

TOKYO (UPI)—The Viet Cong have released nine South Vietnamese prisoners captured in November, the National Liberation Front's Gia Phong Press Agnecy said yesterday in a broadcast monitored in Tokyo. The broadcast said the prisoners were freed Dec. 3.

Heart Fund Scholarship Signups On

Applications for college science students wanting to spend the summer working in the cardiovascular research field are now being taken by the Marin County Heart Association.

Thirty-five students will be granted scholarships under the 1970 Student Research Associates Program of the California Heart Association, William D. Linn, director of the Marin County Heart Association has announced.

They will work in research laboratories alongside well-known medical scientists in both northern and southern California, Linn said.

Two of the scholarships will be paid for by the local heart association.

Students, selected according to grade averages, will be given $750 to cover living expenses for a 10-week period starting shortly after June 1, Linn explained.

Applications must be filed by Feb. 1. Information may be obtained at the local heart association office at 1363 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael.

Abernathy In Jail; Vows Fasting Lesson

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, chairman of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, went to jail last night vowing he would "teach Memphis a lesson" by fasting in his cell.

Abernathy, one of 19 civil rights leaders indicted Dec. 9 as an outgrowth of the seven-week classroom boycott by Negroes, said he would only drink liquids during his confinement.

Arriving from Atlanta with six staff members, Abernathy led about 400 persons on a two-columned march down sidewalks on both sides of Main Street and surrendered at the county jail.

The chanting marchers on the one-mile trek from a downtown church to the civic center snarled traffic at the height of a rush hour.

Abernathy was expected to remain in jail at least until Monday when a U.S. District Court judge will act on a suit that seeks to enjoin state, city and police officials from further prosecuting the charges against the 19 persons. Civil rights attorneys contend the new state law making it a misdemeanor for an adult to encourage a pupil to stay out of school to engage in a protest demonstration is unconstitutional.

Abernathy joined four local civil rights leaders who have declined on principle to post a token $1 bail required before their release.

The civil rights drive that resulted in the indictments was designed to pressure the school board into granting Negroes a greater voice in school affairs and to force Catholic-operated St. Joseph Hospital to negotiate with a Negro union local that has been on strike against the hospital since Oct. 5.

There have been no talks in the strike, although the school board has named two Negro board advisers and has promised to push for a change in election procedures to give Negroes a chance to run for the board.

The boycott of the schools at times kept about one-half of the city's 135,000 pupils out of classes. Fifty-four per cent of the enrollment is Negro.

Tough Coal Mine Safety Plan Sent To President

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite Republican warnings of a veto, Congress has sent to the White House a tough safety bill for the nation's 140,000 coal miners.

Chief targets in the bill are mine explosions and the dreaded "black lung" disease, daily threats in some 140,000 coal mines.

Before passage last night, the administration made known its objection to one major provision of the bill: federal payments to miners disabled by black lung.

A disabled miner with a wife and two children would receive $272 a month. The administration contends this will cost $385 million a year. Democrats put the figure at $60 million.

An important provision sets permissible dust levels in all mines. Coal dust can mean black lung and explosions. All mines have six years to meet a standard of not more than two miligrams per cubic meter of air . . .

Other provisions would:

Require reporting of all accidents and ignitions even if minor.

Fix expanded criminal penalties for willful violations, civil penalties against operators who violate the health and safety standards, and civil penalties for mines who violate such rules as the smoking ban.

Establish new controls over roof falls.

Expand the scope of present law on imminent danger closing orders.

Set up a new government health and safety research program.

Require improved mine lighting and at least two separate escapeways from each mine.

Make available a chest X-ray to all miners within 18 months and periodically thereafter.

Wife Of War Prisoner Sends Nixon Petition

SANTA CLARA (AP) — The wife of the first American pilot captured in the Vietnam War has sent President Richard M. Nixon a 70,000-signature petition asking him to press for the return of the estimated 1,380 U.S. prisoners of war.

Tangee Alvarez, 29, of Santa Clara said after the signatures were mailed yesterday that she does not expect any miracles from the petition, only that Nixon will "do something to get my man home."

"But we have worked so hard, you know, ever since September, and people from all over California have gotten involved," Mrs. Alvarez said. She shrugged and added, "Nixon keeps announcing troop reductions, but nobody announces when my husband is coming home."

She married Navy Lt. Everett Alvarez, two months before he left for Vietnam five and one-half years ago. Four months later — on Aug. 15, 1964 — he was shot down and captured during the second day of air fighting over North Vietnam.

Mrs. Alvarez said she kept silent on Navy orders until last August, when she publicly stated: "I don't believe enough is being done about the prisoners of war."

Then she started a petition drive in behalf of her husband and the other Americans presumed captured during the war.

She has received about 30 letters from her 31-year-old husband.

Key To Success

LYMINGTON, England (AP) — Christine Rix has a lot of success teaching elderly ladies to drive. All they need is a piano. Using a poker wedged in a coal scuttle as the gear shift, she recommends her pupils practice at the piano before they take their automobile out on the highway. "It gives them a lot of confidence," says Mrs. Rix.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Pancreatitis' Sudden Pain Is Often Tied With Gallbladder

VAN DELLEN

Pancreatitis is a painful and serious abdominal condition. The acute attack is most severe and often associated with shock. The distress begins in the "pit of the stomach" and usually radiates to the back or beneath the breastbone.

There is very little fever, and the skin is cold and clammy due to shock.

The manifestations vary, and as a result, certain blood tests are done whenever there is abdominal distress and pancreatitis is suspected. The serum amylase level rises early in the course of the disease. This occurs even in mild attacks.

SOME KNOWLEDGE of the anatomy of the pancreas is needed to appreciate the condition. The slender organ is located behind and beneath the stomach. Some of its cells manufacture insulin which is absorbed into the bloodstream to metabolize carbohydrates.

The remaining cells manufacture powerful digestants that empty into the small intestine through the same duct that bile from the gallbladder goes.

This explains why pancreatitis is frequently associated with gallbladder disease. The common opening into the intestine may be partially or completely obstructed by gallstones, spasm, or inflammation leading to a reflux of bile into the pancreas.

The duct wall swells and when the irritating pancreatic enzymes cannot escape, they overflow into the framework of the organ and begin to eat away the pancreas.

PANCREATITIS may follow a large intake of alcohol. It is believed that the alcohol leads to an irritation or swelling of the drainage duct of the pancreas and gallbladder. Too much booze may also have a chemical effect upon the pancreatic cells.

Acute pancreatitis is best treated in the hospital. The aftercare also is important to prevent recurrences. Overeating, obesity, and alcoholic abuse should be avoided.

AN OLD REMEDY

C. H. writes: Would inhaling oxygen relieve a migraine headache?

REPLY

Oxygen was used in the past with questionable results. We now have more efficient remedies such as Cafergot and ergotamine. Sansert (methysergide) is a good preventive. It also helps to avoid the emotional causes and to get ample rest and outdoor activity. Now and then a food allergy is responsible

EPILEPSY AND WEAKNESS

J. T. writes: Can epilepsy per se cause the muscles to become weaker?

REPLY

No. There are various forms of epilepsy and in the major type the victim develops a convulsion in which the muscles become tense and rigid followed by clonic or jerky movements. This may lead to temporary fatigue of the muscle but should not cause weakness.

SOURCES OF LYSINE

L. W. writes: What is lysine and in what foods is the substance found?

REPLY

Lysine is one of the essential amino acids. It is found in fish, cheese, eggs, meat, yeast, corn, wheat germ, and leafy green vegetables. Proteins are composed of a variety of amino acids and some foods contain more of these building blocks than others.

BRAIN DAMAGE

B. L. writes: Can damage to the brain (after an accident) be determined via X-ray?

REPLY

In some cases, yes. But the majority also require a thorough examination and other tests such as the spinal tap.

PENICILLIN AND COLDS

D. N. P. writes: If penicillin is ineffective for colds, why do so many physicians give it?

REPLY

1. Most individuals do not consult the physician unless the cold is severe and a secondary infection exists.

2. Many strep sore throats and other bacterial infections are mislabeled colds. Penicillin is of value in these conditions.

3. Some patients demand penicillin. They feel cheated when told they have a common cold, and are given aspirin, or advised to stay in bed until well.

INFECTED BLADDER

M. P. writes: My husband had a physical checkup and the only thing found was blood and pus in the urine. Does this mean he will need an operation?

REPLY

No. Blood and pus in the urine usually suggest inflammation in the bladder, kidneys, or prostate. As a rule, such conditions can be corrected with medication. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on hematuria.

CIGARETTE COUGH

A reader writes: I have smoked cigarettes for many years and have a bad cough and am always spitting. I want to quit because my lungs are so full they hurt. My physician gave me cough medicine which has helped the hacking but my lungs are full again. I am 65.

REPLY

The best medicine is willpower. You have sufficient reason to quit smoking so why not take advantage of this motivating force?

EXCELLENT BUILDING BLOCKS

Mrs. M. C. writes: My two children (5 and 8 years old) eat lots of meat. Is this doing them any harm?

REPLY

No. Meat is rich in the types of proteins that make excellent building blocks. These youngsters also need other basic foods, such as fruits, vegetables, milk, dairy products, eggs, and cereals.

Alioto Witness Is Kept Secret

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Attorneys in San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto's $12.5 million libel suit against Look Magazine refuse to say who was involved in a secret deposition hearing held yesterday in Sacramento.

There were reports that Tommy Lee Thomas, a former son-in-law of alleged Mafia figure James Fratianno, was involved, but the attorneys would not commnt.

A court order requires that when Thomas gives his deposition, its contents must be kept secret.

Alioto attorneys say Thomas is the only source for a statement in the magazine that Alioto and Fratianno met at a restaurant between San Francisco and Sacramento. Alioto has denied such a meeting took place.

Children Made Wards Of Court

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Three children of Mrs. Betty Lansdown Fouquet, accused of abandoning her 5-year-old daughter next to a busy freeway, were made wards of the court yesterday during a closed hearing.

The hearing, however, failed to reveal the whereabouts of the woman's missing 8-year-old son.

Mrs. Fouquet, 26, was arrested with her common-law husband, Ronald, 31, after the woman's daughter by a previous marriage, Jody, was found clinging to a freeway fence near Bakersfield Oct. 25. The couple faces trial in Bakersfield Feb. 2 on child abandonment charges.

Hoarding Begins As Result Of Strike At Ports

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — With 39 freighters already stalled in Pacific ports by a month-old maritime labor dispute, householders in Hawaii and Guam are hoarding rice and other staple foods.

The Pacific Maritime Association said the dispute involves five of its member companies with fleets totalling 120 vessels, the issue is the number of firemen needed to man two Matson Navigation Co. containerized ships still under construction in Baltimore, Md.

Matson contends the new ships will be so highly mechanized that fewer crewmen will be needed.

Hawaii and Guam, greatly dependent on imports for the necessities of life, were already feeling the pinch.

In Honolulu, a buyer for a large supermarket chain said customers were buying up to 25 pounds of rice at a time.

Black Studies Pay Blocked For Aides

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Pay for student aides in the controversial Black Studies Department at San Francisco State College has been cut off and President S. I. Hayakawa, of Mill Valley, says faculty salaries are "under review."

Hayakawa, who has said a "reign of terror" exists in the department, and Dean Urban Whitaker made the announcement at a news conference in Hayakawa's office.

Whitaker said the 10 teacher assistants were paid "about $130" each for November "but no future expenditures of public funds are authorized."

Whitaker's action, endorsed by Hayakawa, came after publication Wednesday in the student newspaper "Black Fire" of a confidential Whitaker memo which threatened to cut off faculty and student teacher aides' pay if the Black Studies faculty failed to meet with him to discuss departmental problems.

Whitaker said he has asked the Black Studies faculty to meet with him seven times since Sept. 12 but the faculty has refused.

"It is only natural, as in any organization, that communication exist between all levels," he said.

Hayakawa said further lack of cooperation from the Black Studies faculty may have to be "controlled through the paychecks."

Rather than abandon the Black Studies program, he said, it might be necessary to divide it among existing classes such as English and sociology.

Black Studies has an enrollment of 460 students with 18 faculty members.

Warehouse Fire Damage $100,000

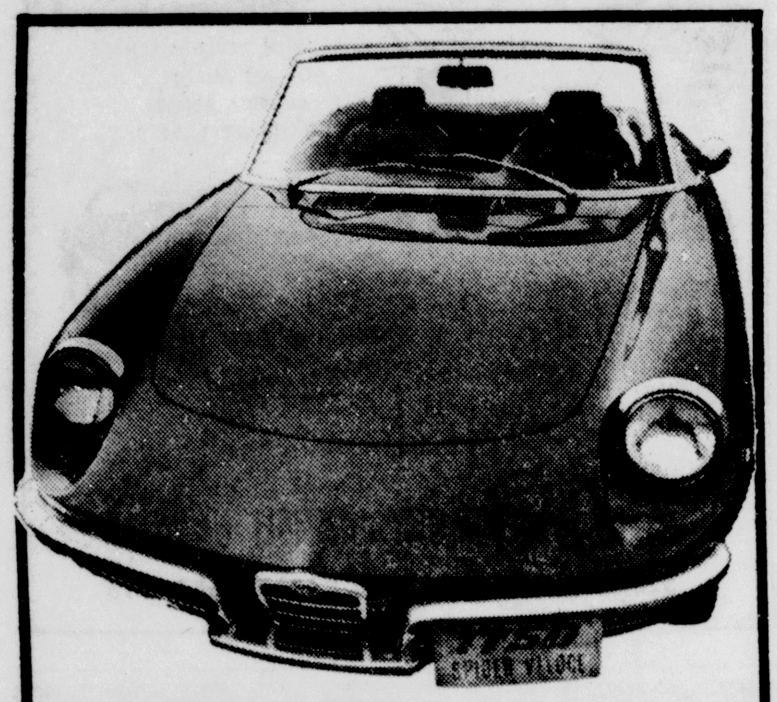
SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A three-alarm fire at a White Front store warehouse yesterday destroyed or damaged more than $100,000 worth of Christmas merchandise.

Fire Chief John Marchi said automatic sprinklers prevented what might have been a $1 million loss, but the sprinklers did a considerable amount of water damage.

The chief said the $100,000 estimate was "very conservative" and placed damage to the building at $10,000.

Marchi said a discarded cigarette was believed to have started the blaze. Six employees were at work in the building and tried to put the fire out with the store's fire hoses.

The Declaration of Independence is preserved in a helium-filled glass case in the National Archives Building in Washington.



Alfa Romeo 1750 Spider Veloce.

Be a sport.

That's at least one thousand dollars less than any car in an Alfa Romeo's class.

And what a class.

This year, Alfa's 1750 Spider Veloce has a larger, more powerful twin-overhead-cam engine. It turns out 132 hp. And at 90 mph about half its power is still in reserve.

The 1750 Spider now also has a new race-proven fuel injection system. A system that improves performance and saves gas. And it's standard.

What else is new?

New pressure-equalized disc brakes on all four wheels. Which means you're going to stop like you never stopped before.

And of course, you still get five forward speeds, fully synchronized. And wide-tread, high-performance, premium radial-ply tires on all four wheels.

All this, and a beautiful Italian body, for $4248 POE.

That's Alfa's 1750 Spider Veloce.

Versatile Raceway For State Capital

James R. Coleman of Kentfield, John V. Boito of San Rafael and Arthur B. Siri of Santa Rosa, who were instrumental in the creation of Sears Point International Raceway, have now pooled their talents in the renaissance of Sacramento International Raceways.

Members of the news media were given a look at the plans for the new motor sports complex in the state capital Wednesday and versatility seems to be its major appeal.

Said Coleman, an officer and former general manager at Sears Point, "The (Sacramento) facility is designed to accommodate all recognized forms of automobile racing in an atmosphere of safety and comfort for contestants and spectators. It will be the most modern and complete one of its kind in Northern California."

The facility will include a lighted and paved three-eights mile oval, a flat, quarter-mile dirt track for motorcycles, lighted drag strip, a two-plus mile road circuit that can accommodate races ranging from amateurs to Grand Prix and Indianapolis-type cars.

"We'll also have an off-road dirt configuration available for dune buggy and four-wheel drive racing," said Coleman, who added that a 15,000-seat grandstand, moderate admission fees, general all-around comfort and a program of variety will give the state capital an appealing motor sports program for the whole family.

To Start First Of The Year

Weather permitting, actual construction on the elaborate racing plant will start soon after the first of the year and should be ready to roll by next spring.

Coleman, Siri and Boito have joined forces in this venture with Donald G. Davis, an independent real estate developer, and Melvin G. Gilpen, a management consultant.

Siri was the engineering contractor who built Sears Point while Boito was involved in the Sonoma County raceway from its inception.

GREAT NEWS from the Ivy League: Barry Brink of Mill Valley, the Dartmouth College defensive tackle by way of Tamalpais High School, has been named to the official Coaches' All-Ivy team as an honorable mention selection.

Brink, only a junior, was one of the key reasons for Dartmouth's fine 8-1 co-championship record this year. He also was cited by the Associated Press as an honorable mention on both the All-Ivy and All-New England squads.

Barry seems to be following in the footsteps of his dad, Mill Valley auto dealer Larry Brink, who played a lot of college and pro ball in his day.

Marin Will Miss Cookie

THE RICH GET Richer Dept.: Cookie Arrighi, 15-year-old Marin Swim Club ace, and her family are moving to Santa Clara where Cookie will join coach George Haines' powerful Olympic-minded Santa Clara Swim Club.

Earlier this year another Marin star, Leslie Bryans, joined the Santa Clara team.

Said Mrs. Kay Campion of the Marin Swim Club: "Let's face it, until we can get more pools, especially 50 meters, and more and better training time we just can't do right by our dedicated kids and they'll have to go elsewhere.

"You know, reading remarks from coaches and educators concerning discipline and dedication makes me wonder why our county, particularly, seems to be unaware of the needs of the hundreds of kids in Marin who are involved in the most demanding, most disciplined, most time consuming of all sports completely on a voluntary basis."

Miss Arrighi, at 15 a seven-year vet of AAU swimming, this year qualified for both outdoor and indoor Senior Women's Nationals as well as setting a couple of Pacific Association records and spearheading her age group medley and freestyle relay teams to seven national and 14 P.A. marks.

We wish her well in the "Big Time" at Santa Clara.

Bud Poile Fired By Flyers

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Bud Poile, general manager of the Philadelphia Flyers since their founding, was fired today by the National Hockey League club.

Assistant General Manager Keith Allen, who coached the club to the playoffs in its first two seasons before moving into the front office this year, was named acting general manager.

The Flyers are in fourth place in the NHL's West Division with a 5-11-11 record for 21 points.

Poile, reached at his home here, said his dismissal came as a complete surprise. Asked if he had any idea prior to the announcement, he said, "No. Not a bit."

Flyers Board Chairman Ed Snider gave Poile, a former coach and general manager of the Seals when they were in San Francisco, the news by telephone. The announcement said the firing was over "fundamental differences of opinion" between the owners and Poile on several phases of club operations.

"There are no hard feelings involved," Snider said. "I wish Bud the best of success wherever he goes."

Poile said he has no idea where he is going.

Redwood, San Marin Booters Tie

It's a tie.

That's the way the 1969 Marin County Athletic League soccer race wound up yesterday in a last round of games played on sloshy fields.

In the key game, San Marin, with goals from Pete Whitoff and Ken LaRoche, downed Terra Linda, 2-0, to keep pace with Redwood, a 3-0 winner of Tamalpais.

That left San Marin and Redwood tied for championship honors with identical 6-1-3 records and 15 points each.

San Rafael, a 3-1 winner over Novato, tied Terra Linda for third place. Drake, a 2-0 winner over Marin Catholic finished sixth, just behind Tamalpais.

Andeirs Carlsson whipped in two goals, including one on a direct corner kick, to lead Redwood over Tamalpais. Jon Broderick scored the other goal.

San Rafael got goals from Paul Crovo, Bob Klyce and Andy Colan.

A's Jackson Top Slugger In The A.L.

BOSTON (AP) — Reggie Jackson of Oakland won the American League's individual slugging title this year with a .608 percentage, while Boston edged baltimore pennant-winning Orioles in team slugging, .415 to .414.

Jackson, playing only his second full season in the majors, hammered out 47 homers, 36 doubles and three triples among his 151 hits. That gave his 334 total bases in 549 at bats and a 16-point edge in the percentages over second place Rico Petrocelli of Boston, who had a .589 mark.

The 23-year-old outfielder tied with Minnesota's harmon Killebrew for the league lead in receiving the most intentional bases on balls, 20, and also took the dubious distinction of most strikeouts for the second year in a row with 142.

Killebrew was third in the slugging percentages with a .584 average, while Washington's Frank Howard, the 1968 champion with a .552 mark, rose to .574 this year but wound up in fourth place according to official averages released today by the league office.

Visit Shriners Hospital

By EDITH M. LEDERER

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — With tears in his eyes, University of Indiana running back John Isenbarger leaned over the bedside of 11-year-old Fotula and offered her some Christmas toys and candy.

The dark-haired Greek girl, flat on her back with a dislocated right hip, turned away shyly from her 6-foot-3, 205-pound "Santa Claus" in a blue blazer.

In another room, Stanford linebacker Don Parish made small talk with 14-year-old Norman, a brown-haired youth who was suspended in a bicycle wheel brace, recuperating from an operation for curvature of the spine.

A VISIT

From football fields across the nation, members of the 45th annual Shrine East-West teams came yesterday to the San Francisco Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children to visit the youngsters who wouldn't be able to make the Dec. 27th classic at Stanford Stadium.

"It adds a lot to the game, that's for sure," said Army's star running back, Lynn Moore, as he wound up talking with 15-year-old Pam, bedridden with a knee problem.

"I really admire these kids," he said. "It makes you wonder about yourself. They've been in the hospital so long and they're in great spirits and we're out in the world running around and complaining."

AGREES

As he sat on the edge of 9-year-old Mike's bed, helping him figure out a new game, UCLA running back Greg Jones echoed Moore's sentiments.

Noting that all proceeds from the game go to the hospital, Jones said: "It's such a big honor really to be able to help these kids by doing something we can do well. They're just great."

For Parish, the visit was a "double honor." He was on the high school Shrine team and had visited the hospital before. As a veteran, he divided is time between Norman and 2½-year-old Terry, dressed in a Seanford red sweater and red and white beanie.

Carrying Terry in his arms, Parish wandered through the ward, taking occasional licks from the little boy's lollipop stick and crowing: "Show them how we share our food."

LETTERMAN

Nearby, University of Oregon end-tackle Andy Maurer and his wife sat on chairs in front of 9-year-old Rudy, strapped to a standing board.

Halfway through a skiing game, Maurer realized that Rudy's green and gold Oregon sweater with two stripes on the sleeve made him a second-year letterman. "He's got more letters than I've got," quipped Maurer.

Each youngster had a present for his football "Santa Claus"—a picture of himself and a picture of the hospital in a handmade leather picture frame.

University of Oklahoma tight end Steve Zabel, obviously touched by the gift, asked 10-year-old Danny if he would autograph the picture.

With great concentration, the bedridden youth haltingly printed his signature in big crooked letters and handed it back to a smiling Zabel.

Marin 'Cats Advance In Tourney

Marin Catholic's basketball team vaulted into the semifinals of the Rose City Invitational Tournament at Cardinal Newman High School in Santa Rosa yesterday by nicking Eureka, 57-53.

The Wildcats, who snapped a six-game losing streak, will meet Cardinal Newman at 9:30 tonight.

Junior forward Bill Donnellan did most of the damage with 29 points, 20 coming in the first half. Only four Wildcats got into the scoring act, with Mike Parnow getting 15 points and Tim Stone 12.

It seemed to be a no-touch game as both teams were called for only six fouls each. The Wildcats won it by taking a one-point lead in the third quarter and nursing it through a low-scoring final period, which saw only 15 points go on the scoreboard.

Marin Catholic	14	16	18	9	—57
Eureka	15	17	15	6	—53

Marin Catholic Scoring — Mike Parnow, 7-1-15; Steve Vanni, 0-1-1; Tim Stone, 6-0-12; Bill Donellan, 14-1-29. Totals: 27-3-57.

Maravich Scores 50 But Troy Nips LSU

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

One day after their worst setback of the young basketball season, Coast cage fans got their greatest triumph.

USC called on LSU last night and handed the Tigers their first loss of the season in a wild 101-98 scramble. The brilliant Pete Maravich of the Tigers hooped 50, but USC's balanced attack saw five men score between 14 and 19.

The Trojans roared out to a 23-point lead but the Tigers cut it to 97-96 with 51 seconds to go. But Trojan center Ron Riley got credit for tipping in a missed free throw during a wild scramble and Dennis Layton's two free throws with nine seconds to go capped the victory.

The win came one day after unbeaten Houston easily defeated Santa Clara in a let-down for Coast cage fans who thought the Broncs might be one of the nation's top teams.

It was a good night all around for the West.

For instance, Nevada Reno called on Creighton and pulled a stunning 67-66 upset. Rollie Hess hit 14 of 15 free throws and 28 points in leading Wolfpack to its third win in six starts.

And Brigham Young won at Texas Tech 87-81 but Arizona fell at North Texas 98-81 to give the West a solid 3-for-4 night on the road where wins are scarce.

University of Pacific, along with Santa Clara the West Coast Athletic Conference's best, ran its record to 5-1 with a 93-85 win over Portland.

A Traveling Accident: That's Jerry Quarry

When Jerry Quarry, the box-fighter, was a very young man, he poised on the edge of a swimming pool one day and executed a perfect swan dive. Which would have been all right except there wasn't any water in the pool.

When Jerry Quarry got his first chance at the heavyweight title, he chose the eve of the fight to get in a little horse play wrestling with his brother. Which would have been all right except he sprained his back.

WHEN JERRY Quarry fought Jimmy Ellis for the WBA heavyweight championship, his fight plan called for him to out-box Jimmy. Which would have been all right except the only thing Ellis does well is box.

When Jerry Quarry fought Joe Frazier for the heavyweight championship of the world, his fight plan called for him to slug it out with Frazier. Which would have been all right except the only thing Frazier can do is slug.

WHEN JERRY Quarry fought George Chuvalo for the hell of it, his fight plan called for him to butt heads with Chuvalo. Which would have been all right except that the only thing Chuvalo can do is butt heads.

When Jerry Quarry got knocked down and bounced back up at the count of 1, he could even have made a phone call as long as he stood on his feet, and the referee would still have wiped his gloves at the count of 8 and resumed the contest. Which would have been all right except Jerry sank back to one knee and gave the ref no choice but to count him out, even though he was as conscious as the ushers.

If Jerry Quarry's life story is ever made into a book, the title will be "Oops!"

JERRY QUARRY is the kind of guy who, if he brought you hot soup at the hospital, he'd spill it on you. If he brought you flowers, they'd have a bee in them. If he helped you on with your tux, he'd rip it. He's a traveling accident. He went surfing one day and was on his way to Hawaii when the lifeguards caught up to him. He would have been the first guy in history to lose the heavyweight title by drowning.

Jerry "The Accident" Quarry is a guy who, if he got his choice of weapons in a fight with a lion, would choose biting. In a contest with an elephant, he would chose stomping. He would trade kicks with a mule, scents with a skunk. Jerry has unequal talent at putting himself at a disadvantage. Only three fighters in the world can lick Jerry Quarry. Unfortunately, one of them is Jerry Quarry.

HE WOULD FOLD a hand with three aces. If he were leading the Open, he would play the wrong ball on No. 18.

George Chuvalo didn't knock Jerry Quarry out. Jerry Quarry knocked Jerry Quarry out. It is Jerry's 18th lifetime KO and he is the first man to put Jerry Quarry down for a 10-count.

Chuvalo moved just fast enough in the ring to keep birds from nesting on him. So Jerry fought the kind of fight that could have been fought in a bathtub.

But, since Chuvalo was just another spectator at this knockout, my problem is this: Jerry Quarry was ranked No. 3 in the world before this fight. Now that Jerry Quarry has knocked out the No. 3-ranked heavyweight, does this qualify him for another title shot? Or, does Jerry Quarry want a rematch with Jerry Quarry?

FORFEIT VICTORY

Brawl Ends Game Before Halftime

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—Jacksonville University won a ball game and earned at least a draw in two brawls last night, but the Dolphins may have lost their place as the nation's highest scoring collegiate basketball team.

Jacksonville, 19th ranked, was awarded a 41-26 victory over Georgetown when visiting Coach Jack Magee herded his team off the floor with 1:23 remaining in the first half. Georgetown's walkoff followed two brawls between the opposing players,

RISK

"I'm responsible for 18 people. I can't risk having them hurt. When they come at you out of the stands, it's time to get out," Magee said in explaining why he removed his team from the contest.

Dolphins Coach Joe Williams declined to blame any one person for the brawling.

"But that's the last time you'll see a JU team come off the bench," Williams vowed. "Regardless of what happened, our team should not have come onto the floor."

The first fight started when Georgetown's Arthur White threw a punch at Jacksonville's Mike Blevins. Both benches emptied into the court and fought briefly.

RESTARTS

As the players were heading back to their benches, Blevins walked up behind White, apparently intending to shake hands.

"But someone said something to me and I hit the guy," Blevins said.

The benches emptied into the court again and this time dozens of spectators swarmed out of the stands and joined a two-minute melee that the coaches managed to break up without police being called.

Jacksonville's Rex Morgan was the only person seriously injured. He reopened a cut by his eye that required two stitches to close.

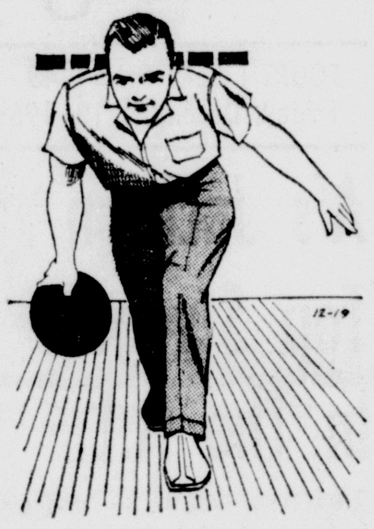
BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER



Did you ever have anyone tell you you're "letting your shoulder drop?" many bowlers will not wisely, yet not really know what to do about it. Keeping the shoulders level, however, is important.

The best way to insure against shoulder-dropping is to have a firm intention to reach out as you deliver the ball. This will help you get the ball out across the foul line accurately.

Chiefs Pulling Out All Stops For Jets

KC. 'Goes For Broke' Tomorrow

NEW YORK (AP) — Kansas City is set to unwrap its ornate offensive package at Shea Stadium tomorrow, but the New York Jets figure they can handle any special deliveries Hank Stram sends their way.

The battle lines were drawn today for the American Football League playoff clash, with Chiefs' Coach Stram promising a "go for broke" game plan—in contrast to his close-to-the-vest tactics at Oakland last Sunday—and the Jets working themselves up for a super effort to rebuff the favored invaders.

Kansas City, runner up to Oakland in the Western Division, is a 2½-point choice to oust the Eastern Division champs in the first game of the unprecedented semifinal playoffs. Houston, second in the East during the regular season, takes on the Raiders at Oakland Sunday, with the survivors meeting in the Jan. 4 AFL championship game.

"We'll go for broke in this one," Stram said yesterday after admitting he kept the Chiefs' attack under wraps in their 10-6 loss to Oakland that decided the Western title. Quarterback Len Dawson threw only six passes, completing two, as Kansas City ran at the Raiders from start to finish.

"You've got to go with balance in one like this," Stram continued. "This is completely different from the Oakland game. We wanted to win it, of course, but after all is said and done, it was a nothing game.

"Our objective is to win the championship—nothing else."

WON'T PLAY SUNDAY

Wells Remains On The Roster

OAKLAND (AP) — Warren Wells' spot on the Oakland Raiders' roster for their game with the Houston Oilers Sunday will be taken by...Warren Wells.

There is no chance that the fleet receiver will be able to play when the Raiders and Oilers battle in an American Football League playoff game, but Oakland is looking ahead to the league title game and beyond.

SHOULDER

Wells, who leads the league in touchdown receptions with 14, suffered a shoulder injury last Saturday against Kansas City. At first, an operation was thought to be necessary. Then, it was delayed.

Now, Raider Coach John Madden says, "There is virtually no chance he'll be operated on. I expect him to be released from the hospital."

The club can only make two personnel switches for the playoffs and Madden does not want to use one of them on Wells if there is a possibility he could play in the AFL title game and the Super Bowl.

The Oilers were to arrive here tonight and with the absence of Wells from the Raiders' lineup, they boast the biggest long-distance receiving threat in rookie Jerry Levias.

"I'd consider him, along with Don Maynard, Lance Alworth and Wells, as the most dangerous deep threat in the league," said Raider safety Dave Grayson. "He's got real good speed and quickness."

Madden added: "He's even more dangerous than Maynard or Wells in one respect because he's a threat to go all the way every time he gets his hands on the ball.

"He can score with a long pass like Maynard or Wells, but he can also score on a punt return, a kickoff return, a deep reverse, a halfback screen pass or just running from scrimmage."

FISH AND GAME

By AL GIDDINGS

There's No Reason To Harm The Salmon

From early October to the present, a large number of fishermen have been trying to catch silver salmon in Tomales Bay, and in the tide waters of Papermill Creek at Point Reyes Station.

Last week before the rains, about 50 anglers per day and more than 200 per weekend took part in this sporty venture. About five to 10 salmon were caught daily this past week. With the arrival of the rainy season, these salmon have been moving upstream into the closed area above tidewaters on their annual spawning run.

THESE fish stop feeding when they reach the fresh water streams, using their stored up fat to stay alive, and to supply the energy needed to reach the spawning beds in Papermill, Nicasio and San Geronimo Valley streams.

The rough journey these fish have to take to get upstream causes the fish to develop fungus sores; and in losing their fat, the meat of the fish becomes soft and tasteless. Their only value is to spawn. They die after spawning.

EACH FEMALE salmon carries approximately 5,000 eggs. Sometimes just one pair of these fish are the ones which perpetuate the run of salmon in a small stream. The eggs are dropped into a gravel bed, fertilized by the male, and in six weeks fingerlings emerge.

The fingerlings live in the stream for a year or so, usually going to sea around April. Most of the fish taken by the kids throughout trout season are actually year-old silver salmon or steelhead.

BUT HERE'S the problem: Almost daily, calls are coming into the game wardens that kids are spearing, gaffing, throwing rocks, using clubs, snagging and in every way under the sun — and even under the moon — to harass these spawning fish. It seems such a waste!

In most cases the fish are left dead in the water. A few kids take the fish home to be cooked! The rotted flesh of these fish will nauseate anyone trying one for food, and the odor will drive the whole family out of the house.

THE DEPARTMENT of Fish and Game, along with the cooperation of the Marin Municipal Water District, has constructed a fish trap below Nicasio Dam. Construction and maintenance costs of the dam are $40,000, just to keep the salmon run going above Nicasio Dam. And wardens are hired to patrol the spawning areas all through the county to perpetuate these salmon runs.

The salmon are a valuable asset to the county, afford a great many hours of legal pleasure to fishermen in the open areas, give the kids many hours of "trout" fishing fun, and when fresh, provide an excellent meal to the lucky angler who catches one.

Why then, do the kids — and some adults, too — do these things?

IT'S MOSTLY because of a lack of education, though talks on this subject are given each year at the schools. It seems ridiculous for game wardens to have to sneak along creeks, behind houses, and through Samuel P. Taylor State Park to apprehend these youngsters. But what to do?

In the shallow streams, it doesn't take very long for the few salmon there to be killed off. The Christmas week vacation usually accounts for many of the killed fish. Making arrests and sending the kids to the juvenile officers with parents seems an endless task, and although it has probably helped, it is most unpopular.

I REALLY believe the parents can be the greatest help. Explanations of the spawning value of these fish should be given by parents to their youngsters. Taking them to White House Pool at Point Reyes Station, where fishing is legal, would be a great help.

Explaining to them that killing these fish will eliminate their summer "trout" fishing should also help. It would seem just good old common sense would apply here.

A FEW YEARS ago, the Department of Fish and Game planted approximately 100,000 silver salmon yearlings throughout Marin County to enhance the silver salmon runs at a cost of 15 cents per fish. It just doesn't make sense to erase the efforts put into this program by wastefully killing off the remaining spawners.

I sincerely hope everyone concerned will cooperate in this program.

Warriors Battle Tough Rockets

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—The San Francisco Warriors hope tonight's National Basketball Association game with San Diego unfolds a little differently than the previous four.

The Warriors aren't disturbed with their 3-1 showing against the Rockets so far this season. But San Francisco always has trouble, of one kind or another, with the stubborn Southern Californians.

After dropping the first game to San Diego by one point in overtime, the Warriors won the next two—also by only one point. Then, in a less hectic victory, Warrior forward Joe Ellis hurt a tendon in the little finger of his shooting hand.

The Rockets, 12-20, are 3-3 under new coach Alex Hannum, who once held down the head job with San Francisco. Hannum took over the Rockets when Jack McMahon was fired 10 days ago.

The winters in Florida are sun-shine good, as Penn State gridders find out while basking in the sun during a work session at Ft. Lauderdale Stadium. Title Fight Hurdles Obstacles

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)—The troubled heavyweight bout between World Boxing Association champ Jimmy Ellis and Argentine challenger Gregorio Peralta will finally take place tomorrow night as scheduled after an American referee was appointed two days before the fight.

Angelo Dundee, manager of Ellis, told United Press International "The fight is on."

Dundee said that the major stumbling block for the fight was eliminated when a Dec. 9 cable was finally received yesterday by WBA President Emile Bruneau.

The telegram asked the WBA to appoint one judge and one referee to join a judge selected by the local boxing commission.

Fight promoter Hector Mendez told newsmen last night that the WBA had appointed Herman Dutreix as referee.

Ellis and the local boxing commission also disagreed earlier with the selection of the three judges, but finally agreed there will be an Argentine, an Uruguayan and a U.S. judge.

Calvin Hill Is Named NFL Rookie Of Year

NEW YORK (AP) — When the Dallas Cowboys finally got their first round pick in the pro football draft last Jan. 23 other teams already had made their selections.

"Calvin Hill of Yale," said Tom Hardin, the Cowboys' representative on the scene. Eyebrows popped at 25 other tables.

The Cowboy brass thought of Hill as a tight end, linebacker or even a running back. They couldn't wait to get him to camp to find out. Hill quickly erased all doubts by running over and around the pros in the exhibition season. By the time the regular season started he was firmaly entrenched as a regular running back.

Hill has been voted Offensive Rookie of the Year in the National Football League by an overwhelming majority of the 48-man committee from 16 league cities who participated in The Associated Press' poll.

The final total showed 44 for Hill and one each for Larry Brown of Washington and Gene Washington of San Francisco. Two panel members did not vote in the category.

Hill and veteran quarterback Roman Gabriel head the Dallas and Los Angeles delegations that dominate the Associated Press' National Football League All Star teams.

Dallas and Los Angeles each placed five men on the offensive and defensive squads.

Hull, Snoopy, Seals Get Together Tonight

Bobby Hull, Charles Schulz' Snoopy and the Werner Muller skating chimps from the Holiday on Ice show will be the diverse attractions tonight when the Oakland Seals meet the Chicago Black Hawks in a National Hockey League match at 8 o'clock in the Coliseum Arena.

The program is billed as "Snoopy's Christmas Party."

Although no match for Hull on the ice, Snoopy (12-year-old David Baxter of Santa Rosa) and the four chimps probably will provide plenty of laughs during intermissions. Snoopy pins and several bicycles and stuffed Snoopy dogs will be handed out to youngsters.

Hull's appearance will be his first this season in Oakland.

ALMANAC

Today is Friday, Dec. 19, the 353rd day of 1969 with 12 days to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning stars are Venus and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1777, George Washington and the Continental Army began their winter encampment at Valley Forge, Pa.

In 1942, members of the American Federation of Labor elected William Green as president to succeed organized labor pioneer Samuel Gompers.

In 1950, Gen. Dwight Eisenhower was named commander of military forces operating under the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

In 1965, Charles de Gaulle won a second five-year term as president of France when he received 55 per cent of the vote in a national runoff.

In 1968, Norman Thomas, six times the Socialist party candidate for president, died at the age of 84.

A thought for the day: President Woodrow Wilson once commented, "Sometimes people called me an idealist. Well, that is the way I know I am an American. America is the only idealistic nation in the world."

Petaluman Injured In Three-Car Crash

An 18-year-old Petaluma girl was injured yesterday in a three-car accident at Fifth and I streets, Petaluma.

TWO FINE PLAYS

The old gentleman had walked away from a table at which two very fine plays had been made on the same trick. He was right in saying that bridge isn't played that way, but that's because every day isn't a holiday.

West led the three of diamonds, and East won with the ace. East thought of returning a diamond, but then thought again. East and dummy each had 10 points in high cards, and South's opening bid promised at least 16 points at most. West could not have both the king and queen of diamonds, which meant that the defense couldn't get much nourishment from the suit.

BEST SUIT

The setting tricks could come only from spades, but East couldn't get far if he led a low spade or even the ace first and then a low spade. South would surely let a low spade ride around to dummy's jack and would thus get two spade tricks instead of only one.

East came to the right choice when he returned the queen of spades at the second trick. If South put up the king to make sure of a spade trick, he would eventually have to lead a diamond to develop his ninth trick. West would take the king of diamonds and lead his other spade, whereupon East would defeat the contract with the rest of the spades.

COUNTERS EAST

South countered East's brilliant switch by refusing to cover with the king of spades. This holdup play limited East to two spade tricks. West would eventually get his side's second diamond trick, but then South would easily win the rest.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠ A Q 10 8 4
♥ 10 8 3
♦ A 7
♣ 8 3 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass or bid one spade.

Most experts would pass this hand but would bid if there were a sixth spade. Some experts would open the hand as it stands.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Generous Income Yields From Pacific Lighting

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. According to what I have read Pacific Lighting is the largest and fastest-growing utility in the country. If this is true why doesn't the share price go up? The 6 per cent yield doesn't indicate a growth issue. — B. H.

A. Pacific Lighting serves Southern California, including Los Angeles, one of the fastest population growth areas in our country. Because use of natural gas in space heaters is subject to weather conditions, earnings have fluctuated in a saw-tooth pattern. Earnings have nonetheless shown an overall uptrending growth pattern increasing an average of 8.4 per cent a year. An above-average gain in earnings this year — $2.20 a share estimated — with reflect last year's poor showing because of weather.

Utility issues are closely tied to money rates because of their heavily funded positions. Pacific's subsidiaries have a long-term debt of $357 million. As interest rates increase, utilities which must continue to raise funds through bond issues are caught in a profit squeeze. These shares now yielding 6.4 per cent are best suited for investors seeking income and gradual appreciation.

Q. I would like to start investing in a no-load mutual fund which offers a Keogh Plan. I prefer one which emphasizes fast growth. — J. K.

A. There are 70 no-load funds in existence. (A list of names and addresses is available on request.) There are certainly a sizable number of these which offer a Keogh Plan and are growth-oriented. Some of the larger and slightly more conservative are Johnston, T. Rowe Price and Scudder Stock funds.

To Head Division

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — Gary B. Friedman, executive vice president of ITEL Corp., has been named president of ITEL's data processing division. He will continue as executive vice president and a director of ITEL.

NEW LOAN OFFICE OPENS

First Marin County office of Fireside Thrift has opened at 1011 C Street, San Rafael, its 52nd opening since the founding of the company. In this picture are Joan Torres, teller; John Escano, company supervisor, and Sydney Boultwood, manager of the San Rafael office. The company, with $70 million in assets, is one of the country's major thrift and loan institutions.

THIS WEEK IN BUSINESS

Activity In Northern Coastal Area Unchanged Last Month

Business activity in the 16-county northern coastal area during November remained relatively unchanged from the previous month, according to a report from Carl K. Schieck of San Rafael, executive vice president of Security Pacific National Bank's Northern California headquarters.

The bank's November index of 202.1 was slightly below the previous high of 203.6 set last August, but Schieck said the region's economy is approximately 8.8 per cent ahead of the year-ago pace.

PACIFIC GAS AND ELECTRIC CO. will have a $385 million construction outlay in 1970, setting a new annual expansion record for the company. The investment is said to be necessary to keep the company's resources ahead of continually rising energy demands in Northern and Central California. PG&E expects to connect 100,000 new gas and electric customers to its lines next year.

U. S. NATURAL RESOURCES, INC., Menlo Park, and Yosemite Park and Curry Co. have agreed in principle on a merger of Yosemite into U. S. National Resources. Directors of both companies have given their approval but terms must still be approved by stockholders of Yosemite Park and Curry Co. which would become a wholly-owned subsidiary.

ALLIS CHALMERS has purchased from Penn-Pacific Corp. 80 per cent of the outstanding common stock of Lantz International Corp., a Philadelphia importer, designer and marketer of electrical appliances. Penn-Pacific will continue to own the remaining 20 per cent.

THE BANK OF TOKYO OF CALIFORNIA has declared a 65 cents per share cash dividend for the second half of 1969, an increase of five cents over the dividend paid for the previous six month period. Dividend checks will be mailed Jan. 15. The bank anticipates record year-end profits.

H. L. HEINZ CO. directors have voted to increase the quarterly dividend on common shares from 21 to 35 cents, payable Jan. 10. Heinz has also filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission a registration statement covering 1,675,000 shares of common stock, of which 1,500,000 will be offered by the company and 175,000 by the Howard Heinz Endowment, a charitable trust. Heinz consolidated net income rose 12.1 per cent during the three months ended Oct. 29 over the comparable period last year.

Wall Street Continues Uptrend On Credit Hopes

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks closed higher today as Wall Street continued to savor a statement by Arthur F. Burns, newly appointed Federal Reserve Board chairman, that he hoped the fed could reconsider its tight money policy after it sees the tax reform bill and the new budget.

The UPI market indicator, measuring all stocks traded, showed a gain of 0.89 per cent on 1,637 issues traded. There were 986 advances and 394 declines.

A turnover of around 15 million shares ran slightly below the previous session's pace.

Oils, electronics, and computer strength after climbing sharply in the previous session.

Motors generally worked higher in fractions, as did aircrafts and most chemicals. At the close, General Motors gained 1-2 to 69, Ford was up 1 1-4 to 41 3-4 and Chrysler rose 1 to 34 1-2.

Steels, rails and airlines traded in both directions, and generally in narrow ranges.

H.H. Robertson was a strong feature in heavy turnover, gaining 4 5-8 before the close. John C. Hill, vice president of Robertson, said he knew of no reason to account for the stock's climb.

Other heavily traded stocks including Texaco, Mapco, Glen Alden, and faberge which expected improved 1969 earnings. Texaco closed up 3-8 to 29 3-8.

In late trading, Walt Disney gained 4 and Memorex was up 2.

Prices also gained on the American Stock Exchange in moderately active trading.

Edward Hungerford, leading transportation historian and former Wells Fargo Express executive for thirty years. Originally published by Random House, N.Y. in 1949.

This is the most readable authentic story ever written about Wells Fargo Express. Its 320 pages are richly illustrated with historical pictures and it explains how the Wells Fargo Bank was formed in 1905.

Chapter 6, THE PONY EXPRESS, is an accurate and definitive story of it and no claim is made for Wells Fargo in connection therewith other than that as an express company they used its services.

This book is long out of print and definitely research material. We have over 150 copies which were purchased out of its last printing by Bonanza Books. Price. $5.95.

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Gregory's Owners To Depart For Venture On North Coast

Marin County will soon lose one of its most popular husband and wife restaurant teams — Gregory and Mary Alyce Seubert.

They are selling Gregory's Restaurant in the Paradise Shopping Center, Corte Madera and will soon make their full-time headquarters in Mendocino County.

This will come as no surprise to friends who have known of the Seubert's wish to do more living at their Albion home on the north coast. We've already mentioned that Gregory will be a principal and manager of the new Noyo River Inn now under construction at Fort Bragg and overlooking Noyo River Yacht Harbor.

In understand that the inn is targeted for an opening by Washington's Birthday. Before that occurs Gregory and Mary Alyce will take a trip to Europe. They will be long remembered in Marin.

New owners at Gregory's will be a trio known in local restaurant circles. They promise to keep both the German food featured by the Seuberts on the menu and the name Gregory's.

Bernard Epstein was formerly chef at Le Chalet Basque and before that with La Petite Auberge. He is European-trained and as chef at Gregory's will expand the menu to include many of those international dishes for which he has become known. I hope to have a copy of his new menu next week.

John Napoli is best remembered in Marin as one-time co-owner of Pandora in San Anselmo, before and during the time it was called Pandora's Steak House. Third member of this team is Angelo Camilleri, who recently sold his interest in Anjo's in San Rafael.

Gregory's will now be open for dinners seven days a week — from 7 to 11 p.m. Mondays through Fridays and from 5 to 11 Saturdays and Sundays. Lunches will be served from 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. Mondays through Fridays. Reservations are now being taken for New Year's Eve festivities.

THE PROJECT that Dick Templeton and Gordon Jones talked about when they first bought the property at Rubini's in Fairfax — a banquet room — is now coming to pass.

It will be at the rear of the main dining room and take parties of up to 60 persons. But it won't be completed for another month.

Meanwhile chef Gordon has turned out a new menu, with every entree available either a la carte or on the complete dinner. He has restored two of the former Rubini's favorites — Corky's seafood platter and Betty's Neptune steak — and has added beef and lobster brochettes and sauteed chicken livers as new items.

And here's a novelty in today's cost of living index — some of the prices (mostly on the beef side) have been lowered.

Rubini's will be closed Monday through Christmas and will reopen next Friday. New Year's Eve dinner is being served at 6 p.m., 8 p.m. and at 10 p.m. — the latter being the annual champagne dinner with noisemakers and entertainment to round out the year. Make reservations for any one of these periods. Frank Stitt at the Baldwin organ will again play a musical duo with Lowell Hawk at the piano.

Rubini's will close on New Year's Day.

NORMANDIE, the new French restaurant which opened a month ago on the San Rafael Miracle Mile (where L'Europe used to be) has a special dinner menu for Christmas Eve and will serve from 5 p.m. to 1 a.m.

A full course dinner at $20 per couple is planned, including champagne cocktail, Belon oysters on ice, consomme paillettes, quail en brioche or turkey with chestnuts, potatoes amandine, salade belle de nuit, demitasse and for dessert a buche de Noel.

Last time I talked to co-owner Michel Braud, he and his partner Andre Marquer were undecided on whether to remain open Christmas Day. It was finally left that if sufficient advance reservations were received they would give service. If you think you would like to have Christmas dinner here, let them know far enough ahead that they can make plans.

IN LAGUNITAS, Matts and Phyllis Mattsson are planning to keep the Old Viking open Christmas Day, serving their regular dinner menu from 1 p.m.

New Year's Eve they will serve from 5:30 p.m. and New Year's Day from 1 p.m. — also the regular menu. Make reservations for all occasions.

YOUNGSTERS WILL FIND Santa Claus with candy canes for them at Franchini's Chateau starting tonight and every night except Monday up through Christmas Eve. He'll be there at 6 p.m. each evening — Sunday from 2 p.m.

ALTHOUGH Christmas decorations are now up at Bill and Adolph's West End Villa, this San Rafael restaurant will be closed on Christmas Day. You can see them either before or after. Bill Bisson's son Ron did the job — naturally.

The new idea at West End of preparing cannelloni to take home has gone over well — but it appears to be causing complications. Bill tells me he may have to enlarge the kitchen to keep up with the demand.

ZIM'S RESTAURANT CHAIN has received an award from the American Dairy Association for consistent quality in service and products. It makes note of the fact that Zim's has never served imitation dairy products.

Zim's is headed by Arthur Zimmerman of Kent Woodlands. There are eight restaurants in San Francisco, one in Corte Madera Shopping Center and one will open in the Kent Woodlands Shopping Center (where the Woodlands used to be) early in 1970.

BILL AT THE LION'S SHARE, San Anselmo has been changed. Lightning Hopkins canceled his appearance and is being replaced by another blues singer, Jesse Fuller, composer of San Francisco Bay Blues. Supporting performers are still the Johnny Blues Band and Lambert and Nuttycomb.

GIFT CERTIFICATES now being sold at Senor Alfredo's Mexican Restaurant in San Anselmo make good Christmas or birthday presents. Included with them are one of the restaurants fancy posters and a menu.

Senor Alfredo's will be open from 11:30 a.m. through 8 p.m. on Dec. 24, but closed Christmas Day — then open again Friday, Saturday and Sunday of next week. Regular menu will be served New Year's Eve which will be feted at midnight with wine cocktails and champagne. Open New Year's Day.

I UNDERSTAND that Chalet Basque in Santa Venetia still has a few tables open for New Year's Eve. There will be a special dinner, favors and music. But reservations should be made as soon as possible.

IT IS WITH SORROW that I report the death of Herb Saman, who for so many years provided lively musical entertainment at Blue Rock Inn in Larkspur. His perpetual buoyancy and piano playing gave many of his listeners a lift in spirits when they most needed it. We will remember him fondly.

After leaving the Blue Rock several years ago he returned to playing at the night spots in San Francisco where he lived. Our condolences to his family and especially to his daughter Judy, who I understand lives in San Rafael.

College Contract

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A contract to convert library space into classroom and faculty offices at Sonoma State College has been awarded to Paul V. Wright, Inc. and Paul V. Wright of Santa Rosa for a low bid of $158,100, the state Department of General Services announced yesterday.

Pilots Demand Hijack Actions

LONDON (AP) — Men who pilot the planes of the world's airlines declared today that hijacking has become a global crime, must be met with global assault, and any nation which countenances such conduct should be obstracized.

The International Federation of Airline Pilots, after a two-day meeting here, issued a statement which gave the United Nations high credit for paying attention to the mounting problem.

But, the pilots decided:

1. Any nation which accepts hijacking and does nothing about it should be frozen out of all civilian traffic.

2. All international units concerned should be coordinated so that movements of passengers and freight cargo would be restricted immediately.

3. In the event of a hijacking, there should be a 24-hour stop to all air traffic of the country involved.

Church Is Presenting Live Nativity Scene

Senators Join In Oil Slick Protest

SANTA BARBARA (AP) — Opponents of offshore drilling in the Santa Barbara Channel have word that both of California's U.S. senators share their views as a new oil slick floated over about 50 square miles of the blue Pacific.

Democrat Alan Cranston asked President Richard M. Nixon yesterday to place the channel oil reserves "in escrow" and that all new drilling be banned until adequate safeguards are developed against further spills.

And Republican George Murphy told a Washington new conference the new leak may be a warning to abandon drilling, adding: "We ought to take the hint. Maybe God doesn't want us to do any more poking around in the channel."

Cranston's statement added that "President Nixon has a unique opportunity to correct the errors of the past and, at the same time, make a dramatic turn toward a new and environmentally sane national policy of oil production."

The new slick off the picturesque coastline continued to spready—moving slowly southeastward about six miles off the coast.

Fritz Springmann, a Union Oil Co. spokesman, said the faulty pipeline was expected to be replaced by night.

The Coast Guard has estimated that more than 10,000 gallons of crude oil spurted from an eight-inch break in the undersea pipe at a spot where the pipeline was welded to the drilling platform.

It was at the same platform last Jan. 28 that a massive blowout created a disastrous slick that blackened 40 miles of beaches and hundreds of miles of ocean.

Irate Santa Barbara officials said the new leak detected Tuesday is "another example of the lies that the oil industry and the federal government have told us."

County Supervisor George Clyde sent a telegram to Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel, asking why promised safeguards failed to function.

Union Oil acknowledged automatic pump cut-off equipment failed to activate when the seepage developed and all 16 wells on the platform had to be shut down manually.

A government spokesman theorized the leak was too small to set off the automatic devices.

Marvin Stuart, a member of a citizens committee to Get Oil Out GOO, asserted "oil cannot be a clean neighbor. This leak is a normal occurrence despite promises to the contrary.

"This is a perfect example of what GOO people have been trying to tell the community."

Own Work Better?

DENVER (AP) — Fred Pasternak, a Denver pawnbroker, was given a small speaking part in a film made here. Afterward he told director Richard Brooks, "This is tough work. I'm going to stick to pawnbroking."

Warrant Issued In Drug Case

A bench warrant was issued yesterday for the arrest of Marin County's former New Careers coordinator after he failed to appear for a preliminary hearing on narcotics charges in San Francisco Municipal Court.

The warrant, for Michael R. James, 28, of Oakland, was issued by Judge Gerald J. O'Gara. James, who had been free on $1,000 bail, was arrested by San Francisco police in the Fillmore district Dec. 8.

San Francisco police said James had several small balloons containing what appaered to be heroin in his possession when he was apprehended.

Following his arrest, James, who had a previous prison record, was fired from his $11,808 per year job with the county. He had been hired Oct. 17 by the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

Belfast Plans Holiday Patrols

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—Premier James Chicher-Clark said yesterday troops will patrol Belfast streets on Christmas Day and barbed wire emplacements will remain standing.

"These things remind us how far we have fallen below the standards of a truly Christian community," he told a news conference.

British troops were sent into Northern Ireland last summer after fighting between the Protestant majority and the Roman Catholic minority. The barbed wire emplacements separate Protestant and Catholic areas.

Indians On Alcatraz Get Murphy's Backing

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Indians on Alcatraz Island found their 28th day of occupation an eventual one yesterday as they gained the support of a U.S. senator, established a "Radio Free Alcatraz"—and lost their telephone.

Gen. George Murphy, R-Calif., urged in Washington that the Indians be allowed to develop the island as a cultural center. He also suggested it be included in the national park system in honor of all American Indians.

Murphy said Indian occupation of the former federal prison in San Francisco Bay had been "peaceful" so he made his recommendations to the White House. He said he was assured Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel would ask to include the proposal among possible uses of the island.

It was also announced that "Radio Free Alcatraz" will go on the air from the island Monday. The daily 15-minute live program will be produced over KPFA-FM radio in Berkeley with facilities donated by the station.

But the Indians lost their telephone service.

The General Services Administration, which has jurisdiction over the island, said the number of the government telephone has been changed and it will not be available to the public.

The only other telephone on the island, a private line in the nane of custodian John Hart, has been disconnected.

Trio Reelected

All three officers of the Novato Fire District board were reelected last night. They are Peter Ferrarese, chairman; Joseph Silviera, vice chairman, and Henry Alvernaz, secretary.

Drowning Victim Is Identified

OAKLAND (UPI)—The man who drowned in an irrigation canal during the Altamont rock festival on Dec. 6 was identified yesterday as Leonard J. Kryszak, 18, of Orchard Park, N.Y.

The Alameda County Coroner's office said the identification was made by the FBI through fingerprints.

Police said Kryszak was arrested last Sept. 17 in Columbus, Kan., as a hitchhiking passenger in a stolen car. He was released the following day.

Saboteurs Fail To Hurt Pipeline

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Saboteurs made an unsuccessful attempt last Tuesday to blow up the American-owned pipeline carrying oil from Saudi Arabia to the Mediterranean, officials reported Today.

A spokesman for the operating company, Tapline, said the saboteurs placed explosives against a pipe used to channel oil from the shore installations at Lebanon's Sidon terminal to oil tankers at sea. But the explosion only caused slight damage to a concrete casing without affecting the pipeline, he added.

The pipeline has been damaged by saboteurs three times since May. Jordan and Lebanon lost millions of dollars through the loss of transit revenues and the delays also cost Saudi Arabia heavily.

Pinups Banned

TAIPEI (AP) — Police have banned the posting of nude pinups on the walls of hotel rooms. Police said the ban was designed to protect public moral. It warned that offenders would be prosecuted.

Survey Shows 52 Per Cent Back Agnew's Media Blast

NEW YORK (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's charge that television news reporting is biased has the support of 52 per cent in a national poll taken for ABC. The survey found 33 per cent disagree.

However, the poll, which was released last night on the ABC Evening News, reported that the right of television newsmen to comment immediately after a presidential speech was supported by a ratio of two and one-half to one.

Asked if they agree with Agnew that newspapers are biased, the survey said 36 per cent of those interviewed agreed, 34 per cent disagreed and 30 per cent didn't know or had no opinion.

Freedom of the press for all media was endorsed by the majority of the 559 adults in 12 cities who were interviewed.

After Agnew's criticism of the networks for their news analysis following President Nixon's Nov. 3 Vietnam speech, ABC retained Lieberman Research, Inc., of New York to conduct the poll.

The principal reason cited by those who supported Agnew's criticisms was a belief that the news media does slant the news.

Strange Things Happen To Fair And Memorial

Little did Marin veterans' organizations suspect, when they agreed that their veterans' memorial building could be transformed into a civic auditorium, that it could become the first unit in a $9 million cultural center — and that before it was even completed.

Little did the county board of supervisors suspect, when it decided to set up a non-profit corporation to operate the auditorium and the county fair, that the corporation would propose the fair be abandoned in favor of a year-long cultural and educational show — a sort of Cal-Expo in miniature.

But that's the way it turned out.

IT ALL CAME OUT Tuesday as supervisors and directors of Fair-Marin, the non-profit corporation, tangled in a heated battle of words at the Civic Center.

When bids on the auditorium came in much higher than the amount of money the county had available, it was agreed to scale down the plans and meantime start a drive for public subscriptions to raise a half million dollars to complete the building.

The supervisors on Tuesday accused Fair-Marin of doing nothing about getting started on the fund raising.

Leon G. Kalimos, Fair-Marin executive director, retorted that a plan for a $9 million cultural center is needed first.

WHEN THE SUPERVISORS set up Fair-Marin, one of its charges was to take over operation of the county fair, which was to be moved to the Civic Center fairgrounds from the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross.

On Tuesday, supervisors expressed displeasure that Fair-Marin not only cannot take over the county fair for next year (apparently there won't be one), but had expressed doubts about being able to stage it in 1971.

Fair-Marin officials retorted that instead of a five-day county fair, there should be a year-long cultural and educational program.

At that point William A. Gnoss, most mild-mannered of the supervisors, bristled and said that if there was to be no agricultural fair, there would be no money.

The supervisors suggested that Harold Stockstad should resign as president of Fair-Marin. He said he wouldn't do it. (He "resigned" from the Fair-Marin board once, but was back in the chair the very next meeting.)

IN THE TALK about year-around educational activities, a $9 million cultural center, etc., everyone seemed to have forgotten a few things.

The money that is now being spent on constructing the auditorium came from a special tax, authorized by the voters, for a veterans' memorial building.

Money for the county fair has come each year from the state pari-mutuel fund — $58,500 per year the last three years, $65,000 per year before that.

What we have is the money the taxpayers paid for one thing (a veterans' memorial) becoming the nest egg for something quite different — a $9 million cultural center. And the county's share of the money spent on horse racing won't be forthcoming unless there is a county fair.

Truly, strange things have happened to what started out to be a fairgrounds and a veterans' memorial building.

The Mexican Flower

Poinsettias seem to be inseparable from Christmas in our minds. But it was not until the early 1900s that poinsettias became almost as much a part of the holiday tradition in this country as the Christmas tree.

Long known in Mexico as the Christmas eve flower, the poinsettia was introduced into the U.S. by Ambassador Joel Poinsett, from whom it derived the name by which we all know it. In tropical climates this colorful plant often grows to a height of 10 or 12 feet.

This plant with its crown of bright scarlet leaves is one of nature's beautiful marvels. And it is just as lovely three feet tall in a pot as 10 feet tall in a tropical garden.

Those Who Play Political Game On Campus Should Accept Rules

(Reprinted from Phoenix, San Francisco State College student-edited newspaper)

The pawns of last year's political game are in the process of being swept off the board, and the cries can be heard all over the campus.

Of the bloc of teachers being denied tenure this semester, a disproportionate number are AFT members and leaders of last year's strike. These teachers, led by Erwin Kelly, are yelling "political purge," a yell prodded by the sudden realization that they're going to be out of a job.

IF ONE ACCEPTS the charge — as yet unproved but highly possible — that these teachers are being ousted for their political activities, the next question is: So?

These teachers belong to a group that had a hand in the deposing of two college presidents — a political maneuver.

They belong to a group that has consistently attacked the administration through the media — a political maneuver.

They walked out of their classrooms last year and joined picket lines — a political maneuver.

THOSE WHO LIVE by politics can starve by politics.

If you play the game, you have to be willing to accept the penalties involved. If you don't like the rules, don't play.

The teachers involved, Kelly in particular, seem to have a one-side approach to the political chess tournament on this campus, a form of convoluted logic that makes it all right for them to attack, retreat, or distort, but when the opponent follows suit it becomes unfair.

AFT has had a great time in the last year shuffling bishops and pawns, holding conferences and firing broadsides, all with sneering immunity.

Now the administration is responding. And Dr. Hayakawa is taking the pieces, one by one.

It's part of the game.

The winner, whether you like it or not, will clear the board.

Priorities Mixed For Fairfax Schools

I find myself completely irritated and in the midst of a dilema. Yesterday I went to our school to deliver some letters. While there, I heard a very sad story about the difficulty our teachers had in obtaining supplies and resource materials and how poor the district was.

Today I read that H. Reginald Hammond, superintendent of the Fairfax School District, reported that his staff was working on gathering materials to be used to supplement regular material to cover various areas of ethnic study.

Am I terribly misinformed or did I just hear two completely contadictory facts within 24 hours??

Our school district eliminated bus service due to a bond issue not passing — no money. We share a psychologist with another district this year — not enough money for one of our own. Remedial reading cut back — not enough money. "If the heating system fails it cannot be repaired" — not enough money. Our teachers are the lowest paid in the county — no money. Poor Fairfax Schools.

If our district is so poor, where are they getting the money for multi-ethnic education? I agree that this type of program is desirable, but if the district is so poor and can't provide some of the basic services, isn't it getting it's priorities mixed up?

Firemen Practice On Smoggy Day

Over the last month of November we have had the most marvelous weather that I can ever remember. But also with this weather, we have had the worst case of air pollution in the San Francisco Bay Area. Today, Dec. 2, the smog seemed to be a little heavier than normal, but today some of the local fire departments decided to have a practice fire at San Quentin.

During the mid-morning break at Redwood High School, you could see a black billow of smoke rising in the sky. At first, I thought there was a large oil fire in Richmond, and it wasn't until a few minutes later did I learn that the fire was from San Quentin.

Because of this ever increasing problem of pollution, in our air, earth and water, I find it quite strange that such a large fire is allowed to burn.

Teachers At Work On Trade Schooling

Your editorial of Dec. 3, in which you bemoan the lack of occupational education in the Marin County schools, came at a most appropriate time. On the day of your editorial, work experience teachers from all the high schools in the county and from the College of Marin met regarding this very problem. Also in attendance were members of the staff of the Neighborhood Youth Corps. Representatives from the county schools office and the Department of Vocational Rehabilitation were unable to attend. The purpose of this meeting was to unite the efforts of these people in meeting the vocational problems facing students who are not going on to college.

An organization has been founded which will seek and hopefully gain support from industry and trade unions in the county. The result of this coalition of the schools and the community will be to upgrade occupational education within the existing educational framework and to investigate the potential for such innovations as occupational centers and vocational or technical high schools.

Denis Ragan, work experience coordinator from Redwood High School, has been elected president of this new organization. Further inquiries may be directed to him at Redwood.

Inspired Moment Won't Be Forgotten

On Sunday, Dec. 7, Dominican College music department put on a cello recital with 13 young people performing.

A young man, Jed Barahal, played one number, "Kol Nidrei" by Bruch, that I feel is worthy of mention.

This boy has performed on different occasions around Marin and has real talent. I made the effort to go hear the recital just to hear him, and was rewarded with a moment of unbelievable beauty.

Call it a combination of talent, training, discipline — or an inspired moment in time — but I shall never forget it.

Teacher Applauds Courthouse Idea

I am terribly excited about Mrs. (Nancy) Olmsted's proposal to buy the old courthouse and convert it into a Center for Experimental Education and Human Resources.

As a multi-ethnics teacher, I have realized what a great need there is for such a center where students and teachers from all parts of Marin would have a chance to meet and exchange ideas on topics related to the human resources field — from ecology to multi-ethnic studies.

In Berkeley there is a fascinating multi-media center called EPOCH, which operates as a training and demonstration center for seeking new ways to trace the cultural achievements of all ethnic groups and their relationship to life today. I had hoped that I could take my classes for a visit to EPOCH, but have found that the charge for out-of-district schools is prohibitive. Wouldn't it be wonderful to have such a center right here in Marin — housed in the old county courthouse along with other groups?

Three cheers for a great idea. It has my enthusiastic support!

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

NEIL MORGAN has a bit of sage advice for men who contemplate wearing a hairpiece, but are rather wary of the comments of their friends. "Grow a mustache first," counsels Neil. "When it's luxurious and bushy, put on the hairpiece and shave off the mustache. Your never-too-observant pals will all say, 'Hey, I see you've shed that mustache of yours' — and never notice the hairpiece!"

AN IOWA disc jockey was interviewing two farmers at his radio station. "What would you do," he suddenly asked them, "if you learned tomorrow that you had inherited a million dollars?"

"Lordy, lordy!" chuckled one. "I'd sell my farm immediately, and take my Matilda for a trip around the world. Then I'd live on what was left for the rest of my life."

"Not me," insisted the second farmer. "You can't teach an old dog new tricks. I'd bank my million, then just go on farming 'till it was all gone!"

THE DRUMMONDS

Nixon Fighting Democrats' Efforts To Swamp Him With Spending

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — The Democrats now see Vietnam a fading political issue, so they are starting to fight President Nixon on the home front to keep control of the Senate in the 1970 elections.

Their strategy: Undercut the President with the peope. Try to make him accept deficit spending to a degree he believes would push up the cost of living. Or make him shrink vital domestic programs to balance the budget.

MR. NIXON will accept the challenge. He will refuse to choose between mounting deficit spending or neglect of domestic programs. He will fight back despite political hazards.

He is ready to:

1. Go through with his threat to veto the tax bill if it retains anything near the multibillion dollar losses in revenue voted by the Senate.
2. Call Congress into special session right after Christmas if an acceptable tax reform and the appropriation bill are not forthcoming before.
3. Take the issue to the nation in a major televised address the way he took his Vietnam peace plan to the people last month — and won.

Richard Nixon is prepared to turn the economic issue against the Democrats. His counterstrategy: Pin inflation on the Democrats, hold the line on federal spending until ending the Vietnamese war bring savings, then go into bigger domestic programs.

THIS IS ONE of the hard decisions he must make to live up to his campaign promises. It is politically riskful. But he has no choice because, having made his fight against inflation his priority domestic goal, he knows he must resist every pressure and every temptation to scuttle that goal.

Here's why:

If anything near the Senate tax bill becomes law, all prospect of any sizable surplus in the current budget next June will vanish.

And the budget outlook for next year would be worse, a mounting deficit unless Mr. Nixon slashes his own modest spending program and impounds much of what Congress is now appropriating.

Such deficits can have only one effect — fuel inflation at the very moment when there is some success in checking it.

This isn't a partisan view of economics. It is the other half of Keynesian economics which most American economists accept — that taxes should be reduced when the economy needs stimulus, then increased or maintained when the economy needs restraint.

The Nixon administration is united in the conviction that the projected budget surpluses this year and next must be preserved if all hope of controlling inflation is not to be lost.

THE FULL IMPORT of this unreported strategy of the Senate Democratic liberals is coming into fuller view. It seems illogical for these Democrats — the big domestic spenders — to vote to decrease the federal revenue needed to finance more domestic spending.

But they did and it can now be seen that there was a political design in their maneuver.

It is to counter this design that Nixon has decided not only to use every power of the President to prevent a deficit-producing tax bill but also to go to the public soon to expound his reasons.

His first choice is to win on the tax bill in Congress.

But he is convinced that he can make his fight to contain the rising cost of living a winning political issue against the Democratic efforts to push him into big deficit spending.

You can't control inflation with a series of unbalanced budgets.

President Nixon can't get a balanced budget unless he can block Democratic efforts to cut revenue or unless he slashes his own domestic program to the bone.

This is why Richard Nixon is in a tense and tight squeeze and will fight hard to get out of it.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Two And One-Half War Planning Is Abandoned

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — The old myth, which supposed that the Pentagon was preparing to fight two and a half wars at the same time, has now been officially exploded.

The concept, developed during the Kennedy administration, assumed that the United States might be faced, simultaneously, with major wars in Europe and in Asia plus a minor incident in some other part of the world. It became a basic guideline for military planners.

In this year's congressional battles over military spending, the two-and-a-half war concept was sharply criticized. Lawmakers questioning the need for manned aircraft, carrier task forces, modern tanks and the like questioned the planning guidelines too.

NOW SEC. OF DEFENSE Melvin R. Laird has told appropriations committee of the House and Senate that the two-and-a-half war concept has been abandoned. The guideline was never really translated into Pentagon policy at all, according to Laird.

"If we price out where we are in our budget today," Laird told the House committee, "we are realistically in a position — if we discount the present Vietnam situation — where we could support one major war and one minor conflict."

The secretary's review indicated that the Joint Chiefs of Staff have been encouraged to submit budget requests based on a two-and-one-half war capability. Then, however, cuts have been made by defense secretaries.

According to Laird, the Joint Chiefs of Staff developed a $111 billion two-and-a-half war defense blueprint for the present fiscal year. That sum was first reduced to $100 billion by the military services. Then Secy. Clark Clifford trimmed it to $80 billion before sending it to the White House.

"The forces provided by the budgets of past years could not support a two-and-a-half war concept, loosely expressed. We, in effect, were kidding ourselves by having a strategic concept which envisioned such a capability," observed Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, current chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

THERE ARE important budget implications in Laird's plans which would reduce the armed forces to their lowest level since 1966.

There were about 3,460,000 men and women in the armed services at the end of the last budget year, on June 30. That total was down only slightly — to about 3,445,000 — by Sept. 30.

However, Laird plans armed forces totaling 3,200,000, or perhaps a bit less, by the end of the current year. Clearly, those personnel reductions will justify budget cuts, with the amount in dollars depending on how rapidly the force reductions are effected.

Expensive weapon systems have been cut back too, although the actions have not provoked the publicity which attended attacks on the ABM, aircraft carriers and the like. Some of the weapons cuts were made at Laird's behest.

A great many people think they are thinking when they are merely rearranging their prejudices. — William James.

A teacher affects eternity; he can never tell where his influence stops. — Henry Adams.

Tensions Grow In Long-Troubled Southern Marin School District

Since it is the holiday season, it perhaps would be more fitting to write in this space of peace and love instead of fear and hate, but there is something happening in Southern Marin that demands attention.

The air of tension in Marin City has become almost tangible.

While there obviously are many reasons, some reaching infinitely deeper than the surface manifestations of them, there are two subjects which seem to be both causes and symptoms of the tension.

The two are related and both affect the long-troubled Sausalito School District, particularly Martin Luther King School.

One is the intensifying polarization between the black community and significant portion of the white community.

The other is the conviction, on a charge of disturbing a school critic's peace, of Black Panther leader George Gaines.

Gaines, who is to be sentenced Jan. 9, was convicted last week of disturbing the peace of Delta Christ at a Black Panther-sponsored breakfast at King School last spring by calling her a racist bitch.

He was acquitted of committing battery on Mrs. Christ, who is one of the leaders of Citizens for Excellence in Integrated Education.

The subject is the number one topic of conversation among blacks, particularly the more militant ones, in Marin City and among students at King, according to school district community worker, Gabe Jackson, who is in a position to know.

Jackson, who was present at the confrontation between Mrs. Christ and Gaines, and told police he saw nothing happen, claims the black community is viewing the Gaines case as a clear-cut case of white oppression.

He says the people are angered because Gaines was convicted by an all-white jury; that Mrs. Christ did not call any witnesses to support her charges; that Gaines had several witnesses whose testimony apparently was ignored by the jury; and because Mrs. Christ and others still are harassing the school district, particularly black educators at King.

The Gaines issue is adding to the polarization in the district, as is the increasing stridency of voices opposing Principal Sidney F. Walton Jr. of King School.

The focus of the opposition currently is the CEIE, which wants Walton out, wants King's assistant principal James T. Toliver Jr. out wants District Supt. Phillip W. Schneider out, and wants at least three members of the school board out.

The group, although steadfastly refusing to reveal how big-or-small — it is, says it's growing. Whether it is or not, it is a significant factor in the continuing problems of the district, as is the increasing militance of at least some Black Panthers, which is viewed in some quarters as a last-gasp effort to maintain the party's political punch and influence over young people in Marin City.

Sadly, the pawns — and the victims — of this confrontation remain the children, black and white, of the Sausalito School District. We may all be victims in the end.

Fair-Marin Dispute Recalls Comments Made A Year Ago

Fusselman

Putting out the column today is not the sort of thing I feel like doing, but I know Billie would urge me to, for she agreed with my thinking about this Fair-Marin setup.

Here are some things I said a year ago, in December, 1968. "This further piece of abdication by the board of supervisors, in their handing over 80 of the 140 acres which were purchased for the Civic Center site to a private group, is hard to understand. (Or is it?) . . . The board of supervisors said Fair-Marin should operate 80 acres with the degree of control to be spelled out.

"An I-J editorial in the Nov. 20 issue discussed the whole contemplated setup in a wide range of aspects. One went as follows: 'Moreover the very name of the organization (Fair-Marin) is contradictory to its purpose. Although it was set up to operate fairgrounds and auditorium for the good of all, its directors were chosen from special purpose groups seeking to promote their own special uses of these facilities. It thus has built-in conflict of interest'."

THERE IS a completely different situation here than existed in respect to the Marin Art and Garden operation. Those grounds are privately owned by their group and it was a perfectly natural and proper procedure to contract with them. But now we are dealing with publicly owned land and buildings. These facilities should not be turned over to any private group. The editorial pointed out that the parks and recreation commission was completely bypassed creating Fair-Marin and that it was not even represented on the board of that group.

I spoke of the ultimate plans for a fair operation out at Brasilia and commented: "So you see this would mean about $4.5 million, which in my opinion is far too much public funds and assets to hand over to a private group of amateurs to play around with.

"The parks and recreation commission and its director are the logical ones to handle this, not Fair-Marin . . . And most certainly the board of supervisors should be deeply involved (personally) and should remain as the fair commission. That's the way this whole thing was built up over the years."

WHEN I READ "Supervisors Flay Fair-Marin Acts" and the exchage between chairman John McInnis and Harold Stockstad, it wonders me no end.

Question: Why didn't McInnis, who was a member of the board last year, stop his purring then, and how did Stockstad ever get the nod to head up Fair-Marin? And perhaps you noticed the following:

In the Wed. Dec. issue of the I-J: "Mary Robinson Summers added that Bruce (administrator) had even stopped Fair-Marin from contacting supervisors directly. 'We were told we couldn't even talk to the architect'."

Marin Peace Plea Mailed To Nixon

Letters to President Richard M. Nixon bearing signatures of 1,302 Marinites opposed to continued involvement in Vietnam were mailed today by Richard M. Adams of Belvedere, one of the organizers of the Dec. 15 peace walks and rallies for the "silent majority."

Adams said the signatures were all obtained at the rallies held in Marin communities, and noted that no letter to the president was circulated for signatures at the Novato rally.

The letters urge Nixon to withdraw Americans entirely from Vietnam, declaring, "We cannot provide a solution to the Vietnamese people's conflict, and our participation in it has been and is corrosive to the human spirit of our citizenry."

Courageous Stand Deserves Publicity

"Scathing Attack on Nation's Morals," Independent-Journal, Dec. 10. The above article was outstanding. My congratulations to Carl J. Brown on his courageous stand. His remarks in full should be printed on the front page of every newspaper in the country. It should also be given complete TV coverage. We have had all to much newspaper and TV coverage of the "negative" side of these issues.

Let us all get on this bandwagon now before the "seeds that caused the fall of Rome" become too deep-rooted for extraction.

Lawless Element Invaded Valley

Your editorial of Dec. 8 regarding conditions in San Geronimo Valley and Forest Knolls in particular amazes me beyond expression and prompts this reply.

The ignorance displayed in the editorial of conditions the past summer in San Geronimo Valley are almost unbelievable.

Here are some of the facts that can easily be substantiated by the board of supervisors, the district attorney, the sheriff's department, the county fire department:

That a lawless and irresponsible element did invade San Geronimo Valley last summer.

That threats of violence against residents of the valley were made by this element if they objected to these conditions.

That shootings did occur nightly throughout the summer, some being with automatic weapons.

That Burt's Realty office suffered numerous bullets fired at it; one directly through the plate glass window over the desk.

That daily robberies occurred as many as five in one home alone.

That obscene sex acts occurred on the streets of Forest Knolls.

That Papermill Creek was used as a public toilet.

That more than two dozen fires were set in the wooded area about the lakes, some incendiary, endangering the watershed.

That more than 800 sheriff's calls were made to the valley from Jan. 1 to Nov. 1, 1969. A terrific increase.

That the outdoor demonstrations at the cafe were a direct violation of a county ordinance prohibiting such demonstrations.

And in the face of all these facts you now infer that the latest fire at the cafe could have been set by the residents that have objected to these conditions. . .

What prompted you to write the editorial is unexplainable. It seems to me that the first consideration of a good newspaper should be to aid an area plagued with lawlessness, not to condemn it for its effort to control it. . . .

Must Be A Way To End Violence

We, the younger generation, are going through some heavy, heavy changes, and fast. Within the last year the number of people of all ages acting together for peace in this country has been unbelievable. . . .

We, as a nation, I hope, are fast becoming a more civilized people who think more of goodness than materialistic possessions. A people that are thinking of how to make this nation a better place for all who live within it. We aren't content with the present problems of air pollution, water pollution, over-population, starvation, and all the rest. And we are searching for answers desperately. . . .

This week at Altamont Speedway, the site of close to 300,000 people, our theories on how to obtain peace throughout the world were temporarily destroyed. If we could concentrate on the whole area and consider it as our present situation in the world, we can possibly get to some of the problems. The war that took place at Altamont Speedway is typical of the wars that infect our world at present. It involved everyone there no matter how far away. From the start of the concert it seemed to me the Hell's Angels were out to turn the concert into a series of fights and wars instead of a music concert. The Angels accomplished the beating up of numerous amounts of people . . .

Violence, we have accepted as a way of life; in wars, in our business, in our outward social structure, in competition. We are familiar with it and accept it as a way of life. Should it be this way? . . .

It seems to me we as no other generation has must learn how to handle these power-hungry people who thrive on violence, with peace and love. That seems almost impossible to me but there must be a way. . . .

We as a generation are becoming very close on a great many issues and this is one of them: Can we as a people, a nation, and a world come together with complete trust — or are we all too afraid?

Christmas Project Helps Guide Dogs

This is to call your attention to a gift-giving project devised by Mrs. Bernice Hawkins of San Leandro, a graduate of Guide Dogs for the Blind, for the new student dormitory at the Guide Dogs campus here in San Rafael.

For several years Mrs. Hawkins has been collecting trading stamps and General Mills (Betty Crocker) coupons which will be used to help furnish the dormitory in the near future. Anyone wishing to contribute trading stamps or coupons to Mrs. Hawkin's project should mail them (with sufficient postage, please) to Mrs. Bernice Hawkins, 2013 Fairbanks St., San Leandro, Calif. 94577.

About Hill Case And Drug Scene

Re: I-J page 1 article, Dec. 4, "Fatal Dope Trial Stalls 14 Months."

"Hooray," not only for Bill Yager's perseverance for justice, but for Bryce Anderson's "guts" to write the article. This is referred to (in some circles) as "telling it like it is."

As a working mother, raising two sons alone (present ages 18 and 13) and considering my past two years of a "rapid, forced education" to the "drug scene" . . . I very definitely feel qualified . . . to express the "total frustration and disappointment" we parents experience when . . . our loved ones falter and fall, and as we stand by to help them up . . .

Upon being faced with the "nitty-gritty" of the situation, only then do we realize how truly "laxed" our present laws are pertaining to the over-all picture of the "drug happening."

Then we are confronted with the "long line" of authority. From the presiding judge, to the police officer, probation department, etc. (all shifting the blame) until it finally reaches the level of the parent and the child. By then (usually) the parent receives the brunt of the blame from the probation officer assigned to the juvenile involved.

In the meantime, maybe the drug supplier and/or pusher has been arrested and incarcerated briefly, which makes the parent wonder if it was only for appearance sake, to again shift the blame back up the long line . . .

In the interim, the parent stands by and dies a little each day watching their child become entirely confused, withdrawn, and distrustful of everyone around them.

This, fellow parents . . . is what our present structure is doing to our children — the future American voting public.

As parents who care about the "now generation," let's pursue whatever (morally and legally right) avenue is open to us, to help our "now" teen-agers, that we love so dearly.

Choice Of Route Proves Disappointing

It is with great disappointment that I have read of the dicision of the city council and the board of supervisors to widen South San Pedro Road, rather than construct a new route through the marsh land.

The engineer's first choice was the new route.

The public works director's choice was the new route.

The residents of the area involved favored the new route, as evidenced by their petitions and vote at a combined homeowners meeting of Loch Lomond, Glenwood and Peacock Gap. This meeting was attended by John McGinnis (Sic), who voted in favor of the new route.

Since the newspaper article did not disclose what was behind the reasoning to overrule the professional recommeddations as well as the will of the people involved, I am asking if the Independent-Journal could determine the grounds for justification of such action.

People's Lobby Critic Answered

This is in response to William Benton Matthews' letter (Dec. 6) and his allegations re a "one-sided newspaper article which appeared in an earlier I-J issue. Mr. Matthews wrote: "the anti-pollution initiatives remove many laws protecting our environment . . . could annul other bills imperative to the preservation of our ecology, including many dealing with water pollution. . .would do far more harm than good."

We assume that these deceitful charges were provided Mr. Matthews by an individual or individuals in mortal fear of: losing a job; a reduced income; political reprisals, due to debts or obligations with political overtones; or facing the loss of charitable contributions from industrial polluters. If so, his basic judgement is gravely distorted. What do jobs, incomes, political favors or organization contributions matter, if in order to preserve them, his children and grand-children must wage a struggle to survive, due to pollution imposed upon them by inertia and cupidity — today, tomorrow, forever!

If successful, the People's Lobby constitutional amendment will put an immediate stop to thousands of cases being decided against the people and for the polluters. . .

Blame For Troubles In Forest Knolls

Your editorial on Forest Knolls Dec. 8 is more than most of us can endure. You should have been apprised of the true facts before you allowed such a biased article to be published.

After the Easter fiasco at the restaurant, a meeting was held by the valley residents and Mr. (Richard) Green said, "We will drive you out of your lead closets!" Who was doing the intimidating? How about all the shots that were fired at the Burch Realty?

The septic tank of this restaurant was overflowing and running across Castro Road into the creek. After weeks went by and nothing was done, we wrote to the department of environmental health. A few days later, we received a phone call, threatening to "burn us out" because they said we made trouble for the owner, Roma Weaver. How nice? . . .

We were robbed (again) the day after your editorial appeared in the paper. All our prescriptions drugs were taken, plus antique bottles, etc. . . .

Most of the dropouts in the valley are either remittance men or are on welfare. They are not, and obviously don't want to be employable . . .

If you really want to do something commendable, use your influence and try to have all the welfare recipients evacuated . . .

Don't blame the older residents of Forest Knolls for everything. We have an investment to protect, and are civic minded . . .

Judge Cites Need For Speedy Trials

I have read with great interest the recent series of articles and editorials in the Independent-Journal concerning the tremendous delays in criminal proceedings in the San Francisco courts. As the series suggests, the problem is not confined to San Francisco.

The justice court in West Marin has a relatively small case-load and we are usually able to bring criminal matters to trial within two or three weeks. But even here there has been a recent tendency, particularly in cases involving narcotics and dangerous drugs, toward delaying tacitcs.

The constitutional guarantee of a speedy trial was originally adopted for the protection of the defendant. Yet society too has a legitimate interest in seeing that these matters are disposed of promptly before memories fade and witnesses disappear.

The ultimate responsibility for seeing that this is done rests with the judges. The I-J performs a useful public service in occasionally reminding us of that responsibility.

Tiburon Council 'Rubber Stamp'

As the holiday season approaches and the celebrating starts, the citizens of Tiburon may inadvertently overlook their moment of truth — a chance to influence or determine the forthcoming election of three city councilmen.

The present administration boasts of its efficiency, and there is no dispute that the most efficient government is a dictatorship. Councilmen who rubber stamp the city manager are all busy executives whose full-time jobs leave them little time to examine the issues in depth. With the two-member committee system, most issues carry committee recommendations and hence require only one additional vote for passage. It is apparent to anyone attending council meetings that most decisions are made before the meeting, and the "lightning gavel" of Mayor Fanning is poised to throttle any citizen's view from the audience which does not coincide with the predestined vote .

Citizens who are satisfied with the present form of government need read no further. They can sit back, relax and prepare to vote in April for the "status quo" slate . . .

Citizens who are not satisfied should round up three candidates who are not too busy to look into the issues, determine the public sentiment and vote accordingly. The last date candidates can file for city council is Feb. 19 . . .

Candlelighters Need More Help

Due to the outpouring of public response to your recent news article about my testifying in Washington on behalf of the Candlelighters' effort to increase federal funds for cancer research, I suggest the following courses of action for those people who are anxious to assist in our effort:

1. Urge President Nixon and his budget director, Robert P. Mayo, to release all funds appropriated specifically for the National Cancer Institute.
2. Congratulate and thank Sen. Alan Cranston for his earnestly assisting the Candlelighters' plea in Washington.
3. Thank Senator George Murphy for his continued support for cancer research.
4. Encourage Congressman William Mailliard to support fully the Candlelighters' effort.
5. Contribute to cancer fighting organizations such as the American Cancer Society or the Leukemia Society of America, Inc. (of which the Candlelighters are now an auxiliary.)
6. Donate blood.
7. ask your service clubs, P.T.A.s, etc., to endorse the Candlelighters' plea to establish a national goal to prevent and control childhood cancer by 1976.
8. Pray for our success.

Majority Favors Quick Withdrawal

This weekend in more than a dozen Marin County communities men, women, and children walked and rallied again for peace. Presdent Nixon will be receiving this week the considerately stated letter circulated and signed at these rallies.

Here in Muir Beach, just below Muir Woods, we had a mini-peace walk and house-to-house canvass, collecting nearly 100 signatures. Very few people we talked with feel President Nixon's announced program adequate. The overwhelming majority here, vocal or silent, favor immediate withdrawal from Vietnam rather than continued destruction of that country and its people in the name of honor and commitment.

The undersigned have sent a wire to this effect to President Nixon.

Courthouse Plan Wins Approval

We, as concerned citizens of Marin County, agree to support Mrs. Roger Olmstead's proposal for use of the courthouse as a "Marin Center for Experimental Education and Human Resources."

For more than one year now the Education Corps of Marin County has worked in the fields of education for the underprivileged as well as in multi-ethnic studies in local communities. With a county-wide center to house these activities our group believes we could be more effective and help more people throughout the county. . .

Many in our group would be happy to volunteer their services at such a center. We would enjoy seeing it become a center for the arts for culturally deprived children. . .

Another Withdrawal Clinic Scheduled

The Marin County Interagency Council on Smoking and Health was very pleased with the article appearing in the Dec 13 Marin Magazine section of the Independent-Journal. We feel that Gil Pearson's coverage was excellent, and certainly told the story properly.

This withdrawal clinic was conceived by the Interagency Council when Dr. Michael Harris of Novato was chairman of the council. With the cooperation of Nicholas Gennaro, Redwood High School adult education dean, we were able to locate Duncan McSwain as the instructor and we feel that the clinic has been very successful.

The Interagency Council is also sponsoring a similar clinic to be held at San Rafael High School on Jan. 15 through 26, instructed by John Donovan. This clinic will be designed more toward teaching agencies and individuals to construct their own clinics. We hope that all organizations or individuals interested will find out more about this from Floyd Peterson, adult director, San Rafael City Schools.

Some Complaints About Mill Valley

What is worng with Mill Valley? It is, in general, a very lovely, pretty city. But when are they going to fix (1) the rock slide on the main street? (Yes, I have heard of the thousands it will take to fix it.) Has anyone tried to form a volunteer group on a Saturday to haul some of the dirt away — some people who need fill dirt?

(2) The flood that came with near rain near the high school and Safeway? Could a retainer wall, etc., be put up?

(3) Tam Valley intersection. Who is responsible for not having stop lights? On a Sunday the traffic is backed up to the freeway.

Parents Also Must Enforce Discipline

I read, with a great deal of interest, the comments made by Carl Brown to the San Rafael school board on Dec. 9 and printed in the I-J on Dec. 10. Bravo to Mr. Brown for having the courage of his convictions to speak out on these issues.

Length of hair is but a symbol of the real issue. The real issue is that another valuable set of principles is at stake. Another line of authority has been undermined and the door has been opened to further and greater infractions of the rules.

I would add "parents" to Mr. Brown's statement — quote "if all teachers dealt in individual differences and demanded the same performance goals as most coaching staffs, we'd have darn few problems with either student or community support."

Athletics are a very important part of education. The self-discipline, sacrifice and dedication they teach a student are invaluable lessons.

In metropolitan America they substitute in some measure for the day to day hard physical labor that once was required to just live in rural America. . . This same self-discipline, sacrifice and dedication follows through every other phase of life. Without it we couldn't have become the great country we are. It's too bad that a "loud minority" is being allowed to undermine these principles.
